Vincent, 29, who three times stood trial for the shoelace-slaying of 12-year-old Donna Lee Corbett at Quesnel, B.C., Sept. 12, 1953, fought to the end.

The trap was sprung at 12:10 a.m. PDT, less than 24 hours after he had failed to a suicide bid, and he was pronounced dead seven minutes later.

Prison officials said he "had to be persuaded" to walk to the gallows. They did not amplify the statement except to state he walked himself and was not carried.

KICKED AT HANGMAN

At the gallows, he twice kicked at the hangman and cursed and spat at him.

"You dirty yellow pig," he snarled as the hangman placed the noose over his head.

Then, settling down, he said in calm voice:

"Right, whenever you're ready."

LYING IN STUPOR

Vincent was found lying in a stupor in his death cell Monday after taking a dose of poison. A stomach pump was used and he was reported out of danger some hours later.

Prison officials would not divulge any details and it was not known how he obtained the poison.

The Corbett girl disappeared while attending a carnival near her home in Quesnel and her body was found in bushland near the central B.C. community seven days later. Vincent was operating a booth at the carnival the day the girl disappeared.

Trans-Atlantic Raft Reaches Three Rivers

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—The Ioliapatonom, a squat raft with trans-Atlantic ambitions, continued its lazy trip down the St. Lawrence river this morning after spending the night in Trois-Rivieres harbor.

The 26 by 14 foot home-made craft has had an eventful trip since leaving Montreal Saturday afternoon. It ran into three thunderstorms and saw two of the yachts which towed it break down.

The four-man French-speaking crew hopes to reach Europe on their craft of red cedar logs lashed together with hempen ropes by using the Gulf Stream, 500 miles off Newfoundland and by taking advantage of favorable winds and currents.

Largest Herd Performing Elephants Featured in Ringling Bros. Circus

The largest herd of performing elephants ever assembled is featured along with scores of beautiful and thrilling attractions in the new 1955 edition of Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus.

The Greatest Show on Earth will appear in its magnificent entirety at Sidney St. Grounds, Monday, June 27 carried in an 80-car train and 51 elephants. The circus is only playing four cities in Ontario, Belleville, Toronto, Hamilton and Sarnia.

Nearly two hundred tons of elephants participate in the magnificent spectacle "Mama's in the Park," a charming fantasy in which bonnetted monsters wheel trumpeting offspring in gigantic baby carriages.

To stage this massive production, John Ringling North imported twenty new baby elephants from India and added to his already vast adult herd.

"Holidays," most glittering of the extravaganzas created for the new show, presents a glorious kaleidoscope of colors, costumery and lavish floats. Hundreds of human and animal artists participate in this pageant dedicated to the festive days on the American calendar.

AERIAL BALLET

The aerial ballet this year features bevies of sultry beauties revelling on high in a romantic aura of South Pacific charm.

The stirring patriotic finale, entitled 'Rainbow 'Round the World', brings a final burst of color and beauty to the latest entertainment triumph of John Ringling North.

In addition to producing the four enchanting spectacles, Mr. North composed all of the music for them.

A host of new acts appearing in America for the first time thrill and amaze spectators this year. Outstanding among these are the death slides of Takeo Usui and the high rolling globe performances of Delia Canestrelli.

The Cordons, masters of the long whips; Evy Karoly, a bareback sensation; The Seguras, springboard specialists; the Marilex plate spinners and juggling The Naukos, unicycle jumpers; Octave de Jonghe's educated hunting dogs; Attiliana, Spanish wire queen; the Oliveras, horizontal bar thrillers and the juggling Adanos are other brand new attractions.

Held over by popular demand are the Three Nocks, Swiss stratosphere artists, who execute chilling feats on high swaying spars, the Palaclos, Sabrejets and Falcons, world-famous flying quartets.

Pinito del Oro, queen of the swinging trapeze; Josephine Berosini, high wire ballet mistress; The Rixos, high ladder equilibrists; Burton and Son equilibrists; Logano, aerial contortionist; Miss Mara, trapeze heel-catch marvel; the juggling Capers and Evy and Everto, wizards of the anglocycle, also appear in their distinctive acts.

WIRE PERFORMERS

In addition there are Luis Munoz and Tonito; top - notch wire performers; the four tumbling Whirlwinds; the pyramiding Fredonias; the Incomparable Unus, who stands on his forefinger; the acrobatic Yong Brothers and Sisters; the balancing Wendanis; Antoinette Bisbini, blonde trapeze thriller; the cycling Radinos and the aerial Ronnellys.

Trevor Bale's jungle - bred tigers; Alphonse De Jonghe's humanized chimps; Paul Fritz' lions and Capt. Walter Stone's bear performers provide more exciting entertainment.

There are acts aplenty for lovers of fine horseflesh. The superb dressage riders, Marion Seifert, Nadia Houcke and Alexander Konyot are unequalled in their specialties. The finest in equine acrobatic exhibitions will be seen with the Justino Loyal Troupe and Ilonka Karoly, who, like her cousin Evy, is a riding ballerina.

The liberty steeds of Charles Moroski, Gene Lipowska and Hans Ussim provide new thrills in free equine drills.

And of course there are whole regiments of clowns and cages and cages of rare wild animals. An 80-car circus train is required to move the great entertainment colossus from city to city.

Performances are held at 2:15 and 8:15 p.m. with doors opened at 1 and 7 p.m.

Plan Strike Vote In Non-Ferrous Metals Industry

DENVER (AP)—June 20-22 has been set for a strike vote among workers in the non-ferrous metals industry in the United States by the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.).

In announcing the vote Monday night, the union said six weeks of negotiations with the industry's big four — Anaconda, Kennecott, Phelps-Dodge and American Smelting and Refining—has produced nothing more than "piddling offers."

Wages in the western mining industry range upward from the $14.87 a shift paid in Butte, Mont., for the underground miner, to the $15.77 in Idaho's Coeur d'Alene area.

Mine - Mill's national demands this year include a 20-cent-an-hour wage increase; lost-time pay to protect the worker who is forced off the job by accident, illness or layoff so that his income continues at no less than $80 a week; improvements in health and welfare or pension programs; improved holiday and vacation clauses.

RESCUE TWO

YOUNGSTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—Two Ohio men were rescued Monday when their light plane crashed in Lake Ontario about seven miles from here. Rescued by an air force crash boat were E. H. Trner of Alliance, and R. A. Miller of North Benton. Neither was injured.

Israel Refuses To Join Egypt In Proposal

GAZA (AP) — Isael refused today to join Egypt in marking the boundaries of the Al Auja triangle, one of the rawest patches on the inflamed Israeli-Egyptian borders.

Al Auja is southeast of the Gaza strip, where Israeli and Egyptian guns are lined up on opposite sides of the frontier for 25 tense miles.

The Israelis' rejection of an Egyptian boundary-marking chairman of the Egyptian-Israeli mixed armistice commission based in Gaza.

Informed sources said Israel agreed to consider joining a line-marking party for one leg of the triangle—the existing Israeli-Egyptian international frontier — but balked at Egyptian participation in any group surveying the two legs which jut into Israeli territory.

One Man Missing As Boat Swept Over Niagara

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Four people swam to safety but a fifth was believed swept over Horseshoe Falls Monday in a cabin cruiser which struck a submerged object in the Niagara river.

Boat owner Ray Moore, 42, of Buffalo still was missing today.

The 18-foot cruiser struck a submerged object in pre-dawn darkness near Grand island, five miles above the falls.

The four passengers, all of the Buffalo area, managed to swim ashore. They were Eleanor Sheils, 41, Eleanor McPherson, 26, William Heuser, 35, and Dominic Fertisi, 34.

The boat floated downstream and was partially broken up among the rocks before it plummeted over the brink of the falls near the Canadian side. Wreckage later floated ashore and was found near the Maid of the Mist landing on the Canadian side.

Safety Around Farm Buildings

Farmers have a higher accident rate than industrial workers, according to recent studies, and yet most farm accidents are preventable, states the department of agricultural engineering, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

For instance, dangerous stairways and ladders cause many mishaps in farm buildings. Makeshift stairs should be eliminated, and constructed with handrails as an extra precaution. And the stairs should not be allowed to accumulate hay, leaves, and dirt.

Many a ladder that is used a great deal has loose or broken rungs. All rungs should be tight and strong, says the Department, with the advice that "a broken rung may mean a broken leg."

Every year, farmers are injured by falling through feed chutes. Trap doors or covered chutes should be built at the edge of the mow, so that straw and hay may be handled with safety.

Tests have proved that a 250 watt heat lamp ignited straw when the clearance is one inch. Accordingly, heat lamps when used for the brooding of poultry, hogs, and other livestock, should be installed properly. Individual heat lamps should be suspended by a chain, not twine, and at no time should they be placed closer than 12 inches from the litter.

Light bulbs too have been found capable of starting a fire if located too close to inflammable material. Owing to the dusty conditions which exist in haymows and granaries, and the consequent danger of fire, all light bulbs should be equipped with dust-tight globes.

A number of precautions should be observed when using any electrical equipment and the same applies to the location of buildings, building construction, the handling and storing of implements, the disposal of rubbbish, and the practice of smoking. These precautions are treated in detail in a new circular, "Safety around Farm Buildings", obtainable now at the office of the agricultural representative.

Union Seeks Conciliation In GM Dispute

TORONTO (CP) — The United Auto Workers (CIO-CCL) Monday applied to the Ontario department of labor for conciliation covering both sections of General Motors involved in current negotiations for the guaranteed annual wage.

The union, negotiating with General Motors of Canada since April 11, applied for conciliation as the first stage of the two-step procedure which must be observed before the union can legally take strike action.

A national contract covers GM plants in Windsor, Toronto, St. Catharines and London. A separate contract covers the Oshawa plant. The company has not yet replied to the union's demands. Both sides have agreed to continue their present schedule of talks here and in Oshawa until the government conciliation officer can be appointed.

Soviet Embassy Is Using Mails For Propaganda

OTTAWA (CP) — The Soviet viewpoint on world affairs is being pushed by the Russian embassy here through the medium of the royal mail.

The Communist campaign, now some four months old, comprises two publications: a "Soviet News Bulletin" issued at least once a week and an "Illustrated News Magazine" issued about once a month.

All members of Parliament and senators are on the mailing list as well as members of the diplomatic corps and newspaper editors.

Post office officials say that as long as the embassy pays the postage, it is free to distribute as much of the literature as it chooses.

The "news bulletin"—55 issues have been sent out so far—is devoted mostly to public statements by Russian leaders. The "news magazine" is mostly given over to cultural activities.

Weddings

CAUL—BRANT

On Saturday, May 28, at three p.m., a lovely spring wedding was solemnized in All Saints' church, Tyendinaga, by the Rev. W. F. Smith, rector of the church, when Barbara Joan Brant, daughter of Mrs. Ruby Brant of Deseronto, was united in marriage to Francis Philip Caul, son of Mrs. Florence Caul, of Belleville. Baskets of spring flowers formed the setting.

Mrs. Cecila John rendered the wedding music, and Mr. Thomas Brant, before the ceremony, accompanied the choir who sang, "O Perfect Love" and during the signing of the register accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Marjorie Brant of Deseronto, who sang "Because."

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Walter Brant of Shannonville, the bride wore a strapless ballerina gown of net over satin with jacket of Chantilly lace, having a collar beaded with seed pearls and sequins. Her fingertip veil was also of net trimmed with Chantilly lace and caught to a crown headdress which was encrusted with seed pearls and sequins. She carried a cascade of red roses.

Miss Shirley Brant of Shannonville, was maid of honor, wearing a ballerina length dress of pale turquoise nylon net over taffeta. She wore a matching headdress and mitts and carried a nosegay of pink mums and yellow roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Betty Hill of Oshawa, cousin of the bride, wore a yellow nylon net ballerina gown with matching headdress and mitts. She carried a nosegay of mauve mums and yellow roses.

Little Brenda Maracle, cousin of the bride, was a dainty flower girl, frocked in pale green floor length taffeta. She carried a basket of yellow and mauve mums.

Mr. Glenn Hill of Point Anne, was groomsman. Ushers were Delbert Hill of Oshawa and Henry Deline of Belleville.

For the dinner, the immediate bridal party left for the Golden Acre Inn, Kingston Road, and later a reception was held at the Council House, Tyendinaga Reserve, where the bride's mother received 175 guests, wearing a decorum crepe with lace insets in pink and mauve with white accessories. Her corsage was pink roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy dress with white stole and white accessories. Her corsage was yellow roses.

The music for the evening was rendered by Victor Brant and his orchestra.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Caul will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto, Hamilton, Oshawa, Trenton, Belleville, Marmora and Napanee.

The bride's gifts to her maid of honor and bridesmaid were earrings and to the flower girl, a silver bracelet.

Memorial Hall At Albert College Scene of Recital

Memorial Hall at Albert College was comfortably filled with parents, grandparents and friends on Saturday evening, to hear the recital of the Conservatory of Music, the second in the series. Most of the performers were pre-adolescents with a gradation to older students. Occasionally under the stress of a public appearance a wrong note was struck, but taken altogether it was a performance that was a credit to the instructors, and in some individual cases it was extremely good.

The youngsters carried out their numbers with self-assurance and confidence. The piano pupils were taught by Bessie Handley, Egerton Boyce and William Connor; the students of expression were pupils of Greta Morden, and the vocalists were instructed by Egerton Boyce.

The program had a pleasing variety because of the different modes of expression, with piano solos, duets, vocal numbers, and readings. The elocution students gave readings that were lightly humorous. Whether or not the pianists develop their talents, they have been given an appreciation of music which they can enjoy all through their lives.

The vocalists were accompanied by Egerton Boyce at the piano.

Principal A. E. MacKenzie gave the guests a cordial welcome and wished the performers well, and listeners a pleasant evening.

Each performer walked to the rostrum as his or her name appeared on the program, and without further introduction the following numbers were heard:

Electronic brush saves money on costly wire
—promotes trouble-free telephone service

In little ways as well as big we're always on the search for trouble-shooters that will not only protect your telephone service but keep its cost down, too . . .

Here a Bell technician is testing the telephone lines in your neighborhood. Carefully and quickly his hand brushes the circuits in the telephone building with an electronic "line patrol". He is hunting for weather-worn wires which may cause a noisy line or snap during a storm.

Forewarned by this periodic testing we send a man to change the faulty line — which could be the "drop line" running from your home to the main telephone cable.

Because of this electric detective we can use expensive wire until its service life expires fully, without sacrificing material or manpower. And that helps us to keep your telephone costs down.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

ONE PROBLEM WITH THREE ANGLES

Mrs. E.L. has three problems, or more accurately, she has one problem that has three different angles.

The problem is her husband, and three angles are: his total lack of consideration for her; his stinginess about money; his bad temper.

"My husband is good about buying me plenty of groceries and other things," she writes, "and about paying our bills. But he never notices anything I do around the house. He is always making such remarks in front of his people as 'My woman doesn't do anything but eat and sit around,' and I am honestly busy most of the time.

"Another thing is that he doesn't divide with me the money that is left after our bills are paid. Most of the time, he keeps for himself any money that is left.

"He has an awful temper, and uses and gripes a lot, even uses terribly abusive language at times. I know he isn't a completely well man, but I'm not too well myself. I try not to say anything when I'm feeling bad, but he always complains.

"What should I do to make it possible to keep on living with him? I don't think I can take too much more of it."

The first angle of the problem, while extremely irritating, is, I think, the least serious. In fact, I don't think Mrs. E. L. should worry too much over what her husband says about her just eating and sitting around. If, as she says, she is busy most of the time, their home must certainly be clean and neat, with everything as it should be, and people will see that for themselves, and know that she must work hard. So they probably won't pay any particular attention to her husband's remarks on that subject. What she does will speak for itself.

As for the money end of it, quarrels with her husband will, of course, accomplish nothing. Instead, they will only make things worse. Instead, I suggest that she go quietly about making a little money for herself to take care of her personal needs. A great many women with husbands like hers have done this, so why can't she? If she's interested, she can write me for my list of books with suggestions on how women can make money at home and I'll be glad to send it to her. Once she gets going on some money-earning project, it will serve the double purpose of putting money in her pocket and giving her a new interest in life.

In regard to the third consideration—her husband's bad temper—I wonder if she has ever tried simply walking out of the room, or even out of the house, when he begins to carry on? If not, I advise her to do so. There's no reason in the world why she has to stay right there and listen to him.

Suppose she just said: "I think I'll go out and take a walk," for instance; then let her either really take a walk for half an hour or so, or go to a movie, or to see a friend. By the time she gets home, his feelings may have changed, or, if not, she'll have had a rest from them and they won't upset her so much.

I hope she will see what she can do along these lines and then let me hear from her again. It may prove easier than she thinks to make her life happier.

RAINY DAY CHEER

By ALICE ALDEN

Extremely light in weight, dainty, colorful, elegant or whimsical, the umbrella has become a high fashion accessory. Beauty in the rain is neatly expressed in this new spring umbrella. The perennial black and white scheme is used for this one, the stark white set off by two-tone black and white pompom trim, the matching plastic handle topped by a black ball knob. No leaving this umbrella in a taxi!

BEAUTY

BILLIONS ARE SPENT IN BEAUTY'S CAUSE

Time was when plainness and virtue were supposed to walk hand in hand. It is reported that mothers used to say, "I am glad little Mary is homely because she will always be a good girl." What nonsense! As if appearance has anything to do with morals or character.

If our foremothers could return to this earth they would be aghast at the sight of tinted lips and eyebrows touched with crayon. Even short hair would shock them. That we can go to a beauty shop and get curly hair would be beyond their understanding.

Old-timers looked askance where cosmetics are concerned. But since modern women have used them so lavishly, complexions have improved and wrinkles are shaved off for years. Look at our dashing, stunning grandmothers who, today, stand in the front lines of the beauty parade!

The beauty industry is one of the largest in Uncle Sam's domain. The salons that help women to preserve their good looks are havens where busy women can find quiet moments of relaxation as well as facials, manicures, shampoos and wave sets.

Treatments of the skin and scalp are based on sound principles. They vitalize tissues, speed up circulation. The removal of superfluous hair has made thousands of women happier.

Beauty upkeep may put a considerable dent in the exchequer, but what of it? It is money well invested—not only where appearance is concerned, but for the sake of morale.

QUESTIONS ABOUT WEDDING INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been following your advice concerning the form and wording of my formal wedding invitations. Before my final decisions, I have three questions. 1. Is it ever correct (as my engraver says it is) to include the year in the wedding invitation?

2. Haven't you said that always in a formal wedding invitation "honour" is spelled like that . . . that is, with the "u"?

3 On the reception invitations is it permissible, in order to receive replies, to have "R.S.V.P." engraved on them?—Alta H.

1. Yes, it is quite correct to include the year in the formal wedding invitation . . . but it is not customarily done. (However, the year is always included in the formal announcement of the marriage.)

2. Yes! In the wedding invitations "honour" is the correct way to spell this word. Because it is the tradition, "honour" must be spelled this way. (I do hope your engraver won't try to persuade you to spell it "honor" . . . please don't let him!)

3. Yes . . . permissible, correct, customary.

SHOULD GROOM'S MOTHER GIVE SHOWER?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it proper for the mother-in-law-to-be (groom's mother) to give a bridal shower? — H.A.

It isn't considered proper or in good taste for a member of the family of either the bride-to-be or the groom-to-be to give a bridal shower. The reason for this definite etiquette suggestion is apparent: when anyone so closely related to the bride or groom gives a shower it does (don't you agree?) a shower it does (don't you agree?) give the unattractively obvious appearance of being a planned "promotion" for gifts.

PLACE CARDS AT A BUFFET MEAL

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please settle a discussion we are having. A says that it is entirely correct to use place cards at a buffet dinner or supper or luncheon, if the guests are to be seated at a table or even at several smaller tables, such as bridge tables. B says the very idea of a buffet meal indicates that using place cards would not be correct. Who is right? — Two Readers.

A is right. If the guests are to be seated (even if the service is buffet or semi-buffet) I see no reason why place cards would not be correct. And certainly most convenient if the hostess has special plans for the seating of her guests, and so would find it a definite help not to have to remember the seating plan at a time when she would be very busy with other details of being hostess.

Mrs. J. Hay Entertains W.M.S.

RAWDON.—The June meeting of Mount Pleasant Rawdon Woman's Missionary Society was held on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. John Hay with 13 members, three visitors and four children in attendance.

Everyone viewed the lovely rose and peony gardens previous to the meeting.

Owing to the illness of the president, Mrs. Frank Jeffs, who had left full preparations and Mrs. Eric Summers, vice-president, was in charge. Mrs. Summers read a prayer of meditation.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave her report, the keyword was "Prayer". The treasurer reported $16 for May. Judy McAdam gathered the offering which was dedicated.

Several articles were handed in for the supply bale which the secretary hopes to pack this month.

The community friendship secretary recorded about 30 calls.

The Christian citizenship secretary told a story about a painting of a boy, and a man and the latter, through evil associations and liquor, had become evil.

STEWARDSHIP PAGEANT

Mrs. Herbert Smith, assisted by Miss Ruth Linn, presented a stewardship pageant with various colored candles. The pageant was interspersed with a hymn of consecration.

The white candle was the symbol of 'God's ownership'; the blue candle, 'loyal use of time'; green, 'growth of talents;' yellow, 'multitude of things I possess'.

A letter from the literature secretary of the presbyterial, was read and a record of books read to date, was made.

The July meeting will be held at the church hall and the WMS will entertain the Mission Band and the Baby Band, members and their mothers.

Mrs. Burton Sharpe, leader of the Mission Band and Mrs. Robert Merrick, leader of the Baby Band, will arrange the program.

MISSIONARY MESSAGE

Mrs. Ross Jeffs brought the Missionary message from the Monthly and Missionaries reporting.

This is an anniversary year in Angola as it is 75 years since the first Protestant missionary work was begun at Bailundo, and a special anniversary was observed at that place in May of this year.

The celebration included music by two African choirs, the presentation of a religious drama covering the 75 years and this great occasion concluded with a conversion service.

Each mission station and pastoral centre all through Angola is having its own anniversary observances in June of this year. The missionary groups in Canada are asked to participate in this time of rejoicing and offer special prayers for the work in that land.

A letter from Miss Anne E. Copithorne, missionary at Cammundongo, Angola, Africa, was read under the heading "Miracles of Healing".

"During the past 12 months, we have seen the lepers healed. We have seen the head chief hear the good news in his own language for the first time and watched his fear and amazement change to comprehension and understanding."

The letter also told how a 19 year old lad and his wife were carrying on good work in a leper colony where over 30 men, women and children are being treated.

During the year a new ward building was dedicated and there are over 500 lepers receiving treatment for their crippling disease.

LIVES TRANSFORMED

The transformation made in the lives of the people is a great reward to the missionaries who carry the good news to those people bowed down with fear, witchcraft and disease.

Mrs. John Mulheron took charge of the devotional on prayer which she had arranged. It was regretted that there was no study chapter. The service opened with "Love Divine" and a selection entitled "The Power of Prayer."

Mrs. Will McAdam read "The Game Guy's Prayer" and Mrs. Ira David read the Bible lesson.

Mrs. Mulheron gave a message from a book entitled "Prayer, by Frank C. Laubach, and offered a special prayer for the president's speedy recovery.

Mrs. John Holmes gave a paper on "The Value of Prayer", and read a couple of appropriate poems.

The convener and Mrs. W. G. Fletcher sang a duet "God Be in My Head and in My Understanding" as a closing.

The hostess and her assistants served light refreshments after which Mrs. Summers voiced thanks for hospitality and program.

The next comes from a reader Mrs. William P. in Stratford, Ontario, who sent it to me in June 1952.

When you read the excerpts from her letter you will see whether you recognize her desperate efforts to save her fruit—and if it sounds all too familiar . . . "when I had to dispose of a large picking of berries in a hurry, and just had time to wash and hull them and put them in mixing bowls, crocks, bottles and whatever I could find to hold them until the next day, using this method—"

A LOVELY COLOR— CANNED STRAWBERRIES

(Courtesy Mrs. William P.)

Wash, drain and hull the berries and to each quart box of berries I put a cup of sugar over the berries (by the way, I don't put any more than three boxes, quarts, in the kettle for one cooking) and let this stand over night. In the morning I add 1-2 cup water to each quart of berries and bring to a good, rolling boil, and handling the berries carefully with a wooden spoon, keep them down in the juice. (Emem's note: I would suggest that this boiling time be approximately 5 minutes.) Put in jars quickly and seal. I never process these in oven or steamer as it isn't necessary and I've never had one jar spoil. Do not overcook or the berries will break apart and will be mushy. If you haven't a dark cupboard or cellar to store the berries in, place each jar in a paper bag large enough to cover, as it is usually the light that fades the fruit.

Neckline News

By ALICE ALDEN

It isn't the neckline, it's the fill-in that is attracting fashion's eye this season. Gleaming white neckwear has had a terrific success as have fill-ins that take over so smartly, so discreetly, when it comes to open-throated suits and dresses. Helping along the covered-up look is this white fill-in of birdseye pique. It has jaunty revers that are etched in loop embroidery and a perky pique bow. A good idea for those cool summer suits!

Good Providers Make Strawberry Jam in June

By Mary Moore

On the rare occasion Pete buys the groceries these days. When I hand him the list I tell him to buy some jam if he wants to—he invariably does— strawberry.

I suppose it is the all-time jam favorite. It is certainly natural for him to like it, for when he was born at home on June 20, 1034, my concern was the strawberries on the vines that needed picking. I am forever grateful to his Auntie Jean for arriving unexpectedly from Montreal, stripping off her travelling clothes and pulling on jeans and wading into that patch. For supper that night I had the biggest piece of strawberry shortcake any nursing mother ever consumed.

Ready for this year's strawberry recipes?

STRAWBERRY JAM

Three and three-quarter cups prepared fruit, 1-4 cup strained lemon juice, 7 cups sugar, 1-2 bottle liquid fruit pectin. To prepare the fruit: Crush completely, one layer at a time, about 2 quarts fully ripe strawberries. Measure 3 3-4 cups into a very large saucepan. Add lemon juice. To make jam: Add sugar to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in liquid fruit pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for five minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once. Makes about 10 six-ounce glasses.

STRAWBERRY AND RHUBARB CONSERVE

Two cups strawberries, 2 cups rhubarb, 7 cups (3 pounds) sugar, 1-2 cup liquid pectin. Slice the strawberries and measure after slicing, packing the cup until the juice flows to the top. Use tender, pink rhubarb, and slice without paring to enrich the color of the conserve. Pack closely in the cup as you did the strawberries, and fill the cup with water if the juice does not run freely enough to give a solid measure of material. Add the sugar, stir until the sugar is moistened with

Wife Preservers

Always hang slacks for any type of washable trousers by the legs after washing. The wet weight of the garment will take out many of the wrinkles so that the garment will need little pressing.

Simonds Ready And Willing To Step Down

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds is reported upset by the controversy swirling around the announcement of his retirement next Aug. 31 as chief of the general staff.

A defence department official said Monday there is a department policy that chiefs of staff serve approximately four years. Gen. Simonds, 52, was appointed army chief Feb. 1, 1951.

The official added that the general is ready and willing to step down from his post. His retirement would permit advancement of other competent generals, in itself a morale-booster for the army.

If chiefs of staff retained their posts indefinitely, there would be no opportunity for senior officers to advance.

QUESTION POSED

"The question should be not 'Why is the general being retired?' but rather 'Are there any special reasons why he should remain in the post when there are other competent men available?'" the official said.

"One would think that this would be a time when Gen. Simonds would be receiving credit and praise for his brilliant service to Canada. Instead of that, it is being implied and in some cases written that the general is being fired."

Opposition Leader Drew has asked Prime Minister St. Laurent to explain to the Commons why the "most highly - skilled officer ever produced in Canada" is being retired.

IN THE COMMONS

The subject is expected to come up repeatedly when the defence estimates are before the Commons, possibly later this week.

Gen. Simonds' retirement was mentioned briefly in the House Monday when George Nowlan, Progressive Conservative member for Digby - Annapolis - Kings, referred to Defence Production Minister Howe's statement that the world situation now is more critical than in 1951 during the Korean War.

If this were the case, Mr. Nowlan said, then it was not consistent that Gen. Simonds should be retired.

All Defence Minister Campney has said so far on the subject is that Gen. Simonds is being retired because he has completed the "normal four-year term."

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was trying to reed a page of a letter and shaking her head diskusted, and she said to pop, Really, William, I meen really, I cant make head or tales of this. I doubt it I've been able to make out 1 werds in the whole page, she said.

Why, what is it? pop said, and ma said, It's the last page of a letter. A woman that cant write more legibly than this ought to be considerate enough to use the telephone for her correspondents. Honestly, William, it's like trying to reed a docter's prescription. I wish you'd see if you can make it out for me, she said.

Well I'll try, at least I'm a pritty good guesser, pop said.

And ma handed it to him, and he said, Yee gods what a scrawl. It's sined, Love, Agnes, that's about all I can make out. For Peet sake it looks as if it was written by 10 flies trying to wipe the ink off their feet. Here's something that looks like "Herbit doesn't seem to be very well." Poor Berbit must of suffered a mental breakdown try to understand a note she left for him on the kitchin table, pop said.

It's nuthing but sheer laziness, writing as badly as that, it's really provoking, ma said, and pop said. Can't you peece it together from what you made out from the other pages?

I never saw the other pages, ma said and pop said, You never what?

I picked that one up on the side walk, just for curiosity, ma said. Sometimes you find very intristing slices of life like that, as good as a book, she said, and pop said, Good-bye, Agnes, I hope to see you in a fog sometime.

And he crumpled the page up in a ball and threw it in the waist paper baskit half ways across the room

General Election In Alberta Will Be Hot One

EDMONTON (CP)—The June 29 general election is providing fireworks in Alberta's golden jubilee year.

The election was called suddenly. The Social Credit party didn't need to go to the polls until 1956. Premier E. C. Manning's decision caught opposition parties by surprise.

But 197 candidates, 14 more than in the 1952 election, already have been nominated for the 61-seat legislature.

Interest is running high in this election as Alberta celebrates its 50th year as a province.

20 YEARS IN POWER

The Social Credit party, campaigning on its record of 20 years of government, will contest all but one constituency where it has backed an Independent Social Crediter. Next, in order of the number of candidates nominated, are the Liberal party, CCF, Progressive Conservative, Labor-Progressive (Communist) party, independents and Independent Social Credit.

Official nomination day is Wednesday. No acclamations are expected. One cabinet minister won by acclamation in the last election.

The snap election was called May 11 after Liberal opposition leader J. Harper Prowse told the legislature he thought most members of the government and Social Credit party had disqualified themselves from sitting in the House by doing business with the state-run treasury branches—a financial institution operated like chartered banks.

SAYS ACT VIOLATED

He maintained members doing business with the branches violated the Legislative Assembly Act which prohibits them from holding a contract with the government.

The act was amended during the last session specifically to permit members of the legislature to do business with the treasury branches.

In the last election, Social Credit contested all seats, Liberals 55, CCF 41, Progressive Conservative 12; Independent Social Credit 6; other parties 8.

Warren Bituminous Paving Co., Ltd., received a contract of $145,467 for resurfacing work on Highway 18 from Dundalk to Flesherton.

SHELL

It takes TCP to get the full power from High Octane Gasoline

Cars being made today are the most powerful ever built. And with this extra power you also get extra economy—more miles per gallon.

The reason for these benefits is that today's engines are high compression engines and make more complete use of the power available in today's higher octane gasolines.

But did you know that the kind of driving most people do most of the time—local driving—can, in a short time, create a condition that offsets the extra power and economy that these engines should get from high octane gasoline.

Why? Because this kind of driving increases the build-up of certain combustion chamber deposits—the root of most power and gasoline waste. And to overcome these deposits you need a gasoline with a special kind of additive.

What happens is this:

As your engine warms up, these deposits warm up, too—glow red hot. And these glowing particles act like hot coals—ignite the gasoline mixture ahead of time . . . before the pistons reach proper firing position. This is called pre-firing and means that power works against you instead of for you.

In addition, these same deposits have another power-wasting effect: They foul spark plugs, causing your engine to miss.

Engineers will tell you there's nothing more wasteful of power and gasoline than pre-firing and spark plug "miss."

But there is an answer—there's one high octane gasoline that gives you all the advantages of high octane without the power-crippling effects of these deposits—Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP*.

TCP, the Shell-developed additive, fireproofs the deposits so that they no longer cause pre-firing. No longer can they glow red hot and ignite the gasoline mixture. And TCP stops spark plug "miss," too. Your spark plugs do the job they are supposed to do.

Start getting the full power built into your engine. Get Shell Premium with TCP. It's the most powerful gasoline your car can use!

CAMPBELLFORD

$9,000 Credit Carried Over To Next Year

CAMPBELLFORD— Campbellford town council held their regular meeting recently with all members present and Mayor Locke in the chair.

It was revealed that by-law No. 1749 of the United Counties was repealed due to a technicality and the equalized rate of former years will be in effect for 1955 county purposes. This resolves itself to the fact that the county levy for Campbellford this year will be reduced by 4 1-2 mills less the amount demanded due to an increased budget. There will be a credit carried over into next year's account for county levy of perhaps $9,000, according to the treasurer, E. M. Ibey. Council can in no way be blamed for this surplus, as the demand from the county was made only recently, and the tax bills had to be in the hands of the public in time that the citizens would be able to pay their taxes by the deadline date for the first instalment.

The representatives of Campbellford at the county council revealed that by-law 1749 relative to the new assessment is being protested by the larger municipalities as an unjust distribution of county costs. The county's budget will show a deficit of $52,000 this year.

Correspondence included a request from the RCAF at Trenton to "bomb" the town with leaflets re Air Force Day.

The audit of the highways accounts and local auditors' report were received. It was decided on motion to have the Community Arena accounts audited with the town audit in the future.

Tenders for a large door for a fire hall were read and that of Wilfred Spencer for $393 was accepted.

ADDITIONAL GRANT GIVEN

Mr. R. H. Townsend, on behalf of the Library Board, asked an additional grant for wiring the building. He pointed out that the job is a necessity and council made an additional $500 grant for the work.

The Kinsmen club was granted permission to hold a Street Carnival on August 13th.

Discussion concerning an old water-course between Front St. and Doxsee Avenue, was discussed, conditions in that area being very bad. The necessary steps to make improvements were authorized as the R. & B. committee was given power to act.

The chairman of the Police committee requested two weeks' vacation in August for each man. The ensuing discussion brought forth a motion to ask the Provincial Police to assist during the month of August, failing which other arrangements will be necessary.

Reeve Maybee brought several matters to the attention of council as chairman of the Road and Bridge committee. Chief of these was the laying of a sewer and watermain on Ireton Street, and the opening up of the street. It was agreed that this should be done but the mayor was authorized to contact the P.U.C. re laying the watermain before action was taken.

The by-law re playgrounds and recreation in general was redrafted to suit the Department of Education and given two readings.

The by-law to assume Ireton Street was passed.

Council adjourned following the passing of the pay sheet.

Claims That Cabot Discovered Cape Breton and Not Nfld. Termed 'Ridiculous' by Editor

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Claims that John Cabot discovered Cape Breton—and not Newfoundland—have been termed "ridiculous" by a newspaper editor, regarded as an authority in the field of Newfoundland history.

Although the question is officially undecided, C. E. A. Jeffery, a member of two historical societies, says that in view of "the pertinent and weighty" facts there is no doubt about Cabot landing in Newfoundland in 1497.

Both islands generally claim discovery by Cabot and highways and other projects in both places have been given the explorer' name, but Mr. Jeffery who reviewed his facts in an interview said it was "scarcely conceivable" that Cabot went as far south as Cape Breton.

SIFTS AVAILABLE FACTS

From available information, Mr. Jeffery says Cabot landed on the northeast coast of Newfoundland, and he backs up his argument with reports of many subsequent navigators and historians.

A navigator who worked over available facts, he says, has estimated Cabot's landfall in the Trinity bay area of the province, and this report was backed by Cabot's own report of the heavy fish schools which Mr. Jeffery says are peculiar to the Cape Bonavista area.

The Duke of Milan's envoy in London at that time reported back home that Cabot discovered land at a latitude of 48½ degrees north. Mr. Jeffery said the latitude of Cape Bonavista is 48 degrees, 5 minutes, or a 20-mile difference.

Cabot named his landfall Bacalaos, and an island on the northeast coast of Newfoundland still has that name.

All other navigators who followed Cabot's trail, including Cartier, landed at Cape Bonavista, says Mr. Jeffery, "and the explanation appears to be obvious. They had a course on which to sail—latitude 48 degrees. They had a landmark, in the vicinity of which fish were in abundance—Cape Bonavista."

SOUTHERN ROUTE UNKNOWN

Even as late as 1545, he says, Cartier was not aware of the southern entrance to the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

In order for Cabot to land at Cape Breton he would have had to be off his fixed course of 55 latitude by 540 miles, and then miss sighting Cape Ray. But, says Mr. Jeffery, "clearly no land was sighted before Cabot's destination was reached, for a navigator who had been so long at sea would have availed himself of the first opportunity to replenish his water and other supplies."

If Cabot followed his latitude course on which he left the northern coast of Ireland after sailing north from Bristol, he would have landed at Cape Harrison, Labrador. But Mr. Jeffery says the explorer was almost certain to run into ice off Greenland, forcing his ship, the Matthew, farther south. But because Cabot was determined to maintain a westerly course, he says, it is unlikely he would be below latitude 48½. "It is scarcely conceivable that his leeway would have carried him . . . to the line of latitude he would have had to follow in order to first sight Cape Breton."

As a result of all evidence, says Mr. Jeffery, two things are clear: "Cabot made his landfall in latitude 48½; and Cabot reported the land discovered as Newfoundland—the name by which it has ever since been known."

Accused Dies In Hospital

KITCHENER (CP) — Arthur Schlueter, 46 - year - old Linwood district farmer, died Monday in hospital several hours after being arrested by police on a charge of shooting with intent to occasion bodily harm.

Police said an inquest into his death will be held Thursday.

Schlueter was sought Sunday night after Elsie Schott of nearby Heidelburg said somebody shot at her.

The dead man and his 16-year-old son, Henry, were defendants in a Supreme Court case in March involving a note for about $5,000. Plaintiff in the suit was Elmer Schott, Heidelburg butcher and brother of Miss Scott.

30 GM Plants Closed in U.S.

DETROIT (AP) — Picket lines and walkouts kept more than 30 General Motors Corp. plants in the United States closed today, but there were indications that a back-to-work movement was gaining momentum.

Some dissatisfaction with the national agreement reached Monday by GM and the CIO United Auto Workers union was reported among the 128,890 employees the company estimated are still idle as a result of strikes and resulting parts shortages.

But the walkouts were said to stem mostly from discontent over local grievances.

In Flint, Mich., where GM has its heaviest concentration of workers, a total of 23,000 at four Chevrolet plants and the AC sparkplug division were off the job at one time Monday. But by nightfall pickets were withdrawn at all but the Chevrolet frame plant. A union spokesman said all five plants would be operating by today.

Two of the three big GM plants in Pontiac, Mich., resumed operations Monday. Only Pontiac motor division, with 13,770 employees, remained down on all three shifts.

Drew Hints Long Opposition Debate Unless Govt. Limits Powers Under Production Act

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative Leader Drew has asked the government to set aside for this session its bill to extend indefinitely the powers of Defence Production Minister Howe. He hinted opposition debate will be prolonged unless the Liberal rulers change their view on the subject.

In a Commons speech capping four days' resistance to the bill, Mr. Drew said Monday night the government "is going to hear a lot more about it" unless it agrees to limit the broad powers provided in the Defence Production Act.

The Opposition leader was the fifth speaker in the protracted debate on the bill, which would remove the expiry date of July 31, 1956, set on the Defence Production Act when it was passed in 1951 during the Korean War.

His was not the only suggestion Monday that debate may be even more drawn out.

MUCH LONGER

George Nowland (PC — Digby-Annapolis-Kings) said unless the government admits the principle of putting a new time limit on the powers "this debate will have to be carried on much longer than otherwise would be the case."

And Thomas M. Bell (PC—St. John's-Albert), stating that filibusters are effective means of bringing public attention to high-handed measures, suggested the session may last as late as July 15.

The debate was adjourned until next week, Mr. Drew, after speaking some 65 minutes, retaining the right to speak again.

He said Parliament's next session will be held long before the present act expires and asked the government to wait and see whether conditions then warrant indefinite continuation of the powers.

CHARGES SOCIALIST BILL

He charged the act is a Socialist measure so strong that not even the Socialists of the British Labor party would support it. It used emergency measures to circumvent the constitution.

The public and newspapers should consider carefully the effects of the measure. Newsprint supplies could be curtailed so that newspapers' freedom of speech could become merely a theoretical right.

Conservative speakers gave a cold reception to a proposal by Mr. Howe that he said would give an effective means "of ensuring prompt parliamentary control of the exercise of the powers under this act."

Mr Howe's offer, which he said will move as an amendment once the bill's principle is approved, would require that orders made under the act by the cabinet or himself be tabled in the Commons and Senate as soon as possible. Ten members, by signing a motion asking for repeal or amendment of any order, could force a debate within four days.

OPPOSITION CRITICISM

Mr. Drew said it is an attempted concessions that does not limit the powers or provide an effective way of dealing with their exercise. The guilloine of government adjournment would be applied to any debate after an opposition complaint had been stated.

J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Toronto Greenwood) termed it a "phoney olive branch offered "in the hope we might be suckers and take it and the debate would be stopped."

Opposition to the bill can still draw on considerable manpower if the debate continues. Twenty-eight of 51 Conservative members have not yet spoken, nor have nine of the 14 members of the Social Credit party, which also has called for a limit on Mr. Howe's powers.

Mr. Drew's speech was punctuated by noisy interruptions and several exchanges with other members, including at one point Prime Minister St. Laurent.

EXPRESS GRATIFICATION

Mr Drew, who had urged the prime minister to speak on the bill, said it was gratifying to see Mr. St. Laurent showing some interest in the debate.

"I will not promise that it will last forever," replied Mr. St. Laurent, smiling.

Mr. Drew said the prime minister does not like debate.

"There are many debates in this house that I do not like . . . This is one of them," Mr. St. Laurent replied.

Mr. Drew countered: "The prime minister has shown that he does not like it by staying out practically all the time this debate has been under way."

SHOULD EXPLAIN

Davie Fulton (PC — Kamloops) said the prime minister should explain the change in the situation since 1951, when the government had said some of the powers in the act should not be continuing ones.

"Was the prime minister wrong four years ago?" Mr. Fulton asked. "If he was, why does he not admit it?"

Mr. St. Laurent interjected: "I admit I was wrong in my forecast of what would be happening over the next years."

Apart from interjections by cabinet ministers Monday night, the only speech by a Liberal in Monday's debate was by Mr. Howe's parliamentary assistant, John Dickey.

Mr. Dickey denied opposition claims that the act sets aside the rule of law. He said there is no limit on the right to legal action of persons affected by it. The act's powers were admittedly wide, but that was necessary because of the importance of defence production activities.

U.S. Treasurer Handles Billions But Was Broke

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — U.S. Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest handles billions but she was broke Sunday.

She discovered this as she was starting to board a plane after a speech-making tour.

Edith Roach of Indianapolis, a friend, decided the treasurer was a pretty good risk and cashed a $10 personal cheque for her.

Reds Develop Missile Fired From Submarine

WASHINGTON (AP)—An aviation engineering magazine said Sunday Russia is reported to have developed a missile that can be fired from a submarine almost 300 feet underwater and reach surface targets 140 miles away.

The magazine Aero Digest said also "The Russians are gaining rapidly in the race for the ultimate in propulsion, power created by the pressures from beams of light."

The article was written by Erik Bergaust, the magazine's rocket and missile editor, who recently returned from a tour of European scientific centres.

Bergaust said the Russians may be closer to realization of atomic rocket projects and closer to the conquest of space than United States scientists because the Communists have put more emphasis on such work.

Highest in History

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto city council Monday struck its 1955 tax rate at 44.75 mills, highest in the city's history. The rate was 1.25 mills higher than in 1954.

Mayor Nathan Phillips attributed the increase to the record budget of the city's board of education.

STOLE TV TUBES

'Blue Baby' Rushed 600 Miles By Lands and Forests Plane

TORONTO (CP)—A seven-pound, five-day-old baby boy arrived here Monday night after a 600-mile mercy flight from the northern Ontario community of Geraldton.

The child is a type of "blue baby," suffering from a congenital heart disease. He was taken to the Hospital for Sick Children for observation and possible surgery.

The boy, son of Mrs. Raymond Quirion, was born last Thursday at the logging headquarters of the Longlac Pulp and Paper Co., 20 miles east of Geraldton. Mrs. Quirion's husband is a wood pulp cutter.

Dr. Terence Doran, who delivered the baby at Little Longlac Hospital, decided Monday the child's life was in danger and that a specialist's care was needed.

Within 30 minutes a department of lands and forests Beaver aircraft was ready for the 6½-hour flight. Pilot of the float-equipped plane was Jimmy Kirk.

Wrapped in blankets and placed in a portable incubator, the baby was taken to the department's base at Geraldton, 170 miles northwest of Port Arthur. A nurse, Mrs. Audrey McMahon, wife of a logging foreman, accompanied the baby to feed it and to replace the oxygen bottles on the incubator.

The plane left Geraldton at 11:30 a. m. EDT, stopped at Sault Ste. Marie to refuel at 1:30 p. m. and landed early Monday night at Toronto's island airport. The last of the four oxygen bottles brought from Geraldton was exhausted just before the plane landed here.

In 30 seconds, however, the incubator had been placed in the waiting ambulance, where more oxygen was stored.

Mrs. Quirion previously lost two babies from the same congenital disease.

Attempt Made To Burn Sudbury Apartments

SUDBURY (CP) —Clouds of black smoke billowing from burning turpentine gave warning of an arson attempt in a 10-unit apartment building in downtown Sudbury Monday night, fire chief Bob Scott reported.

Chief Scott said the fire was started with turpentine-saturated papers and rags in an apartment occupied by Gan Baryik, one of the four owners of the building.

He said the smoke alarmed residents in the other apartments. They called the fire department and the fire was extinguished. No one was in the Baryik apartment at the time.

Firemen found the three-room apartment doused with the fuel. Rags and clothing in a bedroom closet were dripping with turpentine.

FIND NEWSPAPER

In the living room a corner of the chesterfield was soaked and saturated pieces of newspaper were found jammed into the back of a day-bed.

Garbage in a corner of the kitchen was doused and the interior of the kitchen cupboards reeked with the smell of turpentine. An empty water bottle, believed to have contained the incendiary liquid, was standing on a cupboard beside the kitchen sink.

Fire captain George Noble said three separate fires—one in each room—were burning when he arrived with the first pumper. He ordered the modern brick structure vacated. Baryik said he had no idea of who might have caused the fire. He spoke English with difficulty and could not give firemen the names of the other three owners. When the fire was extinguished, the chief ordered the apartment sealed and guarded. An inspector from the fire marshall's office in Toronto has been called in and he is expected to arrive Tuesday.

APPOINT HOUSE HEAD

NEW YORK (CP)—John B. Carswell, Toronto engineer, has been appointed general manager of Canada House (New York) Limited, Consul-General Ray Lawson announced Monday. Canada House, a multi-million dollar structure designed for Canadian business firms and other organizations in New York, will be located on the west side of Fifth avenue at 54th street.

U.S. President Is Virtually Prisoner in the White House

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP)—The president of the United States isn't as free to come and go as is the prime minister of a British Commonwealth country.

He can't pick up and go as easily as Prime Minister St. Laurent did a year or so ago when he went on a globe-girdling goodwill tour or as Prime Minister Churchill used to do when he journeyed across the Atlantic to visit Washington and Ottawa.

Certain U.S. constitutional requirements keep the president close to Washington and, in some ways, make him a virtual prisoner within the boundaries of his own country. In fact, former president Harry Truman drew those boundaries even tighter by referring to himself often as the prisoner in the White House.

This is one of the basic reasons why the United States has been plumping to limit next month's Big Four meeting in Europe to three or four days instead of letting it run a week or more.

The first of these constitutional requirements is that the president must take a stand on legislation one way or another within 10 days after it has been passed by Congress. He must, within that period, veto a bill or sign it. If he doesn't, it automatically becomes law.

There are many other instances where the president must sign documents, covering government orders, appointments and the like, within the 10-day limitation.

This is a power which the president cannot delegate. He cannot pass the signing authority down to the vice-president or to a member of his cabinet. Under the constitution, it is his alone.

President Eisenhower pointed up this difficulty at a recent press conference when a reporter asked him why it was necessary to limit the meeting of heads of government to three days instead of, say, a week. Would the president extend the conference period if he found the opportunities were good?

There are, the president replied, "Numbers of reasons why the president is not as free as a prime minister to go to stay a long time." He cited his bill-signing authority as one.

Then, under prodding, he said he is ready to go "from anyplace to Timbuctoo to the North Pole" for peace and he isn't going to stand on a matter of 24 hours. The meeting could be from three to five or six days, but he must have a limited time understood beforehand. For one thing, if he had to leave "by compulsion of my duties," he would not want it to look as if "I was trying to wreck the conference."

Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman both travelled far afield — Roosevelt to Yalta and Truman to Potsdam—but, as a White House spokesman noted, these trips were made under the emergencies of wartime.

"In wartime, you can do anything," the spokesman added. "The president can even delegate his authority."

DUKE TO FLY COPTER

LARGEST TROOP MOVEMENT

Some of the first troops to arrive at Camp Gagetown, N.B., in what is described as the largest peacetime troop movement in Canada's history, line up for supper. About 11,000 soldiers will be concentrated at the camp by July 2. Cook is Pte. J. McEwen of Winnipeg. The soldiers shown are from No. 3 Transport company, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, who made the 1,028-mile journey from Camp Borden, Ont. (CP Photo).

Menon Requests Conciliation Toward Red China

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — India's V. K. Krishna Menon planned to call on President Eisenhower today to urge conciliatory moves toward Red China in the hope of promoting negotiations for a Formosa settlement.

Krishna Menon recently held lengthy talks with Red Chinese leaders in Peiping. He has since visited London and Ottawa, and conferred at United Nations headquarters in New York late last week after leaving the Canadian capital.

Sitting in on his talk with the president, the state department said, would be Indian Ambassador G. L. Mehta and State Secretary Dulles.

LITTLE HOPE

Eisenhower and Dulles are represented as holding little hope that Menon's efforts as a go-between could do much to ease the situation between Peiping and Washington.

Informed officials say they have no intention of authorizing him to undertake any mediation on behalf of the U.S.—but neither would they discourage any volunteer efforts on his part.

The Chinese Communists have given him something of a buildup. When they were ready to release four American fighter pilots they allowed the Indian diplomat to announce the news first. Now his immediate purpose, he has intimated, is to obtain the release of at least 11 other American airmen whom the Red Chinese acknowledge they hold.

OUTSTANDING PROBLEMS

His ultimate purpose, however, is more profound. It is the development of a basis of understanding and negotiation which eventually will result in the solution of outstanding problems between the two countries. As Krishna Menon sees it, the first and most urgent of these is the Formosa problem.

The Indian envoy has suggested that the American government should make some conciliatory efforts.

At UN headquarters, Krishna Menon was reported to believe that the time is ripe for negotiations, either direct or indirect, which would achieve the purpose of averting war in the Far East.

7-Year Contract In Hollywood Signed by Boy

TORONTO (CP)—A 10-year-old boy who has been signed to a seven-year Hollywood contract said Monday he's looking forward most of all to meeting Clark Gable.

Johnny Washbrook, of Toronto, who climaxed two successful years in radio and television by signing the movie contract said:

"There's a guy I want to meet. He's my favorite."

Another aspect of the trip to Hollywood which pleases him is the contract with horses and the fact he will co-star with a horse, "a georgeous one with red hair like mine."

His contract with 20th Century Fox calls for him to play the part of Ken McLaughlin in "My Friend Flicka." He will probably follow up with the rest of Mary O'Hara's trilogy — "Thunderhead" and "Green Grass of Wyoming."

Johnny won the contract in competition with 80 other boys in a month-long screen testing ordeal in Hollywood.

TO BUILD REACTORS

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain is going to build six more atomic reactors for military as well as electricity purposes. Fuel Minister Geoffrey Lloyd told the Commons Monday these will be in addition to the £300,000,000 atomic energy program the government announced in February under which 12 atomic generating stations are to be built.

Canada, U.S. and Britain Plan Major Relaxation Of Restrictions on A-Reactors

By JOHN E. BIRD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada, the United States and the United Kingdom plan a major relaxation of security restrictions on atomic energy reactors, it was learned Monday.

A high source said the action will help eliminate duplication of research into methods to build electricity-producing atomic-power stations and speed the day when economic industrial power will be available from atomic energy.

Information expected to be removed from the secret list will relate to peaceful uses of atomic energy. No information on the operation of reactors for military purposes will be disclosed.

"The three atomic partners are moving closer together on the exchange of atomic information for peaceful purposes," the source said. "They are expected to take action later this year to reduce extensively the security surrounding some experimental atomic-energy reactors."

NO USE TO LAYMEN

Bulk of the information will be technical. However, it will give scientists in Canada and the U. K. much material for their studies on the design and construction of atomic-power plants to produce electricity economically.

The source said declassification will mean, principally, more technical data will be available to Canada and the U. K. from the U. S.

Canada, not engaged in military application of atomic energy, generally makes information useful solely in the atom available to the U. S. and the U. K. Similar U. K. information is passed on to Canada and the U.S.

However, there are security restrictions on the non-military information which the U. S. can turn over to Canada and the U. K. The declassification planned will enlarge the field of information which the U. S. may give to its atomic partners.

The source said some of the additional secret U. S. information to be declassified might be made available on the understanding it may be used for the present in their atomic-energy programs but may not be made public.

NRU DETAILS STILL SECRET

Canada from time to time has released information on the operation of the famed NRX reactor at the Chalk River, Ont., atomic energy plant and the new NRU reactor under construction.

Additional information on NRX may be disclosed but no further NRU details are expected to be released at least until after the reactor has been in operation some time. NRU likely will be in operation next June.

The last declassification of secret atomic information by the three countries was in April, 1953. The information released then facilitated research in Canada on the design of an experimental atomic-power plant.

Four to Share In Estate Worth $300,000

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Three surviving children and one great-grandchild will share a $300,000 estate as the result of a Supreme Court interpretation of the will of Dr. John Dearness, London educationist.

The three children, Mrs. Margaret Tamblyn of London, John Walter Dearness of Toronto and Mrs. Jean Madeleine Tuke of Norwanda, Que., each will get $59,000.

Paul Dearness Tamblyn a great-grandson now living in Tennessee, gets $29,000. Ten grand children and 24 other great-grand children were not mentioned.

Singapore's 2,000 Taxicabs Idle as Drivers Join Strike

SINGAPORE (AP)—Singapore's 2,000 taxicabs disappeared from the streets today as drivers joined in a Communist-backed general strike protesting the arrest of six Chinese union officials.

The taxi walkout left thousands stranded without any form of public transportation. All the city's 13 bus lines were shut down Sunday when 6,000 employees walked off their jobs.

The general strike so far has been only partially effective. The government estimated about 17,000 workers idle of 70,000 ordered out by leaders of 36 unions.

No major violence has been reported so far, but authorities are keeping a sharp lookout for any outbreaks. Strike-sparked riots last month cost the lives of four persons.

Chief Minister David Marshall ordered the union leaders jailed under emergency regulations decreed in 1948 to deal with the Communist guerrilla rebellion in Malaya. His Labor Front regime has been plagued by a growing wave of unrest which the chief minister charges is Communist-directed.

Potato Growers Want Tariff Year Round

OTTAWA (CP) — The 450,000-member Canadian Federation of Agriculture Monday moved in to support Canadian potato growers in their bid for a year-round tariff on potatoes imported from the United States.

The federation spokesman Dr. E. C. Hope, an economist, told the tariff board he could not say immediately whether the federation would be willing to support all the implications in the specific rate requested by the growers.

The growers, represented by the Canadian Horticultural Council, proposed a year-round duty of 75 cents a 100 pounds. At present, potatoes come in from the U.S. duty-free except for a six-week summer period when Canada charges a toll of 37½ cents a hundredweight.

In contrast, the U.S. imposes a tariff of 75 cents a hundredweight for potatoes imported from Canada, with the exception of a small annual quota on which the American tariff is reduced to 37½ cents.

The board hearing was requested by Finance Minister Harris who said in a letter to the board that he has received numerous requests for increased protection.

15-Year-Old Boy Given Life Term for Slaying

MONTREAL (CP) — Guy Desrochers, 15, Monday was sentenced to life imprisonment for the slaying of an elderly farm couple at Val Morin, Que., last Oct. 18.

The youth showed no emotion and kept his head lowered and his eyes cast down as Justice Wilfrid Lazure pronounced the sentence.

Desrochers last week pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of manslaughter arising from the fatal shooting of Josephat Therrien and his wife, both 65.

Gilles Boisjoly, a 14 - year - old companion, last December was acquitted of the shooting of Mr. Therrien during the fall assizes of Court of Queen's Bench. He is free on bail.

In passing sentence, Mr. Justice Lazure said "This is most regrettable but the parents are the ones punished hardest in these cases and I have enormously more sympathy for them than for the boy.

"After reading over the evidence I'm convinced this boy is certainly not mentally normal," he said. "This is the most important factor in allowing the charges to be reduced."

Expect Record Car Production To Follow Pacts

By DAVID J. WILKIE

DETROIT (AP)—Peace in the American automobile industry, virtually assured today by the General Motors agreement with the CIO United Auto Workers, means the booming assembly lines will build 7,000,000 or more passenger cars this year. That's more than the industry built in all the years prior to the First World War.

A record, topping the 1930 mark by approximately 400,000, now is virtually certain. Only a complete stoppage of the assembly lines for a couple of months or more can prevent it.

Assemblies scheduled for the current month will bring the year's January-June total to something like 4,300,000 cars. Truck volume will come close to 500,000 units—below record levels but showing signs of acceleration in the final half of the year.

Production of passenger vehicles will level off in the July-December half. There will be new-model shutdowns. But there is no complete suspension for anything like a couple of months presently in sight.

The major manufacturers themselves have been astonished at the production and sales volume of 1955 to date. Most had predicted that 1955 volume would mount perhaps 10 per cent over the 1954 total of 5,500,000 cars. But not even Harlow H. Curtice, GM president and one of the industry's leading optimists, has predicted a 7,000,000 total for 1955.

RAWDON. — The 54th annual convention of the West Hastings District Women's Institute was held June 7, in Sidney Baptist church with Chatterton branch as hostess.

The church was decorated with baskets of orange blossoms, roses and peonies which made a nice setting for the meeting.

The registration was in charge of Mrs. Ben Bleecker.

The delegates were welcomed by Mrs. E. B. Finkle.

The president of Chatterton branch is Mrs. Lorne Reid.

Mrs. John R. Reid, Trenton, district president, took the chair and the convention opened with "The Ode", and the Mary Stewart collect, from memory. Mrs. Gerald Irvin was pianist, and Mrs. Berson Mitts song leader for the day.

GUEST SPEAKERS

The guest speakers, Mrs. Ethel Hayes, home economist from Carleton county; Miss Faye L. Irvine, home economist for this district and Miss Ruth Rorke, Kemptville, were introduced by the board director, Mrs. George Burkitt.

Mrs. Harold Phillips, secretary-treasurer, gave a full financial report and the district has a balance of over $60 to begin another year.

Mrs. E. B. Finkle, a valued WI worker, who has regained her health after a severe illness, was able to be in attendance and she gave the auditors' report.

Mrs. A. Carson, graciously gave the address of welcome and said "Institute work is one of the worthiest movements of our time". She hoped the day's deliberations would prove to be valuable in making a stronger branch and district.

Mrs. Louis Rodgers replied to the greeting and eulogized the beautiful day and the lovely church for the meeting and hoped each delegate would glean useful and interesting ideas throughout the sessions.

Mrs. George Burkitt ratified the district directors for 1955 as follows: Stirling, Mrs. Stanley McMurray; Bay of Quinte, Mrs. Ernest Curtiss; Chatterton, Mrs. Ben Bleecker; Pinegrove, Mrs. Harold Detlor; River Valley, Mrs. Ross Bush with Mrs. Ed. Heasman as substitute for the day; Uniondale, Mrs. Milton Grills; Wallbridge, Mrs. Morley Reid with Mrs. E. B. Phillips as her substitute.

Reports of conveners of Standing Committees were presented as follows:

Agriculture and Canadian Industries—Convener, Mrs. Gerald Brooks, and her report was read by Mrs. Will Ashby.

All branches reported in the district. The roll calls included, a recipe for the use of Cheddar Cheese; a household article made in Ontario; a Federation of Agriculture commodity group; an amusing incident on the farm; a mineral of Canada and where found; potting and care of your favorite household plant; a rural industry and where located; Canadian wild flowers that are familiar; What's your beef in agriculture"; industries across Canada and others.

The various papers and speeches were as follows:

Col. Roscoe Vanderwater spoke on 'Conservation work being done in the Moira River District' and Don Bell showed slides. Billy Vermilyea gave a talk on 4-H club work.

Among the papers were: 'Fire Protection', and 'The Story of Uranium."

Mrs. Clarence Holmes gave a report of the Federation of Agriculture convention held in Toronto, at two branch meetings. Aluminum, Nescafe, General Motors and uses of tin foil were studied. One branch reported something on agriculture given at ten meetings.

Douglas Patterson spoke on "Responsibility of Being a Canadian and said "Agriculture still remains the basic industry".

A travelogue of industries from coast to coast gave a picture of all ten provinces.

"From toil he wins his spirit light,
From busy days and peaceful nights,
Rich from the very want of wealth
In heaven's best treasure, peace and health."

Citizenship and Education — Convener, Mrs. Stanley McMurray. She received six reports only and the branch that did not report spoiled the grand total as West Hastings district just lacked that report, otherwise they would have rated 100 per cent.

Mrs. McMurray said "Today Canada occupies an important place in the world affairs. Two thousand years ago the simple rule "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," still stands true today. To be good citizens we must have tolerance for others. In Canada we have freedom of speech and religion; we are free to marry whom we choose and free to vote as we please."

The roll calls included: "Why I Live in Canada"; "A Way to Help a New Citizen" "Should Women Serve on a Jury?"; "Something Valuable from Home and Country."

KNOWLEDGE IS POWER

A talk was given on the motto, "Knowledge is Power". An address on adult education emphasized that Canada was the birthplace of the Women's Institute. Reading is a cheap form of education and many interesting selections can be read at the monthly meetings.

A panel discussion on the Belleville Area convention brought out points of interest:

One branch has specialized in three minute talks on Australia, India, Finland, Germany, Holland, Ceylon, Scotland, Japan and Denmark.

Tribute was paid to the pioneer women and their willingness to help others.

Community Activities and Public Relations—Convener, Mrs. Floyd MacInnes.

Congratulations were forwarded to her as she has just given birth to a new baby. Her report was read by Mrs. Cyril Gardner.

The roll calls, "How I Promote Public Relations in the Institute"; "What I Read First in the Newspaper"; "Why I Belong to the Institute"; "Improvements I Would Like to see Made in Our Community".

The papers included: "What Use Are Community Activities?"

GUELPH LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

Mrs. Harold Detlor gave two addresses on the Guelph Leadership Conference, the director of the Children's Aid spoke at a branch meeting and was presented with a layette.

Bus trips to Guelph, to the CNE, to local industries in Belleville, to County Home for Aged, all proved of interest.

One branch has a Friendship Sister Circle; one cares for a memorial flower plot. Several branches enjoyed films, social evenings and one branch gave a prize for perfect attendance.

Contributions were made to Belleville General Hospital Building Fund; to Trenton Memorial Hospital; Hurricane Flood Relief; Korean Relief; Save the Children Fund; Penny Round-up; UNESCO; Belleville Community Chest; Easter Seals Campaign; Institute for the Blind; Red Shield, Salvation Army; Polio Club; Boy Scouts and Girl Guides; and a school rhythm band.

Gifts and cards are sent to the sick and shut-ins; bereaved families; new babies and their mothers; newlyweds and needy folks.

FINANCIAL MEANS

The finances were raised through card parties; catering at Belleville Fair and Scott's Livestock Sales Barns; banquets; parties and social evenings. It was suggested that to start an active campaign on this year's theme, "Better public relations for our Women's Institute Branches."

Historical Research and Current Events — Convener, Mrs. D. Thompson.

Her report was read by Mrs. Hudson Ketcheson.

The grandmothers took full charge of one branch meeting and another branch reported a program of contests; one of which was "The Prime Ministers of Canada since Confederation". Roll calls, valued accomplishments of Institute work of our time: two branches reported. Current Events at every meeting; one branch had an old fashioned dress parade; the history of our school; The O'Hara Mill project and the Bleecker cave in North Hastings; all brought out items of interest. It is thought all seven branches have Tweedsmuir Village Histories even though they did not report same.

Home Economics and Health — Convener, Mrs. Alex Tanner.

Mrs. Tanner enumerated several roll calls and some were, "How to Control Your Nerves"; "My Cure for the Blues"; "An Original Recipe"; "Hobbies for the Winter"; "Hints for Housecleaning"; "My Favorite Home Remedy"; "A Gift to Trenton Hospital"; "A Mending Hint": "Most important article in the home" and the answers to this roll call ranged anywhere from a needle to a husband.

A nurse gave addresses at two branch meetings; one gave full procedure re requirements needed and the other spoke on "Mental Health."

FIRST AID HINTS

The superintendent of Trenton Memorial Hospital gave a message on fainting, sprains, fractures, scalds or burns and with valuable first aid hints.

Miss Faye Irvine, home economist, outlined the work of 4-H club members.

One Institute took advantage of the Extension Service, "Brighten Your Home With Color".

Mrs. John Reid, district president, spoke on "Proper Foods and Their Values".

The story of "Care of Babies" over a period of years, was given also "General Care of Your Body."

Demonstrations were given on supper dishes; home-made candy; wrapping parcels; fancy sandwiches; satin cushions; home-made aprons; grape juice and cider; Christmas table decorations.

One Institute sent a member to the winter short course at Guelph and she gave demonstrations at three branches.

A club girl displayed her wardrobe and record book, at a meeting. The branches are sponsoring girls' clubs and one Institute had a medical inspection for two schools. A word contest: "Home Economics and Health" provided 84 words.

Mrs. John McCullough, provincial officer, has said "Home economics means much more than the proper feeding and care of your family; it means the art of living together in home and community; it means developing; an awareness of the beauty and responsibilities of daily living; it means making wise use of what one has at hand for great efficiency and beauty of the homes; furnishings, clothes and one's self.

Resolutions — Convener, Mrs. Bert Bush.

Her report was read by Mrs. Milton Grills.

Some resolutions were discussed in branches but none was forwarded to the district.

One branch had a paper on "Resolutions" also the origin of the Women's Institute and the resolutions of that date.

She asked the branches to read page forty-five of the Hand Book.

Junior Activities— Convener, Miss Jean Frost.

The annual banquet was held in Frankford with the Ontario Junior Farmer president, Don Middleton, as guest speaker. A delegate was sent to Kemptville Junior Farmer conference; $5 was donated to Red Cross; two representatives attended Junior Farmers' conference at Guelph.

CALF AND SERVICE CLUBS

Mr. Phillips, of B.C.I. teaching staff, gave slides on Calf and Service clubs in the Quinte district; sweaters were purchased to be used for the ball team; two girls attended Leadership camp at Lake Couchiching. A dance, picnic, wiener roast, corn roast were sponsored with an afternoon tea as a highlight when the girls entertained their mothers and displayed their layette. The layette was sent later to Korea and the proceeds of admission to the Hurricane Hazel Relief.

The reports were discussed by Mrs. Ethel Hayes and she felt it was a good idea to report Extension Services. She explained in full detail regarding a good report which should contain a summary of work accomplished and recommendations to pass on for future thinking. She also urged the study of pages 39 and 40 in the Hand Book re committee work. The branch convener sends two reports to the district—one to be left on file by the district secretary. Each branch is asked to forward a resolution report regardless of whether they have a resolution or not.

Mrs. Bartindale and Mrs. C. Holmes moved the adoption of all reports.

CONVENTION HIGHLIGHTS

Mrs. Roy Bush, district delegate, brought a few highlights from the 1954 area convention:

The use of proper names on programs is an easier way of identification in the district; the Institute grace should be sung before lunch; new members should be shown the importance of Institute work; a prize for perfect attendance might create more interest.

All sang "O Canada" and "Get Acquainted."

Mrs. Ethel Hayes, department representative, presented an interesting address with many helpful ideas. She urged the delegates to love your religion; work at it; bring it into your everyday living; and into your branch institute. Be interested in good politics, and be sure to use your franchise. She also urged the basic principles of good citizenship in making a better world.

Speaking on the subjects of 'beefs', the speaker urged that "you make your voice heard at the meetings, that is the place to air your opinions, as it will do more good and can be discussed and acted upon.

She advocated the survey of the 'Home Extension Service' with each Institute member filling in her own slip re her choice of subjects.

The Extension Services for the Homemaker are available for all women in the community and non-members are cordially welcomed.

The department provides the travelling and living expenses of the lecturers and demonstrators but the local branch institute provides hall and publicity.

Mrs. Hayes also gave the delegates a number of worthwhile hints for making a service a success locally.

There are eight sections dealing with clothing; cultural activities, food and nutrition, health education, home crafts, home furnishings, psychology for the Homemaker and Women's Institute procedures.

"You have a better chance if you send in early for your H.S. and be sure to make a second choice in another section. All these are most worthwhile."

The speaker also stressed the loan library, which includes books from England; various study kits, with a special one on ACWW.

Each branch is entitled to one service yearly.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

The retiring president, Mrs. John R. Reid, has visited the seven branches: Bay of Quinte, Chatterton, Pinegrove, River Valley, Stirling, Uniondale and Wallbridge during her term of office. She said she would cherish her warm welcome and was delighted that her project of $1,000 for Belleville Hospital Building Fund had been exceeded.

Each branch was asked to send the new president and the secretary of the district, one of their programs.

She suggested that early each year the Hand Book be reviewed and that Institute work be explained and urged every institute member to take an interest in the elections and to use her franchise and closed with an appropriate poem, "Vote as You Like, But Vote."

INSTITUTE GRACE

"We thank Thee, Father for Thy care,
Food, friends, kindliness we share;
May we forever mindful be
Of Home and Country and of Thee."

This grace was sung and it is to be printed on the programs for use at branch meetings.

Chatterton ladies provided an appetizing box lunch, with Mrs. Charles Prest and Mrs. Ben Bleeker pouring tea from silver services.

AFTERNOON SESSION

Mrs. George Burkitt, Federated Board member brought the highlights of the provincial board meetings. She urged the delegates to read over the full report in the Home and Country magazine.

At this juncture, Mrs. Clarence Holmes, a provincial past president, was presented with her badge for which she graciously voiced thanks.

The appointment of a director of Women's Institute Branch and Home Economic Service will be made probably in early autumn. There were 23 new Institutes organized, but the membership has decreased. There is a great challenge to at least keep your membership up to average and increase it if possible.

The district president is supposed to give a good educational address when she pays her official visit to the branch. Her job is to do Institute business, not to bring you a lofty address.

The national executive is meeting this week at Winnipeg, Manitoba, and they will decide if it will be feasible to have a national convention in June 1957.

Mrs. Purcell, provincial convener of Resolutions, has urged that resolutions that are sent in be workable and be fully explained. FWIO endorsed a resolution that all institute members exercise their voting privileges.

CULTIVATE TIDINESS

Institute members are asked not to litter up the highways but rather to cultivate tidiness and not dump garbage along the countryside.

Miss Ethel Chapman, editor of Home and Country, urged FWIO members to cultivate "Friendship Links" with other provinces. All secretaries were reminded to add exchange, also that both president and secretary must sign the cheque. There are still a few copies of "The Fifty Years" and it would be excellent material for new members. Each institute member should have her copy of the Hand Book to have for reference.

Up to April 30th the UNESCO project was $7,000. West Hastings contributed $65 to this worthy cause. This amount will probably equip six work centres in Ceylon.

FWIO members sent $18,000 to flood relief.

FWIO will have a tent at the International Plowmen's meet at Leamington in Essex County and members are invited to attend.

Mrs. Burkitt outlined the ACWW program and said "send your money out of branch funds. Do not collect individually for all these small items."

She gave a graphic picture of the scholarship and explained the $60 award for Homemaking girls, who have completed six units. They can use this money in any way they choose to further their education.

HASTINGS SCHOLARSHIP

She also advocated a Hastings' County Scholarship with the three districts sharing the project.

The speaker gave a few items of interest re the Guelph Holiday, and the gift of Mrs. McEwen, the former Anna P. Lewis.

All sang "Open Up Your Heart and Let the Sunshine In."

Miss Faye L. Irvine, home economist, gave a picture of 4-H Homemaking clubs and said "the Juniors are the future institute members." She told of various changes since the days of Adelaide Hoodless of Stoney Creek, and the present day program.

The Homemaking clubs began in 1937 and Miss Irvine gave a descriptive account of the girls' work. The 128 girls in Hastings county have completed their club units. There are three garden clubs, and it is important to have a leader and an assistant. The clubs help girls to work together for mutual benefit.

4-H PLEDGE

She read the 4-H pledge and said each club is supposed to have eight meetings and at least four members.

Miss Irvine closed with two poems, "The Ideal Hostess", and "The Ideal Guest", and voiced thanks to the Institutes who are sponsoring clubs.

Miss Ruth Rorke, Kemptville Agricultural College, gave a brief description of the Home Economics Division and told of the August holiday for institute members. She outlined courses and bursaries that are available at the college and anyone interested can write for full particulars.

Mrs. W. D. Grant with her mother, Mrs. John Lainson sang "I'll Walk Beside You" and "Smilin' Through".

Mrs. E. B. Phillips gave the report of the nominating committee and Mrs. Ethel Hayes conducted the election and installation.

The new president, Mrs. Louis Rodgers, spoke briefly and thanked the members for the honor and asked for their co-operation.

Mrs. Clarence Holmes expressed appreciation to all retiring officers for their services and wished the new officers every success. She also voiced her personal thanks to those who promoted the hospital campaign.

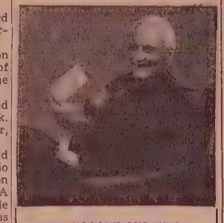
The District fee per branch will remain at $7.



Each branch in Hastings County is asked for $2 for spoons for girls' club work to be paid not later than September 1st.

FOLK SCHOOL

The Folk School at Coe Hill, was explained by Mrs. Roy Bush and this district can have three delegates from the seven branches. The theme of the school is "A Way of Living Together".

Mrs. Percy MacMullen voiced thanks on behalf of those assembled to Chatterton branch for hospitality, flowers and refreshments; to the guest speakers for their educational messages; to pianists, song leader and soloist and all others who had contributed to the day's success.

The convention closed with the thought that the sessions had contributed to a deeper appreciation of institute work and its motto, "For Home and Country."

Haggis Juniors Score 11-6 Win Over Wellington

The Belleville Juniors racked up their second victory of the year last night when they tripped Johnny Mowatt's Wellington Legionnaires 11-6 in a free-swinging Belleville and District baseball league game played at Wellington.

Kelleher's beardless nine took a 1-0 lead in the first frame and increased their margin to 4-1 by the third while both teams scored heavily in the sixth and seventh innings. The game was halted at the end of the seventh by darkness.

Stan "Lefty" Reid toiled the route for the city crew, picking up his first win of the year while surrendering nine safe hits. Sarles opened for the losers and was touched for seven runs before giving way to Platt with two on and none out in the sixth. Platt proved to be a little wild and gave up four runs in the last inning.

All of the Juniors hit safely with the exception of Brooks as they gathered 12 hits. Wayne Fox collected three singles, Gerry Goyer a double and single and Shaker Baker a brace of singles. Stan Reid helped his own cause with a two-base blow while singles went to Ted Batchelor, Harv Stoliker, Chuck Kingston and Tom McKay.

Johnson and Bryant led the home club with a double and single each with Carson lacing a triple. Easton and Vandusen punched a pair of singles each.

One game is scheduled in league play to-night when Picton play host to Marmora. Wellington make their next start on Wednesday night with Picton visiting the Legionnaires while Belleville will entertain Marmora here on Saturday night.

Line-ups — Belleville: Batcheller, Stoliker, Goyer, Fox, Kingston, McKay; Brooks, Baker, Reid. Wellington — Simpson, Bryant, Mowatt, Carson, Johnson, Vandusen, Easton, Abbott, Sarles, Platt.

Search for Plane

WINNIPEG (CP)—Three RCAF planes and a U. S. Air Force Albatros today continued the search for a Beech Bonanza aircraft which disappeared last Wednesday between Sioux Lookout and Kenora.

So far, 25,000 square miles have been covered in the hunt for the plane's pilot, Charles Day of Short Hills, N. J., and a passenger, Douglas Hains of Montreal.

The most probable route of the missing plane had been searched two or three times from the air.

Eight RCAF Dakotas and the American Denver-based Albatross took part in Monday's search.

It was not known how long the search will continue.

FISH CAUSE DEATHS

MANILA (AP)—Poisonous fish has killed 14 persons in Guinadiongon village on Leyte island, the Philippine Red Cross said today. Eighty persons are in critical condition.

SPORT IN BRIEF

DROBNY RATES SIXTH

LONDON (CP) — Three Australians and three Americans are among the eight favorites named Monday night for the Wimbledon lawn tennis championships opening Monday.

The Australians are Ken Rosewall, seeded second, Lew Hoad, fourth, and Rex Hartwig, fifth. Tony Trabert of Cincinnati is seeded first and other favored Americans are Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, third, and Budge Patty of Los Angeles, seventh.

Jaroslav Drobny of Egypt, the defending champion, is rated sixth and Sven Davidson of Sweden eighth.

Rosewall, Hoad and Hartwig all won matches Monday as the London grass courts championships—final tuneup for Wimbledon—got under way.

WILEY RETIRES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Alan Wiley, 27-year-old guard with Winnipeg Blue Bombers for the last four years, Friday announced his retirement from football. Wiley, who had signed a 1955 contract with Bombers, gave "pressure of business" as the reason for his retirement.

Wiley joined Bombers in 1950 after playing for Sarnia Imperials in the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

AUSSIES GAIN GROUND

KINGSTON, Jamaica (Reuters) —Centuries by Colin McDonald and Neil Harvey, who were both unbeaten, helped Australia's cricketers make 258 for 2 in reply to West Indies' first-innings total of 357 in the fifth and final test match here Monday.

Harvey, who made 121, joined McDonald (115) after Australia lost Arthur Morris and Les Favell for only seven runs.

VOYLES SIGNS TWO

HAMILTON (CP) — Coach Carl Voyles of Hamilton Tiger-Cats announced Friday he has signed two United States tackles to his Big Four Football Union team for the 1955 season.

They are Charles Allert of Texas State Teachers' College and Charles McKinney of the University of Alabama. TiCats now have 18 imports. Nine of them are tackles.

Complacency Is Bugbear to Giants, Team Not Champions Moans Durocher

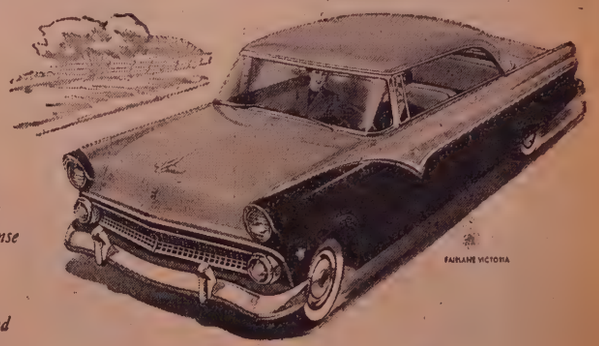
CHICAGO (AP) — Complacency has put New York Giants in third place, manager Leo Durocher said today.

"We got guys who think you got to win in '55 because you won in '54," he said. "Well, it just doesn't work that way."

"Maybe this looks like the same club that won last year but you can't tell me these guys are champions. The spirit's gone. It's shot. It isn't there."

Durocher blew his lip before his lackluster world champions started for three-game set against the second-place Chicago Cubs. Giants left home Monday 14 games behind the National-League-leading Brooklyn Dodgers and 3½ lengths behind Cubs.

"I'm real sore at Sal Maglie," said Leo, "because he blew an easy play. Real sore. But that's the way it's been all year. One guy or another too lazy to make the easy plays. That's why we're hurtin'."



Maglie, the crafty righthander who in the past has drawn some of Durocher's highest praise, was protecting a two-run lead in the seventh Sunday against St. Louis when Solly Hemus lined a ball over first base. It looked as though it was headed for the right-field corner, but the ball struck the foot of umpire Lee Ballanfant and caromed to first baseman Gail Harris. Maglie, breaking late from the mound, took the toss from Harris but lost the race to the bag.

It went as a single and made Stan Musial's follow-up homer a two-run blast that tied the score and sent the game into extra innings.

Dodgers Hope To Fatten Lead On Swing Through West; Braves Beaten

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

UNHAPPY

According to reports from Roddenville east o' here all is not well in the camp of the champion Goodyears senior "B" club. It appears the boys and the management cannot come to an amicable settlement regarding division of the financial spoils. This as Mr. Michael J. Rodden, sports editor of the Kingston Whig Standard points out, "has become a common and annual complaint in this era when so-called amateurs draw salaries."

Says Mr. Rodden:

"The 'melon' split by Goodyears would have been appreciated in such localities as Cornwall, Brockville, Belleville, Whitby, Peterborough, Dundas, Woodstock and Sarnia but it should be pointed out that none of those ambitious centres even remotely approached this city in supporting its senior 'B' entry. The Sarnians, in particular, had cause to wonder why they were playing at all.

According to information received it would appear that the Goodyear players were vastly better paid than were those they conquered. This is a sytem that can hardly be faulted because, as a general rule, the 'champion' takes the lion's share of the purse. Page "Rocky" Marciano and those who have fallen before his flailing gloves; Don Cockell not excepted.

Of equal interest is the fact that Goodyears have applied for the right to represent Canada in the 1956 Olympic Games competition in Cortona, Italy. They did not apply alone; others seeking the same privilege being the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, Allan Cup holders; Fort William, runners-up; and the Brandon Wheat Kings, intermediate champions of Western Canada.

One must not censure Goodyears, the K-W Dutchmen, Fort William's prides or the Brandon Wheat Kings for seeking the privilege of strutting their stuff under such conditions. The Dutchmen, in particular, would be an outstanding attraction in that they would probably get weary picking pucks out of their victims nets.

We mention the Dutchmen because we hesitate to believe that the CHA executive will ever again dispatch a senior non-winner of a title or a senior "B" aggregation into so-called world championship competition. The Lyndhurst, who so nobly failed to beat the Russians in 1954 at Stockholm, are the unsung heroes of a nation. The sacrifice they made in proving that they had no right to represent Canada has not, we think, ever been fully appreciated.

Barring the Russians and Canadians all countries represented in those World Tournaments and Olympiads could be listed among the top upholders of honest amateurism. The teams they have produced bear witness to the fact that they must be strict adherents of amateurism in every sense of the word. It some of those players are paid they have been taking money under false pretences and that is a matter that should not be tolerated by the powers-who-be.

"One fly in the ointment anent the selection of a powerful team concerns the refusal of the CHA executive to pay salaries to players or contribute to the support of the latter's families during the time spent in connection with the Olympic Games. A 'reasonable' sum will be paid to the players but will it be enough?

It must be assumed that it will be a club responsibility to pay the salaries and thus indirectly contribute to the support of families.

DEMPSEY HERE

That blustering Texas pair, Dick Raines and Lon Plummer, may have a lot of that Texas hot air deflated after they've bumped into the powerful combination of Prince Maiava and Lord Athol Layton in the tag team wrestling headliner at the Memorial Arena on Friday night. While Raines and Plummer are a rugged, swashbuckling duo, that's quite a partnership they'll be facing. For one, Maiava and his weird but effective methods, to say nothing of his startling appearance, is enough to make any opponent demand a recount. Then there's Layton, a mere slip of a six-foot-nine, 270-pounder, with judo chops to boot. If Raines and Plummer had a manager, they should fire him for getting them into this spot.

In view of the impending fireworks, Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion of the world, has been appointed special referee for this bout. The ready-fisted Dempsey doesn't bode any good for the rule-smashing Texans, either.

Pat Flanagan will wrestle Jim Doble; Sammy (Mr. Canada) Berg will tackle Don Lewin, in the other events.

Open 12-Game Road Safari With Big Edge Over Chicubs; Giants Trail by 14 Games

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Brooklyn Dodgers, fattened up again on home cooking, started a second swing through the West today determined to look more like the National League leaders this trip.

Only their fantastic getaway at the start of the season kept the Dodgers comfortable on the last tour of the West. They dropped five of nine against the four western clubs, yet never were in danger of losing their lead. And what little was trimmed off their first-place margin, the Dodgers got back at home. They won 13 of 16 in the last Ebbets Field stand.

Brooklyn is at Cincinnati tonight, opening a 12-game road trip with a 1½-game edge over the runner-up Chicago Cubs. The Bruins are 31 ahead of New York Giants.

BRAVES BEATEN

Milwaukee, falling back to .500 in a 6-4 defeat at Cincinnati in the only major league game scheduled Monday night, is home to Philadelphia, with Pittsburgh at St. Louis amid reports that Cardinals are up for sale.

Home runs marked the game at Cincinnati. Three were swatted by Redlegs, including Ted Kluszewski's 18th and a three-run blast by Ray Jablonski in the fifth that put Braves behind to stay. Ed Mathews got his 13th homer for Milwaukee but Jackie Collum, who relieved Gerry Staley in the fourth, kept Braves scoreless as Redlegs replaced St. Louis in sixth place.

In the American League, the eastern teams are back home again and the picture isn't much changed from when they took off for the West two weeks ago. New York Yankees still lead by 2½, but Bombers now know for sure that Cleveland Indians aren't dead.

Not after the Tribe belted the Yanks three straight after losing seven of eight.

Breeezes Blow Back Homers In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The left field fence in Municipal Stadium, home of the Kansas City Athletics, is still where it was two months ago and the American League's home run records are all seemingly safe from challenge.

Which, if you listened to the storm of protests from other clubs after the first go-round in the new park just couldn't be so.

The great silence on the subject today is the result of a 19-game home stand during which only 26 four-baggers were sailed out of the park. That's just about par for any course in the league.

During the April games here home runs came thick and fast.

There were more gopher balls being pitched in April. That's natural in baseball. The teams were all trying out hopeful moundsmen who just couldn't make the grade. Now the flingers aren't quite as generous.

And, the wind changed.

Out here in the great plains the wind blows and blows and blows. Mostly the hearty spring winds come out of the south. That carries right out toward left and helped many a poke over the barrier.

During the past three weeks the weather has been mostly wet, dull and when the wind blew it came out of the north. That shoved the ball back inside the park.

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Twenty-eight countries have entered the 1956 Olympic soccer competition at Melbourne, the Olympic committee of the International Football Federation announced Monday.

Twenty-four of them will play preliminary rounds in their respective areas to qualify for the final round of 16 teams at Melbourne. Australia, the host country, and India, Siam and Poland, chosen by lot, were exempted from the preliminaries.

Havana Kings Nudge Leaders In International

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The big question around the International League today is who will stop the Havana Sugar Kings? The Cubans were in fourth place a little over a week ago, eight games behind the league-leading Toronto Maple Leafs. Now they're second, a mere game and a half off the pace.

Havana had to fight hard Monday night to keep alive its 11-game winning streak, coming from behind twice to overcome the Richmond Virginians 5-4.

The other six clubs were rained out.

Havana jumped on five Richmond pitchers in taking its fourth straight from the Virginians.

Manager Luke Appling used three pitchers trying to stem a Cuban rally in the eighth, but Ken Heintzelman, the second one, walked Ray Noble with the bases loaded to force in the winning run.

Walls Wins Over Gilliam In Dull Show

TORONTO (CP) — Earl Walls, Canadian heavyweight boxing champion, scored an unimpressive 10-round decision over Billy Gilliam of New Orange, N.J., in the main event of a professional boxing card here Monday night.

There were no knockdowns in the fight and neither boxer threw any dangerous punches. Both Walls, from Toronto, and Gilliam had to be separated from clinches many times throughout the bout and the crowd of about 2,500 stomped for action during the final four rounds.

Walls' left eye was swollen in the fourth round but it didn't give him much trouble. Both boxers had bloody noses in the 10th round.

Walls, weighing 201¾ pounds, gained his decision unanimously over the 210¾ - pound Gilliam.

Cardinals Reported for Sale Brewery Bosses Dissatisfied

NEW YORK (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals were reported up for sale today because the baseball club had not provided a profitable return for its brewery bosses.

Club president August A. (Gussie) Busch Jr., however, vigorously denied the report, which was published in a copyrighted story under the byline of sports editor Bob Cooke in today's editions of the New York Herald-Tribune.

Cooke said the Cardinals were on the block "because the poor showing of the club, and certain deals which the club has made are believed not to have been an asset to the sale of Budweiser beer."

The beer is the major product of Anheuser-Busch Inc., one of the nation's largest breweries, which has its main plant in St. Louis.

MIGHT TAKE LOSS

Cooke said Busch and other brewery officials are "willing to sell the ball club and the ball park for what they put into it or, failing that, even to take a loss."

Anheuser-Busch purchased the National League club and its extensive minor league holdings for 3¾ million dollars in 1953 from Fred Saigh, who was forced to sell after being convicted of income tax evasion. The ball park—formerly Sportsman's Park but rechristened Busch Stadium — was purchased for $800,000 from Bill Veeck, then owner of the old St. Louis Browns.

Busch termed the report "perfectly ridiculous" and added:

"There's no more truth to it than there is a man in the moon." Cardinals, who stated they lost $700,000 in 1953, "had operated at a loss of one million dollars" last season.

NEARLY BROKE EVEN

That was denied by a Cardinal spokesman, who said, "We practically broke even. We did spend some money for players—nothing like a million dollars—but you can hardly consider that a loss."

Cooke did not reveal his source in the report of the sale—which followed a weekend series by the Cardinals against the Giants—but said it had been confirmed by baseball officials in both major leagues.

He quoted one unnamed baseball executive as saying "Busch wants to get out, because baseball is such a controversial business. You can't run a ball club like you do an industry. It's everybody's business. . . . That's why the Cardinals want out."

Leads Ladies' Golf Test

KITCHENER (CP)—Mrs. J. H. McCarter of Lambton Monday took over the lead in the competition for places on the Ontario ladies' team for the interprovincial golf match in August.

In the fifth of nine tests at the Kitchener Westmount Club, Mrs. McCarter led a field of 14 players, all with handicaps of 12 and under, with a five-over-par 82.

Mary Gay of Westmount carded 84. Mrs. J. B. Seawright of Toronto Scarboro had an 86.

Kaline, Ashburn Top Batters In Majors

NEW YORK (AP)—Pittsburgh's first baseman Dale Long, who has had a brief, but turbulent major league career, has closed in on the leaders in the National League batting race.

With 13 hits in his last 32 times at bat, a .403 pace, Long has increased his average 24 points to .328, good for third place. He trails only Philadelphia's Richie Ashburn, the pace-setter at .351 and Cincinnati's Ted Kluszewski, in second place with .332. Ashburn dropped seven points last week, while Kluszewski lost three points.

Duke Snider of Brooklyn and Bill Virdon of St. Louis are deadlocked for fourth place at .325 followed by Roy Campanella of the Dodgers with .324. Snider and Campanella are tied for the home run lead with 19 apiece.

In the American League, Al Kaline of Detroit gained nine points to .383 in last week's games. He holds a comfortable lead over teammate Harvey Kuenn, who slumped 37 points to .341. Kaline had 10 hits in 22 trips and Kuenn only four safeties in 29 times at bat.

Vic Power of Kansas City is third with .324, followed by Sherm Lollar of Chicago with .317, Mickey Vernon of Washington with .308 and Mickey Mantle of New York with .305. Mantle and Gus Zernial of Kansas City share the home run lead with 14 each.

In a sports magazine, a few weeks back, there was a story of a typical American dad, who took his kids to Florida on a late winter holiday, and there attempted to teach them the fundamentals of baseball.

Well, this dad, like a good many other dads, really didn't know too much, technically, about the niceties of throwing curves, or holding a bat properly. He was doing the best he could.

One day, a big, good-natured chap who was watching, excused himself, took the bat, and said: "You hold it this way, sonny." Before he left he wrote his autograph into the kids' books: "Stan Musial."

The incident recalled to me what a big league umpire once said about Musial: "He's a pleasure to umpire behind at the plate... Once in a great while he thinks the call is bad. Then he turns his neck and gives the ump a hurt look. That's his idea of raising a beef. He never says a word.

"Even the umpires love him, and I couldn't pay him a higher compliment. Musial is 100 per cent, on and off the field."

For good-fellowship Stan Musial has much in common with Jack Dempsey. Years ago, this writer was one of a group travelling with the boxing champion and his manager, Jack Kearns. There was some argument as to who would occupy the drawing room. Dempsey cheerfully surrendered this privilege to the sports-writing cavalcade. "I'm lucky," he said, "to be in the pullman car, and not still riding the rods."

Musial, so the umpires say, is not the temperamental kind. Nothing upsets the equilibrium of Stan the Man. His team was playing a night game in Ebbets Field, St. Louis vs. Brooklyn, and a little German band of five or six pieces was tooting loud. The band was really not for the music just for laughs. In three times at bat, Musial had combed a triple, a homer and a single. When Stan came up the fourth time, the umpire asked him if the music bothered his concentration. If it did, the plate umpire had authority to wave his arms and cause the musicians to cease assaulting the night air.

"Oh, let the band play. They're having fun. They're not distracting me." Musial told the official, whereupon he rifled a double off the right field wall for "the cycle" which means a single, double, triple and homer in four ABs.

ACE MARINE BRINGS OWNER, JOCKEY THEIR FIRST QUEEN'S PLATE

Leaving a field of 16 Canadian three-year-olds far behind, Ace Marine crosses the wire to capture the 96th running of the Queen's Plate classic at Woodbine Park, Toronto. Baffin Bay, left, only Admiral and Mazarine, will go down in history as the last winner of the Plate over the historic Woodbine course. Next year Woodbine will move to another location near Malton airport. His time of 1.52 2-5 for the mile and a furlong was just two-fifths of a second off the race record held by last year's champion, Collisteo, and Last Montreal entry in the race, was a full three lengths behind, while the favorite, Senator Jim, was third. Chicago Cubs May Not Win Pennant But They Are Coming Team--Talbot

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Eastern observers didn't quite believe everything they heard about Chicago Cubs until they saw Hank Sauer warming up pitchers in the bullpen while a set of former infielders, two of them raw rookies, made one brilliant play after another in manager Stan Hack's improbable new outfield.

Now local cynics are forced to concede that the whole thing really is happening and they will not be greatly surprised if baseball's who-dat club remains second to Brooklyn all the way.

Sauer, who is not good enough to win back his outfield post from Bob Speake, a rookie first-baseman from Des Moines, hit 41 home runs for last year's seventh-place Cubs. Under Hack's revolutionary new scheme, he expects his gardeners to catch flies.

The amazing new Cubs bring a genuine conviction that they are here to stay. They will not win a flag this season but they look like the coming team in their group, just as Detroit Tigers do in the American.

Eddie Miksis is a finer centre-fielder than he ever was an infielder for Brooklyn and the Cubs over the last 10 years. He even is a more timely hitter. Jim King, who made the jump from Omaha, looks as good in right field as Speake does in left. Ted Tappe, up from Tulsa, also is impressive in the outer patrol.

Though it is doubtful that either shortstop Ernie Banks of second-baseman Gene Baker will make his league's all-star team next month, we will take them as its slickest fielding combination. Veterans Dee Fondy at first and Randy Jackson at third round out a tight infield.

If we had to pick out the one man, though, the choice would be Harry Chiti, the big, peppery 22-year-old catcher who came out of a two-year hitch in the army to nail down the No. 1 job. Like the other rookies, Chiti is full of vim and vigor and desire to win, and he is doing a great job with his pitching staff.

Shellettes Win Over Flyers

Scoring five runs in the first innings Leo Lucciola's Osterhout Shellettes went on to snatch a 10-9 victory over the Trenton RCAF women's softball team in a league game at the Alemite Field last night.

The Shellettes were leading by four runs in the sixth when the air force lassies staged a three-run rally that nearly pulled the game out of the fire.

The city team scored two in the fifth and three in the sixth. The RCAF team whittled at the lead scoring one in the first and third, two each in the second and fifth and three in the sixth.

Linda Wagg pitched five of the seven innings for the Shellettes with Helen Reeves relieving her in the sixth. They gave up four hits between them.

Miss King went the route for the Flyers girls giving up eleven safeties. Both teams were guilty of errors.

Eunice Summer got a double and single for the winners with Lois Batchelor, Shirley Fox and Caroline Baker each getting a pair of singles. Rita Harder, Mary Ann Ray and Linda Wagg each hit singles.

Shellettes 500 023 x—10	11	6

3. In the downswing the player must keep his hands and wrists out until they have reached the hip-high position. See picture. At this point, you start slowly—slowly — just as you start all golf actions — to pour the wrists into the shot. And accelerate as you do. Thus the power of the wrists will flow into the swing rhythmically and you can be certain that the full added power of the wrist throw — (and its importance can hardly be exaggerated since all good players hit with the hands) — comes into the shot to deliver their full value at impact. From that point on your hands follow through straight along the direction line. From there on, the hands pass up and over the left shoulder, but the head should be held immovable and the eyes on the spot where the ball was, until the ball is well away.

Shantz' Arm Still Ailing

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Put that question mark beside the name of little Bobby Shantz.

It may have been a mistake to erase it after the doughty peewee southpaw told everybody his long-ailing arm was okay and proceeded to make most people believe it by hurling a three-hit shutout against New York Yankees April 29.

That was the high point for the popular Kansas City pitcher this spring.

Bobby has not started since June 3 when he was removed in the sixth inning of a game against Boston Red Sox. His record to date is three wins against five defeats in a total of nine games. His earned run average is an unhappy 5.4.

Nashua Not For California Says Owner

NEW YORK (AP)—Owner William Woodward said Monday that Nashua, the Preakness and Belmont winner, positively will not be shipped to California for a match race with Swaps, his conqueror in the Kentucky Derby.

Woodward said in a statement he is in favor of such a match race, but that his telephone conversation with Rex Ellsworth, owner of Swaps, has been "misinterpreted."

Woodward said he would prefer to withhold a decision on the proposed race until about Aug. 1. If at that time both horses are fit to run, the race should then take place within a few weeks, Woodward said.

"In my opinion it would be wrong to make any firm commitment right now concerning when the two horses should meet," Woodward's statement said. "You will recall that several years ago the same kind of interest was generated over the respective merits of Assault and Armed and it led to a match race because the public demand was so great. When the two horses finally met, Assault was unfit and the race was a race in name only. It proved nothing."

Tows 33-Pound Pike to Shore

WINNIPEG (CP) —It took Alf Knoll almost a year before his Father's Day present paid off. But when it did it got him a 33-pound northern pike, biggest caught in Manitoba this year and 13 pounds under the world record.

To get the four-foot fish he had to take an unexpected swim.

Knoll's wife gave him a fancy fishing plug last Father's Day. Sunday, when he was at Nutimik lake in eastern Manitoba, he hooked the fish.

After a 45-minute struggle, his line broke. So Knoll, clothes and all, jumped into the lake, grasped the pike by its gills and towed it to land.

The Kibitzer

Don't say I didn't warn you. From the start of this series you were told what to expect with responses to simple overcalls. Advance notice was that they ran in all directions.

A simple overcall does not promise much and could have a great deal more. So the responder must reckon with a wide latitude. This makes it tough to pin down to something definite.

Generally speaking, responder should pass. He does not rescue simply because he does not like the suit of overcaller. If he has a good reason for rescuing he does not do so without warning.

He encourages with a responding bid only if he has hopes of a game in the pair. Sometimes this is based on the value he has and sometimes on the additional values he hopes partner may have.

These encouraging responses take the form of jump bids or some kind of an assisting bid or no-trump. But his takeout to a new suit without a jump is done with expectation of having partner pass.

Such a takeout admits a hand that might have made a simple overcall independent of partner. It is not a rescue. A rescuer might not have bid at all if they were not in trouble.

Hold the east hand shown here:

EAST
♠ 9 4
♥ J 8 4 2
♦ A Q 9 8 6
♣ 6 4

South starts with an opening bid of one heart and your partner in west simple overcalls with one spade. North passes. You have a chance to make a free bid with your hand. What do you do?

Suppose your west partner had not entered the bidding with his simple overcall. You would not have simple overcalled just because you had that suit. So, do not rescue your partner.

So many angles to one position is confusing to a beginner and is doubtful even to many advancing players. So, if they bother you, forget them. You can always pass.

Ilka Chase Baffles Fellow Panelists on Masquerade Party

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Ilka Chase is a panelist on ABC-TV's "Masquerade Party," but she's made a baffling guest for "What's My Line" on CBS-TV.

The panelists on "What's My Line" would recognize Miss Chase instantly, but they'd have difficulty describing her occupation. Ilka is so versatile she's not even sure herself what definition would be appropriate.

The saucy, provocative Miss Chase not only is a television regular but also is an author of note, a motion picture actress, lecturer, and a veteran of stage and radio. And she's a housewife as well.

Miss Chase did baffle her own fellow panelists recently. She took a leave of absence to go to Hollywood. When she returned she was booked on "Masquerade Party" as a mystery guest.

Although panelists Ogden Nash, Buff Cobb and Bobby Sherwood sit next to her each week, and Nash lives in the same building and Miss Cobb nearby, they failed to solve her masquerade.

Miss Chase likes her present TV role as panelist because it takes a minimum of her time and permits her to continue her other activities.

She has confined her stage performances to summer stock the past several years. Her last Broadway performance was in the stage adaptation of her book, "In Bed We Cry."

NBC estimates that 35,809,000 TV sets were in use throughout the United States as of May 1, an increase of 305,000 in a month. . . . Milton Berle will wind up his shows for the season on NBC Wednesday night. Berle will return next fall but the exact date hasn't been determined. . . . Pretty Janis Paige, currently starring in the Broadway musical hit "Pajama Game," will have her own show on CBS-TV in the fall. . . . Walt Disney and ABC-TV have booked a spectacular of their own for Sunday, July 17—a live 90-minute telecast from the new 160-acre Disneyland park in Anaheim, Calif.

HILLARY ACCEPTS POST

WELLINGTON, N. Z. (Reuters) Sir Edmund Hillary, co-conqueror of Mount Everest, today cabled from South Africa his acceptance of the leadership of the New Zealand party joining a British Commonwealth expedition to cross the Antarctic next year.

Seven Children Flee from Home

SARNIA (CP)—Seven children, the oldest 14, were forced from their home Monday night when fire swept through the five-room house. Both paremts were away.

Jack Hawkins was at work at the Polymer Corporation plant and his wife was visiting a neighbor. Firemen said they arrived to find the children, ranging in age from two to 14, being cared for by neighbors. Cause of the blaze in the one-storey, frame house was not immediately known.

FEWER CARS MADE

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The UN reported Monday that automobile production last year fell 11 per cent in the United States and Canada while rising almost 27 per cent in western Europe. Its monthly statistical bulletin for June said the net result was that world production, Communist countries excluded, dropped three per cent to 9,644,000 vehicles, against a 1950 high of more than 10,000,000.

AT THE CAPITOL — Fiery, barbaric passions blaze from the screen in "Theodora, Slave Empress," spectacular saga of savagery, seduction and sin in the Byzantine era when sheer, voluptuous allure made a slave girl mistress of a mighty empire. Filmed in Pathecolor on a scope seldom achieved in pictures with Italy's glamorous green-eyed siren, Gianna Maria Canale (above) in the title role, the American language film released by I.F.E., showing today and Wednesday at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program in Technicolor, "Duel in the Sun," starring Jennifer Jones, Joseph Cotten and Gregory Peck.

Widmark Not Joining Scramble By Top Stars to Incorporate

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Richard Widmark is not joining the scramble by top stars to incorporate. His reasons give some insight on the man and the financial situation in Hollywood.

Such names as Burt Lancaster, Jane Russell, Rita Hayworth, Kirk Douglas, Frank Sinatra and Henry Fonda now are corporative bodies with the intention of producing pictures for themselves. The advantage is obvious: Money. If they can bring forth money - making films, the stars will profit more and over a longer time than if they worked on a straight salary.

Widmark goes against the trend.

NO OFFICE FOR HIM

"Sure, I've had offers to incorporate and produce a program of pictures," he said. "But I've turned them down.

"Why should I tie myself down to an office? If I had been interested in business I would have gone into the business world instead of becoming an actor.

"If I became a producer, it means I would be stuck to a 12-hour day behind a desk. I'd end up with ulcers."

And perhaps a pile of money, it was suggested.

"Sure, I might make more money," he replied. "But how much money can you use? After you've got clothes and food, a house and a car, what more do you need? I don't live like a bum. I'm happy the way I am."

MUST KEEP ROLLING

The problem, he said, is with the tax laws. In order for the deal to be legitimate a star has to make several films with his own company. The revenue department long ago got hep to the gimmick of making one or two films, then dissolving the corporation and collecting the loot on a capital-gains basis, where the tax rate is lower.

"You've got to put out several pictures." Widmark explained. "And you just can't find enough good scripts. If you were committed to make several, you'd start to worry and get panicky. Then you might have to make pictures that aren't so hot.

"The important thing in this business is quality. Sure, you can go after the fast buck and live like a king for a while. But when you make inferior pictures, there's only one way you can go—down."

It's generally conceded here that a star can't amass any real riches on a straight salary, even if it's as high as $300,000 a picture.

AT THE CAPITOL

GRECIAN BEAUTY SHUNS PLAYBOYS

Irene Papas, the sultry Saida in "Theodora, Slave Empress", abandoned her off-stage role as the favorite dancing partner of Aly Khan last year for the part in the spectacular American language film in Pathecolor released by IFE, which is now showing at the Capitol Theatre for its first Ontario showing.

The tall, Grecian beauty, who by-passed the international playboy for her career, specializes in female menace roles and has played "the other woman" in her first four films.

In the same program in Technicolor is "Duel in the Sun", starring Jennifer Jones, Gregory Pack and Joseph Cotten.

Your Horoscope

TUESDAY, JUNE 14, 1955

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, June 15, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Educational and literary interests, seeking new advancement in occupational work, solving difficult problems, research, medicine, chemistry, etc. highly favored. Use care in finances.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — This could well be a test for sound thinking, astute judgment and management. The Sun's and Mercury's rays are very helpful, particularly in striving for advancement, for conferences, mental work.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — You are the one "behind the machinery". Arrange your day's schedule so as to get the most from it and be sure to handle matters in their proper order. A splendid outlook for accomplishment; it's really up to you.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Good rays from planets other than your own can work in your behalf today. Work toward high goals. You should be mentally keen, inventive and still as practical as need be.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — One of your invigorating, beneficial periods; do not waste time with arguments or time-wasters. Quickly tackle obligations; don't fear to try new ideas, materials. Care in money matters!

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Patience will be needed in money transactions now, but, otherwise, the day is inspiring, helpful, especially favorable for large enterprises; also for mental pursuits.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — You can be convincing and ambitious, but be sure you are on the right track. Industry, trades, domestic interests, outdoor activities, such as gardening, farming, mining, forestry, sports favored.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Substantial matters, dealing in metals, products of the earth, handling machinery and tools highlighted by fine Sun's vibrations. Intellectual pursuits strongly favored.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — Your Jupiter's position now stresses a need for caution in business transactions, particularly where large sums or commitments are involved. A responsive day for hard work, study, conferences.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Countless opportunities will present themselves and those truly eager to succeed will scent them out and also seek good advice as how to proceed for best results. Strive for top-grade work.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — You can be an excellent salesman (or woman) today regardless of your kind of work. Be explicit, confine yourself to facts. Handle day's affairs with efficiency.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Your Neptune's position stresses care in personal matters, general conduct. An advantageous day for trades, all matters requiring energy, will power and mental work.

You born today are highly talented and versatile but not always as practical as you should be. You are spirited, changeable, ever seeking the new, (in work as well as play.) On the whole kindly and generous, you may have to limit yourself to one or two ventures at a time in order to get the most for your time and energy. Keep studying, improving your life's work. You can handle an avocation successfully, too. Pray daily for patience, steadiness of effort and temperament. Birthdate: Edward, the Black Prince, of Wales; Ernestine Schumann-Heink, opera singer.

Trade Markets Must Be Sought Outside U.S.

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—The United States, by its tariff barriers and quota restrictions, is leaving Canada with no alternative but to look elsewhere for trade markets, George T. Fulford, Brockville, Ont., industrialist, said Saturday.

The former Liberal member of Parliament, in an address to the New York state Chambers of Commerce, said that Canadians prefer the type of goods produced in the U.S., but warned "they can well adapt themselves to articles produced elsewhere."

Fulford claimed that Canada has been left with an annual trade deficit of about $660,000,000 as the result of trade with the U.S.

He said that Canada's 15,000,000 people buy more than three billion dollars of goods annually in the States, and the 160,000,000 residents of the U.S. purchase only $2,300,000,000 of Canadian goods a year.

Fulford said that some method must be devised to wipe out the trade deficit, if for no other reason than to protect the large investment of U.S. private capital in Canada.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was suppose to be doing my lessons, and pop said, Benny, is it possible that you are putting all that attention and concentration on your homework?

Well, not exactly, I said. I'm writing a message in secret code to Puds Simkins. We're the 2 Forrin Intriggers, and Puds is the only other one in the werld that knows how to decode it, I said, and pop said, Let me have a wack at it, I used to be a Forrin Intriger myself.

Sure, pop, but it's a hard one, I said.

And I handed him the code message and he read it, being, The moon will be 4 lattitudes below the western equater when the south end of the North Star is 110 degrees farrenheight below zerro by the sun dial outside of the mystick cave.

Yee gods, pop said, and I said, It's a secret instruction, but it's just suppose to sound like an ordinerry note about something elts.

I'd hardly call it an ordnerry note, but it's surely about something elts, pop said, and I said, Do you give it up, pop?

I give it way up, pop said. What does it say when it's decoded? he said, and I said, It says, Meet me at recess and be eating a pretzel so I will recognize you.

For Peet sake where does all that come in? pop said, and I said, That's the part I still have to werk out.

Get to werk on your lessons and stay to werk, pop said. Meanwhile I'll hang on to this little masterpiece, he said.

Meening the code message, and he wouldn't give it back till I finished my homework.

Red-Led General Strike Spreads In Singapore

By LARRY ALLEN

SINGAPORE (AP) — Arrest of five Chinese union leaders launched a Communist-backed general strike here Monday, but initial response in Britain's commercial crossroads of the East was slow.

A government spokesman estimated that 17,000 men failed to show up for work Monday morning. The strike call went out Sunday to 70,000 members of 36 unions.

The spokesman warned, however, that the stoppage could spread rapidly.

The first major result was a halt in the island's 2,000 buses, whose 6,000 drivers and conductors took their vehicles off the streets Sunday afternoon as soon as they heard of the arrest of their leaders.

MANY STORES OPEN

Many thousands walked or hitch hiked to work today. Most shops were open.

Although there was no immediate violence, the 4,500 police were put on a stand-by basis to counter any recurrence of strike-sparked riots last month in which a United Press correspondent and three other persons were killed.

The British army imposed a 6 p.m.-to-6 a.m. curfew on its troops and their families.

Chief Minister David Marshall ordered the arrests under emergency regulations decreed in 1948 to deal with the Communist guerrilla rebellion in Malaya. Abolition of the emergency decrees was a major campaign promise by Marshall's Labor front before its election victory last April.

Store Owner Calls Police To Arrest Him

ORANGE, Conn. (CP) — The storekeeper called police and told them to drop around if they wanted to arrest him for doing business on Sunday.

"I've got some customers here and I don't want to keep them waiting," he explained.

Chief Carl Peterson, anxious for a test case of an old Connecticut blue law, hurried over gratefully and made the arrest. Six other co-operative storekeepers also were nabbed.

Police needed help from the merchants, who were also anxious for a test case, because things are so slow on Sunday in this little town that police were having a hard time getting to see a merchant make an illegal sale.

All seven merchants were released on $10 bond.

Cook's Wedding To 11-Year-Old Girl Broken Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police broke up the planned wedding of a 65-year-old unemployed cook to an 11-year-old girl just 15 minutes before the noon ceremony was to begin at the man's home Saturday.

Dell B. Scott, a widower and the father of two sons in their thirties, was charged with carnal knowledge, police said.

They said Scott took out a marriage licence last week giving the girl's age as 19.

The prospective bride wore a white dress she had used during a may pageant in her fourth grade classroom, when picked up and turned over to welfare authorities.

When police arrived at Scott's home the table was set for a wedding dinner and chicken was frying on the stove.

The tipoff came from a neighboringhood minister who was asked to perform the ceremony. The minister said he thought the girl too young to marry and decided to notify police.

Scott was quoted by police as saying he liked the child, knew she had a "hard life" and wanted to take care of her.

The child lived with her stepfather. Police said her mother has been missing for two weeks.

Marilyn Bell Enjoys Sights

LONDON (CP) — Marilyn Bell took it easy around London Monday.

Officially, the 17-year-old Toronto swimmer was "resting," after arriving by air Sunday. Until Friday she will be sightseeing, "doing the things a Canadian girl in London for the first time would be interested in doing," a representative said.

She is scheduled to move into training camp Friday at Folkestone, Kent, to begin training for her Channel-crossing attempt.

Before getting down to hard work in preparation for her attempt to swim the Channel, she will be presented to Queen Elizabeth.

She will probably make her attempt at the Channel in late July or early August. Her coach Gus Ryder thinks tides will be right then. Her swim originally was scheduled for July 1.

Labor Member Meets Sister First Time in 30 Years

LONDON (Reuters) — Ronald Ledger, 34, was re-united with his sister Sunday after 30 years — all because he talked to the House of Commons about nursery homes instead of industrial relations.

Newly elected to the House of Commons as a Labor member, he was to make his maiden speech Friday. He had planned to talk about the need for better industrial relations.

At the last minute he threw away his notes and made a plea for more nurseries, backing up his case with the tale of a family that had been broken up because there were no places where working mothers could leave their children.

Only at the end of his speech did he reveal that the family concerned was his own.

STILL SEEKS MOTHER

He told how his father had walked out on his mother just before she was to have a baby. She had to go to work and because there was no nursery home for her children—Ronald, his sister Iris, and brother William—she had to put them in orphanages.

The children grew up in separate orphanages without having any trace of each other.

Soon after the speech Mrs. Irish Diplock, wife of a London subway worker, phoned the self-educated legislator and successful business man. She was his long-lost sister, she said.

In the heart of London's shabby cockney - land Sunday, a shiny, black car pulled up in front of a house off the Old Kent road.

Ledger, accompanied by his two young sons went in to meet his sister and her four children.

Ledger's brother William also has got in touch with him and all three are planning a small family reunion. The only one not heard from so far is the mother who couldn't afford to keep her children.

Peron Expels Two Catholic Prelates From Argentina

Said Placed Aboard Plane Which Departed for Rome

LEADER OF FIGHT AGAINST PERON

Key figure in the fight between Argentine dictator Juan Peron and Roman Catholic church is Santiago Luis Cardinal Copello, 75, above, who has refrained from outright attack on Peron but has not retreated from insisting on traditional Church privileges. He has retreated to his suburban home outside Buenos Aires where several clashes have occurred between Roman Catholics and Peronistas. His Buenos Aires palace was raided and searched by Peron's police.—Central Press Canadian.

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Well-informed sources said today two Roman Catholic prelates accused in connection with last weekend's disorders have been expelled from Argentina.

They are Rt. Rev. Manual Tato, vicar-general and auxiliary bishop of Buenos Aires, and Rt. Rev. Roman Pablo Novoa, canon deacon of the archdiocese.

Informed quarters said they were escorted to Ezeiza airport by federal police and placed aboard an Argentine plane which departed for Rome. Both are natives of Argentina.

They were taken to police headquarters Tuesday for questioning in connection with the disorders, in which more than a score were injured.

Shortly before they were taken into custody the government issued a decree designed to discharge them from their church posts. This invoked an old Spanish colonial law which gave secular authorities power to dismiss or suspend priests held to have violated their duties, the government said.

RAID RESIDENCES

Msgr. Tato as auxiliary bishop has been in effect head of the Roman Catholic Church in Argentina during the illness of Santiago Luis Cardinal Copello, primate of the country.

There has been no official announcement concerning the prelates since they were taken to federal police headquarters late Tuesday.

Early this morning federal police staged a series of raids on residences of parish priests, apparently seeking evidence to support the government contention that the clergy incited the clashes between supporters of President Juan Peron and the church.

Unofficial reports said there were no arrests this morning, but that careful searches were made of priests' homes and some handbills defending the church in its controversy with Peron's government were seized.

In suburban Nunez police pasted a "closed" sign over the front door of a parish house and left a uniformed officer on guard beside it.

LAYMEN RELEASED

Since the quarrel between the government and the church began seven months ago, 78 priests have been arrested, many on charges of disrespect to the president and other government officials. Most have been released after brief detention.

Also released Tuesday night were 95 Roman Catholic laymen, men and boys, who were among the 438 arrested Sunday in the palace of Buenos Aires' archbishop where they had taken refuge after rioting in the Plaza de Mayor.

See Eisenhower Welcoming India's Negotiations

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration appeared favorably disposed today toward India's efforts to promote negotiation between the United States and Red China over Formosa and other issues.

There was no evidence that President Eisenhower or State Secretary Dulles had actually endorsed the diplomatic mission undertaken by India's V. K. Krishna Menon, but it was reported that they had given his account of his talks with Red Chinese leaders close and polite attention. He was treated with more regard than some officials here had forecast he would receive in the light of the prevailing American view that he is unduly friendly to Red China.

SURPRISE ANNOUNCEMENT

After the Indian diplomat spent 45 minutes with Eisenhower and Dulles Tuesday, James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, made a surprise announcement that Krishna Menon would see the president again, in two or three weeks, and meanwhile would confer in greater detail with Dulles. In the afternoon he talked again with Dulles for more than an hour.

The situation appears to be that since there is some prospect that Krishna Menon's efforts may prove productive as far as Red China is concerned, the president and Dulles want to encourage them to some degree without making any commitments or designating Krishna Meno as a mediator.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Sunny, pleasant weather is expected for Wednesday and Thursday in Ontario. This fine weather extends from Quebec to the central prairies, and as it is associated with an area of high pressure which is moving only slowly, there is a good chance that the sunshine will last through Friday. However, in northern Ontario there is the possibility that showers and thundershowers occurring this morning in Saskatchewan will drift over by Thursday night or Friday.

CANADIAN ADMITS 2 BANK HOLDUPS; THREE ARE HELD

Two of Suspects Arrested in Windsor

BUFFALO, N.Y. (CP) — Three Canadians were being held by authorities in two cities today in connection with bank holdups here.

Two of the suspects were arrested in Windsor during the night following the capture of an Ontario man here Tuesday, after an unsuccessful holdup, and a rapid investigation linking police agencies in Buffalo, Detroit, Toronto and Windsor.

The chain of events began here in the afternoon when an off-duty policeman captured James Wagg, 22, of Pickering, minutes after a holdup at the Manufacturers and Traders Trust Co.

Police said that following eight hours of questioning Wagg implicated two other men in Tuesday's holdup and one of those with the June 6 robbery of $2,200 from a teller at the Buffalo Savings Bank.

NO CHARGES LAID

A general alarm was immediately broadcast for the suspects, and early today in Detroit the Federal Bureau of Investigation said Ontario Provincial Police at Windsor had arrested Jack Langley, 27, and John Harlow, 30, both of Toronto.

No charges were placed against any of the men immediately.

Police said a man armed with a water pistol ordered teller Lloyd Strauss, 35, to place bills totalling $2,079 in a brown paper bag at the trust company Tuesday.

Petrolman Robert Ritchie, 32, who joined the local force seven months ago, spotted a man fleeing from the bank and gave chase in his auto and on foot. He captured Wagg in a parking lot and recovered the loot.

FEARED COMPANIONS

Police said Wagg apparently withheld identifying or implicating accomplices until he was sure they had left the city.

They said he begged to be sent to a separate jail if the men were apprehended.

"They'll kill me," they quoted him as saying.

Wagg told police he turned to bank robbery because he was tired of working—"I decided I should not work hard all my life when there is this kind of money so easy to take."

In Toronto, police said Wagg migrated to Canada from England two years ago.

200 Candidates Likely to Seek Alberta Seats

EDMONTON (CP) — Two hundred candidates, 21 of them women, are expected to be in the running officially today when nominations close for the June 29 Alberta general election.

Barring a last-minute failure by a candidate to file his nomination papers by deadline, there will be no acclamations.

Good Samaritans Save Child's Life By $150 Loan to Desperate Father

TORONTO (CP)—Mona Parson, the 10-month-old girl whose life was saved three weeks ago by a rare monkey-lung heart operation, was crawling around home Tuesday—not her accustomed home, but one thrown open by a sympathetic Toronto family.

The girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Parson of Minto, N.B., have decided to remain in Toronto. They are living with their daughter and two young sons at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Casquenette.

The Parsons decided against returning to Minto, where Mr. Parson, a disabled war veteran, had been out of work for 1½ years. He has a job here. They are looking forward to the day they can erase their debts and find an apartment.

Tuesday they told the story behind Mona's rare operation at the Hospital for Sick Children.

Mona was born last September. Three months after her birth the Parson family lost all its belongings in a fire. Five days after the fire in their little home it was discovered Mona was a blue baby and in need of an operation.

On April 28, Mrs. Parson flew to Toronto, where Mona was admitted to the Hospital for Sick Children. Doctors watched the baby for a week, then announced she was too delicate to be operated on until she was at least three years old.

Five days after she had returned to Minto, Mona's condition became worse. Mr. Parson decided to return to Toronto in an effort to have the child readmitted to the hospital.

With only $1.50 in his pocket, George Parson hitch-hiked 1,400 miles to Toronto. He stayed with the Casquenettes, and got a job right away.

Mr. and Mrs. Casquenette loaned him $150 so Mrs. Parson and the rest of the family could fly here. They arrived May 15, the baby was admitted to the hospital May 16, and 10 days later the delicate operation was performed.

During the operation, Mona's heart was stopped for 12 minutes while her blood was circulated with oxygen through a dead mon key's lungs.

Mona left hospital Saturday and she went with her parents to the home of their friends.

"I don't know how we can thank the hospital and the Casquenettes for all they've done," said a happy Mrs Parson. "We are confident of a bright future now."

Adenauer's Visit Reassures U.S. He Will Not Be Neutral

By EDMUND le BRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials apparently have been reassured by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's visit here that Soviet blandishments have had no measurable effect on the West German leader.

One official who would not be quoted by name said it is fair to sum up this way the impression Adenauer is leaving behind in Washington:

"He's going to Moscow. He's not going until after the Big Four meeting in Geneva. He's not giving an inch to the Soviet push for neutralizing Germany."

Adenauer encountered at a Tuesday press-radio-television reception the direct question whether he will accept a Soviet invitation to go to Moscow for talks about improving diplomatic and trade relations.

He said the "probably" will go and quickly added: "Such a trip, if it is to serve any purpose, must be prepared for, and that takes time."

There is just a month's time between his return to Bonn and the July 18 opening of the Big Four "summit" meeting—obviously not the amount of time Adenauer would consider necessary for preparation.

As if to discount fears in some quarters that he and his fellow countrymen might be swept off their feet by a Russian offer to let Germany reunite if it would become neutral and repudiate the obligations just assumed under the North Atlantic treaty, Adenauer over and over promised German steadfastness.

In a joint statement with President Eisenhower after their meeting Tuesday, "it was confirmed that in their combined opinion the concept of neutrality is in no way applicable to Germany and that only in collective security arrangements can Germany assure its independence."

Members' Speeches Limited To 30 Minutes by New Rules

OTTAWA (CP) — New procedures aimed at saving time in the Commons and expediting its work were submitted to the House Tuesday in the unanimous report of a special committee respresenting all parties.

The new rules appeared certain of adoption at this session in view of the committee unanimity. They would go into effect next session.

Major changes consist of limitation of members' speeches to 30 minutes each in some House sittings, compared with 40 minutes now, and a time restriction on the two big debates of each session, which now run without curbs.

The debates are those on the address in reply to the speech from the throne at the opening, which would be held to 10 sitting days, and the budget debate, which would go no more than eight. At this session, they ran to 16 and 13 days, respectively.

During the throne speech debate, which at times has rambled on for weeks—the proposed new rules would provide for morning sittings to supplement the regular afternoon and night ones.

The 30-minute speech rule would apply when the House is "in committee"—that is, with the Speaker out of the chair and the members engaged in free-for-all debate in which each may talk as many times as he likes. Exceptions to the limit would continue to be the prime minister and the Opposition leader, who will continue to have unlimited time.

Apart from morning sittings during the throne speech debate, the rule changes would not alter the number of normal weekly sitting hours in the House—27½. But it would change Friday hours to provide for a morning sitting instead of the customary night one, letting the members off at 6 p.m. This will help Quebec and Ontario members who like to get home for weekends.

There will be a change in the allocation of private members' days—those given to discussion of business brought in by rank-and-file members. Now, they get between six and nine days, depending on circumstances. Under the changes, they would get a fixed eight.

Molotov On Way To Anniversary Meeting of UN

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times quotes Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov from the liner Queen Elizabeth at sea as speaking of travelling "on a calmer sea."

Molotov and a retinue of 47 assistants, secretaries and security guards are en route to the 10th anniversary meeting of the United Nations in San Francisco.

In a shipboard dispatch by Brooks Atkinson, The Times says Molotov and an interpreter today met Charles Merz, editor of The Times, for an informal conversation.

The Russian official expressed hope the San Francisco meeting would be successful and that Molotov's decision to attend would be well received in the United States, the account of the conversations says, adding:

"He thought that the signing of the Austrian treaty set the stage for favorable developments. With an end to today's weather, which was clear after three days of fog and storm, he suggested that 'We are fellow travellers on a calmer sea.'"

Toronto Spared Atomic Attack

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto was spared from "atomic attack" in a continental civil defence test today.

Provincial CD authorities said Toronto was so unprepared for an atomic attack that it was "impossible" to test the city's defences.

Toronto Ald. Donald Summerville, chairman of the Metropolitan CD group, said the attack, called "Operation Alert" was primarily a test between federal and provincial control centres and was mostly a "paper exercise."

Insp. William Koopman, acting deputy co-ordinator of the Metropolitan organization, said his group would have taken an active part in today's exercise if there had been time to prepare. He said his group did not have time to set up necessary communications.

Hull Police Seek Man Who Duped Girl at 'Wedding'

HULL, Que. (CP)—Police today sought a smooth-talking young man who, they said, induced a young girl to go through a marriage ceremony after telling her it was being filmed for television.

Insp. J. Maxime Lavigne of Hull police said a warrant has been issued for arrest of Jean Lacroix, 18, on a rape charge.

Police said the ceremony was performed in a church in front of cameras after Lacroix convinced a priest, the 17-year-old girl and a friend that he was a television producer.

When the couple left the church, they said Lacroix told the girl they were legally married. Two days later she became suspicious and returned to her parents home in Ottawa, across the Ottawa river from here.

Tax Cat Food To Meet Costs Of Curbing Dogs

DENVER (AP)—Cat owners felt they had a right to howl today.

The city board of health is proposing a tax of one cent a pound on pet food to help pay for enforcing the city's new leash law. That includes cat food.

Yet the law applies only to dogs, which must be kept in yards or on leashes after July 1.

Oshawa Labor Group Hits Ambulance Policy

OSHAWA (CP) — The Oshawa district Labor Council Tuesday night demanded the city change its "shameful" policy of having ambulance attendants ask patients for cash before service.

COMMONS PUSHES THROUGH MANY GOVT. MEASURES

Passes Five Bills, Advances Five Others

OTTAWA (CP)—Commons members, hitting one of the fastest legislative clips of the session, dealt with a hatful of government measures Tuesday.

They passed five bills, sending them on to the Senate, and advanced five other measures through stages preliminary to final approval.

A few were routine bills and the others, though more important, had been thoroughly debated earlier. More government legislation was scheduled for consideration today.

The House lingered longest on a measure tightening federal control over international rivers. It provides for federal licensing of any licensing of any dams—even those built by provinces—on rivers flowing into the United States.

BLOCK KAISER DEAL

It would block a deal between British Columbia's Social Credit government and the Kaiser Corp. of the U.S. for a dam on the lower Arrow lakes of the Columbia river to feed a power plant at Bonnerville, Wash. The federal government decided B.C. would get an insufficient return on the agreement.

BLIND PENSIONS

Another measure passed by the House would lower the starting age for blind pensions to 18 from 21 and increase the means-test income ceiling. The $40 monthly payments are jointly financed by federal and provincial governments.

Ceiling on annual income, including pension, would be raised to $960 from $840 for a single person, to $1,560 from $1,320 for a married person and to $1,680 from $1,440 for a recipient married to another blind person.

Speakers in all opposition parties approved the move, but asked the government to consider starting payments at the age of 16.

Also given final approval was the government's new unemployment insurance legislation, after members voted 108 to 61 against a Progressive Conservative attempt to retain the present maximum period of 51 weeks of coverage.

The coverage period is cut to 36 weeks, but maximum weekly benefits are increased. The legislation takes effect Oct. 2, if approved by the Senate.

The other two bills passed Tuesday dealt with routine CNR financing matters.

CROP PAYMENTS

One bill introduced Tuesday night will provide for payment of crop-failure benefits of $2.50 an acre to prairie farmers unable to plant a crop due to flooded fields.

The Commons gave all but final approval to a measure broadening the formula under which federal grants are made to municipalities in lieu of real estate taxes on crown - owned property. Present grants would be almost doubled. Members Tuesday night approved an amendment under which grants will be paid in lieu of taxes on all crown-owned married quarters.

J. W. Murphy (PC — Lambton West) urged that the government pay full tax rates to municipalities. No crown property should be exempted from taxation.

Canada Will Get Atomic Secrets By Pact With U.S.

Agreements to Co-operate Are Announced by Pearson

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson announced today that Canada and the United States have signed agreements providing for co-operation in the development of atomic energy for peaceful uses and defence purposes.

He told the Commons that two agreements providing for the co-operation were signed in Washington this morning by representatives of the two governments.

"The first of these agreements provides for co-operation in the civil uses of atomic energy," he said. "The second agreement provides for co-operation regarding atomic information for mutual defence purposes.

"I am confident that the co-operation made possible by these agreements will be to the mutual advantage of both the United States and Canada, and that this extension of our long-standing partnership will make a material contribution to the application of atomic energy both for constructive purposes and for the protection of the free world."

Under the agreement, the U. S. will make information available to Canada on defence against atomic and hydrogen bomb attacks. However, Canada's atomic energy research program will continue to be devoted to peaceful uses of the new power.

The second agreement will enable the U. S. to provide Canada with additional information on the development of atomic power plants to produce electrical energy. It will help eliminate duplication of research in both countries.

Both countries will relax extensively security restrictions on the operation of atomic energy reactors.

Mr. Pearson said the texts of the agreements will be made public shortly on a date set by the two governments.

Similar agreements were signed in Washington by the U. S. and the United Kingdom and the U. S. and Belgium.

Canada Drifting Into Autocracy

PENTICTON, B. C. (CP)—Canada is drifting toward an autocratic state, Hon. H. H. Stevens of Vancouver said here Tuesday night.

In an address before the Canadian Club, the one-time minister of trade and commerce in the Conservative government of R. B. Bennett said Canada has a few "dangerously autocratic institutions" that could undermine personal dignity and freedom.

He said a dangerous situation existed in that less than 10 per cent of all labor union members attended union meetings.

"And there are laws in existence in this country that never go through Parliament and are never aired before Canada's legislative body," he said.

Charlotte Envisages Men's Pages In Paper Instead of Women's in 2055

OTTAWA (CP)—Mayor Charlotte Whitton, who isn't famous for sphinx-like silence, has smiled in wordless mystery on her retirement plans.

But the chief magistrate, at 59 still vigorous and blunt on other matters, has taken a swift glance into the future and what she envisioned in the year 2055 AD must shiver whatever foundations of male supremacy yet remain in Canadian society.

It was at the filtration plant Tuesday. Over a cup of tea with the Ottawa Women's Press Club and the Charlotte Whitton committee, which fetes her after election victories.

Between sips Miss Whitton conjured, 100 years hence, a parliament where the preponderance of women members graciously ensures protection of the rights of men. She saw men's—instead of women's—pages in the newspapers. Organizations had men's—replacing women's—auxiliaries.

But she assured with eyes atwinkle, the power - wielding women would always respect men's rights and privileges in the community. And in Ottawa, at least, the men could look back in 2055 to the start of all this feminine superiority in "that old devil" Mayor Whitton herself.

Miss Whitton lost her tongue yesterday, however, after she stirred reports that she may reconsider her threatened resignation with a remark dropped at board of control. Referring to the international convention of local authorities in Rome this fall, to which she has been invited as mayor, she said "I hope to attend."

But to a reporter's queries she replied "there is no significance whatsoever in that remark." It was the "most facetious of remarks" and had nothing to do with the question of her retirement.

All right then, was she reconsidering? The mayor smiled broadly and wagged her head. Her silence must be taken to mean "No comment," said the reporter. Again, silence and the mysterious smile.

Dislikes Calf Entering Home To Watch TV

VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP)—Douglas Hooper had an uncomfortable feeling he was being spied upon as he watched a television show in the supposed privacy of his own living room.

He turned around to be greeted by two big, soulful brown eyes. A calf just happened to be passing in the neighborhood and stopped for a look at the strange goings-on in the lighted box.

Hooper rushed to get a length of clothesline for what he thought would be a short calf-roping stunt. It turned out to be a half-mile chase in which he was joined by two policemen. They finally cornered the frisky bovine and it was carted off to the animal shelter until the owner claims it.

38 Flee Flames In Farm Village Near Sudbury

SUDBURY (CP)—Wind-whipped fire today raged through nearby Blezard village.

It forced 38 persons to flee. Flames destroyed an apartment house, spread to a neighboring store and apartment building and threatened other buildings in the farming valley community 12 miles north of here.

Crowds, cowering from the blistering heat, watched as a brisk west wind fanned the flames. Some townsfolk dropped to their knees in the dust of the street and with clenched hands whispered "Hail Marys."

Officials said the fire started in a ground-floor room in the former eight-room hotel which was converted three years ago into an apartment house.

Air Pollution Study Planned

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Standards Association is planning a national code on measurement of air pollution and methods of control.

The country-wide study under the direction of Professor E. A. Allcut of the University of Toronto, an authority on air pollution, was announced today at the association's annual meeting.

The plan, association officials said, is to set up a national code and recommend an ordinance or by-law which municipalities may adopt, at their discretion, to reduce industrial air pollution.

Bernard Hurley Newly-Elected Grand Knight

In one of the finest turnouts in the history of the Knights of Columbus Council No. 1008, the election of officers for the ensuing year was held at the clubrooms, Front Street, on Tuesday night. It was also a night in which the retiring officers of the past two years were signally honored by their brethren. Before George F. O'Brien relinquished the post of Grand Knight and Frank Domenico as lecturer and chairman of the entertainment committee, Knight Eddie Logan presented sets of cuff links and tie clasps to the brothers in recognition of their valuable work in the council and wished for them continued success in council work.

Frank Domenico, who had an energetic group as his committee on entertainment, presented Ronald Lynch, Edward Kelly, James Cowan, Donald Barrett and James Truaisch with a token of his esteem for the fine work accomplished. Before handing over the reigns of office, Mr. O'Brien sincerely thanked every member of the Council for their untiring work and co-operation during the past two years and wished for his successor in office the same fine spirit from all members of the Council. He was thanked sincerely by all members for his devotion and service to the order.

Bernard Hurley, the newly-elected Grand Knight thanked all for the high honor conferred on him and he hoped that he would live up to the fine work that other members had given to the Council. He solicited active co-operation of all in advancing the precepts of the order. Other officers elected were Deputy Grand Knight Paul Mercier, Chancellor George Whalen, recording secretary, Thomas Clancy, treasurer, Edwin Esbaugh, financial secretary, Vince McIntyre, advocate, Robertson Collins, warden, James Colligan, inside guard, Ronald Lynch, outside guard, W. J. Nash and trustee, Frank Domenico.

The business meeting was closed by Rev. Peter Murphy after which refreshments were served and a social hour spent. All the members present voted the meeting one of the best in many years.

Criminal Case Is Laid Over

With but one of 12 scheduled jury cases completed Hastings county court officials consoled themselves today that at least the remaining cases on the docket at the General Sessions of the Peace would not be as lengthy as the Woods trial which was completed Tuesday.

At the commencement of the court on June 6th there were four criminal jury cases to be heard and eight civil jury cases. One criminal case has been laid over, the case of The Crown vs Ruttan commenced Tuesday afternoon, while the remaining criminal case, a fraud charge involving the sale of mining stock against James R. Dolan of this city will be heard June 23 and 24.

At the conclusion of the Woods trial Tuesday after the jury had returned a guilty verdict, Judge G. F. Smith noted that the remaining jury cases might very well last into July.

In addition to the jury cases there is a long list of non-jury civil cases.

Over 7,000 Farmers Visit O.A. College

A group representing the Hastings County Crop Improvement Association, and the Holstein Club, visited the Ontario Agricultural College and points of interest in Western Ontario Friday and Saturday. Arrangements were made for the tour by the local office of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, while the transportation was arranged by the combined bus committees of the two Associations.

On Friday, over 7,000 farmers and their families were in attendance at the College, and the entire afternoon was spent in seeing the various points of interest at the College. This included a livestock parade, safety on the farm demonstration, a tour of the plots, and free time to visit the various departments to discuss any problems that the farmers might have which they wished to solve.

In the evening, the group journeyed to Elora to see the gorge on the Grand River, and from there, visited the Shand Dam on the Grand River.

Saturday's tour included a visit to the Rock Gardens in Hamilton, a shopping stop in Weston, and a two-hour stop at the Massey-Harris farms at Milliken. At the Massey-Harris Farm, the Holstein and Shorthorn herds proved of interest as did the contour farming, and the visit to the test track.

The group arrived home in Hastings County around 8.30 p.m., feeling that they had had an enjoyable and worth while trip, and some even suggested that next year's trip be a three-day trip, farther into Western Ontario.

Inscription On Bon Echo Rock To Be Dedicated

An echo of international acclaim for one of America's great poets will be sounded Wednesday, June 29th, at Bon Echo on Mazinaw Lake, when lovers of Walt. Whitman's poetry will dedicate an inscription on the face of Bon Echo rock.

Some 200 members of the Canadian Authors' Association, the Ethical Culture Society of New York City and Whitman devotees are expected to attend the simple ceremony marking the 100th anniversary of the publication of Whitman's "Leaves of Grass".

Dr. Algernon Black, leader of the Ethical Culture Society of New York City, will fly from New York to be guest speaker.

The dedicatory ceremony will take place on property donated to the Ontario government earlier this year by Canadian author Merrill Denison. Bon Echo rock is a 375-foot cliff rising sheer from the waters of Mazinaw lake.

Work of cleaning the 25 by 20-foot inscription to Whitman carved into the rock face 30 years ago by Mr. Denison's mother, got under way yesterday. A man using a wire brush is cleaning away 30 years' growth of lichens which has covered much of the original carving.

Boldest words in the inscription are its three-foot high title "Old Walt".

CBC radio and television will carry broadcasts of the ceremony. The CBC's radio coverage will be forwarded to the "Voice of America" for transmission on its international network.

Police Blotter

Crime has gone literally underground in the city in recent days and last night was no exception.

City police on night duty were given a quiet time by the city's criminal element. However, the usual number of drunks and quarrelsome citizens combined to keep the policeman's lot a busy, albeit routine one.

Provincial police also reported nothing of major interest occurred during the nightwatch.

Rotarians Give Full Account Of Rotary Chicago Convention

STIRLING—Dr. Ralph Vandervoort, past president of Stirling Rotary club, recently gave a picture of the trip to Chicago and the initial sessions of Rotary International, while on Tuesday evening, president-elect George Noble completed the picture with his account. The two speakers said Chicago gave a tremendous welcome to the golden anniversary of Rotary International. There were vivid posters and various decorations everywhere.

The host club convention committee planned all the details for Rotarians and their ladies. Sixty-four countries and regions were represented and all this large group was made welcome in the city where Rotary was born.

Rotary badges were seen everywhere. True, there were many different classifications but all had Rotary in common, and each found by working together, the meaning of service as well as a delightful experience of friendship.

MUSICAL PRELUDE

On Sunday evening, there was a musical prelude with the 120-piece Chicago Symphony orchestra, and 100 voices of Variety Glee club. These two groups presented a lively program of classical and popular music, which culminated in "Elgar's Pomp and Circumstance" and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic".

"The House of Friendship" was situated in the ball room of Hotel Sherman. Here a large birthday cake was fashioned from papier-mache with 50 golden candles and on the top a 15-foot Rotary wheel with a transparent globe of the world. Hundreds of Rotary club banners were displayed and all of these had been at some time or other presented to Chicago Rotary by overseas Rotarians and these banners depicted the true internationality of Rotary.

On Monday evening, a large cast of singers and dancers presented a colorful pageant which all enjoyed.

The convention sessions were held in "The Chicago Stadium", which was colorfully decorated for this great occasion.

The pageant presented a special scene of 1905 and a Rotary Ball of 1914 and it continued to portray the story of the expansion of Rotary down through the years to the grand finale with the flags of many countries blending together in a rich tapestry of Rotary service, international understanding and world peace.

On Monday, a long list of greetings was read, followed by a welcome from Chicago, which eulogized the young lawyer, Paul P. Harris, the founder, whose birthplace was in Illinois.

Later that day, Jean Harris, widow of Rotary's founder, spoke briefly and was presented with a lovely bouquet.

The election of officers was also featured and the new president is A. Z. Baker, Cleveland, Ohio.

Thirty-one clubs of Arkansas sponsored the "Hot Springs High School Trojan Chorus".

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

President Herbert Taylor read a message from Dwight D. Eisenhower, president of the United States, which said in part: "Your great organization with its nearly 9000 clubs in 90 countries is making an outstanding contribution toward world peace through the promotion of international good will."

Another letter was read from Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth, conveying warm greetings.

The president announced that a new club had just been organized in Blantyre - Limbe Nyasaland, and just recently a new club had been admitted in the Belgian Congo, at Leopoldville and another at Ankara, Turkey, the first in those two countries. The total at that time then stood at 91.

The Saskatchewan Golden Jubilee choir of Regina, directed by Neil Harris, presented a series of selections which included, "The Maple Leaf Forever", and "America the Beautiful".

SPECIAL MEETINGS

Special Friendship Meetings were held on Tuesday in four hotels, each devoted to a vast area which took in Asia, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa, Europe, North Africa, and the western Mediterranean region, South and Central America, Mexico and Antilles.

The third session was based on "Fifty Years of Community Service", and many folks testified to the value of a service club and how they had been helped individually.

Twenty-two students from "The Spaulding School in Chicago", demonstrated square dances and other folk numbers, and all who took part were victims of polio, cerebral palsy, dislocated hips, and tuberculosis of the spine.

The Hon. Lester B. Pearson, Canadian Secretary of State of External Affairs, spoke of the great need of international thinking and eulogized the friendship between Canada and the United States.

SPECIAL ENTERTAINMENT

On Wednesday evening, the special entertainment was "The Cavalcade of Show Business." At the fourth plenary session it was announced that the Rotary club of Addis Ababa, capital city of Ethiopia, had been admitted. This made a grand total of 92 clubs and there will be great rejoicing when the one hundred mark is reached.

The past president, his wife and family, also the new president, his wife and family, were formally presented to the group.

In President Taylor's address, he said in part: "We are living in the most perilous days of all human history." He urged faithful devotion to the club and above all good leadership.

The newly-elected president, A. Z. Baker, challenged each Rotarian to ever remember the simple deeds of thoughtful, helpful service and he sincerely hoped that this great organization would spread to more countries and more communities. He predicted a wonderful future for Rotary in the next half century.

The sessions closed with "Till We Meet Again". Mr. Noble attended a special group meeting for the drug business and met men from several other places in the world. Here business problems and questions relating to that particular line of business were discussed.

DENTAL CONCLAVE

Dr. Vandervoort met with a conclave of fellow members of the dental profession.

The Rotary ladies attended various sessions and over 4,000 women attended the fashion show and tea. Here they witnessed a magnificent presentation of Chicago's fashions and furs.

Chartered buses conveyed the delegates and their ladies to and from hotels to Chicago Stadium situated a few miles from the hotels.

Rotary International's first stamp exhibit included 24 large frames of stamp items all displayed in unique style.

Sixteen countries had special golden anniversary stamps and several other countries had on display preliminary designs which they hope to have published later this year.

WORLD-WIDE PUBLICITY

The publicity was world-wide via newspapers, radio and television stations.

Over 7,000 Rotarians and their ladies visited the new headquarters at Rotary International, at Evanston, Ill. Here several well-organized tours were available.

Five hotels entertained for "The Golden Anniversary Ball" and all were filled to overflowing. President Taylor and his wife, Gloria, paid a visit to each hotel, and took part in the dances at each ballroom.

At the golden anniversary Rotary had a total paid registration of 14,294 members from 64 countries.

Messrs. Vandervoort and Noble were each graciously thanked for their interesting account of Rotary International.

TRENTON, (Special.) — Frank Outendyke needed treatment for head injuries at the Trenton Memorial Hospital today after he was thrown from the seat of a horse-drawn mower struck from behind by a car driven by William Herbert Poole, 54, of 116 King Street, Trenton. Later Mr. Outendyke was released and permitted to return to his home at 71 Wall Street, Trenton.

His horse suffered a broken leg and had to be shot and removed from the span in order that traffic could be moved through town normally again. Traffic was slowed down for two hours when the one lane on the bridge was blocked. The tie-up paralyzed car and truck lines as far east as the town limits and west to Firhurst Manor hill.

Veterinary Dr. Glynne Jones administered a sedative to the injured animal before Constable Bruce Westfall disposed of it.

Police estimated damage to the mower at $60. The front fender and grill of the car were damaged to the extent of $250 police figure.

The unusual accident occurred at 7 a.m. when both the mower and the car were moving east across the bridge in the same direction. Local police investigated.

TRUCK MOUNTS CURB

A vehicle belonging to Reliable Transport Company broke loose from a town truck early yesterday mounting the curb at the corner of Dundas Street and Lorne Avenue causing only minor damage to property owned by Jack Bedal, York Road west of Trenton. Robert Chadwick, 185 Perry Street, Cobourg, was the driver of the tow truck.

SUSTAINS ABRASIONS

David Hanorahan, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Hanorahan, 19 Water Street, Trenton, received abrasions on his left hand yesterday when a bicycle he was riding at the Division and King Streets intersection was in collision with a car driven by Lena Bush of Frankford.

JET CRASH VICTIMS

F/L. Douglas Bing of Trenton, Ont., was one of two RCAF fliers killed in T-33 jet trainer crash near Belleville, Ont. A few minutes before the fatal plunge into a marsh, Bing had radioed the Trenton station tower that he was in trouble.

F/O. Herbert Collin of London, Ont., died in the plunge that carried the T-33 plane deep into the marsh near Belleville. The plane nosedived into the ground then burst into flames.

Garden Party Upsets Plans Of Queen Elizabeth

LONDON (CP)—A royal garden party, at which some 35 Canadian debutantes will be presented to the Queen, has upset the timetable for a royal race meeting.

The garden party is July 14, and the Queen's presence at Buckingham Palace is essential. So the program of events for the Royal Ascot meeting, previously moved from June into July because of the railway strike, had to be revamped.

Now the Ascot gold cup will be run July 13 instead of July 14, enabling the Queen to be present.

The change means that the gold cup and the Royal Hunt cup, another famous event, will be run on the same day.

Inquest Planned Into Shooting

MONTREAL (CP) — An inquest was scheduled for today into the death of 60-year-old Fernando Gratton, prosperous St. Jerome district farmer whose body was found near his home Tuesday, riddled by a shotgun blast.

Held as a material witness was the victim's 56-year-old widow, brought to police headquarters here from the Laurentian town.

A provincial police spokesman said Tuesday night there was "good reason to believe" the fatal wounds were self-inflicted.

Canadian Skipper Killed in Fall

OSWEGO, N. Y. (AP)—A Canadian ship captain was found dead on a dock Tuesday night, and police said he apparently suffered a fractured skull in a fall from a ship's ladder.

He was Capt. Douglas R. Strachan, 47, of Toronto, skipper of the Collier, owned by Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd.

The ship docked here Tuesday night for a load of coal for Cornwall, and was being shifted at the dock when the body was found.

Police said it appeared Strachan had been going up a ladder to the ship when he slipped and fell.

RCAF to Inspect Metal Objects Spotted in North

WINNIPEG (CP) — An RCAF Otter will fly today to a small northwestern Ontario lake to determine whether several shiny metal objects spotted by a civilian plane are parts of a missing American aircraft.

The pilot and two men in the Otter will land on the unnamed lake, hiking about three-quarters of a mile to a spot where the objects were sighted Tuesday by Dean Starratt of Starratt Transportation Co., Ltd., of Hudson, Ont.

RCAF headquarters here said the objects sighted in bush country about 20 miles west of Sioux Lookout, resembled tail parts of a Beech Bonanza, the type of plane which disappeared last Wednesday with two men aboard while on a flight from Kapuskasing to Kenora. The craft was piloted by Charles Day of Short Hills, N. J., and carried as passenger, Douglas M. Haines, general tourist agent for the CPR at Montreal.

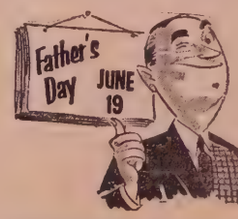
Higher Tariff On Potatoes Being Studied

OTTAWA (CP) — The tariff board has taken under advisement arguments for and against higher tariffs on imported potatoes and will report to the government in about two months.

The board Tuesday ended a two-day hearing on a reference from Finance Minister Harris for an inquiry on potato tariffs. Mr. Harris said in a letter to the board the government received many requests for higher protection on Canadian-produced potatoes.

Board chairman H. B. McKinnon said about two months will be needed to prepare recommendations to the government.



Potato growers, represented by the Canadian Horticultural Council, proposed higher tariffs to protect the Canadian industry.

Mrs. H. E. Vautelet of Montreal, president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, opposed any increased tariff on the ground it would bring higher prices for consumers.

Production Higher

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's gross national product rose to a high of $5,658,000,000 in the first three months of 1955 and the bureau of statistics estimated today that if it continues at that rate it will reach a record $25,000,000 for the full year.

WATER SAFETY WEEK

Next week is Water Safety Week.

The timing is appropriate.

True, for several week-ends past there have been long lists of drownings added to the usual toll of traffic accidents. The drowning season, however, is just starting.

Water safety precautions are needed at all seasons of the year, each season bringing its own particular type of hazard. But at no time of the year are so many people concerned with the need of water safety as in the weeks which lie immediately ahead. The vacation season sees more Ontario residents swimming and boating than at any other period.

"Splash," official newsletter of the Water Safety Services of the Ontario Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society, in its latest issue features several tips on water safety.

Among them are the following:

"Always wear a life jacket when you're in a boat; then in case of an accident you will not sink, you'll float."

"Never overload the boat."

"He wouldn't bother to learn to swim; an upset boat was the end of him."

"Never swim alone."

"Avoid horse-play."

"Don't dive in before you know the water is clear and safe below."

Good advice all. To them might be added a dozen more cautionary statements. But all such advice can be covered in a few general rules. Use common sense and never take an unnecessary chance. Learn as much as you can about boating and boats, about swimming and about life-saving and resuscitation methods. If an emergency arises, don't panic.

Particular caution ought to be observed by those who know a little about boating or swimming. Beginners generally have sense enough to know that they cannot handle a boat expertly, or that swimming in rough water or far from shore is not for them. Experts are experts by the very reason of the respect with which they always treat the water. Those who are bad risks afloat, whether in a boat or in a swimming suit, are not so much those who do not know and know they do not know, or those who know and know they know, but those who do not know and who think they do know. Beware of them. The life they lose is not always their own.

GEIGER COUNTERS FOR SALE

"More and more Canadians are utilizing their vacations, week-ends by prospecting for uranium—many are succeeding," reads an advertisement for a geiger counter, (only $139.95).

This particular advertisement appeared in a Vancouver paper, but since the advertiser is a department store doing a nation-wide business the "ad" has probably been duplicated in many other papers.

Nothing was said about easy terms. Nor do we expect that the firm will offer the gadget with no down payment and no monthly payments until the first dividend check is paid by the purchaser's new uranium mine. Nevertheless, sales may well prove brisk. Uranium hunting has caught the fancy of many Americans. It is only a matter of time before its popularity is matched this side of the border.

All this has interesting implications. Does this spell the doom of such summer resorts as Wasaga Beach, where thousands of Toronto residents have become accustomed to bake in the sand every summer? The Muskoka district will probably do fairly well. But obviously, if uranium hunting supplants fishing and swimming as the favorite vacation-time sport, the Highlands of Hastings are going to strike it rich, in tourist dollars if not in uranium. The Bancroft area is not the only part of the province where uranium deposits have been located, but it is certainly one of the uranium fields most easily accessible from the larger centres of population, being within easy driving distance of Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal.

If vacation styles change, somebody will get richer, but somebody is also certain to feel the pinch. What will the uranium hunting craze do to the manufacturers of fishing rods and swimming suits? Will boat-makers and outboard motor manufacturers see their revenue cut, or can you mount a geiger counter on the bow of your boat and "troll" for uranium?

If fishing goes out of style, it is going to be rather rough on folks who like to eat fish. But at least you do not have to clean a rock sample.

WHERE ARE THE WOMEN?

For the second straight election in Ontario, no women were elected.

Main reason for this situation is that the Progressive Conservative party nominated no women as candidates—and a candidate had at least two strikes on him (or her) last week unless the Progressive Conservative label was firmly attached.

It is to be hoped that the Progressive Conservatives remedy this situation come the next election.

The late Miss Agnes Macphail was a remarkable woman—but there appears to be no sound reason why she should go down in history as the last woman to be a member of the Ontario Legislature as well as the first woman to be a member of the House of Commons. Miss Macphail would have been the first to congratulate the woman who relieves her of the former distinction.

SUPPLIES UNLIMITED

The army buys it by the ton.
We buy it by the pound,
And when our evening meal is done
What steak we had is downed.
Sufficient for a small supply
Our ice box space appears;
But we can't keep, if we could buy,
Enough for forty years.

We order cereal by the box
And bacon by the slice.
We have no room for massive stocks,
Although they would be nice.

We must be thrifty shoppers now.
There's nothing we can waste.
Stored forty years, I wonder how
Canned hamburger would taste?

Upon perpetual food supplies
The army must depend.
For everlasting cakes and pies
It can afford to spend.
To buy a million loaves of bread
For us would be too dear.
To eat them, forty years ahead,
Maybe we won't be here.

Bumble Bee Goes on Spree

(Montreal Star)

Rimsky-Korsakov wrote a tune about it and somebody a poem, but had the composer and the poet, alike inspired by the flight of the bumble bee, observed what is going on in many gardens where combines are now at their best we doubt that either would have committed himself.

For we regret to report that once again the bumble bee, ordinarily most exemplary of mothers, is on her annual combine nectar jag. What there is about it we naturally do not know, but a clump of columbines, now in full beauty, has upon the bumble bee the devastating effect of a barful of free drinks upon a chronic alcoholic.

We have watched the downward path of many a besotted addict her flight from blossom to blossom growing more irregular, her probing for the fatal draught more difficult but always determined. As the debauch proceeds more and more legs are required to maintain her grip. She may fall out bodily, but while a glimmer of consciousness remains, "another li'l drink won't do us any harm" is her motto.

Sooner or later the inevitable happens. The wretched sot lands up on her fat and furry back on the ground, dead to the world, an object of scandal and contempt to her relative, that sea-green incorruptible — the honey bee. She is delivered from this temptation by the fact that her snoot (or whatever you call it) is not long enough to work with columbines.

In time the miserable victim of intemperance wakes up, no doubt with a terrible hangover, and weaves off to beat up her crying children in some hole or other. We shall not press the moral of this sad tale. Any creature that lives the life of a bumble bee is in our opinion entitled to go on a bender sometimes. And the columbine season is so sadly short.

Crime Wave A Blessing?

(Vancouver Province)

United States' ignorance of Canadian fault, says Tania Long, wife and assistant of Raymond Daniell, the New York Times' chief correspondent at Ottawa. "You're just too good neighbors," says Miss Long, "you ujst don't have enough bad news," meaning news that would make headlines in the U.S.

This is an entirely new outlook which all Canadians, and the tourist bureau especially, should consider seriously. Here we've been worrying about our crime wave. Perhaps we should have been rejoicing.

"Four Drug Conspirators Slain in Vancouver." Now that would make the U.S. papers.

"Bank Bandits Slay Two, Escape With $140,000." That ought to carry us as far afield as New York and New Orleans.

A few bad hotel fires would help, too, and a couple of hurricanes, and one or two mass murderers. There's nothing like a really good mass murderer.

It is sad, but there it is. Virtue never gets a good press. A man can serve his family and his nation with a lifetime of love and labor and loyalty. And he may go to heaven for it. But he'll never make the big black type.

Only 32 Sleighs Bought in Year

(Ottawa Journal)

Although it's an odd time of year to bring the matter up the Dominion Bureau of Statistics tells us this week that in 1953 only 32 horse-drawn sleighs were shipped to purchasers compared to 169 sleighs in the previous year. Those in Ottawa who recall the incidence of sleighs here 50 years ago will also remember that in the depth of winter in say 1905 one could see 32 sleighs within a block or two in the downtown area. Of course there was very little snow-removal in those times although the sidewalks and the lines of the old Ottawa Electric Railway were kept plowed.

The horse-drawn sleigh 50 years ago was the keystone arch of winter transportation from the Maritimes to the Pacific. And while snow conditions on the streets were such as would be branded as intolerable in these days of vast mechanical devices for clearing away snow and ice no one seemed to be worried about it. On week-days in this city the snow-deep streets would be dotted with fleets of horse-drawn sleighs hauling groceries, meat and other commodities to customers. Huge loads of wood—a favored fuel in those times—would be delivered on double sleighs hauled by heavy draft horses straining at their collars. The sleigh in winter was every bit as essential as the wheel in summer.

It was on Sundays half a century ago that the sleigh in Ottawa soared to the zenith of its glory. Those owned by well-off families would emerge from the stables and coach-houses, washed and polished mirror-like, their seats lined with bear or buffalo robes. Above the sleigh proper on the driver's seat was the lordly coachman with tall conical bearskin hat and cloak— and sometimes beside him was a footman as well. Horses blew steam from their nostrils and silver bells jingled from the top of the horses' collars and from the shafts. These were the flagships of the fleet of horse-drawn sleighs and cutters in the Sunday morning church parades.

Thirty-two sleighs for all Canada, indeed! In Ottawa's good—and rugged—old days, any respectable church would have more than that encircling it on a Sunday.

Hands Off Hansard!

(Kitchener-Waterloo Record)

Hansard, that expensive stenographic and printing service that is suppsed to record exactly what the members say in the House of Commons is being abused.

Sometimes members express themselves forcefully in the House and when they see the words in actual print they soften them down. The latest case is that of William Hamilton, PC member for Notre-Dame-de-Grace, Montreal, who ured the expression "barnacles on the backside of progress."

Hansard rporters are exact. Their work should be accepted and not changed so that the record may be accurate. If a member feels he has been misquoted, which occurs rarely, he should deny it in the House and have it recorded in Hansard as he explains it. He should not be allowed to "doctor" it for public consumption. Is not Hansard there to give Canadians an unexpurgated account of House debates?

Political Curves

(Sudbury Star)

Most elected representatives like to keep the record straight, but there are always some with an eye for curves.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In describing a man to me, an honest political acquaintance of mine said:

"Half the time; he is a hundred per cent right. But half the time, he is a hundred per cent wrong."

The mathematics of that statement requires certain study. But its meaning is beautifully clear. It describes as few other phrases do an ever-increasing number of us in this overloaded generation. Never in human experience has it been so necessary to know so many things, and never so impossible for us to know all that is available to us. The result is that steadily increasing numbers of us, distended to capacity by what we have to know, are going about in profound ignorance of what our neighbors are distended with. In some measure, we are all steadily becoming strangers to one another. It is a common thing to be shocked at the ignorance of others. But it is not their ignorance alone that is shocking. It is their apparent incapacity to hold more. They are full up.

Our big brains, in education, in sociology, keep reassuring us that this is the age of specialization. They agree there is too much for any one man to learn in the present era. Therefore, we must specialize. Our schools begin to specialize before a child has passed the entrance. In high school specialization is in full force. At the colleges and universities, we find large communities of young men and women desperately pursuing, to the loud applause of the industrial and commercial lords and barons, courses of specialized learning which may have already turned the colleges into towers of Babel.

It can only go so far, of course. If they have already proved the limited capacity of the human mind by the general acceptance of specialization, the normal reaction to that will be to accept those limitations and return to the good old days of classical education in which the character rather than the content of the mind will be paramount. Our grandsons will be majoring in courses of despecialization.

Long-Term Governments

(Toronto Globe and Mail)

The Liberal Government which was re-elected in Prince Edward Island has held power for twenty years; and if it runs its full term, will have held power for twenty-five. The remarkable thing about this is that it is not remarkable. Nova Scotia has had a Liberal Government for twenty-two years; and in Manitoba, a Liberal Progressive Government is still going strong after thirty-three years in office. (It needs six more years to equal the record 1897 to 1936 — set by the Liberals in Quebec.)

The Social Credit Government now seeking re-election in Alberta has held power for twenty years. The Socialist Government of Saskatchewan, and the Union Nationale Government of Quebec, both marking their eleventh anniversary. Ontario's Conservatives have been twelve years in office. And finally there is the Liberal Government at Ottawa, which on October 14 will pass the twenty-year mark.

Excluding Newfoundland (which was under Commission Government before entering Confederation in 1949) only two of Canada's Governments have been unseated within recent years. In 1952, after seventeen years under a Liberal regime, New Brunswick went Conservative. The same year, British Columbia elected a Social Credit Government in place of the Coalition one which had ruled it for eleven years.

How are these long tenures of office to be explained? Have the various Governments concerned ruled so well and so wisely that any change is unthinkable? We do not believe so. It seems to us there are two reasons for the longevity of present-day Governments in Canada. One is that Canadians have had sixteen years of war and postwar prosperity. Comfortable, and indeed complacent, they have been in no mood for upsetting political applecarts.

The other reason is that longevity tends to breed longevity. When Governments change every few years, the Opposition parties remain alert, hopeful and well organized. Their turn will come again. But when Governments do not change, when they are returned in election after election, the Opposition parties are in danger of losing heart. They drift from one leader to another. Worse yet, they try to imitate what seems to them the successful platform of the party in office. This is the biggest error of all; losing their character and personality, they no longer present a real alternative to the party in office, and so there is no point in voting for them.

Opposition parties in all Provinces, and at Ottawa itself, will best serve themselves and the electorate by presenting (however hopeless it may appear) real alternatives. The time must come — it always has — when people want a change. And in any event, Governments in office especially Governments long entrenched, should be constantly under criticism from Oppositions which know what they are about.

New Canadian Kissed Ballot

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

We are told that a new Canadian, in a municipal election in Toronto, on the occasion of his first opportunity to vote in his new country, openly kissed the ballot before marking it. This is what the ballot meant to a man who had been for so long without freedom and without the right to vote.

Perhaps there is a lesson here for some of us 'older' Canadians. Perhaps if more of us thought enough of th ballot teo want to kiss it, it would be a better thing for our country, our province and our municipality.

Don't Be Flummoxed By Arthritis

Back in the era of honest medicine—before practice was converted from a profession to a business — medical authorities recognized two kinds of chronic (long lasting) joint trouble, namely, chronic rheumatism and arthritis deformans (sometimes called rheumatoid arthritis).

The foremost medical authority (Osler) opined that "exposure to wet and damp" was a "possible exciting cause" of arthritis deformans, whereas he stated that chronic rheumatism was "most common among the poor, particularly washerwomen, day laborers, and those whose occupation exposes them to cold and damp."

Obviously, if I may say so, the old-time medical authorities didn't know what they were talking about.

If they were flummoxed when there was only chronic rheumatisms and rheumatoid arthritis to elucidate, they had only to blame everything on "cold and damp." Medical authorities today write learnedly about a dozen or more "joint diseases the etiology" ($1.98 word for cause) "of which is not specifically known" as well as another dozen joint diseases the cause of which is known—such as gonorrheal, pneumococcal or tuberculous arthritis. One authority of the present day lists all these "arthritides" in his book, but doesn't mention the rheumatiz (chronic rheumatism) at all.

Joint disease caused by invasion of joint tissues by the tubercle bacillus, streptococcus, pneumococcus or brucella (undulant fever germ), is inflammation and may therefore be called arthritis.

Joint disease of unknown cause should not be called "arthritis" unless the purpose is to flummox the patient, keep the poor geek thinking one knows what ails him. The well-flummoxed patient is a good customer for endless "shots," the latest miracle medicines, freak diets, fancy baths, visits to spas, snake oil or gold and sodium chloride treatment.

Joint disability of slow insidious development and long duration (over a year) is in most instances not inflammation (little or no heat, pain, redness, swelling—calor, dolar, rubor, tumor—the classical signs of inflammation), hence not arthritis, but physical degeneration of joint tissues due to malnutrition (nutritional deficiency) through the years from childhood on. This is merely my belief, opinion or notion, remember.

Physical degeneration of the joint tissues is too cumbersome a name for it, so I propose to call it simply rheumatiz—but please, please, old-timers, don't associate rheumatiz with weather, season, climate, geography or exposure to cold and dampness.

Furthermore it is my belief, opinion or notion that the degeneration process is reversible if taken in time. I tell you how to have a good try at reversing it—into physical regeneration. I believe that is precisely what happens when victims of rheumatiz make the happy recoveries they tell me about.

Strength for the Day

HAPPINESS HAS TO BE WON

What is the worst thing in the world that one can teach a child?

The worst thing one can teach a child is that the child has a right to expect that life will be easy on him. If he gets this idea into his mind early enough, he will make himself the affliction of all those who have to be associated with him in the decades which follow. If his whole life is centered about the conviction that the pathway must always be kept smooth before his feet, he will bedevil wife and children, quarrel with his associates, and worst of all be continually on the outs with himself.

Life is a struggle, and let us never delude ourselves with any false teaching to the contrary. above all, let us not ruin the lives of children by indoctrinating them with the idea of continuous happiness is their right. The Declaration of Independence put the matter cogently when it said that among men's inalienable rights are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. The Declaration does not guarantee happiness to people, it guarantees them the right to pursue happiness; and this is a quite different matter.

Nobody can give us happiness. We have to go through birth agonies to achieve it.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

COMFORTABLE PEOPLE

During these times of stress, confusion, fear and worry the most wonderful remedy for each one of us is to make habitual our associations with those who make us comfortable and restful while with them.

I have friends with whom it is a delight to be. I like to dine with them for I know I shall not have to listen to idle chatter or conversation of no meaning or interest. That "comfortable" friend may sit with me throughout an entire meal, saying almost nothing, but each of us has been happy to be together. I know that with such people there is something mentally and spiritually going on though few words have been spoken.

I like certain friends to come to my home for they don't make me feel I must entertain them. It's their home, as well as mine, while they are guests. Comfortable people, who take joy in one's books, garden and interests. Visits from such ones always seem all too short. A certain spirit is left behind!

The story is told of Tennyson and Carlyle, who were close friends. They would visit back and forth, but at times little was spoken between them. There was mutuality as each sat and smoked his pipe. I have an idea that much silent understanding went on, however, until one or the other would get up to express he delight for the evening and then say his "Good Night!"

It is such a joy to have comfortable people around. They are so full of understanding and they seem to have been created for friendly purposes. It is to them we like to tie as a permanent arrangement. They seem to smooth things out for us whenever we are privileged to meet and talk. And when we are separated, something treasurable lingers.

Jury Finds Former Tax Collector Guilty of Theft, Sentence Monday

A verdict of guilty with a plea for leniency was returned here Tuesday afternoon by a Hastings county petit jury in the trial of LeRoy Woods, 37, former Sidney township tax collector charged with the theft of township tax money.

Trial Judge G. F. Smith said he would pronounce sentence Monday, June 20th, at the opening of the morning court session. Meanwhile bail of $2,000 will be renewed.

Maximum sentence faced by Woods is 14 years.

The Woods trial lasted seven days with a total of 29 witnesses being called by Crown Counsel C. O. Savage, Q.C., and J. D. O'Flynn, defence counsel. The Crown submitted that Woods had taken approximately $15,000 in township tax money during the years 1946 until 1951 when he was tax collector for the township.

The defence closed its case Monday evening after the accused had been on the stand all day. Tuesday saw argument from both counsel, and Judge Smith's charge to the jury. The jury went out shortly before the noon recess and returned their verdict when court resumed following lunch.

The jury returned to the court room after the noon recess to ask direction from the judge. The jury wanted to know if a plea of guilty was returned could there be a recommendation for leniency; also if grounds for their verdict need be stated.

Judge Smith's answer to the first question was "Yes" and to the second "No".

The jury then filed out again to their jury room and returned almost immediately with their verdict.

BAIL ALLOWED

The matter of bail being granted to an accused following conviction drew mild objection from Mr. Savage who said this was very unusual procedure. Judge Smith said, however, that it had been done and noted that bail for Woods would be allowed.

During his argument Defence Counsel O'Flynn submitted that the Crown had failed to prove its case against his client.

He said he did not deny that mistakes had been made but contended the township system had been to blame. He contended the work of tax collector simply got out of hand and his client had not been able to handle it.

"This man was a victim of circumstances," Mr. O'Flynn said. "He did not receive proper training nor did he receive any instruction as tax collector."

Crown Counsel Savage in his argument stressed that the mistakes of others were no excuse for the accused.

He said it had been unfortunate that Mr. George Shortt, former township auditor, had been called to the stand, but pointed out that he had failed to send out verification notices for arrears of taxes. He said the evidence had shown Mr. Shortt's annual audits were of little use.

Mr. Savage submitted that the $15,000 shortage would have little effect on the township finances in view of the fact that during the six year period over $600,000 in taxes had been collected. After Mr. Shortt had made the mistake of crediting Mr. Woods twice with an $11,000 item, Woods had produced a number of tax stubs which he had been holding back and entered them on the roll. "It's as simple as that," he submitted.

COUNSEL COMMENDED

Commencing his charge to the jury Judge Smith commended both counsel on the preparation of their cases. Mr. Savage, he said, had spent countless hours in preparation, while Mr. O'Flynn had defended his client to the best of his ability.

He reminded the jury they should not allow sympathy, sentiment or prejudice to sway them in arriving at their verdict.

He told the jury they must determine whether there had been a theft committed and whether the accused had anything to do with it. What was more important, they must decide whether there was intent.

Judge Smith referred to the submission of defence counsel that any shortage must come from the township administration account. He did not agree with this and said the jury must consider the overall picture. Evidence had been that during Mr. Woods' term as tax collector the township surplus had dropped from $40,000 to $25,000, and that approximately $9,000 less had been turned over to the county than had been collected for county purposes.

The matter of interest collected on tax arrears was a substantial one. The jury must decide whether failure to report interest on the tax rolls after it had been collected as part of a scheme or whether it had been an honest mistake.

Judge Smith said he had been impressed with the way in which the accused had given his evidence saying that it had been given "in a very satisfactory manner."

Reference was made to Mr. Neal and Mr. Blake, both experienced auditors who had made lengthy investigations, and questioned whether the evidence of Mr. Shortt should be put up against theirs.

NOT COMPETENT CLAIM

"With all due respects, Mr. Shortt is an honorable and honest man, but he has a faulty memory and is not a competent auditor."

"We cannot blame Mr. Shortt. Possibly we should blame the department for allowing men of his calibre to audit. Mr. Shortt tried to do what was right but he did not have sufficient knowledge."

Judge Smith noted that the system of tax collections in Sidney township was faulty, but in this Sidney was not alone. This was not because of the calibre of the men in council, but "because they will not do what the department says they must do, and it is the same with the collector."

He asked if the system was to blame could all the blame be placed there. He noted the reason Mr. Shortt had not found the trouble was because he had not sent out verification notices with respect to tax arrears for past years.

Before discharging the jury, Judge Smith commended them in the discharge of their duties.

"You have performed your duty splendidly," he said. "The trial was fairly long, yet you wasted no time in bringing in your verdict."

Following discharge of the jury Crown Counsel Savage moved for sentence and to a question from Judge Smith whether the accused had any record, replied he was aware of none.

Defence Counsel O'Flynn submitted that in view of the plea for leniency on the part of the jury a suspended sentence was in order.

Although Judge Smith said he would make no comment on the verdict he informed the jury that he did not see how they could have done otherwise. He said he appreciated their plea for leniency and although he had given some thought to sentence in view of the plea for leniency, said he would like to reconsider before passing sentence. He accordingly deferred sentence until Monday.

Dedication Service for Doors, Bell in Cannifton Church

Recently Cannifton United church held a special service for the purpose of dedicating the church bell which had been placed in the tower of the church soon after it was built over 100 years ago.

About fifty years ago, the tower and the weight of the bell was considered unsafe, so was taken down, and for nearly half a century the bell was stored on the church premises. The question of restoring the bell to the church services was brought up at congregational meetings from time to time, until some months ago, when a meeting of the congregation was called to consider the matter again. At this meeting it was decided to take steps to find out the cost of replacing the bell, also ways of raising money for the project. At the same meeting a committee was appointed to carry out the decision. The committee worked enthusiastically and co-operatively, with the result that the fond wish of many members was realized in a remarkably short time in the replacement of the bell. When the preparations and installations were completed, it was considered appropriate to hold a dedicatory service, to mark its restoration to the services of the church.

TWO DOORS DEDICATED

Together with the dedication of the bell, was the dedication, of the two new beautifully grained oak doors, at the entrance of the church. At an appropriate time in the service, Mrs. W. I. Cole, gave an interesting account of the early history of the bell, and changes made in the church's facilities. She also explained to the congregation how the beautiful new doors became available to the church, through the gift of Mrs. Will Drury of Toronto, who so generously sent a substantial cheque in loving memory of her father and mother, the late Mr. and Mrs. R. Rosevear, who were devoted members and workers in Cannifton church. Mrs. Rosevear was organist and choir leader for some time.

Mr. Don Williams, the enthusiastic leader of the bell committee, then proceeded to give an account of the restoration of the bell, enumerating the various steps taken by the bell committee, to bring about the restoration of the near century old bell to the service of the church. He thanked every organization of the church for their splendid financial response in meeting fully the expenses incurred in the project, and warmly thanked the members of his committee.

PROCEEDED TO VESTIBULE

The pastor, Rev. W. R. Merrick together with the bell committee, and members of session, then proceeded to the vestibule to carry out the ceremony of dedication. At this part of the service, Psalm 24, was read in unison by the congregation, then the dedicatory prayers of the "doors" and "bell" were offered by the pastor. The congregation stood in reverend silence as the bell pealed forth its message of restoration. Immediately following the Doxology was sung.

Following this the pastor, told an appropriate story of the "Saving influence of the ringing of a church bell."

During the service special numbers were rendered by the choir, including a beautiful solo, "Open the Gates of the Temple", sung with great expression by Mr. Cyril Magor and Mrs. Fred Furmidge sang very effectively "Bless This House O Lord We Pray".

Mrs. H. Farnham presided at the organ in her usual capable manner.

Budding Talent Heard in Piano, Vocal Recital at Albert College

There should be no scarcity of musicians in Belleville among the coming generation to judge by the budding talent heard in recital at Albert College Memorial chapel on Tuesday evening. The quality of the performance was of a high calibre, attesting to the fact that much practise and perseverance on the part of the pupils, and patience and persistence on perfection on the part of the instructors had gone into an effort to produce a fine concert. The piano pupils had studied with Bessie Handley and Egerton Boyce.

White peonies and ferns had been arranged at the rostrum to give a floral background to the piano, and they ranged from little tots whose feet could not yet reach the pedals to more mature and seasoned performers.

The students of expression taught by Greta Morden added variety to the program, and their fine character delineations were given with true dramatic effect.

Several excellent vocal soloists, the pupils of Egerton Boyce showed great promise with their selections in a nice variation of sacred and secular presentations. Mr. Boyce acted as accompanist at the piano, and at the organ when Mrs. Rollins sang "My Redeemer and My Lord".

Perhaps it is hardly fair to pick one number from among some thirty-eight, but there is something about a young boy's clear soprano voice that is thrilling, and Peter van Everdingen, now a year older since his last appearance at the musical recitals still has the vibrant vocal quality and happy smile that charms an audience.

In greeting the visitors, Rev. A. E. MacKenzie, Principal of the school, expressed gratitude to the young people and their teachers who made these recitals possible, and invited everyone to attend the next recital on June 27.

God Save the Queen was sung with Egerton Boyce at the organ and Mrs. Boyce at the piano.

The performers appeared in the following order:

Woman Makes "Fair" Profit At Prospecting

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Mrs. Rita (Wally) Bolduc of Port Arthur, mother of a 12-year-old son, has joined the latest northern Ontario claims-staking rush — and she's making a "fair" profit at it.

Within a few months, Mrs. Bolduc, a registered nurse who hikes over the rocky terrain in hob-nail boots and warm bush clothes, staked seven claims in one area "just for practice."

With her husband, proprietor of a tire sales firm here, and her son Dave, she staked 15 more claims in another district. Both these areas are in good copper and nickel country and Mrs. Bolduc says she will work in them during the summer.

LOVELORN ADVICE to the

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HOW ONE WIFE HANDLES AN UNTIDY HUSBAND

Now here is a woman I like!

She writes to me to comment on letter she saw recently in my column from a Mrs. H.W. who declared she was married "to the untidiest man in the whole world."

After going into some detail on just how untidy her husband is, and asserting that she is "sick to death of picking up after him," Mrs. H.W. asked: "What can I do before I go crazy?"

So now this other woman has a suggestion to make to Mrs. H.W. which has grown out of her own experience.

"How can you cure an untidy man?" she says. "Why try?"

Then she goes on:

"Gee, Beatrice Fairfax, I'm so darn tickled to have a man around, even after $2 years, that I don't care if he doesn't hang up anything!

"What if he does leave his trousers on the bedpost? When he does, I think he had such fun working in the garden today!' He works hard all the week making a living for us, and besides it's his home, too. I remember when my friend's husband died, nothing was much different around the house, except that his shaving brush didn't hang in the bathroom any more. It doesn't take long to pick up a towel left in the bathroom, a newspaper dropped by his chair, a soiled shirt on the bedroom floor.

"When I first married, I left a pair of socks by his chair, which he had taken off there, thinking he would pick them up. A month later, they were still there. From then on in, I gave up cheerfully. If we had children, it might have been different; as it is, I like doing everything I can for him. What is it they say?—When you bake a cake, season it with a little bit of love?

"Sure, he irritates me occasionally. But he never says a word about all the things I do that irritate him.

"There's an article called "It's Your Attitude to Life that Matters,' which says that, in your approach to living, 'Yours may be an attitude of rebellion, of submission or of acceptance.' So why not make it an attitude of acceptance —with a smile!"

I said that this is a woman I like. And I do. She sounds to me like a gay, loving, easy-going and remarkably tolerant person who would be a delightful companion for any husband, and a joy for anybody to live with.

I'm not quite sure, though, that I go all the way with her in this matter of "acceptance with a smile" of little impositions some husbands make on their wives—and vice versa, of course—which could be so easily corrected by just a little consideration on the part of the marital mate. I still believe that the wife of an untidy husband should first try the approach I suggest to Mrs. H. W. a few weeks ago, which was that she occasionally—but never nagginglly—ask her husband to be a pal and help keep the home nice by picking up his own things, telling him how much she would appreciate his co-operation.

Of course, if the husband flatly refuses to do his part, or simply ignores such a request, then I'd say "acceptance" is the only answer, if the wife wishes to maintain her serenity.

Have any of my other readers anything they'd like to say on this subject?

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

GOOD LOOKS SLUMP WHEN MORALE IS LOW

It won't do for the middle-aged woman to let her mind dwell on the fact that she is getting older every day and to admit that life no longer offers excitement. That "settled feeling" is devastating.

It robs the face of radiance, slows the step, does away with whatever charm a woman possesses. It is needless and senseless and cowardly. The remedy can be found in interesting work, new projects, pleasant outdoor recreations. If one finds no zest in everyday activities, life is indeed dull. And the ministrations of beauty operators will not restore the bloom of youth.

There are women of seventy who are gay and chipper. They keep their chins up, their bodies erect. Let them be an example to the fifty-year-olds who waste time, then wonder "what it's all about".

Boredom is a beauty wrecker. It is likely to come to a woman whose children have married, and who are leading their own lives. For years it was her job to look after them and, without them, she feels lost.

But if he would only realize it, this is the very time for her to embark on new projects. It is not too late for her to take up certain studies. She can learn a foreign language, go to museums and art exhibits, read interesting books, see the latest movies. At fifty, one isn't old!

Improving her appearance will give such a woman a tremendous lift. Let her go on a grand old beauty binge. A course of facial treatments will give her hints about complexion care and methods of applying make-up. The better that woman in the looking glass looks, the better she will feel.

A chic new hairdo and a brand new outfit will also give her spirit a lift. A new shade of nail polish will make her hands look prettier. A pair of cute red shoes will put her on her toes, and make her feel young again. A new perfume will also do wonders for her morale.

FAMED FLIER DEAD

CAPETOWN (AP)—Air Commodore Perecrine F. M. Fellowes, 72, first man to fly over Mount Everest, died Saturday. He was aide-de-camp to King George V from 1924 to 1929 and was director of the British air ministry's air development section. He made his historic flight over the world's highest peak in 1933.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

GROOM SHOULD INVITE WHOM HE WISHES TO BE HIS BEST MAN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Some "anonymous" advice, please, Mrs. Beeckman! My only brother and I had always planned to be best man for each other, but now it is going to be impossible for him to return from overseas service for my wedding in October. When I got this news I decided to ask my college roomate, who was my best friend in college and has been ever since, to be my best man. Last evening when I told this plan to my fiancee she certainly dashed cold water on it, and insisted that if I couldn't have my brother as my best man, I should have her brother, that is the rule. Is this true? — "Anonymous"

No, sir . . . definitely not true. It is the time-honored privilege and tradition that the bridegroom invite whom he wishes to be his best man . . . generally his brother, or if this is not possible, his "best friend." But you should invite the bride's brother to be one of the ushers, perhaps the head usher since he will know so many of the guests.

FATHER'S NAME FIRST . . . THEN MOTHER'S NAME . . . LAST, CHILD'S NAME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We have one child, a boy of eight. When my husband and I send "vacation picture cards" should I sign them "Madelin, Philip, and Tommy" . . . our son's name last? Several of my friends insist that the child's name should come first. — M.

Your son's name should be written last. And when a child's name is included with the mother's and father's name in a signature, the father's name should come first (the "Mr. and Mrs." order) . . . Philip, Madelin, and Tommy.

ALWAYS THANK FOR A COURTESY, EVEN A SMALL ONE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a man who is a stranger to me stands aside to let me go ahead—for example, in going down the crowded aisle of a movie or concert, or to enter an elevator or revolving door—should I thank him, or just take this for granted? — Irita B.

Of course you should thank for any courtesy, small or large. please make it your habit to thank anyone anywhere for any courteous act . . . this is such a pleasant and gracious habit. A courtesy should never, be "taken for granted."

TO CORRECT PERSON'S MISPRONUNCIATION OF DIFFICULT NAME?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a surname which is not very easy to pronounce. When someone to whom I'm being introduced mispronounces my name, is it rude for me to correct it? — Beatrice M.

It's proper . . . If you tactfully explain "My name is so difficult to pronounce It is—." However, if the introduction is a casual one, and if it's likely that you may not see the person again, the mispronunciation doesn't make any difference, and it's better to let it go.

Life Membership Presented At St. Andrew's

The June meeting of St. Andrew's Missionary Society met in the church with a good attendance of members.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Weir, followed with reports by the secretary, Mrs. Fleming and treasurer, Mrs. Diamond.

A business period followed and correspondence was read.

Mrs. Cummins was elected to the Christian Education committee, filling the vacancy left by Mrs. Brisbin, who is leaving the city.

LIFE MEMBERSHIP PRESENTED

Mrs. Mantle presented a life membership to Mrs. M. Benson, who expressed her thanks and appreciation. This is the second one to be given this year. Mrs. C. Adams had been presented with one at a previous meeting.

Mrs. Craig made a presentation to Mrs. Brisbin, who graciously thanked the society for their gift.

Miss M. Mackintosh and her group took charge of the study period. Mrs. Wallbridge read the Scripture, followed with prayer by Mrs. Moore.

The topic on the study of India was the work done in Christian schools there and also the needs and problems of both schools and teachers. The work of the missionaries has greatly helped and the education of both men and women has furthered the advance in India.

These topics were dealt with by Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Carmichael, Mrs. Shier and Miss Mackintosh.

Mrs. Brisbin favored with a solo, also Hugh Bondy, bronze medallist at the Stirling Festival, which was much enjoyed. They accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Boyce.

After the meeting closed, refreshments were served and a social time spent.

The treasurer's report was read and general business taken care of. It was moved by Mrs. Gair and seconded by Miss Nash that each member donate talent money for the month of July to be handed in at the August meeting. Moved by Mrs. Gray and seconded by Mrs. Sprigings that a bazaar shower be held for the October meeting.

A discussion followed regarding the project for August; definite plans to be made at a later date.

The hostess served tea, assisted by Mrs. Gray and Mrs. Knox.

Canadian Gaspe or Restigouche Salmon

By Mary Moore

If the retail fish merchants in your area do not sell fresh Gaspe or Restigouche salmon when it is in season you are going to be ready to slay me. I am about to give you the most mouth-watering salmon recipes that ever came down the pike (sounds silly doesn't it? Pike and salmon in one mouthful).

Just for the sheer cook's pleasure of it, our family plans a party around a huge hunk of Gaspe salmon—even a whole one. With great ceremony I wrap it in dampened parchment paper with a shake of salt, chopped onion and celery, immerse it in boiling water (in the roaster which is the only elongated kettle I own) put on the lid and let it simmer 15 minutes per inch of thickness—never more than 45 minutes for the thickest piece of salmon though. Let it stand off the heat for about 10 minutes then carefully lift it out onto a large platter.

(This could of course be served hot but my idea today is to give you a cold company supper that will find its way into the diaries of your guests.)

Let salmon cool. When you unwrap it the skin will cling to the parchment leaving a lovely striated surface. Don't disturb the little natural layer of grayish fat. Coat the upper surfaces of the fish with

MAYONNAISE JELLY

Soak 1 teaspoon of gelatin in 1 tablespoon lemon juice 5 minutes. Stand this in another dish containing a little boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Let it cool until it begins to thicken then stir it and 1 tablespoon very finely chopped parsley into 1 cup genuine mayonnaise. Very carefully spread this over the cold fish on its serving platter and chill until mayonnaise is firm.

Now—really let your imagination have its way—garnish lavishly with wedges of tomato and lemon, green and ripe olives, sprigs of watercress — give this lovely dish all the colorful garnish you can summon.

Serve it with tossed green salad, potato salad if you like, crusty French rolls and of course if you serve it this month you have a strawberry shortcake or glazed strawberry pie for dessert.

Are you drooling? I am.

If you have any salmon left over make a salmon and celery salad and moisten it with mayonnaise to which you have added an extra dash of lemon juice and serve it on lettuce cup with sliced tomatoes.

Or make

JELLIED SALMON

One tablespoon gelatin, 1-4-cup cold water, 1 1-2 cups boiling water, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 hard-cooked eggs, 1-8 teaspoon cayenne pepper, 1 cups cooked, flaked salmon, 1-4 cup cooked or canned peas. Soak gelatin in cold water five minutes. Add boiling water, salt, and pepper. Cool. Add flaked fish, peas and sliced hard-cooked eggs. Pour in mold which has been dipped in cold water. Chill in the refrigerator until firm. Unmold and serve on lettuce leaves. Yield: 6 servings.

Friends Honor Young Couple With Gifts

STIRLING.— A large number of folks from the River Valley community as well as neighbors and friends gathered at the spacious home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Bush, on Friday evening in honor of their son, Gerald and his bride.

Mr. Bob Philp was master of ceremonies, and Mr. Jack Bush led the assembly singing. Mrs. George Heasman and daughter, Joanne, contributed a vocal duet. Readings were given by Mrs. Ed. Heasman, Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh, Mrs. Percy Utman, Mrs. Roy Bush, Mrs. Ernest Carr and Mrs. Clifford Lansing. The latter gave "Ten Commandments for a Happy Married Life."

ADDRESS READ

Mrs. George Heasman read an address of appreciation from the community and the newlyweds were presented with a coffee table and a large chesterfield mirror.

Mr. Ed. Heasman read an address on behalf of the charivari gang and presentation was made of matching electric table lamps.

Gerald and Maizie each graciously replied and voiced thanks for the lovely gifts.

Refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

Union Delegates Leave Meeting With GM Officers

TORONTO (CP) —Negotiations involving 8,000 General Motors of Canada workers in four Ontario cities broke down Tuesday when union representatives walked out of the meeting room during an argument over vacations.

The United Auto Workers (CIO-CCL) negotiating committee walked out when the company maintained it should continue to set the annual plant vacation period according to production requirements and not, as the union had demanded, write the holiday close-down into the contract.

Thomas McLean, the union's assistant Canadian director and leader of the UAW's negotiation team, said the company had been stalling in negotiations, that company representatives had been reading long briefs on each minor clause in dispute and had not been bargaining.

A General Motors official said the company is prepared to meet the union again when the union requests renewed negotiations.

Mr. McLean and George Burt, UAW Canadian director, will meet today with union representatives from GM Canadian plants to decide if and when they should reopen the GM talks which have been under way since April 11.

Negotiations between GM and the union will resume Thursday in Oshawa for the contract which covers the automotive plant in that city. But Mr. McLean said these talks are liable to collapse too.

The negotiations which broke down in Toronto today involve GM workers here and in London, Windsor and St. Catharines.

Auto Union Asks Guaranteed Wage Of Nash-Hudson

DETROIT (AP) — The CIO United Auto Workers Union stood firm today on its demand that the independent car manufacturers accept the principle of a guaranteed wage just as Ford and General Motors did.

The union opened preliminary talks on a new contract Tuesday with American Motors Corp., which makes Nash and Hudson cars and household appliances.

Elections Act To Be Improved

OTTAWA (CP)—A general revision of the Canada Elections Act received approval in principle Tuesday night in the Commons.

The House gave second reading to a bill incorporating changes in Canada's election laws recommended by the committee on privileges and elections. Recommendations by the committee traditionally are incorporated into an act to amend the Elections Act.

However, a committee proposal that polling day in general elections be three weeks after nomination day will not be adopted. At present, election day is 11 days after nomination day.

The bill proposes an increase in the salary of the chief electoral officer to $13,500 annually from $12,000 and would extend the franchise to servicemen's wives aboard. It also would increase to $2,000 from $1,000 the amount a candidate may personally spend in an election campaign.

British Strike Cuts Montreal Port Traffic

MONTREAL (CP) — Britain's dock strike is being felt in the flow of traffic from this port to an extent that could soon become serious, authorities said Tuesday.

Export trade, always sensitive to overseas conditions, has been affected but it is "too early yet to say how much," said port manager Guy Beaudet.

One source said there are indications smaller ships are carrying cargoes to continental ports, then transferring the goods to small ships for shipment to Britain for handling by the crews.

Mr. Beaudet said some grain ships from the Great Lakes are held up while waiting their turn to unload here, but this was "not an abnormal" condition for June.

Railway officials said some passenger-cargo ships are making two or more trips with passengers while carrying the same cargoes in their holds. Many ships were still accepting bookings, however, as they could not tell when the walkout would end. A reduction in passenger traffic had occurred.

Steel Towers Ready to Take Power Lines

TORONTO (CP)—Six giant steel towers are ready to take power lines across the St. Lawrence river and the seaway canal, the Ontario Hydro Commission announced Tuesday.

Most recently completed are the two towers on the Canadian bank of the St. Lawrence. The 335-foot towers, tallest ever erected by the Ontario Hydro, were completed in the record time of two weeks.

With the aid of boat or helicopter, stringing wire across the river is to begin this month.

TWO CHILDREN OUT FOR A RIDE ON "LOTUS" GIANT HIPPOPOTAMUS

One of the great features of the King Bros. and Cole Bros. combined circus from season to season, has been its comprehensive and diversified menagerie. More than 250 animals are carried with the vast organization, including a giraffe, and "Lotus" a giant three ton hippopotamus, captured on the banks of the river Nile. The huge beast is one of the pets of the circus kiddies.

King Bros. and Cole Bros. combined shows will exhibit in Belleville Monday, June 20, Sidney Street show grounds under auspices of the Kinsmen Club.

There are 600 people travelling with the King Bros and Cole Bros. combined circus this season, in addition to 30 advance men. The performance is given in three rings, on two elevated stages, huge acrial enclave and on giant hippodrome tracks. There are 150 performers.

Doors to the menageries will open at 1 and 7 p.m. Performances will be given at 2 and 8 p.m.

A spectacular street parade will be given at 11.30 a.m., on the downtown streets circus day. Rumbling wagons of red and gold, gaily caparisoned horses will be seen along with open cages and dens. Trumpeting bands and tooting calliopes; lumbering elephants and humping camels all form a part of the picturesque and spectacular street pageant.

CAMPBELLFORD

Child Runs Into Path of Car Fractures Leg

CAMPBELLFORD — Four-year-old Earl Nicholas, 49 Boston Avenue, Toronto, was injured about 10 a.m., on Sunday when he ran from behind a parked car directly into the path of a car driven by Lorne Watson of Campbellford.

The child was visiting his grandfather, Charles Nicholas, Inkerman Street, and had been in a restaurant on Bridge Street. On leaving the restaurant he ran across Bridge Street from south to north. Police said the driver of the car had no chance to avoid hitting the child. He was attended by Dr. W. W. Baker and removed to Campbellford Memorial Hospital, where several stitches were required to close a gash in the back of his head. He suffered a fractured leg and cuts and body bruises. He is expected to be released from hospital sometime today. Chief Constable George Rose investigated.

Monday Set For Meeting Of Provinces

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent confirmed Tuesday provincial representatives will meet here Monday to discuss the federal offer to pay part of unemployment-relief costs.

He announced in the Commons that all provinces have replied to an invitation and have agreed to the date. The meeting would start Monday morning and continue Tuesday if necessary.

Mr. St. Laurent's message was sent to all provincial premiers. A spokesman in his office said not all premiers are able to attend. Names of provincial representatives were not yet available.

The federal government has offered to share the cost of relief to unemployed not receiving unemployment insurance. The proposal was made at the federal-provincial conference here April 26-27.

Federal and provincial officials have met since to pool information on unemployment and relief payments and provincial deputy ministers have reached general agreement with federal officials on how the statistics should be interpreted.

The federal offer, in effect, calls for Ottawa to assume between 30 and 50 per cent of the cost of help for able-bodied unemployed not receiving unemployment insurance. It also would include the "unemployable" unemployed.

No decision has been made on the point at which federal payments would start. Some provinces have suggested federal assistance go into effect when unemployment in any province reaches one per cent of population. Others are opposed to any floor.

Mr. Chase bellowed—
"You're full of Beans, Mr. Sanborn!"

"Quite," Mr. Sanborn agreed. "Beans are the thing. And our Instant Coffee is made 100% from fine, flavorful, fresh-roasted coffee beans."

"Beans are important," Mr. Chase acknowledged. "But, sir, the essence of great coffee is in the brewing..."

"Sheer mechanics," said Mr. Sanborn.

"Mechanics?" cried Mr. Chase. "Our way of brewing Instant Coffee right up to the moment of peak flavor? Our special process that nobody else has—a process that makes ours the most superb Instant ever?"

"Yes," Mr. Sanborn stated. "Because it's beans, Beans, BEANS that make great coffee. It's our coffee beans that make Chase & Sanborn the coffee that's served in leading hotels throughout Canada..."

"It's beans," said Mr. Chase, "and brewing. We've got the best of both."

Key U.S. Officials Poised To Flee to Secret Hideouts

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP)—A brief-case brigade of 15,000 United States government officials was poised today to flee, at the screamed signal of mock atomic assault to secret hideaways from which they will run a supposedly shattered country.

President Eisenhower, his cabinet and the military joined in the test, named Operation Alert 1955 and designed to send key workers from all government agencies pouring out of buildings, tumbling into cars and streaming to relocation posts 50 to 300 miles away.

Plans called for Washington to be "hit" at 3:25 p.m. EDT and reduced to radioactive ash and debris.

WIPED OUT

Within the following 20 minutes another 48 target cities across the country, each a vital production centre, were to be theoretically wiped out.

Arriving and regrouping at the emergency sites this afternoon and tonight, a dispersed government will deal on paper with the awesom task of reorganizing a stricken country while waging a retaliatory atomic war.

In the grim play-acting, scores of proclamations and orders will be "issued." Eisenhower will talk to his subordinates and commanders by closed-circuit television.

Electronic brains will assess "casualties" and "damage." Munitions orders will flow to plants outside target cities. "Refugees" will be steered to safe havens and the national guard will be mustered to restore order.

GREAT DEFENCE GAP

Operation Alert already has turned a spotlight on a great gap in the government's defence readiness. Congress has neither plans to quit Washington nor a place to reassemble should a real attack come.

It was business as usual today for the legislators, despite recent testimony of the civil defence administrator, Val C. Peterson, that anyone who stays in the capital under the bombsights of an enemy "is a dead duck."

Neither has Congress voted—nor the administration asked — any stand-by war - powers legislation under which a government scattered to the hills could mobilize the country, control panic buying and profiteering, ration food and clothing to homeless evacuees, or take emergency action to restore transport, communication and credit.

Woman Is Given Six-Month Term For Blackmail

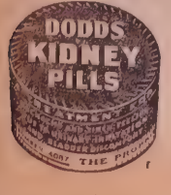
COCHRANE (CP) — Mrs. Collette Vandette, a 22-year-old expectant mother, Tuesday was sentenced to six months indeterminate in Mercer reformatory when convicted on three counts of extortion involving $6,000.

The 12-man jury's verdict included a strong recommendation for leniency.

Mrs. Vandette was charged with writing a series of letters to Emile Cleent, 59, a Grade 5 school teacher in Hallebourg, near Hearst, asking money for information she said "highclass people wanted to buy."

The judge said the woman's conduct throughout the extortion of $4,000 from Clement and a further attempt to extort an additional $2,000 had no commendable features. He said the sum of money extorted was tremendous, considering the circumstances of a school teacher.

MAILED MONEY



Clement, a partly bald, bespectacled man with 30 years' teaching experience, testified that he mailed cheques for $4,000 to Mrs. Vandette as a "reward for not telling information that would make me lose my position as a teacher and my pension."

When a second letter arrived, he said he went to police.

When asked in cross-examination what information Mrs. Vandette might have, Clement refused to reply.

PASSES BILL

CAPETOWN (Reuters) — The South African Senate by a vote of 27 to 8 Tuesday night passed the Nationalist government's controversial Senate bill, which will enlarge the upper house to give the government the two-thirds majority it needs to remove mixed-blood voters from the common electoral roll.

RAWDON

RAWDON.—On Friday evening, over 100 neighbors and friends gathered at the fine home of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Morrison, 4th concession, to honor Mr. and Mrs. John Morrison, who have permanently taken up residence in Stirling.

A round of community singing was enjoyed. Miss Jean Sutherland gave a piano solo. Two selections were read by Mrs. Don Drewry and Mrs. Herbert Smith. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Broadworth delighted with a vocal duet and Miss Ruth Mumby rendered an accordion solo.

Roger Smith, Raeburn Scott and David Potts, of Mount Pleasant, contributed a vocal trio, and Mrs. Harold Elliott and Miss Donalda Heath favored with a piano duet.

PRESENTATION MADE

Mrs. Will Drewry read an address of appreciation and Messrs. Will Drewry, Kenneth Mumby and Gordon Green made the presentation of a large coffee table and smoker.

The recipients graciously replied and invited their friends and neighbors to visit them in their new home.

Refreshments and a social half hour closed a delightful evening.

Part of Party To Visit Russia

MONTREAL (CP)—A delegation of 72 Canadian newspaper and radio women, including a party who will visit Russia, left by plane Tuesday night for Scotland—first stop on a tour scheduled to end July 11.

The women are members of the Canadian Women's Press Club and the tour is part of the club's golden jubilee celebrations. Their chartered airliner is scheduled to arrive in Edinburgh today.

The delegation plans to visit eight European countries. In Paris June 26, the women will split into three groups with some going to Russia, others to Italy, southern France and Switzerland and the rest to Germany and Austria.

Eleven and possibly 13 will tour Russia for 12 days. They will fly to Moscow from Paris. Originally, 14 were granted Russian visas for the tour but lack of funds forced some to revise their plans.

In Moscow, the press women will be entertained by Russian journalists and taken on inspection visits around the country. They will be allowed to take along both still and movie cameras.

OPPOSES MOVE

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dulles Tuesday opposed a move in a Congress to ask that the United Nations brand Soviet Russia an aggressor.

British Warehouses Packed, Plants Lack Raw Materials As 17-Day Rail Strike Ends

LONDON (AP) — Britain's big railroad strike is over after 17 days of street traffic jams, piled up warehouses and looming shortages of coal and raw materials.

Leaders of the 67,000-member Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen called off their strike on the nationalized railroads Tuesday night and agreed to submit their demand for a wage differential to arbitration.

Officials said it will take at least a few days to restore order to freight yards and warehouses. Although non-striking members of the National Union of Railwaymen kept freight traffic running at one-third of normal during the walkout, tens of thousands of loaded coal wagons are waiting at the mines to be moved out. Tons of raw materials await delivery to factories, which in turn have mountains of manufactured goods waiting to be hauled away.

The strike is estimated to have cost the transport commission, operators of the railways, £1,000,000 a day, and the striking union £300,000 in strike pay.

The walkout also forced many industrial plants to trim their working hours and to lay off 10,000 or more workers. But there was no serious industrial dislocation and no mass unemployment.

DEMANDS RECOGNIZED

The peace pact was pounded out at a series of conferences Tuesday between the transport commission and the two rail unions. The commission agreed in principle to the strikers' demand that firemen and engineers be paid more money than less-skilled workers. Previous differentials were narrowed by a wage increase given the other union earlier this year.

The union agreed to submit the question of the exact amount of the raise to the decision of an impartial arbiter, Lord Morris, 53-year-old appeal judge.

Morris' decision will apply also to engineers and firemen who belong to National Union of Railwaymen, which agreed there would be no "leapfrogging" wage claims by the less-skilled men.

But two other strikes still bother Britain.

One is the walkout of 20,000 dock workers which has partially crippled seven ports.

Most of the dock strikers are members of the small National Amalgamated Stevedores and Dockers Union, which is demanding bargaining rights. At most ports the giant Transport and General Workers Union now has this recognition.

SIX LINERS DELAYED

The other stoppage is a wildcat seamen's walkout, mainly by stewards and catering staffs, demanding better living conditions and a shorter work week. It has tied up the sailing of six trans-Atlantic liners from Liverpool and Southampton, forcing thousands to cancel travel plans to Canada and the United States, or switch to airlines and chartered planes if they have the money.

The strikers hoped to extend their walkout to the 81,000-ton Queen Mary, scheduled to sail for New York Thursday. Although 150 of the Mary's crew were reported joining the strike, the Cunard Line said union leaders aboard the ship had given assurance their men would sail.

DONATED SKIN TO GIRL

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Almost two square feet of skin from an anonymous white man was grafted Tuesday to the painfully seared body of a five-year-old Negro girl in order to save her life. The youngster, Margaret Rose Thomas, was critically burned from her chin to her hips when her clothing caught fire March 2. Doctors said, "We'll just have to wait and see now."

Proposals Would Cost $42,000,000

MONTREAL (CP)—Current proposals for Montreal traffic improvements in connection with the St. Lawrence seaway would cost $42,000,000, public works director Lucien L'Allier reported Tuesday.

Pierre DesMarais, chairman of the city executive committee which received Mr. L'Allier's report, said the director had been asked to prepare the estimate following an April meeting with Transport Minister Marler and Seaway Authority officials.

The proposals include an expressway along the seaway retaining walls, a new bridge next to Jacques Cartier bridge and a tunnel under the river.

Convicted Of Firing Three Shots at Freighter

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP)—A jury Tuesday convicted Floyd Warwick, 45, of firing three shots from a rifle at a freighter on the St. Clair river. The offence carries a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a $500 fine.

The bullets ricocheted off the freighter John E. F. Misener May 12 without injuring any of the crew.

Warwick, a boat livery operator, testified he was angered by speeding freighters that kicked up waves and damaged his property, but he would not admit firing the shots.

Premier to Be Asked to Help Establish Policy

IROQUOIS, Ont. (CP)—Premier Frost of Ontario will be asked to help establish a policy for the relocation and compensation of 6,500 persons whose homes are in the path of the proposed St. Lawrence seaway.

Reeve Lloyd Davis said Tuesday following a council meeting he has been instructed to seek an appointment with Mr. Frost to discuss a brief approval by council.

Meanwhile, Hydro commission workers are to return to work today on two farms which form part of the site for New Iroquois. The men were ordered off the property of James Everetts and Clifford Martin Monday until some nonest attempt" at settlement is made.

They agreed to allow the Hydro men to continue work after meeting with Hydro property officers Tuesday.

BRIEF SECRET

Contents of the council brief to be presented to Mr. Frost were not disclosed. The village will be flooded by the seaway and residents will be relocated in New Iroquois.

Mr. Frost established a board last January to review property arguments in the area but no meetings have since been held.

J. J. Wingfielder, head of the board, said not enough cases had been brought to the board's attention to warrant a trip here.

However, Reeve T. W. J. Lane of Osnabruch said several township residents have filed notice saying they wish a hearing. So far, Hydro has acquired more than 20 per cent of the 20,000 acres involved in relocation and compensation.

BAN ALL RACES

LE MANS, France (Reuters)—France today banned all automobile racing pending new safety regulations as government leaders attended memorial services for the victims of Saturday's crash at the 24-hour endurance race here. The new regulations, drawn up by experts to ensure that Saturday's tragedy is never repeated, are expected to modify radically the conditions of the Le Mans classic.

Sportsmen Groups Are Not Blamed For Forest Fires

TORONTO.— F. H. Kortright, president of the Conservation Council of Ontario, gives a clean bill to members of sportsmen's organizations as being responsible for Ontario's forest fires.

"Nowadays," said Mr. Kortright in a statement to the Canadian Forestry Association, "the basic teaching of angling and fishing associations is that the woodlands are the nursery of good fishing and hunting. Game fish, for example, cannot thrive in waters bordered by fire-scarred trees and burned soil. They are poisoned by alkalis and driven out by rising temperatures. Furthermore, no angler stays long in a scenic environment of charcoal and stumps.

"My experience is that the average sportsman accustomed to the woods and appreciating its beauty and value is not likely to take chances with unextinguished campfires and lighted tobacco. Every experienced woods traveller—every schoolboy, in fact—knows the elementary precautions with all forms of fire while travelling through or camping in easily-inflammable surroundings. We must face the fact, however, that as bush travel increases more and more raw amateurs are likely to take chances with their campfires and smokes, risking the dreadful consequences we have seen last month. No one should expect that patrolling fire-rangers can guard a forest unless the public regards itself as the first line of defence. Whoever enters an Ontario woodland should consider himself a volunteer-ranger, performing his duty as carefully as if he wore an official badge."

Welfare Official Urges Hospital Time-Payments

NORTH BAY (CP)—An Ontario welfare officer said Monday night hospitals should inaugurate a time-payment system which would enable people in the lower-income bracket to meet hospital expenses.

Joseph Vernon of Toronto, spokesman for the committee on hospitalization, was addressing the Ontario Welfare Officers Association annual meeting here.

The committee's recommendations, most of which were supported by the association, also called for the provincial government to meet hospital expenses incurred by pensioners and others who received provincial welfare payments.

Welfare officers of more than 50 communities recommended that the parent's maintenance act be more rigidly enforced. This act calls for children to be held responsible for the hospital expenses of indigent parents.

Other subjects still under study by the committee on hospitalization were:

A government-subsidized hospital plan for low income workers who did not have other access to a hospital plan.

The stationing of a welfare department officer at hospitals to deal with indigent hospital claims.

A simplified system for registering cautions against land titles for indebtedness incurred through welfare receipts.

The recommendations of the association will be forwarded to the parent body, the Ontario Municipal Association, which will meet at North Bay later this year.

Brantford Strike Has Been Settled

BRANTFORD (CP)—A five-day wage strike at the Brantford plant of the Canadian Westinghouse Company ended Monday night as the membership of Local 555 International Union of Electrical Workers (CIO-CCL) voted unanimously to ratify settlement terms agreed upon Sunday by negotiating representatives.

When the strike started, only about 80 employees were actually at work because of retooling layoffs. About the same number of workers returned to their jobs this morning.

Cause of the strike was a wage dispute. Male employees have been receiving $1.17 an hour and female employees 88 cents. The union, seeking its first Brantford contract, was asking $1.43 for men and $1.22 for women.

The contract provides for an increase of 12 cents an hour for men, and 10 cents for women. The increases are retroactive to May 27.

AMERICA'S TOP ATTACK WEAPON IN EVENT OF WAR

Pictured in flight over Offutt Air Force base, Nebraska, is the B-52A stratofortress, which will replace the piston-and-jet B-36 as America's top attack weapon in the event of war. The new all-jet intercontinental bomber can carry in its bomb bay enough destructive force to knock out any enemy target while flying through the stratosphere at better than 10 miles a minute.

EXPAND HOSPITALS

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario's two hospitals for mentally retarded children will be expanded to include another 1,150 patients. Dr. Robert C. Montgomery, Ontario director for mental hospitals, said Monday expansion of the hospitals at Orillia and Smiths Falls will be completed by next fall.

Sleeping Dentists Are Robbed by Pair

TORONTO (CP) — Two men were held by Toronto police Tues. on charges of theft of about $300 from the pockets of sleeping dentists attending a convention here.

Ronald Mooney of Toronto and Andrew Morin of Montreal were arrested after the rooms of Dr. A. Shearer and Dr. E. Politi, both of Hamilton, and Dr. J. Ferguson of Ottawa were ransacked while they slept.

Police said one of the men had a key which would fit any door in the downtown hotel.

Little Benny's Note Book

Today in school Miss Kitty told us how wonderful nature is, saying, What could be more wonderful than the way nature has given instincts to her dum creatures, as we call them. Men have to spend long years of study before they can bild a bridge, yet men have never bilt a bridge neerly as wonderful as the bridge a spider bilds between 2 brantches of a tree, in other werds a spider web. And the spider does this wonderful thing purely by its wonderful naturel instinct. Now who can give us some other wonderful examples of in stinct in nature's dum creatures? she said.

Me waving my hand and saying, A dog chases cats because he wont get punished for it, because his instinct tells him that everybody will say it's just his instinct, so he cant help it.

Well, when dogs were still in their wild state, it was their instinct to pursue their pray, that's certainly true, Miss Kitty said. Now can anyone give an illustration of a dum creature owing its safety, or even it's very life, to an instinct? Well Charles? she said.

Meening Puds Simkins waving, and Puds said, a fly is the dummest creature of all, but even a fly has an instinct to save its life by landing on the middle of a horse's back just where the horse cant soak it with its tale.

Well, perhaps, who knows? Miss Kitty said. Now is that all? she said.

Which it wasn't Dopey Shorty Judge giving an example of berds saving their life by sitting on live wires because they know by instinct they can get a shock unless they have at least one foot on the ground.

Being the last example Miss Kitty asked for.

Formosa Warns Western Powers To Be Cautious

TAIPEI, Formosa (Reuters) — The Chinese Nationalist assembly Tuesday cabled the leadees of the big three Western powers warning them not to take decisions harmful to Nationalist China at the forthcoming Big Four talks at Geneva.

The assembly said that "if any decision is reached injurious to the sovereignty or other interests of the (Nationalist) Republic of China it will never be recognized."

Canadian Killed In New Zealand

ROTORUA, New Zealand (Reuters)—James Edward Goodin, 36-year-old Canadian marine engineer, home address unavailable, was found stabbed to death Tues., two weeks after he had been convicted of assaulting a young Maori woman.

Goodin's body was found in a one-roomed Maori home at nearby Hinemoa point, with a sheath knife buried in his stomach. Police arrested a middle-aged Maori and charged him with manslaughter.

Animosity Arises from Widely Differing Policies in Indochina

By PRESTON GROVER

SAIGON (AP)—The French here are so bitter at the Americans over Indochina that they scarcely speak to them. The French hardly ever speak to members of the Vietnamese government now in office, which they bitterly oppose. The Americans, in turn, rarely speak to the French but talk happily, at the moment, with the Vietnamese government headed by Ngo Dinh Diem.

The animosity arises from widely differing policies which the two countries have tried on high levels to reconcile. But there is no effort at reconciliation on the lower levels on either side. Quite the contrary, it is clear that some of the "juniors" on either side are trying to whip up even more animosity.

It is a situation shocking to newly-arriving observers and must bring great happiness to the Communist Vietminh who control the north half of Viet Nam under the award of the Geneva conference. They doubtless are in full agreement with many French, American and Vietnamese here who think the dispute inevitably will end in the Communists' gaining the southern half of the country.

FRENCH SHOCKED

Washington is determined to back Diem in setting up his own government and in carrying out the domestic program he has outlined—a program which is both challenging and, to the French, shocking. Gen. J. Lawton Collins of the United States, once fully a supporter of Diem, evidently changed his attitude somewhat and favored greater consideration of the French position. Collins now has returned to the U. S.

Diem's most determined American backer here is Col. Edward Lansdale, chief of psychological warfare, who finds Diem's policies about 100 per cent right.

Psychological warfare is a broad term in these parts and Lansdale has intelligence agents planted all over Indochina. As Lansdale sees it, the French are asleep to the fact that the Vietnamese do not want them here any more except maybe as businessmen without special privileges.

Diem has outlined a program which runs directly counter to French ideas. It is:

1. Unify the national army into a single force with a single commander. This means five or six private armies, each dominant in its own region, will be dissolved. It will greatly strengthen the central government. Also it will take from the French any power of playing off one force against another while they develop their own position.

LOSE LAND, TAXES

2. Unify the country, taking land control away from the sectarian armies, taking away also their right to collect taxes and run the local government.

3. Call national elections, probably next month, for the country's first assembly.

The French are urging another course. They insist there is a deep layer of French friendship and respect among the Vietnamese government. They ask that the French and Americans consolidate their policy, make mutual compromises, then jointly support a Vietnamese government that represents factions which Diem now is setting out to destroy. There is no time left for a civil war against the sects. That road, say the French, will lead to disaster.

Gen. Paul Ely, the French commander, insists Diem does not know how to govern. He says Diem is building up a dictatorship. The Americans agree this latter may be true, but find no ready substitute for it.

SEND NEW AMBASSADOR

Just how far the state department agrees with Diem has never been established. But Col. Lansdale is the most vigorous supporter of his program.

Lansdale had great success in the Philippines coaching President Ramon Magsaysay in dealing with the Communist hukbalahaps. There it was relatively simple. Here, it is just possible a colonel's-eye-view is not high enough.

The French fear so. They insist that destroying French influence is not a decision to be reached by a colonel.

The U. S. has sent in a new ambassador, a top-quality state department man, Frederick Reinhardt. He may be the answer.

SAVED BY DEEP-FREEZE

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A scientist disclosed Monday night that frozen foods placed in a deep freeze less than a mile from an atomic blast in Nevada May 5 were found edible, tasty and free from radiation. Still to be determined said H. P. Schmitt, research director of the National Association of Frozen - Food Packers, is whether the foods have lost any nutritional values.

DREAM RACE

What a honey of a race it would be, if and when, Nashua and Swaps, those fairy princes of turfdom face the barrier in a match event.

The thundering hoofs of these two superb horses would thud in a dream setting. It is stated that a California track has dangled a purse of $100,000 beneath the noses of the nags but thus far nothing definite has been settled.

In the meantime the sports pages are beginning to thump the qualities of both horses. Race experts are more or less divided in their opinions, but both Nashua and Swaps have large followings.

Those sweet on Swaps point to his record-breaking performance of last week. Nashua's followers will tell you about his easy win-in-a-romp performance in the Belmont. They will add that Arcaro did not ride Nashua properly although he obeyed instructions of the trainer when he was beaten by Swaps in the Kentucky Derby.

Nashua's trainer admits that he "blew" the Derby by giving Arcaro the wrong instructions. "Eddie followed my orders perfectly" he said, "but they were all wrong." I missed the boat by not telling Eddie to let Nashua go out and run with Swaps. If they do get together again believe me, I won't fail for that trick a second time."

It was Nashua's fifth victory in a hundred-grand race this year. The victory boosted his earnings to sixth-place on the list of all-time winners. To date he has earned $653,000. That's gold in them thar heels, comrades.

But the owner of the Belmont and Preakness winner is not exactly in favor of the race. He says he will withhold a decision until August but the horse will not be shipped to California in any event. He recalls the match race several years ago between Armed and Assault that had the racing world in a tizzy long before it was run. And when it was run Assault was unfit. "It proved nothing," he said

"BETTER SMILE PODNERS"

One of the greatest heavyweight champions to pull on a glove, in the opinion of a lot of people, will be the third man —or the fifth in the ring at Memorial Arena Friday night. He is the Ole Manassa Mauler, one Jack Dempsey.

It seems those Texas Tornadoes Lou Plummer and Dick Raines were highly dissatisfied with the manner in which Sammy Godder officiated last week when Prince Maiava and Pat Flanagain aided and abetted by Lord Athol Layton in no uncertain manner, made them say "uncle" muy pronto.

Now these Davey Crocketts of the squared circle are not accustomed to being defeated by anyone, let alone a Samoan royalty. They demanded a return explosion with the express wish that Lord Layton team up with the Prince. It seems the tall suave Britisher judo'd their pride badly when he blasted them last Friday and they want revenge aplenty.

But they had better be good. Mr. Dempsey who is qnite some shakes at wrestling officiating still packs a mighty wallop —and he is not the lest bit timid about shooting out a deadly right or left if some "rassler" gets out of hand. The Terrible Texans will find they will have their hands full with the Prince and Lord Layton without antagonizing the former heavyweight titleholder.

The Prince proved himself one of the most colorful matmen ever to show his wares here. His appearance alone is enough to daunt the most hardy while his speed and ring skill left nothing to be desired. With Layton alongside and Dempsey within punching distance, Friday's show should be a real thriller—and a tough one for the Texans.

SOFTBALL

Bill Spafford's Orfuns came up with a neat piece of softballing last night to extend their unbeaten string to six. A feature of the tilt was some airtight relief pitching by Marse Robert Hunter who squelched a Point Anne fourth inning rally. Bobby Green started the fray and walked himself out of the game in the fourth. He left the bases loaded with one out when Hunter took over. The right-hander flicked just six pitches past the next two batters to retire the side on strikeouts.

Meanwhile over in Frankford, there was a wild, weird and wacky wide-open game as the Bobcats bowed to the village crew by a 17-11 score.

Point Anne tangles with Madoc on Friday evening on the latter's diamond while Orfuns and Bobcats mix matters at the CNRAA Recreation Park.

Whitewash Cincinnati 9-0 As Giants Collar Chicubs; Tribe Takes Two, Yanks One

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

No wonder Eddie Stanky says he doesn't hold a grudge against the St. Louis Cardinals for giving him a boot as manager. Why should he? They've been vindicating the little guy ever since he left.

In three years as manager, Stanky had been accused of over-managing and other odds and ends.

Stanky, who'd trip his rich uncle if it meant winning a game, was the goat for Cardinal fans. So the beer barons who own the club dispensed with Stanky and called in Harry (The Hat) Walker.

What happens? The Cardinals lose 12 of 17 under mild-mannered Harry, slip into seventh place and fall 20 games behind the front-running Brooklyns.

WERE FIFTH

When Stanky left May 27, the Cards were fifth, 10 games back.

Neither Stanky nor Walker can take the rap, apparently. Walker's received just five complete games, losing three of them, from his mound staff in the 17 contests.

That was the story Tuesday night. Pittsburgh, only 4½ games behind St. Louis, belted starter Larry Jackson and Brooks Lawrence for eight runs in the fourth and won 10-5.

The runaway Dodgers, meanwhile, stretched their fantastic lead to 11½ games, whipping Cincinnati 9-0 after the runner-up Chicago Cubs had lost to New York's Giants 5-0 in a day game. Milwaukee beat Philadelphia and Robin Roberts 4-2 in the other National League game.

In the American, the New York Yankees held on to their slim lead by beating Detroit 7-6 in 10 innings. Second-place Chicago beat Baltimore 1-0 and third - place Cleveland took two from Washington, 6-4 in 11 innings and 3-1 on rookie Herb Score's two-hitter. Boston belted Kansas City 12-4.

SOLO HOMER

Pittsburgh rapped the Cards with Dale Long hitting a solo homer in the second and driving in three more on a double and bases-loaded single as 13 Bucs came to the plate in the big fourth.

Johnny Podres won his sixth for Brooklyn, blanking the Redlegs on seven hits. The Dodgers scored six in the second inning, routing loser Johnny Klippstein and Steve Ridzik, as Duke Snider smacked his 20th homer with two on.

At Milwaukee, Eddie Mathews put it away for the Braves with a two-run clout in the eighth. Mathews had three of the seven hits off Roberts, who lost his fifth in 14 decisions.

The Giants smeared the Cubs with three runs in the second on homers by rookie Gail Harris and Willie Mays. It was the fourth major league home run for Harris —all in the last five games. Ruben Gomez won his third for the first shutout of the season by the Giants' staff as Sam Jones lost his eighth.

EXPENSIVE ERROR

A four-base throwing error by pitcher Al Aber capped a three-run ninth for the Yanks, with Andy Carey racing all the way around to score the tying run after hitting in front of the plate. Mickey Mantle then won it with a single in the 10th off George Zuverink after a walk and a single.

The White Sox stayed 2½ games behind the Yanks, topping the Orioles as Saul Rogovin walked home the lone run in the eighth. Jack Harshman made it four straight for Chicago, although Sandy Consuegra came on to toss a game-ending doubleplay ball to Hal Smith.

After losing seven of eight, Cleveland won its fifth straight in the nightcap at Washington as Score outlasted his wildness. The fireball lefty walked 11 and hit a batter while striking out six. The opener was won on Dale Mitchell's pinch single in the 11th after Ralph Kiner hit a pinch homer to tie it at 4-4 with two out in the ninth.

Norb Zauchin and Ted Williams batted in seven of the Red Sox' runs in the slugfest at Boston. Zauchin homered in an eight - run third. Williams hit his fifth home run and doubled twice, lifting his average to .378.

AUSSIES LEAD WINDIES

KINGSTON, Jamaica (Reuters) —A record third-wicket stand of 295 by Colin McDonald and Neil Harvey enabled Australia's cricketers to gain a first-innings lead of 123 runs over the West Indies with six wickets in hand on the third day of the fifth and final test match here.

Australia was 480 for four at the total of 357.

Harvey scored 204, one short of his highest test score which was made against South Africa at Melbourne in 1952-53. McDonald hit 127.

Defeat Move To Ban Football In Schools

CHATHAM (CP)—Board of education members Tuesday night clashed over what was called "over-emphasis on sports in secondary schools" but defeated a move to ban football in Chatham high schools.

The argument arose following discussion over an incident last fall in which Dick Hinnegan, a secondary school student, was fatally injured in a football game.

Board member Victor Lauriston said he felt competative sports are grossly overdone in high schools. "We are all going crazy over which gang on boys can chase a ball farthest and catch it most often."

Member H. J. O'Brien said he felt competative sports "teach a student to accept hard knocks and work as a team."

The board voted to allow the game to be continued providing proper equipment is used and parents give written consent.

Sugar Kings Stretch String, Leafs Beaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Havana Sugar Kings are just a half-game and three putouts away from first place today in the International League.

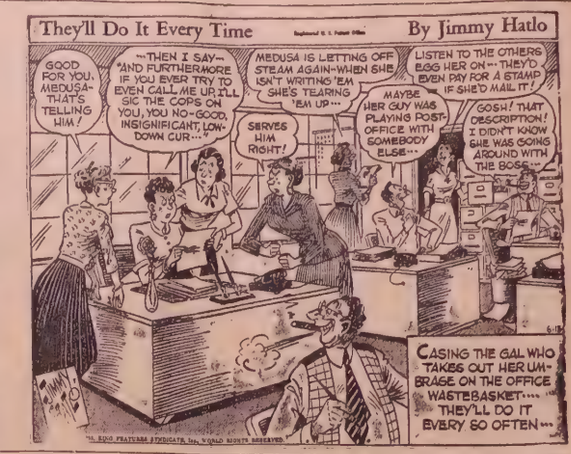
They stretched their winning streak to 12 games Tuesday night, overhauling Richmond 6-5. That would have been No. 13 in the string, except for a Friday night game that was suspended after eight innings with the Sugar Kings leading Rochester 4-1.

If that contest were officially in the books, Havana would be in a virtual first-place tie with Toronto Maple Leafs. As is, Toronto has a half-game edge over Montreal and Havana despite an 8-4 defeat by Rochester Tuesday night.

Montreal holds a four-percentage-point margin over the Kings for second place, sweeping a twi-nighter at Buffalo 8-0 and 4-1 that dropped the Bisons into last place.

Syracuse dumped Columbus twice by 5-2 margins to remain unbeaten by the Jets in seven games this season.

Two runs on a pair of singles, an intentional pass and a double carried the Kings past the Virginians, who had scored four times in their half of the eighth for a 5-4 lead.



Vern Benson walloped two home runs that knocked in four runs for the Red Wings, who got fine relief pitching from Mel Wright to stop Toronto. Wright relieved starter Duke Markell with two out in the fourth after the Maple Leafs had cut their deficit to 5-4, and blanked them on one hit the rest of the way.

Roger Craig set a new one-game league high for the season by striking out 14 as Montreal topped Buffalo in the nightcap. Tommy Lasorda fanned six while getting 14-hit support in the opener with Charley Neal contributing a triple and three singles.

Late-inning homers did the job for Syracuse at Columbus. Bob Bowman's three-run smack broke up a 2-2 tie in the sixth frame of the seven-inning opener. Jim Command hit a pinch home run with one on in the eighth to overcome a 2-1 Jet lead and get the Chiefs rolling in the second game.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Redlegs Tuesday sent utility outfielder Bob Borkowski to Brooklyn Dodgers as a part of the deal in which Cincinnati obtained pitcher Joe Black.

Yankee Athletes Match Muscles In Moscow

MOSCOW (Reuters) — The first American sports team to visit Russia since the war, a team of American weightlifters, today matches muscles against the champion Soviet team in a renewal of their epic battle of the biceps at the last Olympic Games.

During the 1952 Olympics, the U.S. team barely managed to defeat a strong Russian delegation.

An American team spokesman told Tass, the official Soviet news agency, that "the hospitality accorded us in the U.S.S.R. is beyond all praise. We have been put up in a good hotel and given a comfortable gymnasium for training."

A U.S. chess team will visit Moscow in a few days to repay a Soviet visit to the United States last year.

BRANTFORD GOLFERS WIN

HAMILTON (CP)—Mrs. D. H. Dixon of Toronto fired 84 Tuesday to capture the ladies invitational tournament at Hamilton Golf Club, Ancaster. In the bronze division, Mrs. E. H. Ellis of Brantford won top honors with 93. Second place went to Mrs. W. J. Greig of Brantford who carded 95.

U.S. TENNIS HOPES

LONDON (AP)—Hamilton Richardson, young Davis Cup player from Baton Rouge, La., and Bob Perry of Los Angeles emerged Tuesday as the United States hopes to turn back the strong Australian challenge in the singles of the London grass courts championships. Both reached the third round.

One Canadian also qualified for the third round. Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., defeated Nicola Pietrangeli, top Italian player, 5-7, 7-5, 6-4.

Lively Battle For 1960 Sites Looms at Olympics Meeting

PARIS (AP)—A lively four-way battle was unexpectedly building up today over sites for the 1960 summer and winter Olympic games.

Instead of Rome being a cinch selection Thursday by the International Olympic Committee, the Romans are expected to have terrific competition from Lausanne, Switzerland.

Innsbruck, Austria, appeared a sure thing to win the vote of the IOC a week ago as the site for the winter games. But a strong movement reportedly has been growing among IOC members to award the games instead to Squaw Valley, Calif.

It was understood some of the support for the little-known but potentially fine American skiing area comes from Scandinavian delegates.

With the inauguration of across North Pole flying, skiers from Scandinavia can be taken to and from Squaw Valley for much less than the transatlantic fare.

"I think Rome still leading candidate for summer games," said a delegate. "However there is much sentimental feeling among IOC members for Lausanne because it is where the Olympics have a home."

Other cities asking for the summer games are Detroit, Mexico City, Brussels, Tokyo and Budapest.

Other localities asing for the winter games are St. Moritz, Switzerland, and Garmisch - Partenkirchen, Germany.

Extensive additions would be made in Squaw Valley to accommodate games should they be awarded there—such as a jumping hill, ice rink, shops, slalom courses, down-hill runs, and parking facilities.

Squaw Valley is near Truckee, Calif., not far from Lake Tahoe and the Nevada state line.

Olson May Be Taking On Too Much in Battle With Moore, Says Talbot

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Archie Moore looked relaxed as a sunning cat as he lay back on his spine Tuesday before going in to sign the official papers for his 175-pound title fight with Bobo Olson here a week from tonight. He stroked his black goatee and said he was relaxed, too.

"That's how I been able to make weight the way I do," he said. "Nobody ever saw me when I wasn't relaxed, not even when I was in a fight. I never felt tense during a fight in my life."

"You mean to say," he was asked, "that you were relaxed when Harold Johnson knocked you down in your other title fight here"

"Never felt more relaxed in my life," Moore smiled. "You saw what I did to Harold after that happened."

The 38-year-old veteran of a million fights, more or less, looks as though he might already have shed about 20 pounds of the 200 he was packing when he began training for Olson. That would leave him five more to pare off before the weigh-in at noon next Wednesday.

"I won't be as strong as I was when I weighed 196½ for Nino Valdes (on May 2)," he conceded. "But I won't be fighting as big a man this time."

The man who expects to meet Rocky Marciano for the heavyweight crown after he disposes of Olson, the 160-pound champ, was asked if he thought he could hit on too much harder with his right than Olson.

"How can I say how hard I hit?" Archie asked in return. "Of course, I think I can hit pretty good, but from what I saw of Olson in his fight with Joey Maxim I've got to think he hits pretty good, too."

Did he think that Maxim might have been pretty well washed up when Olson beat him last April 13 in San Francisco?

"Definitely not," Archie said. "It was a good win. I think our fight will be a battle of punchers. He'll be trying to knock me out and I'll be trying to knock him out. He has a case.

"There comes a time in every man's life when he's got to take a chance. Bobo's fought himself out of good money shots in his division, and whipped Maxim, and so he had to stop up into my field. Actually I guess I do hit a little harder than he does."

The difference in the size and physiques of the two men was striking as they shook hands for the cameras. Moore looked about two sizes larger than his opponent from Hawaii, with the most obvious disparity in the length of their arms. Archie has eight inches more reach than Bobo.

They looked like a big, dark man of 38 with bulging muscles and a trim, rather handsome young fellow of 26 who might just have stepped out of a college shell. The feeling came, somehow, that Olson had been conned into taking on too much.

Olympics' Boss Orders Probe of Santee's Expense Accounts

PARIS (AP)—The Wes Santee "excessive expenses" case exploded again today with the announcement from International Olympic Committee president Avery Brundage that he had asked the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union to investigate the charges.

Brundage offered no opinion on the case. He said he merely had studied the charges made in a San Francisco newspaper, that Santee had accepted more than the allowed expenses for three track meets in California.

"I sent the story and a letter to Dan Ferris (AAU chieftain) and suggested the matter be looked into," said Brundage. "I have not yet heard from Ferris.

"No action has been taken against Santee yet and I don't know that any will. However, the charges are certainly too serious to let them stand."

Santee, America's fastest miler, on duty as a second lieutenant with the marine corps at Camp Pendleton, Calif., reiterated his denial of the charges as he did when they first were made a week ago.

"It's simply a newspaper story," he commented. "It's Brundage's duty to check into any charges made against amateur athletes."

The blind students ran holding a ring attached to a taut wire. They ran against time as they completed one [illegible]

Pt. Anne Bows To Orfuns By 8-4 Score

By GARRY ALEXANDER

For the second time in five days, the undefeated Belleville Orfuns came up with a four-run rally in the late innings at the C.N.R.A.A. Park last night to widen the distance between themselves and the remainder of the teams in the Belleville and District softball league. Their opposition last night was the runner-up Point Anne Cementmen and they tallied four in the eighth to walk off with an 8-4 decision, their sixth triumph in as many games.

The Cementmen had battled gamely all the way, twice coming from behind as Pat Maracle held the powerful league-leaders to 4 hits until the fateful eighth. Maracle tired and walked Young, got Carr on a pop up but also walked Jones. Vic Bromley then lined a single to centre, plating the lead-runner with what proved to be the winning run. Jones went home on a wild pitch and Bromley followed seconds later on another. Back to back base hits by Barclay and Wardhaugh made it 8-4 and after a single by the lead-off Cementmen in the ninth, Bob Hunter retired three in a row to end the game.

Hunter picked up his first win of the year in 5 2/3 innings of relief work, giving up one run on five hits while claiming six via the strike out route and walking the same number. He took over from Bob Green with one out and the bases loaded in the fourth and fanned Buck Burshaw and Pat Gilmour on six pitches. Green surrendered only two hits for 3 runs but walked himself out of the game, issuing five free passes, four in the fourth stanza. He fanned three.

Pat Maracle went the distance for Point Anne, taking his first loss against two victories. The winners gathered seven hits off his slants as he nicked seven on strikes and walked six. His mates committed five errors back of him to the Orfuns three.

The visitors grabbed a 1-0 lead in the second on Gerry Goyer's double and a pair of wild pitches but the lead was short-lived as Johnny Batchelor smote a homer to right-centre in the third with Wardhaugh on by a walk. The Oxpointers came back in the fourth on four walks, an error and Phil Bennett's single to take the lead again, 3-2. They loaded the sacks in the fifth on walks but Hunter pulled out of trouble while a double play in the sixth again saved the homesters.

Young led off with a single in the sixth, Carr sacrificed him to second and he scored on Bennett's three-base error. Bromley's infield out sent another home to put the Orfuns ahead 4-3 but Pt. Anne tied it in the eighth on an error and singles by Gilmour and Wade, setting the stage for the winning rally.

Jack Wardhaugh was the winner's most successful batter with two singles and three walks while Batchelor homered and Jones doubled. Singles went to Barclay, Young and Bromley. Gerry Goyer poled a double and single in defeat while Wade and Bennett had a brace of singles each. Gilmour claimed the odd hit.

Line ups:—

Pt. Anne: Gilmour, Horwood, Wade, Green, Goyer, Bennett, Maracle, Logue, Burshaw.

Orfuns: Barclay, Wardhaugh, Hulll Batchelor, Young, Carr, Jones, Soule, Bromley, Green, Hunter.

Toothpick For A Pile of Lumber Yankees' Idea of Fair Deal-Harris

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Bucky Harris of the Detroit Tigers acknowledged today that all efforts to obtain first baseman Eddie Robinson from New York had failed. He blamed Yankee general manager George Weiss.

"All our discussions with the Yankees revolved around Robinson," Harris admitted, "but Weiss was demanding such a trade it put Ruel (Detroit general manager Muddy Ruel) on the spot. It wasn't a fair deal. His idea of a fair deal is giving up a toothpick for a pile of lumber."

Harris declined to mention names but it has been reported the Tigers demanded Robinson and second baseman Gil McDougald in exchange for pitcher Ned Garver. The Tigers also were rumored to be willing to accept Robinson even up for Steve Gromek, their other veteran righthander. It was not learned whom the Yankees offered for either pitcher.

Although Detroit is badly in need of a healthy first baseman (both Ferris Fain and Jack Phillips are hobbled by knee injuries), Harris said he saw no prospect of a deal in sight before the trading deadline midnight tonight.

"We'll just have to struggle it out and hope the knees hold up," Harris said ruefully. "In all my years of managing, I've never run across a team that has got to put up with so many injuries to key men. Things weren't too bad until Ray Boone and Harvey Kuenn got hurt. Just when Boone was getting over a sore arm that had been bothering him since spring training, he pulled a muscle in his leg. Kuenn, who also sustained a leg injury is playing now but he still is favoring the leg."

Despite their injuries, Harris has been alternating Fain and Phillips at first, resting first on one then the other. It was the crippled Fain's inability to come up with a couple of balls Tuesday night that cost the Tigers a 7-6 decision in 10 innings to New York.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

When it comes to defence bids, you can just about choose your own weapon. There is a defensive bid that can give a reasonably good picture of any hand you would like to show your partner.

The clearest of defensive bids is a jump overcall. By clear I mean that it describes the hand more definitely than does any other bid. That is, there is very little guesswork about it.

An overcall is a defensive bid. A jump overcall is a defensive bid with exactly one higher in number than necessary. As when south opens with one diamond and west jump overcalls with two hearts.

If west had bid one heart it would have been a simple overcall. The simple overcall simply says west can take five tricks at his trump suit and may have only two high cards with one sure.

The jump overcall promises a rebiddable suit in a hand that is able to produce eight tricks. Not less and hardly likely to be more. Therefore, you can picture a long suit of strength.

WEST
♠A Q J 9 8 3
♥9 2
♦A K Q
♣Q 5

South opens with one heart and your west defensive bid should be two spades. Thus do you tell partner you can take eight tricks with spades as trumps; but only if spades is the trump suit.

Notice that your west hand also has the qualities for starting with an opening bid of one. Therefore, as defender it is also good enough for a takeout double. If so, why not double for takeout instead of jump overcall? Not only does jump overcall show more precise information, it shows a better hand than does a double for takeout.

This should tell you the preference in choice of defence bids. It should tell you that a jump overcall is preferred to the double.

Give partner the best that is in you.

SUSPEND JOCKEY

TORONTO (CP) — Jockey Bill Hawksworth Tuesday was suspended for 20 days, the balance of the Woodbine meeting and the first seven days of the Fort Erie meeting for rough riding in the Queen's Plate Saturday.

The stewards said Hawksworth brought his mount, Birch Hills, over too sharply leaving the gate and jammed up the horses inside of him. Jockey Alex Wick, astride Great West in this race, was unseated and sufered severe back bruises.

Bobcats Beaten By Merchants In Free-Hitter

FRANKFORD (Special) — Exploding with six runs in the seventh inning, the Frankford Merchants out-slugged the Belleville Bobcats here last night, picking up their second victory of the year 17-11. Both of their wins have been at the expense of the Bobcats.

The visitors took a 2-0 lead in the initial frame but the Rankin crew battled back with nine runs in the third, fourth and fifth innings while the city nine tallied five in the fifth, leaving the winners with a 9-7 edge. Belleville exploded for four in the top of the seventh but the Merchants came back with six in their half of the inning and added a pair of insurance tallies in the eighth to win going away.

Doug. Radnor lasted the route for the victors, giving up nine hits, getting 11 on third strikes, walking nine and hitting a pair of batters. Wickson was his battery mate.

Junior Day opened on the hill for Belleville but gave way to Jack Holmes in the fourth with one out. Day was touched for six runs on three hits but he walked seven. Holmes was the loser while surrendering the remaining runs and hits while fanning four and walking eight.

Frankford banged four hits in their big seventh inning, singles for Herb Rankin, Jim Aggleby and Roy Cooke while Harry Wickson slammed a double. The Bobcats added to their woes with a pair of errors and two walks. Bill Rankin's double highlighted their four runs in the fourth.

Belleville's fine runs in the 5th came on as many hits, Duesbury, Wardhaugh, Creeggan, Lockyer and Temple each banging a one-base blow while Empy and Holmes walked.

Herb Rankin, Frankford manager playing third base, led his team at bat with a trio of singles. Cooke and Radner each punched a brace of singles with Bill Rankin and Wickson claiming doubles and Appleby and Cosgrove also hitting safely.

Carl Woods slammed a homer with one on for the Bobcats but Harry Wardhaugh, Stan Creeggan and Dave Lockyer each met Radnor's slants for two singles. Bob Temple and Ken Duesbury also had singles.

The teams—

Bobcats: Duesbury, Wardhaugh, Creeggan, Lockyer, Temple, Bone, Empy, Letman, Hurst, Woods, Day, Holmes.

Frankford: Cosgrove, Leavitt, Wickson, B. Rankin, Cooke, H. Rankin, Appleby, Massey, Radnor.

Umpires: Pointer, Whalen. Scorer: Francis Stickle.

Line Score—	R	H	E
Bobcats 200 050 400—11	9	6

Range Rider Still Reaping Benefits from Television Show

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It has been more than two years since the Range Rider has ridden the range, but he's still reaping the benefits from the television show.

The Range Rider is Jock Mahoney, a handsome, six-foot-four former stunt man. His profit from the series comes not from what most people think. Although it has played over and over again on TV, he says that his return from the re-runs is small.

Furthermore, he made the 78 half-hour films at a starting weekly salary of $25, ending up at a maximum $500. That's not much for a TV star, especially when you consider that no doubles were needed for his stunts.

"But I'm not bitter about the money," said Mahoney. "I'm grateful for the opportunity. They took au unknown stunt man and made a name out of him.

"They also taught me the business. Before, I was too scared to open my mouth in front of a camera. Now I feel confident in what I'm doing."

The experience in Range Rider plus six Loretta Young TV films set him up for a movie career of his own, instead of doing daredevil stunts for other actors. Now he is appearing with Jeff Chandler, George Nader and Lex Barker in "Away All Boats."

An athlete at the University of Iowa, Mahoney decided nine years ago to transfer to Stanford University. He headed westward, but his geography was faulty and he landed in Los Angeles, thinking Stanford was nearby (it's 350 miles north). The lure of Hollywood kept him here.

"I wanted to be an actor, but I suffered from an inferiority complex," he said. "So I decided to use my athletic background for stunt work."

He became successful, earning as much as $30,000 a year for stunts most thinking people would never consider. He doubled "for all the long drinks of water"—Gregory Peck, Errol Flynn, Randolph Scott, Sonny Tufts, etc.

His best cheque was $1,500 for falling off a moving train amid boulders for a Randy Scott epic.

"But my hardest stunt was for Flynn in 'Don Juan,'" he recalled. "They had a scene in which Flynn was supposed to do a swan dive down 12 steps of a staircase and stab a man. The company was idle two days while they hunted for someone who would do it.

"I was doubling for Tufts at the time and had my hair dyed blonde. I went over to Warners one day, had my hair dyed Flynn's shade, did the stunt — I had the stairs waxed so I would slide — and was back at Columbia the same day with my hair dyed blonde again.

"I could have held them up for plenty but I only charged $350 because I wanted to get the job of doubling for Flynn."

NOTHING TO IT

CINCINNATI (AP) — Warren Giles, president of the National League, said Tuesday he had been assured by "a Cardinal official" that a report that St. Louis Cardinals are for sale "is without foundation." Giles also said there had been no discussion of such a sale within the league.

"EL ALAMEIN"

Scott Brady, an American tank expert in World War II returns to North Africa in the present day and revisits the scene of the routing of Montgomery and his Afrika Korps from the desert at El Alamein. In 1943, Brady wound up with Edward Ashley, a British captain, a Punjabi and several Australians at a Bedouin desert tomb used by the Germans as an ammunition supply dep. The tomb is deserted except for Peter Brocco, an Arab spy for the Germans, who leads an enemy squad to Brady and the Allied crew. After a furious battle, Brady manages to destroy the ammunition dump before the Germans can retake it. The Germans are then forced back to the sea by the advancing British.

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, June 16, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Reasonable gains possible through careful appraisals before action, well arranged programs. Although you may go out on some limbs, take along common sense and your sense of balance.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Activities governing large numbers of people, family matters, research, travel, food and clothing industries should progress. Landscaping, decorating, styling and writing are top favored.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Interests connected with the sea, science and farming now have a stimulating period. Enlarge your scope of knowledge; be better informed on home, family requirements.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — You can advance quickly now in pursuits for which you have talent and liking, familiar work. Domestic affairs, family interests favored. Be ready to cooperate if necessary.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Your especial gifts and likes encouraged now. Wise investments, long term, carefully made contracts favored — if ably worked out. Be persuasive but not over-aggressive.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo) — New advancement for professional and public-minded persons; scientists, doctors, nurses, teachers. Be consistent and do not force issues. Good possibilities for improvement.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Don't look for complete success — nor many obstacles to it. The "happy medium" reigns now. Try to remember that relaxation and reflection will help to keep you fit.

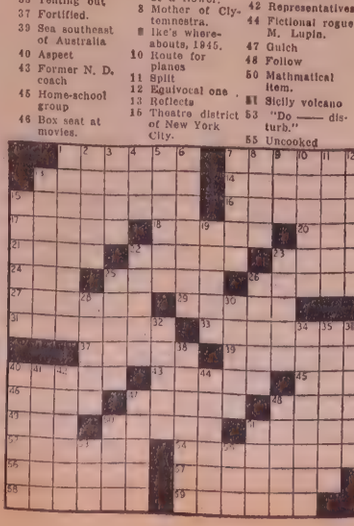
October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Don't let little things upset you. Even big problems are handled better in a calm, unhurried state. Be warned against over-confidence; be sensibly wary.

November 23 to December 22— (Sagittarius) — Under kindness and mannerliness we all thrive. Today's influences suggest that you try and follow good rules most thoughtfully if you would avoid irritation, hurdle obstacles.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Good humor and friendliness will advance you faster and more solidly. Common sense, poise and system will put you 'way out front. Essentials first.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Artistry, optimism and system will govern returns now. Finish enthusiastically what you start in good faith. Give your talents a chance.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces)— Benefic aspects abound in your day, particularly in business matters, travel, studies, organizational activities. Exploit your efficiency and your ideas.



You born today are often brilliant, nearly always active — at least mentally and, on the whole, friendly, congenial and willing to aid any worthwhile cause. You may be too volatile at times, too talkative while not sufficiently attentive to what others have to say. Listening to others is also a vital part of harmonious living and friendship, and of successful associations in business. Cultivate your God-given talent. Enjoy music, children, travel, good reading. Birthdate of: Gustavus V, King of Sweden.

Blast at Factory

BRANTFORD (CP)—An explosion felt over a quarter-mile area Tuesday night rocked the Scarfe and Company paint factory here, injuring one man and breaking about 40 window panes in the factory building.

The blast, cause of which was not immediately known, did little damage to the plant. It occurred in the paint mixing room.

Douglas Robb, 19, suffered minor burns to both arms.

The company is investigating.

NOEL COWARD ILL

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Noel Coward was replaced by entertainers from other resort hotels Tuesday night when illness kept him from making his scheduled $40,000-a-week appearance at the Desert Inn. Gordon MacRae took over the first show, and Peter Lind Hayes and Mary Healy substituted for the British entertainer at the second show.

Make-Believe H-Bomb Attack Now Under Way

OTTAWA (CP) — A three-day make-believe H-bomb attack was launched today on an unknown number of unrevealed Canadian communities.

It's an exercise designed to test civil defence preparedness and from now through Friday civil defence staffs across the country will have plenty of practice in meeting the aftermath of thermonuclear war—in theory only, of course.

Some of the 50 American cities taking part in the Canada-United States exercise known as "Alert Two" will be evacuated from their homes in a mock drill. But none will be evacuated in Canada, where the operation's main aim is to test the vital communications system linking civil defence control points with their nerve centre at the federal civil defence college at Arnprior, Ont.

Target areas weren't disclosed in advance because the exercise's success depends on preparedness of provincial and municipal civil defence centres, officials said.

Quebec was asked to come into the exercise but replied it was not prepared to do so. Prince Edward Island isn't considered a potential enemy target so it is designated as a reception area for evacuees and was not included in plans for this operation.

This is a follow-up of a similar exercise a year ago. From Arnprior headquarters word is flashed to provincial centres as the make-believe bombings are reported.

KEEP LESSONS SECRET

From there on it's up to the provinces to assess damages and casualties and decide what is needed in the way of food, medical help and transport.

The civil defence staffs will be hopping all through the exercise to meet the theoretical disaster's demands—but if you're just an ordinary civilian you may never know what, in theory, hit you. Disclosure in detail of the operation's success or failure could tip any potential enemy of the state of the continent's preparedness.

Urgent Need For Expansion Of Services

TORONTO (CP)—By 1980 Canada may have three unemployables for every able-bodied worker Dr. G. F. Strong of Vancouver, retiring president of the Canadian Medical Association, said Tuesday.

In a paper at the opening of the fourth British Commonwealth medical conference here, he said there is "urgent need for rapid expansion of rehabilitation services in this country."

"In another 25 years, for every able-bodied worker, there will be one physically-handicapped, one chronically-ill and one over 65 years of age."

"This is the great challenge of the future of this continent."

Dr. Strong said the increasing burden of welfare costs makes it imperative Canada rehabilitates persons capable of benefitting from retraining.

HAS GREAT IMPORTANCE

He said rehabilitation ranks equally in importance with preventive and curative medicine, but rehabilitation is in "somewhat the same position as was public health and preventive medicine 100 years ago."

He urged greater emphasis on rehabilitation techniques in medical education, extension of government health grants for the purpose, and establishment of a strong lay-medical society comparable to those existing for tuberculosis and cancer to encourage public participation and financial assistance.

Dr. Strong put his proposals to delegates from 18 countries, who were welcomed by Dr. T. Clarence Routley of Toronto as a "geographic cosmos which has evoked the admiration of many and the envy of not a few."

FIND COCAINE IN BANK

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Police Tuesday discovered two pounds of cocaine hidden in a bank safe deposit box. Narcotics agents ordered other banks checked in the wake of United States reports that a fortune in cocaine is hidden in Mexico for eventual smuggling across the border.

ARGENTINE PLANES BOMB GOVT. HOUSE

13 Die As British Sub Sinks In Port; One Is Canadian

No Hope for Men Trapped After Torpedo Explodes

OTTAWA (CP) — Petty Officer Laverne D. McLeod, a Canadian volunteer on submarine duty with the British Navy, was reported missing, believed dead aboard the British submarine Sidon which exploded and sank in Portland harbor.

McLeod was among 13 officers and men unaccounted for when the submarine sank in 35 feet of water in the British naval port. First doubts whether he was a Canadian naval man were dispelled by naval headquarters which received word confirming that the Goderich-born sailor was on the Sidon.

McLeod, whose wife lives in Dartmouth, N. S., was among 175 Canadians who volunteered for submarine training overseas.

The navy said Mrs. McLeod may have returned to 318 Douro St. Stratford, where Petty Officer McLeod enlisted, after her husband went overseas.

The British admiralty said in a statement that an explosion preceded the sinking of the Sidon which was at mooring beside her parent ship, HMS Maidstone.

RESCUE HAMPERED

"Before she sank several people went down to try to effect rescue operations, which were greatly hampered by smoke as a result of the explosion," the statement said.

"A number of her crew, including seven men who are in hospital suffering from slight injuries (none serious) escaped from the vessel before she sank in 35 feet of water."

The statement said the 13 officers and men missng "were believed to be in the submerged submarine."

Naval headquarters here had no details of the mishap.

Petty Officer McLeod, 24, was born in Goderich, Ont., and enlisted in the navy in November, 1949. At the time he was living at 37 Stachan St., Stratford.

He served aboard the cruiser Ontario and in Korea aboard the destroyers Athabaskan and Huron. He volunteered last year for submarine duty and went to Britain in January.

PORTLAND, Eng. (Reuters) — A British submarine exploded in harbor here today and went to the bottom with 13 crew members aboard. Rescue officials announced there was no hope for the entombed men—one of them a Canadian—after divers had probed the craft for tell-tale knockings from inside which would indicate there was still life aboard.

One of the 13 was Petty Officer Laverne D. McLeod, a Canadian volunteer on submarine duty with the Royal Navy. McLeod was a native of Goderich, who lived in Stratford.

It was not immediately known whether the 13 died in the blast, caused by an exploding torpedo, or suffocated as water seeped in to fill the forward torpedo compartment where they were trapped.

Most of the crew scrambled out of the conning tower after the explosion. Minutes later the vessel, the 1,000-ton Sidon, settled by the bows and suddenly nosed under to take her last dive.

SEVEN RESCUED

The explosion sent up a sheet of flame and billowing clouds of smoke. Debris was blown up through the conning tower hatch.

Seven injured seamen were rescued before the Sidon went down.

A naval spokesman said after six hours of desperate rescue attempts—divers and salvage ships were drawn from all over the south coast of England—that no hope could be held for the 13.

A rescue party equipped with breathing apparatus had boarded the vessel minutes before she sank. In darkness and heavy smoke they struggled in vain to work through the debris to the explosion area forward. They scrambled off the listing Sidon just before she nosed under.

The blast occurred in the forward part of the Sidon at 8:45 a.m. (3:45 a.m. EDT) as the sub lay alongside a "mother ship" moored in this south coast naval base. She was preparing to put to sea, but all the 44 crew members were not yet aboard.

Many of those aboard leaped from hatches following the blast. Eyewitnesses said the explosion sent up a "terrific volume of yellowish smoke."

An admiralty police spokesman said: "There has been no suggestion as yet that sabotage could have been responsible."

"She lurched down by the bows right away and then took a sharp dive," said one of the dozens of base workers who saw the sinking.

Small boats picked up swimming survivors who had jumped clear as the Sidon went down. Two were taken to hospital.

The Sidon was one of five submarines lying alongside the depot ship Maidstone. All five were due to put to sea soon for exercises.

Suit Against McFarland Co. Is Dismissed

OTTAWA (CP)—A $150,000 suit by the widow of an Ottawa police constable against the H. J. McFarland construction company of Picton was dismissed by Justice Wishard Spence in the Ontario Supreme Court Wednesday.

The court ruled that the company could not be held liable for the death last Nov. 16 of constable George Constantineau whose motorcycle collided with a new concrete curb on the Sussex street bridge on the northern outskirts of the city.

In his judgment, Mr. Justice Spence said the contractor's responsibility ended when the new drive was formally opened. At the time of the accident, the contractor had completed his work and the road was in full use.

SEAMEN'S STRIKE TIES UP GIANT LINER IN BRITAIN

1,100 Disembark From Queen Mary

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) —Britain's wildcat seamen's strike tied up the 81,000-ton liner Queen Mary today, and 1,100 New York-bound passengers started disembarking.

More than 500 of the 1,267-member crew walked off the Cunard liner Wednesday to support the strike that already has tied up Cunard's 32,000 - ton Maurentania and five other transatlantic liners.

They were joined 10 minutes before sailing time today by 120 other sailors who charged that "scab labor" had been brought aboard.

The giant ship then lay at her berth, with tugs ready to nose her into Southampton waters and shore gangs ready to cast off the massive mooring ropes.

The strikers had pinned their hopes on holding up the Mary. It was generally believed that if the giant liner sailed, the wildcat walkout would have collapsed.

PASSENGERS DISEMBARK

The strikers failed last week to hold up the Queen Elizabeth, flagship of the line.

Cunard's attempts to get the Mary under way were blasted at the last moment when the 120 joined the others who had walked off the ship Wednesday.

Passengers began disembarking as the Mary's loudspeakers blared out the news. Among them were 50 members of the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company, en route for a Gilbert and Sullivan tour of the United States and Canada.

Anticipating the tie-up, Cunard had two trains ready to take the passengers back to London. It also told them attempts would be made to obtain "alternative transatlantic transportation." Many of the passengers immediately began phoning airline offices to book flights for New York.

Since the walkout began, about 1,000 persons who had been booked aboard tied-up liners for the U. S. and Canada have received passage aboard chartered airlines in addition to regular flights. But many passengers in Canada and many U. S., who had holiday reservations for Europe have had to make other arrangements or postpone trips.

PROTEST HOURS

Most of those involved in the wildcat walkout are cabin and dining-room stewards. They are asking for a 48-hour week and increased shore subsistence. Many claim they often put in as much as 60 hours a week. The seamen's union, however, has refused to approve the strike.

In addition to the seamen's walkout, six ports have been partially crippled by a stubborn stevedores' strike.

The dock stoppage, involving some 20,000 men, grew out of a jurisdictional squabble between two unions. It has crippled the ports of London, Liverpool, Hull, Manchester, Garston and Rochester.

Movies' Big Bosses to Be Quizzed On Sex, Violence and Turner's Torso

By JAMES BACON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The movies' big bosses, most of them blunt-talking men, were slated to tangle with a United States Senate sub-committee today on charges that a score of recent movies have stressed too much sex and violence. Lana Turner's costuming, or lack of it, also was on the agenda.

The sub-committee investigating juvenile delinquency expected to hear from Dore Schary, production boss of MGM; Jack L. Warner of Warner Bros.; Y. Frank Freeman, boss of Paramount; Harry Joe Brown, independent producer; George Sidney, head of the Screen Directors Guild; Jerry Wald, production boss at Columbia, and actors George Murphy and Ronald Reagan.

Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem. Tenn.) and his counsel, James H. Bobo, said the Senate investigators are "critical" of the following movies:

"Blackboard Jungle," "The French Line," "Women's Prison," "Crashout," "Black Tuesday," "Rebel without a Cause," (not yet released), "Ten Wanted Men," "The Prodigal," "Big House, U.S.A.," "New Orleans Uncensored," "I Died a Thousand Times," "Chicago Syndicate" and "Son of Sinbad."

Bobo said the movie men also will be questioned about the recent relaxing of the motion picture production code.

"We want to know why these pictures were approved," he said. "We also want box-office figures. We want to know if the movies make sex and violence pictures because they make more money than others."

Some of the pictures will be quizzed on their advertising campaigns, especially "The Prodigal," a Biblical picture that was sold mostly on a revealing cheesecake photo of Miss Turner's torso.

William Mooring, motion picture editor of The Tidings, newspaper for the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Los Angeles, will appear as a representative of the Legion of Decency.

Harris Thinks Unemployment Now Below Last Year's Level

MURRAY BAY, Que. (CP)—Finance Minister Harris today forecast a sharp plunge in unemployment and reiterated his budget estimate that Canada's gross national product may rise to a record $26,000,000,000 by the end of 1955.

"The latest official figures on unemployment do not carry us beyond the middle of April," he said, "but when May and June figures become available, I am sure they will show a very considerable and rapid decline from the late winter peak.

"I would expect they will show a substantial reduction below the figures of the same date a year ago," he added in an address before the annual meeting of the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada.

The government reported May 24 that the number of persons without jobs and looking for work dropped to 327,000 on April 23 from 401,000 on March 19, but that was still higher than the 306,000 in mid-April 1954.

Work applications in national employment offices declined to 556,312 on April 21 from 623,913 on March 17, but were higher than the 549,028 in April, 1954.

Mr. Harris said the economy now is pulling out of the rather months. Looking ahead, he could mild recession of the last 18 see that the rate of capital investment, for example, which will be required for Canada's growth will be so great "that we need to encourage the most efficient use of our domestic savings in every way we can."

At another point he said, "We are confronted with such substantial growth that it is difficult to become accustomed to the new magnitudes."

His statements were contained in a text of his address released to the press in advance of delivery.

The minister recalled that in his April 5 budget speech, he based government projections of revenue and expenditures for the current fiscal year on a rise in the gross national product — value of all goods and services produced—to a record total (not average) of $25,-250,000,000 for 1955 from $24,000,-000,000 in 1954.

He predicted also that it would be running at an annual rate of $26,-000,000,000 by the end of 1955.

Mr. Harris said economic events of the last 10 weeks have proved encouraging and he could see no good reason to alter his expectations.

Mr. Harris touched on two other points in his speech: The fact that there is as yet no generally accepted philosophy on the role of managing Canada's national debt in Canada's economy and the work of the royal commission which will look into Canada's economic future.

The minister said there is general agreement that the major objective of debt management should be to contribute to the economy's stability and growth, but that as yet, there has not developed any generally accepted philosophy as to the role that debt management can and should perform in our economy."

On the royal commission, he said he hoped its report will mark, not the conclusion of a special study, "but the beginning of a new cycle of thinking and planning for the future."

West Prepares Its Strategy For Coming Big Four Talks

By A. I. GOLDBERG

NEW YORK (AP) — The West began today to unify its secret strategy for Big Four talks in San Francisco and Geneva.

State Secretary Dulles arrived from Washington Wednesday for the meetings here with British and French delegates. West Germany joins the conference Friday, and separate British-German and French-German talks have been arranged through Saturday.

Britain's Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan and Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay of France, due in by plane today, completed the group for the first talks this afternoon. West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, in Boston today to receive a Harvard degree, will join the Big Three at lunch Friday.

Strong security precautions and an attempt at complete secrecy surrounded the preparations for the meetings, aimed at presenting a united front in San Francisco next week when the Westerners meet Russia's Foreign Minister Molotov.

"We are going into meetings with the Russians," one spokesman explained. "If we make known our plans beforehand, what will we have to bargain with?"

The Western trio's talks in San Francisco with Molotov are designed to set up the framework for the "summit" meeting July 18 in Geneva, Switzerland, of President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Eden, Premier Edgar Faure and Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

All four foreign ministers will be in San Francisco to attend the 10th anniversary assembly of the United Nations, beginning Monday.

The conferences here began on an optimistic note.

Senators Storm Over Pensions Proposed in Government Bill

OTTAWA (CP)—A verbal storm has blown up in the Senate over new government legislation to provide pensions under certain circumstances for common-law wives of Canadian servicemen.

It was described variously as a pension reward for adultery, legalized adultery and a flouting of God's laws as five senators—two of them Liberals—took strong exception Wednesday to new pension clauses in a consolidation of the Canadian Forces Act.

The controversial section provides that a married woman who lives as the wife of a serviceman for seven years may, at the discretion or the treasury board, be granted a pension on his death whether or not the man was legally married to another woman. Where neither party was married, the common-law widow might get a pension if the board was satisfied with the circumstances.

Sample comments of the three most outspoken opponents of the measure:

Senator John T. Haig, opposition leader: "I am not going to degrade the womanhood of this country by saying that a woman who has lived in adultery with an officer for seven years can get away with it . . . it cuts me to the heart . . ."

Senator Felix Quinn (PC—Nova Scotia): "Our law-makers are attempting to match their wisdom with the wisdom of God who gave us the 10 commandments . . . It (the bill) asks us to flout the laws of God . . . We are being asked to condone adultery . . . I cannot condone sin, and so I cannot vote for such legislation."

Senator Walter Aseltine (PC—Saskatchewan): ". . . We shall be subsidizing adultery or placing a premium on it . . . We adopted a law giving relief to the gold mining industry; if we pass this measure we shall be giving relief to the gold-diggers."

"It's just terrible," said Senator Thomas Reid (L — British Columbia), who added that common-law wives are common enough without legalizing them.

Senators endorsed a motion by Senator J. J. Kinley (L—Nova Scotia) that the bill be sent back commerce committee for further study. The motion, in effect, rejected the report of the committee which had previously sent the bill to the Senate without recommending changes.

Senators Haig and Quinn expressed amazement that it had been passed by the Commons.

Senator Salter Hayden (L—Ontario), chairman of the committee which had considered the bill, urged his colleagues to keep the matter in proper perspective. The treasury board would decide each case on its merits and not condone adultery in the usual sense.

He said similar provisions are contained in three other pieces of federal legislation.

STRICT STANDARDS FOR LIBRARIAN REQUEST OF PCS

Party Claims Job Could Be Political Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—A Progressive Conservative charge that the sedate library of Parliament may become flooded by political patronage has been coupled with a demand that strict professional standards govern future appointments to the job of chief librarian.

Margaret Aitken (PC — York-Humber) said in the Commons Wednesday that unless future librarians are required to have a university degree in library science the parliamentary library could become a political plum.

Citizenship Minister Pickersgill, former history professor,, said a degree isn't all-important. He added that past Conservative governments have been prone to hand good jobs in the library to their political supporters.

The House adjourned before reaching a decision on Miss Aitken's proposal, put forward as an amendment to a government bill dealing with future appointments of parliamentary librarians.

ONE IN CHARGE

The library bill would establish a single head of the parliamentary library, with an associate librarian, in place of the present joint administration by two men.

It would take effect with the retirement of either of the present heads, Felix Desrochers, 69, general librarian, and F. A. Hardy, 65, parliamentary librarian. Both have the rank of deputy minister.

Mr. Pickersgill, sponsor of the bill, said a trained librarian would be desirable, other things being equal. No government would appoint an unworthy person. But there were certain desirable qualities other than a degree.

"Most important of all, it seems to me, is a good general education, with a strong bias toward history, constitutional law and political subjects."

He said the late Hon. Martin Burrell, former Conservative cabinet minister who was parliamentary librarian for many years, had been a good librarian.

A "PLUM"

George Hees (PC — Toronto Broadview) said Mr. Pickersgill could easily agree to the Conservative proposal "unless the government intends to fill the post as a political plum to be offered to a faithful party supporter."

The Commons also completed detailed study of a massive bill consolidating various statutes governing the publicly-owned CNR, but only after a dispute over whether the bill maintains provincial control of the railway's bus and trucking operations.

Opposition leader Drew said one section of the measure puts CNR highway business outside provincial jurisdiction. He asked that the bill be held up pending a meeting with provincial representatives.

Transport Minister Marier said provincial control, as intended by the federal government, is assured.

Conservatives forced a vote on the disputed section, which was approved, 54 to 41.

European Leaders Believe Russia 'Almost Desperately' Seeking Peace

TORONTO (CP) — Publisher John Bassett Jr. of The Telegram said today the feeling of European political leaders is that Russia "is almost desperately looking for some way to live at peace with the free world."

The Toronto publisher said the "main and most important impression" he brought back from a European tour is that tensions in Europe have eased considerably in the last year.

This did not mean that Russia had "suddenly developed any great love for us." Rather it was following this policy from necessity because of the ever-growing strength of the West.

Mr. Bassett spoke to a joint meeting of the Canadian Club, the Empire Club and the Life Underwriters' Association. His remarks were contained in a text of his speech released to the press before delivery.

During his tour, Mr. Bassett visited Italy, France, Belgium and England.

Speaking of Italy, he said the Italian people have defeated the most powerful Communist threat to any country outside the Iron Curtain.

Mr. Bassett paid tribute to the immense rebuilding program in Italy and praised the strength and stability of the government.

Of France, however, he said he could not be so optimistic. There was a basic sickness there and a contempt for parliamentary institutions and political leaders.

The French people do not appear to want a strong federal government, the publisher said.

"They claim that although ministries change frequently in France, policies do not change so materially and that all British, American and Canadian concern about 'stable government' in France is unreal."

Conditions in England are different, he said. The spirit of the people had brought the country from near bankruptcy to economic strength and political stability.

Air Force, Navy Stage Revolts; Army Opposed?

Rebellion Follows Vatican Excommunication Order

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Military planes bombed the government house in Buenos Aires today.

Fighting was under way between government house guards and attacking soldiers. The attackers were reported to be using machine-guns.

The machine-guns and policemen were in public buildings near government house. The machine-guns fired back against the attacking planes. There was panic in the streets. Traffic was halted immediately.

Soldiers with rifles, with bayonets fixed, were swarming over the city.

The state radio announced there had been uprisings in the air force and navy and that army forces were fighting to restore order.

The statement, attributed to Peron, said one plane had been shot down and "three others had been obliged to land."

At least two bombs apparently fell directly on government house and another fell in the street nearby.

PERON OFFICES

Government house is the seat of government, the office of President Juan Peron. He does not live there, however.

It was not known immediately where the president was at the time the trouble started. Most every day he leaves government house about noon or shortly after. The bombing started about a half hour later than his usual time for going home.

Machine - guns and policemen were in public buildings near Government House. The automatic weapons fired back against the attacking planes.

Huge di Pietro, assistant secretary of the government-controlled General Federation of Labor, issued a call for all workers to gather immediately at the federation headquarters, about 10 blocks from government house.

It was the workers principally who broke up an attempted revolution against Peron Sept. 28, 1951.

This came a few hours after news reached here that the Vatican had excommunicated the Argentine government. The Catholic Church announced its penalty of excommunication—cutting off the sacraments of the church—was applied because of Argentine events culminating in the expulsion Wednesday of Bishop Manuel Tato.

STILL PRESIDENT

Legal sources here declared the excommunication does not mean Peron ceases to be a Roman Catholic. Therefore, they said, he can continue to serve under the Argentine constitution making Roman Catholicism, the official religion.

Bishop Tato and an associate expelled with him meantime were being flown to Rome on a special Argentine airliner.

Radio Mitre, apparently seized by revolutionaries, announced that the city of Rosario was completely in control of revolutionaries. Rosario has 500,000 population and is Argentina's second largest city.

Radio Mitre's announcer shouted "this is a democratic revolution."

An unidentified voice was heard shouting "the tyrant is dead." There was no additional explanation and this may have been a phrase used in a rhetorical sense.

At this point the radio's power supply apparently was cut off.

In Buenos Aires a detachment of troops, described as large, was marching into the centre of the city from a nearby army base.

The number of planes which bombarded Government House was not learned immediately.

Troops cleared civilians from the streets in the Government House area before the fighting began, but then the soldiers wasted little time getting into action.

As the sound of gunfire swept through the area, business houses pulled down their iron shutters.

Seventeen Killed

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters) — Seventeen of 24 persons aboard a Constellation airliner bound from here to Buenos Aires were killed in a crash near Assuncion, Paraguay, the Panair do Brazil line announced today.

The announcement said the seven survivors included the pilot and hostess. The airliner carried 14 passengers and 10 crew.

Kiwanians Ready For Kid's Day At Fairgrounds

National Kids Day—the Kiwanis-sponsored field for small fry across Canada—will be staged at the fair grounds, Saturday.

An expected turnout of 3,600 school kids, between seven to 15 years, at the moment is giving chairman of the event, Kiwanian Hugh Murray, a hectic time.

About 40 Kiwanians will aid in seeing that everything runs smoothly for the field and track events that go to make up the big sports outing for pupils of district, public and separate schools.

Responsible for drawing up the program is director-manager of the city's recreational committee, Red Doran, who right now has completed and timed his schedule for the event.

Since a crowd of 3,600 makes things pretty rough on a time schedule, in order that the event won't finish in the moonlight preliminaries are now being run off at the various schools. The final results from these will mean that the top two athletes in each of the four groups at the schools participating will be entered in the finals and these will go to make up National Kids Day.

OPP, Salvation Army Team Up In Mercy Errand

How the Ontario Provincial Police and the Salvation Army teamed up to get an 86-year-old New Brunswick hitch-hiker back to his home was told here this week by Alderman Bram Humphreys, local Army worker.

It seems that Provincial Police highway patrol officers picked up the old gentleman during a heavy rainstorm just after midnight Monday. He had been attempting to hitch-hike his way west. He was soaked to the skin and was not too sure where he had come from or where he was headed.

Police brought him to the city and took him to the county jail, where he was given a hot bath and dry clothes. Salvation Army workers learned from him that he had come from a small hamlet in New Brunswick. A telephone call to the Maritimes verified his address.

The next question was how to get the elderly man back home. Train fare would cost $35.

So arrangements were made to have provincial police relay him back east. Belleville patrol officers took him to the end of their beat from where he was taken to Kingston, Brockville and ultimately to Montreal. From there Salvation Army workers were to complete arrangements for further relays to get their charge back home.

Acetylene Torch Believed Cause Of Small Blaze

A spark from an acetylene torch is believed responsible for a small blaze in the basement of Lipson's store on Front street, which filled the Lipson store and that of McIntosh's with smoke.

The blaze was discovered Wednesday night shortly before 10.30 with firemen finding a doorway in the basement afire. Smoke from the burning wood filtered into the two stores above.

It was believed that a spark from an acetylene torch being used in connection with the basement alterations had smouldered in the woodwork after workmen had left.

Children, Guests of Police, Enjoy Circus at Arena Here

City police took time out yesterday from keeping a fatherly eye on citizens to play uncle to nearly 1,500 school children.

Event was the Clyde Brothers Circus, which played its premiere here yesterday afternoon to an audience of moppets from Belleville and district schools, gathered at the Memorial Arena under the wing of the Belleville Police Association.

Tickets for the circus during the week were circulated among the schools by the association for the big show's two-day stopover here. When the circus strikes the road tonight the city's finest will have played uncle to about 5,000 small fry, including 400 from the Ontario School for the Deaf.

They started descending on the arena about 3.30 p.m. By 4.15 the building was a restless mob of moppets; so much so a special request had to be issued that they retain the seats they chose. Few circuses canvassed in the town in recent years ever had such a boisterous opening as the one accorded Clyde's. Dismissed early from school, the kids branched out to the arena to root the free show for all they were worth.

Besides the welcome, no circus was ever more certain of secure profits. Any shady artist with designs on the box office would have found himself in hot water. All the department's nightshift was out in force. Handling tickets were Sgt. Roy Milligan and Constables Jack Parker and Robert Hall while chaperoning the attendance through the wicket was Con. Harry McKee. The rest of the night beat was scattered elsewhere through the building, keeping a benign eye on things.

The show got under way with a brash clash of typical circus music and a roar from throats oiled with candyfloss and pop. Given a big welcome was the entry of clown Poodles Hanneford to warm up enthusiasm for acts to come.

And enthusiastically the acts were greeted.

ALL GIVEN WELCOME

Clowns, hair-bending aerialists, jugglers and skaters, all were given a big welcome. However, the show stealers were the animals, especially the elephants, which with their ponderous antics created awe amid the crowd.

Wide-eyed one lumbering mammoth a girl leaned over to a watching constable and asked: "Sir do they get them when they are small?"

Lively presentation was the team of black-and-white Liberty Horses while in similar vein was the precision trot of the circus' military ponies.

The circus also went to the dogs by bringing in a three-ring presentation of canny canine antics.

Trapeze artistes were breath - catching highlights of the show with acts like the Kolmans and the Great Gretonas dropping thrills into the laps of the crowd from the arena roof.

Boisterous relief was added toward the show's end with the antics of the circus clowns who created bedlam both within the ring and out.

The show could not have asked for a better opening audience. Primed by free tickets, early dismissal from school and, for many, the thrill of seeing their first circus, the moppets mopped it up.

The show continues today and tonight, the afternoon performance to be attended by the OSD pupils.

Authority to Determine Use Of Dams in Controlling Levels

The repair of two dams on the upper Skootamatta river and the use of a department of public works dam on the headwaters of the Black River will be investigated by the Moira River Conservation Authority to determine their potential use in controlling water levels.

Authority officials will visit the department dam at Lingham Lake in Grimsthorpe township with the view of siuing the dam to raise the summer flow in the black River.

Also a department hydraulic engineer will inspect the two dams on the upper Skootamatta, one at Flinton and the other at Slave Lake to give an estimate of the cost of repairs.

All three dams came up for discussion at Wednesday's meeting of the Moira River Conservation Authority held at Tweed. Following the meeting members were taken on a tour of the Moira watershed, visiting several points of interest in the Tweed and Madoc districts.

Former Authority member, Ted Courneyea of Tweed, told the meeting that the two dams on the Skootamatta were badly in need of repair. Should they go out he said there would be flood damage as far south as Tweed. "The two dams impounded water which provided excellent fishing," he said.

Herb Crown, representing the Ontario Department of Planning and development, said that before these dams were repaired or rebuilt it would have to be determined whether they were to be used for maintaining water levels in the area above the dams or whether they were to be used to increase summer flow below the dams.

It was pointed out that the department dam at Lingham Lake is now used to provide increased summer flow for mills at Queensboro.

WILL NOT ASSIST

The meeting was told that the Federal government was unlikely to assist financially in the construction of the College Street ice control dam, proposed to be built just north of Belleville as a flood control measure.

Originally it had been expected that the federal government would pay 37½ percent of the cost of this dam.

Col. Roscoe Vanderwater, secretary treasurer of the Authority, told of a delegation having gone to Ottawa to seek financial assistance for construction of the proposed dam. The delegation had been told that the College street dam was too small to come within the field of the federal department.

The Authority recommended that a letter be forwarded to the Ontario minister of planning and development urging that the dam be proceeded with. The city of Belleville is committed to payment of 25 per cent of the cost, while it was originally thought that the provincial and federal governments would each pay 37½ percent.

Zone Forester W. E. Edward of Napanee reported on reforestation, noting that three additional properties in the Actinolite area had been offered for purchase by the Authority. The reforestation committee was authorized to deal with the matter. Ninety-six thousand trees had been planted by the Authority on the Courneyea property at Actinolite this year while boy scouts and school children had also planted several thousand trees.

"In addition to the Authority planting roughly 100,000 trees had been planted in the county this year by private interests", he said.

WILL REPAIR MILL

Earl Sager, reeve of Madoc township, said that arrangements had been made for re-construction of the O'Hara Mill which is to be preserved as a historical site. The mill will be rebuilt later this summer, he said.

During the luncheon at the Oddfellows Hall provided by the local Rebekah chapter ladies for Authority members, it was reported by Col. Vanderwater that he had been informed by A. H. Richardson, chief conservation officer, that the Toronto Game and Hunt Club had contributed $1,000 toward the restoration of the old mill property.

Authority chairman, Alderman Bruce Smith of Belleville, presided over the general meeting and also acted as chairman for the luncheon attended by about 30 members.

Following the luncheon members boarded a bus for their annual tour of the watershed. The tour included a stop at Moira Gorge, site of a proposed river park east of Thomasburg, a visit to Bronson's Rapids and the site of the proposed Bend Bay reservoir west of Moira Lake, and a visit to the Authority south of Actinolite.

MEMBERS VIEW GROWTH

Members saw the growth of red and Scotch pines planted in 1946 and how these had ended the blowing of sand on formerly abandoned farm property. It was pointed out by Mr. Edward that the Authority now owns 2,670 acres of reforestation land which is managed by the Department of Lands and Forests.

The advantages of proper land use planning were illustrated during two stops along the route of the tour. Doug. Logsdail, from the Soils Advisory Branch, told of the services being offered by his department to promote proper land use in order that losses of soil through erosion may be prevented.

Land use capability classes are determined following an examination being made for slope, erosion, drainage, fertility, stoniness, depth, permeability and texture, one or more of which can limit the use of the land.

Mr. Logsdail noted that approximately six Hastings county farmers had taken advantage of his department's free survey program for determination of proper land use.

Hearing of McClintock Case Adjourned, 8 Witnesses Heard

BRIGHTON. (Special.) — Eight witnesses were called on to give evidence at the preliminary hearing opened here yesterday for purpose of determining whether James McClintock, 25, of R.R. 4, Trenton, should be committed for trial. McClintock is charged with criminal negligence as the operator of a car involved in an accident that caused the death of his 75-year-old bride of four months. Magistrate R. B. Baxter of Cobourg, presided.

A daughter of the dead woman was called on to testify that she had identified her mother's body at Weaver's Funeral Home, Trenton, following the accident.

Evidence given by Coroner Dr. W. W. Wilson of Brighton, revealed that the woman suffered a compound fracture of the cheek bones, a fractured jaw, a "stove-in chest," compound fracture of pelvis, fractured legs, lacerations of the head and legs and multiple abrasions over the whole body.

DEATH BY SHOCK

He said death was caused by concussion and shock.

Under cross examination by defence counsel, Ron Cass of Belleville, Dr. Wilson said he couldn't say whether he was talking with accused on night of accident. He talked with somebody he said and assumed it was he.

"I don't remember conversation," Dr. Wilson answered.

Cpl. R. J. Rackham, provincial police photographer at Belleville identified a number of pictures he had made of the scene and the car involved. They were submitted as exhibits by Crown Attorney H. Deyman of Cobourg. Defence counsel asked Cpl. Rackham for more detailed explanation of some of the photos.

ARRIVED AT NIGHT

James McClintock Sr., said his son and daughter-in-law, arrived at his home north of Brighton, about 8.30 p.m., on April 23. He said he was in bed and got up when they came in the house. He said his son brought him a case of beer. He said he went back to bed at 9.00 p.m. after his son and he each drank two and a half pints of beer. He said he gave his son five bottles of beer to take home. He said his son had just the same amount to drink as he had because he wouldn't allow him to have any more.

Roger Corbeil, a civilian driver for 25 Canadian Ordnance Depot at Cobourg, was driving a patient Private White, from Cobourg to hospital at Kingston, when he first noticed the McClintock car on No. 2 highway six miles east of here. He said he was travelling at between 50 and 55 miles an hour as he approached the curve west of Freeman's motel. As he was just about to enter the curve he said another car passed him.

SAID WOMAN WAS WIFE

He said he believed the other car was doing 70 because the driver appeared to apply brakes as he left the highway and hit the south shoulder of the road. He described the events that followed. He saw the car swing to the north and a post by the highway smashed off. He recalled that a cloud of dust impaired his vision momentarily then he saw a woman thrown out of the car into the air, as the car was starting to roll over on the right hand side. He watched the woman hit the ground with her head facing south. The car continued to roll over he related and rolled over the woman before it came to a stop in an upright position. He recalled that the car rolled over a number of times. He recalled that he could find no pulse when he reached the woman's side. He said McClintock got out the right side and told him the woman by the side of the road was his wife.

STATEMENT GIVEN

Corbeil could not remember seeing anything moving on the highway prior to the accident.

In a statement to police McClintock said he swerved to miss an orange-colored dog and the car went out of control.

Under cross-examination Corbeil said traffic approaching from east was 1,000 feet away and would not interfere with passing car. Corbeil indicated to Mr. Cass that he could not see an animal moving on road if he was watching car passing on left side. Corbeil recalled that McClintock told him he had just bumped his head. He said McClintock appeared to be drowsy or shocked. "I don't suppose that would be unusual if a person rolled over two or three times?" asked Mr. Cass. "No. I had shock myself one time," the witness replied.

CONSTABLE AGREES

"That indicated that the accused had a drink but not in excess," Mr. Cass pointed out. Constable Hardy agreed.

The Crown submitted two full bottles of beer, a bottle with the cap intact but part of contents missing due to violent shaking in the accident and the neck of a fourth bottle with the cap firmly in place. It is possible a bottle was completely demolished," asked Mr. Cass. Constable Hardy answered: "Could be."

Mr. Cass called for evidence from Private White. "I feel it is the duty of the defence counsel to call Private White," he said. "I feel his evidence doesn't add much to the Crown's case" he continued, and "I don't want to unduly upset the hearing but I feel he is a witness that should be called."

FOUND BRAKES FAIR

Trenton garage mechanic Gordon MacDonald said he checked brakes on McClintock's car on May 4 and found the front brakes fair. He testified that the brake linings seemed to be good but a leaking grease seal in the right rear wheel could cause the brake to grab and throw the car to the right if the brakes were applied violently.

Provincial Constable Allan Hardy in charge of the investigation said he found the woman lying on the shoulder of the road 140 feet east of the broken pole. Defence counsel Cass brought his attention to an object lying in front of the wrecked car shown in one of the official photographs. Constable Hardy identified it as a claw hammer that had apparently fallen out of the car. Constable Hardy testified that McClintock was not acting like a drunk. He observed that the accused had alcohol on his breath.

Mr. Cass suggested the hearing be adjourned a week to bring in Private White. The Crown indicated that Private White was in hospital and might be there a month.

Magistrate Baxter granted adjournment for a week for the Crown to get authoritative information on the possibility of having Private White brought here to testify.

Wants to Sell Bathroom In Middle of Field

WAKEFIELD, Eng. (AP)—Norman Pickersgill is trying to sell his bathroom.

It stands all alone in the middle of a 3½-acre field—a neat little structure of rustic brick with a red, tiled roof. The equipment is most modern.

The real estate agent explained that Norman, a grocer, used to live in a trailer in the field. Since the trailer did not boast a bath, Norman spent £400 building one.

Last month he moved into a house. Now he wants to sell his field—and the bathroom.

The mooring ship Moordale manoeuvred into position immediately after the blast and put a cable around the stern of the Sidon. A naval helicopter sped divers to the scene. They went down to probe damage immediately and to determine means for reaching the trapped men.

The Sidon, an S-class vessel, was built in 1944. She mounts a 20-millimetre cannon and a three-inch gun, and is equipped with 21-inch torpedo tubes.

She took part in operations during the Second World War, and participated in the reoccupation of Hong Kong in 1945.

Britain's last submarine disaster occurred in April, 1951, when the Affray sank in the English channel with the loss of 75 lives.

WHEN 64 DIED

Sixty-four Royal Navy men died in January, 195, when the sub Truculent sank after a collision with a Dutch vessel in the Thames estuary

Ironically, the navy announced the successful conclusion only Wednesday of tests on a new escape chamber by which men trapped in a submarine underwater can get out more safely. The device had not yet been fitted aboard the Sidon.

A sister ship of the Sidon, La Sibylle, disappeared while diving off the French Mediterranean coast in September, 1952. All 48 aboard were lost. Formerly the British submarine Sportsman, she had been loaned to the French Navy earlier that year.

Sales and Ad Club to Assist In Civil Defence

Belleville's Sales and Advertising club soon will be striving to interest civilians in civil defence.

In so doing it becomes the first Canadian club to follow a government suggestion that such organizations should help arouse public interest in playing the role of home-front soldiers.

The idea springs from a recent speech by Minister of National Health and Welfare Paul Martin to the Federation of Sales and Advertising clubs in Kitchener-Waterloo. At that time he laid before the convention the idea that community clubs should aid local authorities in developing public interest in civil defence.

Yesterday, Frank C. Murray, president of the local club, wired Mr. Martin of his club's willingness to follow up with his idea, adding preparations now are being made for an organized plan to go into effect here in September.

Replied Mr. Martin: ". . . Your members are greatly to be congratulated since yours is the first Advertising and Sales club in Canada to come forward and accept my invitation to assist in this most important task. Best wishes for success and every assurance of my continued interest and support."

Belleville's civil defence co-ordinator, George Whitman, today welcomed the club's decision and looked ahead to working with their scheme in September.

WOULD SHORTEN DEBATES

Drastic changes in the rules of the House of Commons have been proposed in an unanimous report of an all-party committee.

The fact that all members of the committee were in agreement and that the House received the report with enthusiastic desk-thumping from all parties will lead many Canadians to conclude that here is one piece of legislation which is certainly desirable.

A few curmudgeons, however, will immediately become suspicious. Just what is it that wins the approval of members of every shade of political opinion? A raise in pay?

No, not this time.

The report recommends that speeches be cut down and that the length of debates be limited.

Now cutting down the length of speeches will certainly do no harm, provided the members know where and how to cut. And if they do not, why then it is just up to the voters to find some new members who do. Half of what is now printed in Hansard might just as well have been thrown into the wastebasket before publication as afterwards.

Limiting the length of debates, however, is a more doubtful move. Reducing the length of speeches will automatically reduce the length of debates, in any case. There are circumstances in which limiting the debate on the reply to the speech from the throne to ten days and the debate on the budget to eight days might make it impossible for all members who had something important to say to air their views in the House. There should be no charge which would make it difficult for any member, or every member, to discuss any bill, or every bill. Indeed, what is required is more the encouragement of individual members to enter into full debate on all legislation than the limiting of their participation in debate.

Shorten the speeches and that will provide all the necessary streamlining of the work of the Commons.

After all, the MP's are getting paid for debating and listening to debates.

FEAR TV BOOTLEGGERS

The Federal Communications Commission in the United States is afraid of bootleggers.

The problem which the FCC faces will probably confront the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, too, one of these days.

What the FCC fears may be bootlegged is neither bonded Scotch nor "tiger milk." It is decoders, little gadgets for unscrambling TV waves.

The electronics experts have devised a method by means of which the user can be made to pay for TV entertainment in cash, and not merely by sitting through advertisements. TV programs would be "scrambled" and the "subscriber" would have to purchase a device to "unscramble" them.

The three companies which have developed methods of scrambling telecasts contend that it would be impractical, if not impossible, for outsiders to build bootleg decoders that would work. But independent electronics engineers doubt this.

If efficient decoders can be built by "bootleggers" and sold at a price lower than that which the "subscription TV" firms must charge to cover the cost of "subscription" broadcasts, it is obvious that "pay TV" is impractical unless the law steps into the situation.

The report on this situation does not explicitly say so, but perhaps the FCC is wondering whether the state has any right to undertake a difficult and expensive policing job for the benefit of private firms.

There is another aspect to the case. The number of TV channels is limited. Is it right to allot channels to toll TV, reducing the number of channels available for free TV?

There is, of course, no reason why the TV viewer should not pay for his entertainment, if the TV broadcaster can devise a method of making him do so. But at the same time these TV channels do not belong to any private firm. Should subscription TV firms be permitted to monopolize a channel which would otherwise be used by a firm providing TV programs free of charge?

Solomon was lucky. He lived in a day when property rights were not quite as complicated as they are in this century.

A COURAGEOUS GIRL

It's a new day—and a bright one—for Dawn McFarland of Portsmouth, England.

She has had her leg amputated.

That will not sound like cause for rejoicing to most of us, but seventeen-year-old Dawn thinks it is wonderful. As the result of polio, her left leg was shorter than her right. She could not dance, or run or go cycling. So she persuaded doctors to amputate the crippled leg and substitute an artificial one. Now she can do anything other girls do.

Perhaps she has pioneered the way to new happiness and activity for hundreds of cripples. Providing the nature of the crippling affliction is such as to make it possible to attach an artificial limb which will provide good service, others may be able to follow with advantage the course which Dawn has mapped out for them. But it took courage to talk doctors into performing this amputation. Courage is always the key to overcoming handicaps — courage and vision.

THE FAMILY

Families can never be
Day by day from worry free.
As the circle wider grows,
More and more of care it knows.
Guard them closely as you will,
Some one dearly loved is ill.

Every family meets despair
With the need for faith and prayer.
None escapes the sting of pain.
Peace of mind can't long remain.
Grateful they should be who're told
All is well with young and old.

Love has joys and griefs to share.
Many a heartache it must bear.
Gayly pass the months and years,
Then the anxious time appears.
Be the family large or small,
Fear is common to us all.

Riddleburger Fitting Name

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

It is with no intention of disrespect that we suggest that the name of the American ambassador to Yugoslavia might be put to good use commercially by the simple expedient of substituting a 'u' for an 'e'. The gentleman's name is Mr. Riddleberger.

Ah! the Riddleburger. What possibilities it conjures up in one's mind! For those roadside snacks, with which all we North Americans are familiar, we have names which clearly depict the character and ingredient of the snack in question. We call hamburg steak on a bun the hamburger, chicken on a bun the chickenburger, lobster on a bun the lobsterburger, nuts on a bun the nutburger, and so on. But as yet we have no word to describe some of the ghastly concoctions foisted on a long-suffering public in some of the more nefarious of our roadside eating dens. We have as yet no name to depict that type of 'burger' which seems to be compound a gelatinous stew or brow which would have brought delight to the hearts of the witches in Shakespeare's MacBeth.

Now we suggest that we do have a name. We give you the 'riddleburger', a snack which will give infinite scope to those roadside chefs who love to toy with combinations of left-overs. The 'riddleburger' will embrace them all. We might even suggest as a promotional stunt that proprietors of roadside stands offer a second 'riddleburger' free to patrons who can guess the riddle of what's in the first one.

The 'riddleburger'. "What's in a name?" What indeed?

Should Signal With Her Leg

(Fergus News-Record)

A man from a neighboring town was driving along the highway one day. He turned out to pass a car ahead of him and just at that instant, the driver of the front car started to make a left hand turn.

For a moment, there was some confusion, but both car drivers managed to turn off and the cars only brushed together in one spot. The man climbed out and discovered the other driver was a young woman.

Being rather irate, he demanded to know why the woman had not made a signal that she was going to turn.

The woman replied that she had put her arm out the window. The first driver said he hadn't seen it at all and the woman said, "Well, if I had stuck my leg out, you would have seen it quick enough."

Hired or Fired?

The smart young man wanted a job as newspaper reporter. After the interview, the editor told him he would be hired if he could write a good headline for the following situation:

"A young couple got a preacher out of bed at three a.m., and asked him to marry them. How would you title that?" asked the editor.

"Oh, that's easy," replied the youth. "I would just head it . . . 'Parson Ties Knot in His Shirt-tail'."

Running Out Of New Germs

(Edmonton Journal)

A rather cheering communique has come from the war against disease. A recent report from the World Health Organization indicates that no new diseases caused by germs or viruses have been discovered since 1948, despite a diligent search by scientists in many parts of the world. The total number of such diseases now known stands at 999.

This is a sharp change from earlier years when new diseases —"new" at least in the sense that they had not previously been recognized as distinct conditions— were regularly discovered, and traced to specific microbes. This was particularly true in the period when modern medical techniques were first introduced into the tropics and other remote parts of the world. The pioneer doctors and bacteriologists found whole regions infected with hitherto unsuspected plagues—some of them extremely dangerous, like the African sleeping sickness or the Rocky Mountain spotted fever of our own continent. The military operations of the Second World War in the South Pacific and the Far East also turned up a variety of unfamiliar infections native to those regions. As a result of all this, the idea became general that an indefinite number of germs and organisms capable of causing human sickness existed in nature.

Experience since 1948 seems to have modified this theory. A number of previously unknown micro-organisms, especially viruses, have been discovered and studied. One Rockefeller Foundation research project alone has identified eleven "new" viruses in Africa and South America. But none of these organisms has shown itself able to cause disease in human beings.

No one can doubt that other disease-inducing germs remain to be discovered —lurking in out-of-the-way parts of the world or perhaps even in the centres of civilization; and there is also the possibility that a bacteria or virus now considered harmless may undergo a mutation and become dangerous. The list will probably go well beyond 999 before it is closed. Still it begins to look as though mankind's invisible enemies may be far less numerous than once supposed and that most of them may be known already. And once known they can be fought and conquered.

These Both Long Shots

(Minneapolis Tribune)

A 44-year-old woman in Los Angeles is believed to have set a world record with 13 marriages and divorces. The 13th divorce decree cleared the way for her 14th marriage. The judge told her that "maybe this one will stick."

In Seattle a hole half an inch larger than a baseball has been cut through the left-field fence at Sick's stadium, home of the Seattle Rainiers. It is 360 feet from home plate and any player who hits a baseball through it will get $100,000.

Roger Rice, manager of a radio station which broadcasts Rainier games and who dreamed up the jackpot knothole, took out insurance with a firm which told him that the chances of anybody collecting the $100,000 are 'so remote as to make the risk negligible."

Wonder what odds an insurance firm would give on the Los Angeles woman keeping husband No. 14?

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It so happened that on one day I was present at a patriotic gathering in eastern Ontario in connection with the 24th of May celebration, and two days later I was in North Battleford, Saskatchewan.

On the first occasion, O Canada was played and sung at a slow tempo, and a more doleful dirge you never did hear. There were, men, women and children, standing on guard for thee, O Canada, as if we were about to fall flat on our faces or else sag at the knees and collapse. Sung as slow time, O Canada is next to impossible to sing. It intones. Half way through it, you see the celebrants swallowing moodily and giving up, to stand through the rest of the anthem glancing sadly around at their fellow citizens.

North Battleford has a youth band of close to forty pieces. It is a band supported with western gusto by the Kiwanis of the town. It won second place in the band concerts at Calgary last year. It has no fewer than six tubas in it, supported by strapping young men under twenty, since the band is confined to the ages ten to twenty. And when a six foot teen-ager toots a tuba, you've got a toot. The entire band is musical in the highest degree, trained by a real musician for its leader; but in addition to its technical ability, it has a remarkable zest.

Well, they opened proceedings with O Canada. And, ladies and gentlemen, I came close to weeping. For they played it joyously and proudly, so swift and gallant in tempo that you could hardly get your words out in time, and you suddenly found the old words new and strange in your mouth. And you sang, everybody sang, trying to belong to this rousing band. And when you came to the final words on guard, you gave the g a diaphragmatic thud like those six tubas themselves.

As a long-time listener to, and a sometimes weeper for O Canada, I suggest the whole wide realm learn to sing it the Saskatchewan way.

Snake Farm In Bangkok

(BBC Weekly Talks Summary)

The people whose nightmares are made horrible by visions of squirming, poisonous snakes in large numbers might have wondered if they were asleep or awake if they had been with the BBC's correspondent, Ian McDougall, recently when he had an opportunity of visiting the Pasteur Institute in Bangkok. One of the things they do there is to prepare serum from snake venom and to ensure this they run a snake 'farm' in the grounds where snakes of several kinds, Cobras, King Cobras and others, some of them very big, are kept in pits. The pits, McDougall said in the BBC's "Radio Newsreel", are about twenty yards long and ten wide. The snakes lie comfortably about on the grass or concrete or in great cement bowls that look rather like huge coffee cups. Some Cobras prefer to twine themselves round the small bushes that grow in the pits while others lie in writhing heaps, one on top of the other. The walls that enclose the pits are only about four feet high but each pit has a moat of water immediately beneath the inner side of the wall which makes it very difficult for the snakes to climb out. McDougall noticed that the Cobras swam brilliantly and that those who were not asleep or playing on the grass, went weaving round and round the moat in a lovely, sinuous pattern.

Every Thursday morning at ten laboratory assistants induce the Cobras to part with their valuable venom. Two assistants, both of Thai nationality, climb into the snake pit wearing white coats and rubber knee boots but no gloves. One picks up the nearest Cobra, first by the tail and then by the neck, and forces its mouth open. The second man quickly slips a small glass dish between its jaws and the snake reacts to this by passing its deadly venom into the dish, which is quickly withdrawn and then placed under cover to keep the poison uncontaminated. After five days has been given a drink of milk through a glass tube that is put down its throat, it is then cast aside and the next one picked up. The work goes on until the assistants' stint is completed, when the inhabitants of the snake farm go back to another carefree week of basking in the sun and sporting in the moat.

Final Blow At Horses?

(Milwaukee Journal)

A psychiatrist or psychologist might be able to explain this frenzied rush to cars that are "mocking the air with colors idly spread". Our own hunch is that the automobile makers are finally shaking off the last vestiges of the guilt they feel at having replaced the horse and want to end the chapter completely by even changing the old saying to "but that's a car of a different color".

All of this is by way of reporting that the color experts of the automobile makers have been secretly planning 1956 and 1957 color schemes and seem to have decided that they've gone far enough.

They took a survey and found that the number of persons who actually want black cars next year has jumped more than 50 percent. The number who prefer grays and maroons to shocking pink has grown tremendously in the last year.

A Priceless Asset

How's Your Sacro-Iliac

Nearly fifty years ago Dr. Joel Goldthwait published the first description of strain of the sacro-iliac joint (JAMA, 8-31-'07). Until Dr. Goldthwait illuminated the subject the medical profession had regarded the joint or junction between the sacrum or keystone at the base of the spine and the ilium or flank of the hip bone on either side as fixed and immovable and therefore not subject to strain, sprain, relaxation or partial dislocation (subluxation) as any other joints.

Dr. Goldthwait said strain or relaxation of the sacro-iliac junction or joint caused pain at the seat of the trouble or pain referred down the leg, even to the foot. This pain is worse at night or whenever the patient is recumbent, but is relieved by upright posture. Among other remedial measures he suggested was this:

"Sometimes the ilium has become slightly displaced on the sacrum—a slipping forward of the sacrum"—or slipping backward of the ilium, one might say. "In such cases replacement must be tried by hyperextension of the spine. The patient lies with chest and shoulders on one table, thighs and legs on another, face downward, thus allowing the body to hang, tending to pull the sacrum forward on the ilium."

A plaster-of-Paris jacket, a pelvic belt or strapping with adhesive plaster, to support the joint in corrected position is then applied.

Although Dr. Goldthwait did not mention it, and few orthopedic surgeons today do, it seems to me that Goldthwait had the osteopaths in mind when he spoke of "slipping" — for they were diagnosing and treating "slipped innominate" (the innominate is the haunch, pelvic or hip bone) before even Goldthwait recognized the trouble.

It is characteristic of the spirit of medicine that the medical authorities discussing sacro-iliac sprain, strain, relaxation or subluxation today not only pretend they never heard of Goldthwait but they reveal their petty prejudice in MB mm m

"Unless the medical profession wakes up to the fact that our bodies are built on mechanical principles and that many things that we have groped in the dark about are due to a mechanical fault of one kind or another, we are going to allow those who are little better prepared to practise medicine than mechanics . . ."

The precious pair who uttered that banality reproved the profession for failure to recognize a mechanical fault and at the same time continued braying at those in the profession, the healing profession, who do recognize and correct mechanical faults — the osteopaths, I mean.

To the best of my knowledge there's nothing a licensed M. D. (Doctor of Medicine) can do or should do that a licensed D. O. can't do or shouldn't do, nothing of any particular importance.

When it comes to the treatment of sprain, strain or "crick" in the back or backache or low back pain, if it were my back I'd consult a good osteopath first.

FIGHT AND SPIRIT

People look up to Champions—and it is good they do—for anyone who can surpass all comers deserves the title. Of course the Champion title goes to athletes and to those who excel in allied games.

I like to study a Champion, whether he be a golfer, tennis player, boxer, wrestler, football, basketball player or a baseball team. All are interesting, especially those who perform as a team, like football and baseball. In all these contests I note that the ones with the fight and the spirit are always the Champions. That's how they get to be Champions!

In our everyday lives it's the same. If we display fight and spirit we will go far. In every worthy biographical sketch or book about a man or woman it's the fight and spirit that are most commented upon and pointed out for emulation. We may not always perfectly perform but if we make a magnificent try we may well invite praise and cheers!

The pioneers, in every part of the world, have always been those with fight and spirit. I think of those about whom I have read who landed early in America and fought their way westward, many dying along the way but heroic today as those who went through the dangers and hardships, leaving a trail behind them for others to follow. What fight and spirit they had!

Young people, especially youngsters who love adventure books, should early form the habit of reading biographies. As a young boy I read entire shelves of them, and the stories have had a wonderful and inspiring effect upon my life. Most of the great men and women in this Western World had to be fighters. They had to be men and women of spirit. They had to do so many things alone. They took risks. They sacrificed. But like Hercules, they conquered!

DOUBTS

Sometimes sincerely religious people are secretly troubled by their own doubts. There is something guilty and subversive, they feel, about doubting established beliefs and values. They are ashamed at what they consider a hidden weakness in themselves.

Not so at all. At least half of the progress of the human race is owed to the doubters. The great names in the history of government, science, philosophy, or religion are those of men and women who dared to doubt that the established system was perfect, and who went on to invalidate it by proving the greater validity of something new. Nothing speeds the search for a new truth so well as a strong dissatisfaction with the old one.

But remember this. Constructive doubting challenges the old ideas by trying to prove that the new ones are true, instead. Doubting merely for the sake of doubting is not enough, and leads nowhere. To question the worth of everything without seeking to offer something more worthwhile is mere cynicism —an attitude of despondent sneering, not of confident quest. The cynic may ask the right questions, but he will never find the right answers.

So don't be afraid of your doubts. But make sure that your doubts carry you on to new truths.

State Medicine In Dominion Would Be Costly

TORONTO (CP) — Eleven major medical health organizations Wednesday outlined plans to provide voluntary health insurance for all citizens in Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia on an individual basis.

Similar services already are available in Saskatchewan, Nova Scotia and Alberta. The group promised that p r e p a i d medical care will eventually be available to all Canadians.

However, it asked that the state take over responsibility for indigents.

The proposals came in the annual report of Trans-Canada Medical Plans on the second day of the two - week British Commonwealth medical conference, for which 3,000 delegates from 11 nations are assembling here. The report criticized demands for state medicine in Canada as a costly idea.

In a policy statement, Dr. H. H. Lees of Windsor, president, said he foresees a "danger that a national health scheme would be far more costly to the taxpayer than it should be."

EXPANSION PLANNED

He maintained that any estimate on the proportion of national income needed for a state health service would "fall far short of the mark because it would fail to consider the changing human appetite." He argued that voluntary insurance "matches demands with costs."

In the view of doctors, medical costs can be levelled through an extension of TCMP's services, Dr. Lees said.

He said in answer to criticism by state medicine proponents that rapid expansion is planned by TCMP to meet the needs of Canadians not covered under the plans, such as rural and retired groups and individual business men, but said expansion already has been rapid.

On the question of individual health coverage, Dr. Lees suggested TCMP critics "agitate" municipal and provincial governments into approving legislation enabling rural citizens to buy protection from voluntary organizations.

Answering criticism that TCMP does not include preventive services, Dr. Lees said that when Canada develops to the stage where "all want to pay the costs, then it may be assured that the voluntary programs will provide such coverage."

ADAPTATIONS NEEDED

He said TCMP will continue to inspire improvements and develop benefits but predicted many adaptations of present methods before a suitable health program had been established in Canada.

One adaptation he proposed was that the government accept responsibility for medical plan subscribers unable to pay their premiums. This would probably involve a means test.

In a separate policy review, C. Howard Shillington of Toronto, executive director of TCMP, said the group is studying methods for "providing coverage for every Canadian citizen."

The group, he said, already provides individual coverage and special programs for rural areas in Saskatchewan and Nova Scotia and has similar plans for Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia.

On Friday the CMA will present its policy on the question of state medicine.

Appeal Rejected

Weddings

BAXTER—GRANT

MARMORA — A picturesque wedding was solemnized at St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, at 3 p.m. Saturday, June 11, when Lois June Grant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grant, of Marmora, became the bride of Allan Hedley Baxter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Baxter of Brockville. The Rev. K. J. Crawford, B.A., B.D., performed the ceremony.

The church was prettily decorated with orange blossoms, shasta daisies and white peonies.

The wedding music was played by the organist, Mrs. A. F. Fraser. Mr. Jack Grant, uncle of the bride, was soloist, rendering "The Wedding Prayer" and during the signing of the register, "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was daintily gowned in Swiss white embroidered organdy over taffeta in ballerina length with veil and headdress. She carried a cascade bouquet of shasta mums and Queen Elizabeth roses.

Her sister, Mrs. Ronald Slade, of Toronto, as matron of honor, wore a ballerina length dress of white embroidered Swiss organdy over lilac taffeta. The bride was attended also by three bridesmaids: Miss Margaret Baxter, of Montreal, sister of the bridegroom, attired in white embroidered Swiss organdy over peach taffeta; Miss Eleanor Regan, Reg.N., wore white embroidered Swiss organdy over apple green taffeta; Miss Wilda Hannah, Reg.N., cousin of the bride, was dressed in white embroidered Swiss organdy over lemon yellow taffeta. All carried yellow shasta 'mums and wore matching headdresses.

Mr. Herbert Breithaupt, Montreal, attended the bridegroom. Mr. Wayne Grant, brother of the bride, and Mr. Tom Hanley and Mr. George Baldwin were ushers.

The reception was held in St. Andrew's Hall with Circle Three of the Women's Association doing the catering. The bride's mother received in a gown of taupe linen, and matching accessories, wearing a corsage of Queen Elizabeth roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was crowned in figured crepe with white accessories and corsage of twilight pink roses.

The happy young couple later left on a wedding trip to South Carolina, the bride travelling in a costume of gold linen with green accessories and corsage of Talisman roses.

Out-of-town guests were present from Detroit, Sault Ste. Marie, Toronto, Montreal, Brockville, Springbrook, Bonarlaw, and Madoc. They will take up residence at Marmora.

Mr. and Mrs. Norris Ingram Easton are pictured signing the register following their marriage in St. Paul's United Church, Stirling. The bride is the former Miss Ruth Lurene Brady, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman T. Brady of Stirling, Ontario, and the bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William I. Easton, of Belleville, R.R. 2.—Photo by Roy Peacock, Belleville.

EASTON—BRADY

Tall standards of pink peonies, snapdragons and white Shasta 'mums, interspersed with ferns formed a lovely background in St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, on Saturday, June 4, at 2.30 p.m., when the pastor of the church, the Rev. A. Packman, united in marriage Ruth Lurene Brady of Stirling, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman T. Brady, to Norris Ingram Easton, of Belleville, only son of Mr. and Mrs. William I. Easton.

Mrs. Bruce Glendenning, accompanied by the organist, Mrs. Harold West, both of Stirling, sang before the ceremony, "O Perfect Love", and during the signing of the register, "Because."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Sherman T. Brady, was radiant in her bridal gown of white Chantilly lace and net over satin, fashioned with fitted bodice and bolero having long, sheath-like sleeves pointed at the wrists. The full-length skirt of net and lace over satin was accented by a Chantilly lace peplum, pointed at the back. Her fingertip veil of embroidered tulle illusion was held by a Juliette headdress encrusted with seed pearls and she carried a semi-cascade bouquet of Happiness roses and stephanotis tied with white lacelon ribbon.

Mrs. Orval Holden of Belleville, sister of the bridegroom, as matron of honor, wore an ankle-length gown of turquoise net and lace, featuring a lace bodice having a short-sleeved, matching bolero, and double-tiered skirt of nylon net over taffeta. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow and white Shasta 'mums and bronze, single 'mums, tied with yellow lacelon ribbon.

The Misses Carolyn Rollins and Helen Irish, both of Stirling, were bridesmaids, attired in turquoise, ankle-length gowns, made on lines similar to that of the matron of honor. All the attendants wore matching headdresses of turquoise, studded with sequins. The bridesmaids carried cascade bouquets of yellow and white Shasta 'mums and bronze single 'mums, tied with turquoise lacelon ribbon.

The little five-year-old cousin of the bride, Miss Brenda McCrory of Cannifton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex McCrory, was sweet in her yellow nylon net frock over taffeta with headdress of yellow Shasta 'mums, and carrying a tiny basket of Pinocchio Sweetheart roses, white and yellow Shasta 'mums, and mauve sweetpeas, with green feather-edged ribbon ties and streamers.

Master Gregory Orr, of Glen Miller, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Orr, did the honors as ring-bearer, natty in his white flannels and navy blazer and white boutonniere.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother-in-law, Mr. Orval Holden of Belleville, and Mr. Donald M. Brady of Stirling, brother of the bride. Mr. Ray Clarke of Belleville, and Mr. Kenneth Orr of Glen Miller, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors, which were prettily adorned for the occasion with white and pink streamers, white wedding bells and seasonal flowers. The bride's mother, wearing a shrimp colored linen suit, with white accessories, and corsage of white feathered carnations tied with silver-edged white ribbon, received the many guests. The bridegroom's mother, assisted attired in crystalline printed silk, white white accessories; corsage of pink feathered carnations tied with white silver-edged ribbon.

For the wedding trip to the United States and Niagara Falls, the bride chose a powder blue suit with white and navy accessories and corsage of two-toned feathered pink carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Easton will reside in Stirling, Ontario.

Guests were present from Belleville, Madoc, Oshawa, Cannifton, Batawa, Halloway, Toronto, Niagara Falls and Glen Miller.

Previous to her marriage the bride was honored by two miscellaneous showers: one at Stirling with Miss Helen Irish as hostess, and the other at Belleville, R.R. 2, by Mrs. Orval Holden.

Her former co-workers at Stewart Warner, also presented her with household linens, and a wool blanket, all in yellow.

Anniversary Marked By Family Gifts

On Saturday evening while Mr. and Mrs. John Kimmett were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McLaughlin, Tamworth, about 30 relatives gathered at the Kimmett home, Roblin, to honor them with a surprise party on their 30th wedding anniversary.

As the bride and bridegroom of 30 years ago arrived home they were greeted with a charivari and a shower of confetti. The bride and bridegroom with their bridesmaid, Mrs. G. M. Fleming, Toronto, and groomsman, Mr. Don McLaughlin of Tamworth, were invited into the house.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with pink and white streamers, peonies and roses. The table covered with a linen cloth was centred with a three-tier wedding cake.

The evening was spent in games and contests, after which Glenn, the eldest son, spoke briefly, while Frank and Gordon presented their parents with a rose Kroehler chair.

John and Marion thanked the guests for the lovely gift and pleasant evening.

Dainty refreshments were served by the nieces of the bride and bridegroom. Wedding cake and punch were passed and Glenn proposed a toast to his parents, after which Judge G. F. Smith proposed a toast to Mr. and Mrs. Ken McMechan, bride and bridegroom of six years, also to Mr. and Mrs. Doug McNevin, who were celebrating their 5th anniversary, bringing a most pleasant evening to a close.

LOVELORN ADVICE to the

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WATCH YOUR STEP WITH THIS YOUNG MAN!

Dear Miss Fairfax:

At the place where I work, I met a fellow who has been a widower for a year. He told me that I am the only girl he has taken out since then. He has always seemed like a sincere and fine fellow, and I have grown to care a lot for him.

Recently, he was sent on a business trip to the head office of the firm we work for, which is a long way off, and before he left he told me he loved me, but said nothing about marriage. Instead, he asked if I would have an affair with him. I told him if that was what he was after, I am not that type of girl, but he insisted that he really loved me.

Do you think he really does love me, or just intends to try and get me to do what he wants? And should I continue to see him, or is it best to break off with him? He is 26 and I am 19. — Grace B.

Dear Grace:

If this young man really loves you, I can see no reason why he shouldn't have asked you to marry him. The fact that, instead, he wanted you to have an affair with him, should be sufficient warning to you to be very cautious about continuing your relationship with him. I find it hard to believe that a "sincere and fine" young man would behave just this way.

I think you'd be much better off if he stayed at the head office and didn't come back at all. But if he does return, then you'd better watch your step carefully if you decide to continue your friendship. He may just have made an impulsive mistake, but, considering all circumstances, I am dubious about him.

BY ALL MEANS, INVITE HIM

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I recently met a young man, had a few dates with him and enjoyed them very much. He is 23 and I am 21.

It has now been nearly a month since he last called me and I would like to see him again, but I don't like to call him up for fear he might think I was chasing him.

There is a party coming up soon to which I can take an escort, and I am wondering if it would be all right for me to invite him. — Miss L.L.

Dear MISS L.L.:

I assume you mean you don't want to call this young man up just to pass the time of day, but think it might be all right if you had something specific in mind such as an invitation to a party. And I think you are quite right. I see no reason at all why you shouldn't give him the invitation.

If by any chance, you feel that phoning is a little more informal than your brief friendship warrants, why not write him a note? If he accepts the invitation, fine. If he declines it without giving a good and sufficient reason, that, of course, would be your cue to drop the whole thing and make no further gestures toward him.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

BRUSH YOUR HAIR UNTIL IT SHINES

Some old-fashioned beauty routines are just as good today as when your great-grannie was a girl. No Slogan that has to do with hair health and loveliness has as much meaning as that "one hundred strokes of the brush each day." The aim then was to produce pigtail material that was often close to a yard long.

Now with the permanent wave, the brush seldom gets into action. Yet its daily use has an invigorating effect upon the hair and should not be underestimated. It snakes out dead shafts and stimulates circulation in the scalp.

It also removes surface dust that collects between shampoos.

You can tell at a glance if a girl grooms her hair well. No tonic or application can produce the same results.

To make the most of this beauty ritual, learn how to do it the way it is done by hair specialists.

Hold the brush firmly, start at the scalp, force the bristles through your tresses with a heavy stroke down to the ends. try to stretch the hair to the utmost, so there will be a tug at the scalp.

Throw your head forward, sweep the bristles upward from the nape line to the crown of your head. Treat the hair strand by strand, holding each one away from the head, using the brush with a rolling motion. Spread fingers and thumbs over your scalp, lift and pinch and roll the flesh. In this way you will keep the flesh soft and resilient so circulation will remain normal When the scalp tightens and thins, circulation and growth are both restricted.

Have two brushes, so there will always be a clean one at hand. When washing them, place them bristles downward so the back will not crack or weaken.

Cooking School Review

By Mary Moore

Marion Kavalec, the demonstrator for the Emem Cooking School at Brandon made three excellent chicken dishes on the second day.

Those of you who are real curry addicts may add as much as 3 tablespoons curry powder to the chicken curry. It depends on how long you or your relatives have lived in India!

CHICKEN CURRY

Four cups stewed chicken in pieces (or 2 pints home canned), 2 medium onions chopped fine, 1-3 cup butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon curry powder, 1 1-2 cups chicken stock, 1-2 cup cold water, 1 cup light cream, 1-2 cup milk. Stew chickens as below. To make sauce melt butter, add onions, fry till golden. Pour in chicken stock, cream, milk. Heat slowly. Combine flour, curry powder and cold water to make a smooth paste. Gradually stir into broth. Cook over low heat until smooth and thick. Add chicken. Simmer till lone. Serve 8. Serve with

FLUFFY BOILED RICE

Wash two cups of long grain rice in strainer under cold water tap for one minute. Drain well. Add 3 1-2 cups boiling water, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter. Cover tightly and cook over high heat until it boils. Turn off heat for 45 minutes. Do not lift lid. Turn on heat as low as possible until all water is absorbed. Rice will stick but the fluffiness of the finished product is worth this little hitch.

STEWED CHICKEN

Cook 4 1-2 to 5 pound chicken breast side up, in a large kettle. Half cover with hot water, add 2 tablespoons salt, 1 bay leaf, peppercorns, parsley, celery, carrot. Cook covered 3 hours until the meat begins to leave bones. Strain stock. Cool. Remove meat from bones in large pieces. Yields about 4 cups.

BROILED CHICKEN SANDWICH

One cup diced cooked chicken, 1 cup diced celery, 1-3 cup mayonnaise, salt and pepper, 4 slices cheese, 4 teaspoons chili sauce, lettuce, 8 slices toasted bread. Combine chicken, celery, mayonnaise. Season with salt and pepper. Spread on 4 slices toasted bread. Place cheese slices and 1 teaspoon chili sauce on remaining bread. Place 3 inches from broiler until cheese is golden brown and chicken thoroughly heated. Serves 4.

A slick dessert with any of the above is

PERKY PUDDING

Two cups fresh or frozen rhubarb, 1 cup drained crushed pineapple, 1 teaspoon mint leaves, crushed, 1 egg, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon grated lemon rind, 1 cup sifted all purpose flour, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup butter Combine rhubarb cut in 1 inch pieces, and drained crushed pineapple in greased pan. Beat eggs until light, add sugar and flour and beat smooth. Add lemon juice, rind, mint (fresh or dry). Pour over fruit in pan. Sift together sifted flour, sugar, salt. Cut in butter. Sprinkle crumble mixture over fruit, press down with spoon. Bake in an 8 by 8 greased pan at 350 degrees for 45 to 60 minutes. Serve in squares, warm or cool.

Wife Preservers

A little vinegar poured into a pan in which onions have been cooked will remove the onion odor.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

HOW TO ADDRESS BOTH ENVELOPES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I love to write by hand even though I'm a private secretary!, very proud of my own handwriting (to brag a bit!), and so I want to address the envelopes of our wedding invitations. Will you please tell me the correct form for addressing both the outer and the inner envelopes? — Bride-to-be Good for you! Your handsome and very clear and very distinguished handwriting shows you have a perfect right to brag. And I'm glad you are going to do the addressing on these so-important envelopes.

The outer envelope includes the full name, and of course the address. Four lines usually: (1) name; (2) street address; (3) city with zone number, when possible; (4) state. No abbreviations, please, except "Mr." and "Mrs.". Like this:

Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Lane
123 Park Avenue
Haven 2
New York

On the inner envelope write only the titles and surname:

Mr. and Mrs. Lane

SHOULD INNER ENVELOPES BE UNADDRESSED?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Do you approve of the procedure one occasionally sees nowadays of leaving unaddressed the inner envelopes of formal wedding invitations? To me, this gives an unfinished look to the invitation. — Dorothy K.

I definitely do not approve of this idea of leaving the inner envelopes unaddressed. Every tradition concerning the form of wedding invitations should be followed. This tradition of making a gracious name-gesture on the inner envelopes is a charming one, not to be heedlessly discarded. As you say, omitting the name "gives an unfinished look" to the ensemble, and one is not sure whether the omission of the name was an oversight or even a question of not knowing what's what.

WHO PAYS FOR WEDDING ATTIRE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our wedding is to be in mid-July, in church, in the evening. The groom, best man, and six ushers are to wear white dinner jackets and tuxedo trousers. Four of the ushers do not own white dinner jackets, do not particularly want to buy them, and are now planning to follow your suggestion (which I read to my fiance from a recent column of yours) and rent them. By inquiring, we have found out about a good rental place in a nearby city. Now my fiance wants me to ask you if this plan means that he will be expected to pay for the rental of this attire. Yes? — Anne W.

No. It is the responsibility of each usher to provide his own attire for the wedding. If he doesn't own the attire prescribed by the groom and doesn't wish to buy it, he rents it (today the usual plan) and he himself pays the rental charge.

FORM OF CLERGYMAN'S NAME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My bridegroom-to-be is a clergyman. He has no degree. Exactly how should his name be engraved on our wedding invitations and announcements? — Ruth M.

Campaigns Against Strapless Gowns, Bared Midriff Gaining

BARTELSO, Ill. (AP) — Campaigns by two Roman Catholic groups in Illinois against such women's fashions as the strapless evening gown and the bared midriff are gaining momentum throughout the United States, their leaders claim.

Rev. Bernard A. Kunkel, who two years ago started one of the drives, "the purity crusade of Mary Immaculate," said it's now possible for women to buy modest formals "in a majority of the states."

Catholic students in the Chicago diocese have taken over another such campaign. Members pledge to "fight for the right to be modest."

Father Kunkel said he started his campaign because "it was almost impossible to purchase formals or bridal gowns with any sort of top to them." He is pastor of the Catholic church in this southern Illinois town of 300.

WRITE MANUFACTURERS

Circulars urging school girls to write to manufacturers and dress shops to "register the demand for modest dresses" were sent to 8,000 Catholic schools in 1953 by volunteer workers here.

Catholic women's organizations tag suitable dresses in shops where the owners consent, while several manufacturers tag formals in their factories.

Rev. Francis X. Lawler, moderator of the Chicago Interstudent Catholic Action, said some 40,000 leaflets have been mailed monthly for the last six months to Catholic groups under the Chicago campaign.

The leaflets state: "A growing wave of immodesty and dress which degrades womanhood and leads to a breakdown of public morals has been sweeping over the entire nation. No level of society is immune from its influence."

Father Lawler said strapless gowns were in the vast majority among Catholic girls three years ago in Chicago, but fewer than half of the girls attending Catholic junior proms there last year wore such gowns.

Summer Shoes For Women Gayer Than Ever

By MURIEL PENN

LONDON (Reuters)—Shoes this summer are gayer than ever.

Colors range from an off-white angelica shade to vibrant tan; from a new yellow called absinthe, a pastel columbine pink and Capri blue to a "shock" range which includes poster red and a bright, grotto blue.

Stripes and two-color combinations are also featured. A new striped effect on black patent looks good. Up to the minute, too, with some of the latest A-line garden party and Ascot outfits are shoes in the new lustre calf with candy stripes in colors matching the dress.

Edward Rayne, the Queen's shoemaker, is showing them with striped heels and a matching bow on the front of low-cut pumps. A variation of this theme is a combination of contrasting shades for the collar and heel. Thus, a black patent show has pink, yellow or red collar and heels. An Angelica calf has a juniper calf collar and heel.

WHOLE HOG

On some models, Rayne goes the whole hog and produces two-toned shoes. Half of one open-toe, sling-back model is in blue, the other half in columbine pink. There is a similar combination of lavender and yellow, or sycamore and ivory.

New materials also make shoe news this summer. Practical, hard-wearing calf has been given a mother o'pearl finish and has invaded the cocktail scene.

Jeweled effects on calf skin carry it right through the evening, while a new tanning process reproduces a fabric appearance on leather.

Most dramatic in effect, perhaps, is the introduction of vinylite, a plastic material which "gives" to the foot and makes for increased comfort as well as pandering to the prent craze for the "naked look."

If you see some evening coming towards you what looks like a lone bow or diamante clasp fixed to the top of the foot, do not be alarmed. Closer inspection will reveal a vamp in vinylite, transparent, almost invisible, but holding the shoe firmly and comfortably in place.

King Bros. Circus Parade Will Gladden The Hearts of Old and Young Alike

The good old days have returned so far as the youngsters—as well as their elders still young at heart are concerned, for once again the generations-old circus parade will wind its way through the downtown streets at 11.30 show day morning when the huge King Brothers Combined Circus comes to Belleville, Monday, June 20th under the auspices of the Kinsmen Club at the circus grounds on Sidney Street.

As an added circus day feature, the old-time steam calliope with its shrilling tunes, together with bands, air-organs, floats, tableaux wagons, mounted circus stars, clown carts, novelty units, herds of elephants and snarling beasts of the jungles—all, will pass in review just as in the days of long ago.

The steam calliope, said to be the last of its kind in existence, was last heard in American cities in 1937 when the famed Cole Brothers Circus, now combined with this, the King Brothers huge organization, revived the street parade that season. Since then, the historical instrument has been stored away at the King Brothers' winter quarters in Macon, Georgia.

Built in 1872 by Adam Forepaugh at the Sebastian wagon works in New York, the famous calliope was used in circus street parades for more than fifty years. It is still in an excellent state of preservation, needing only a few minor repairs and a coat or two of paint each year to restore its original beauty as it appeared in the circus parades over ninety years ago.

The parade will no doubt bring fond memories to oldsters and it will be a thrilling treat for the youngsters as many of the present generation have never before seen a real circus parade, or heard a steam calliope with its shrilling tunes.

From the beginning to the end of the 1955 performance, the King Brothers Circus, now the second largest in the world, is lavish, thrilling and spectacular. Opening with a gorgeously produced processional pageant, "Circus Continental" in which great masses of people and animals take part, the program that follows lists many of the most notable stars and features in all Spangleland, headed as they are by the renowned Dorchester Troupe of bare back riding champion from England. The Johnny Hartzell Troupe of breath - taking flying - return stars; the Sons of Morocco, whirl - wind acrobats from Arabia; the Jose Torres Alforo Troupe, taut-wire marvels; Sylvia Gregory, aerial headliner; the Kareff-Manus duo, sensational aerial stars from Italy, and many others from among the 250 arenic stars and performers with the huge show this year.

The performances are scheduled to begin at 2 and 8 p.m. and for the convenience of circus patrons, a downtown ticket office will be in operation show day at the Duff Drug Store, where tickets for all performances will be on sale at the same prices charged at the circus grounds.

Canada Shaken but Unshattered After Theoretical Enemy Attack

ARNPRIOR (CP)—Most of Canada was fairly well organized today despite the dropping of imaginary bombs across its populated areas since Wednesday morning in a joint United States - Canadian civil defence exercise.

But the country's two largest cities were largely on the sidelines, out of the operation by default.

Officials at civil defence headquarters here said Montreal was thrown into imaginary confusion late Wednesday night by a "surprise attack" with a devastating theremonuclear guided missile.

The "enemy" was upon the nation with atomic and hydrogen bombs. Theoretically the number of dead was mounting across the country, though the number of "bodies" was not necessarily keeping pace since several areas were reported "obliterated."

DIDN'T TAKE PART

But Toronto, Canada's second largest city behind Montreal, was not taking part in the exercise because, said Col. C. L. Smith, operations officer at headquarters here, "its organization was not quite far enough advanced."

Montreal and the rest of Quebec had begged off the exercise, "Operation Alert II," on the same grounds. In fact, Montreal recently decided to scrap its civil defence organization altogether.

But headquarters here reported Wednesday night — with tongue thrust plainly in cheek—that the "enemy" doesn't pick the time that suits its "victim" to attack. It was impossible to determine extent of the "destruction" wreaked by the missile because Montreal had not prepared for observation in advance.

BOMBINGS CONTINUE

Across the land, meanwhile, the "bombings" were to continue until this afternoon, giving civil defence units on the provincial and municipal levels a chance to try the effectiveness of their plans for coping with casualties, wrecked cities and towns, knocked out communications, power stations, waterworks and the like.

In Vancouver a simulated bomb killed an imaginary 17 000 persons as the "attack" opened Wednesday, but it took the coast city's civil defence organization three hours to hear about it.

Air Vice-Marshal F. V. Heakes, commanding civil defence in the Vancouver area, said his group first heard about the "bombing" three hours after it "fell" when a reporter telephoned with the news.

But once the Vancouver civil defence organization got rolling 250,000 were "evacuated," many of them, headquarters said here, heading for secluded areas of Washington state.

During the night, air reconnaissance near Edmonton reported Whitecourt, Alta., "demolished" without a survivor by an A-bomb of 20 kiloton (equivalent to 50,000 tons of tnt) force.

A bomb bursting in mid - air "knocked out" the Bluewater bridge connecting Sarnia, and Port Huron.

FLED TO ONTARIO

From Niagara Falls and Buffalo, N.Y., some 25,000 persons were reported "evacuating" into the Brantford, St. Catharines and Port Colbourne areas of Ontario. From Michigan came 40,000 to London, St. Thomas and Sarnia.

No 'enemy action" was reported in the Ottawa area, but government and other key personnel were imaginarily moved out of the capital Wednesday night to dispersal sites.

"Hits" also were reported on Victoria and industrial Trail in British Columbia, on the Sault Ste. Marie locks, the mining centre of Sudbury and Ontario's industrial cities of Sarnia, Peterborough, Oshawa, Niagara Falls, Kingston and Windsor.

In the Maritimes the coastal ports of Saint John, N. B., and St. John's, Nfld., were "bombed."

Imaginary enemy agents were "apprehended' at Fort William after damaging grain elevators.

The operation is a follow-up to a similar one held last year. There are indications the nation's defensive system has tightened up some since then, but how much won't be known until after the "attack" ends today.

Economic Surveys Will Accompany Regional Plan

TORONTO (CP)—Planning Minister Warrender of Ontario Wednesday announced that regional economic surveys will accompany the regional development program now being organized by the trade and industry branch of his department.

The province has already been divided into nine regions and the government is offering $10,000 a year in financial assistance to each region if it forms a development association and subscribes a similar sum for industrial promotion and economic development. Five regions are already organized under the program.

Mr. Warrender said the pilot survey started Monday in eastern Ontario where the Eastern Ontario Development Association has been in operation for about one year. The survey will proceed zone by zone as quickly as possible in this region which has a population of approximately 650,000 and covers an area of more than 10,000 square miles.

The survey will be developed in three parts, taking the form of an inventory, an economic analysis and a projected plan for future development.

The inventory will cover such items as power, raw materials, transportation, population, labor, markets and urban centres. The various sectors of the regional economy — agriculture, fishing, forestry, mining, construction, manufacturing, trade, service and tourism—will then be analyzed in relation to the provincial and national economies. On the basis of the inventory and the economic analysis, trends of future growth for the region will be outlined.

As the surveys of the various regions are completed, long-range plans for future economic development can be drawn up.

Social Credit Has 62 Running For 61 Seats

EDMONTON (CP) — Social Credit forces, seeking their sixth straight victory in Alberta general elections, have 62 candidates in the field for the 61 seats at stake in the June 29 balloting.

The extra candidate is in Calgary where Mrs. Rose Wilkinson, who headed the poll as an official Social Credit nominee in 1952, is running again for one of the city's six seats. She failed to win nomination by Calgary Social Crediters.

Mrs. Wilkinson, one of 204 candidates who filed official papers before the deadline Wednesday afternoon, listed herself as a straight Social Credit standard-bearer.

NO ACCLAMATIONS

The total this year is 21 over the total in the 1952 general election and there were no acclamations this time compared with one three years ago.

Social Credit, which has formed the provincial administration since 1935, is the only party with a contestant for every seat. The Liberals nominated 53 candidates, the CCF 38 and the Progressive Conservatives 27.

Other candidates include nine Labor - Progressive (Communists) seven independents, four Independent Social Crediters, three coalitionists and one Liberal-Progressive Conservative.

WOMEN RUNNING

The contestants include 11 women, three of them Social Credit members of the legislature just dissolved.

At dissolution, the House standing was Social Credit 49; Liberal 4; Progressive Conservative 3; Independent Social Credit 1; and vacant 2.

The two vacancies resulted from the resignations of John C. Landeryou in Lethbridge and Roy S. Lee in Taber following disclosure they were part owners of an Edmonton building being leased to the government. Both are seeking re-election as Social Crediters.

All major leaders will run in Edmonton. They are Premier Manning, who finished first by a wide margin in Edmonton in 1952; J. Harper Prowse, the Liberal party leader; Elmer E. Roper, the CCF chieftain; and J. Percy Page, House leader for the Progressive Conservatives.

POLICE, STUDENTS BATTLE

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Police and students clashed in pitched street battles Wednesday. The fighting started when high school students damaged a lunch room near their school after an argument with the owner. Police arrested 36 students. Then some 300 student sympathizers marched on police headquarters, but were beaten off by police reserves and firemen.

Expect Gross National Product To Set Record of 25 Billions

OTTAWA (CP) — A revitalized Canadian economy, spurred by heavier consumer earnings and spending and by a resurgence of business stockpiling, is heading for a record $25,000,000,000 gross national product for the year on the basis of trends in the first three months.

The bureau of statistics estimated Wednesday that in the first quarter the gross national product—value of all goods and services produced—rose to a high of $5,658,000,000, a gain of $250,000,000 over the $5,406,000,000 in the similar 1954 period.

It was a period in which, despite large pockets of unemployment, consumers made more money and spent more and in which business men, apparently regaining their confidence in the future, stockpiled more goods, especially motor cars, in anticipation of bigger markets ahead.

A CONTRAST

On the basis of conditions in those three months—a sharp contrast to the gloomy recession period in the earlier parts of 1954—the bureau estimated the gross national product would reach a record $25,000,000,000 for the full year if it maintained the first-quarter pace. If achieved, this would be a rise of $1,000,000,000 over 1954 and $600,000,000 over the previous high of $24,400,000,000 in 1953.

If the economy bears up for the year on the basis of first-quarter trends, here is a rundown of what Canadians can expect:

1. Labor income would rise to a record $12,280,000,000, up almost $300,000,000 from the previous high of $11,989,000,000 in 1954.

2. Farm net income would increase by $19,000,000 to $1,248,000,000 in 1954, but still many millions of dollars below the $1,653,000,000 in 1953 and $1,851,000,000 in 1952.

3. Consumer spending on goods and services would swell to a record $15,976,000,000, up $300,000,000 from $15,676,000,000 in 1954.

4. Spending by governments on capital goods would increase to $4,452,000,000, a rise of $91,000,000 from $4,361,000,000 last year.

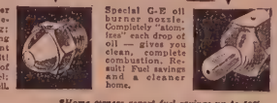
5. Exports of goods and services would expand to $5,588,000,000 from $5,136,000,000 while imports would also increase to $6,020,000,000 from $5,562,000,000.

Liberal Senator Not Pleased With Govt. Bill

OTTAWA (CP)—A Liberal senator said Wednesday parliament is surrendering its power under provisions of a government bill for the regulation of international and interprovincial trade in agricultural products.

Senator Arthur Roebuck of Toronto told the Senate that the measure, which also sets up standards for agricultural products, will give the government power to stop imports and exports.

Such broad powers by regulation and without reference to Parliament, he said, should never be passed out unless Parliament is assured as to the reasons for such action. He would agree to regulation with respect to health factors and in cases of fraudulent description.



But he said the bill gives broad, unfettered powers of regulation, powers he would not want used at the "sweet whim" of government officials.

The bill, already passed by the Commons, was given approval in principle by the Senate and sent to a committee for study.

Grateful Briton Bequeath's $1,000 To Millionaire

LONDON (CP)—The late J. S. McLean, president of Canada Packers Ltd., who died Sept. 1 last year was left $1,000 for donation to charity in a Briton's will just filed for probate here.

The late Ernest Mason, who died in January this year, left the bequest "in memory of his (McLean's) kindness in sending my wife during her lifetime, and myself to the end of the rationing period, substantial food parcels." The money was to be donated to any charitable organization chosen by the recipient.

The Canadian packing executive's will left $7,286,847, most of it going to the McLean Charitable

Field Bindweed Deadly to Crops

Field Bindweed is classified as a "prohibited noxious weed". Since there are only five weeds in Canada dangerous enough to be included in this classification, it is quite evident that Field Bindweed must be watched for and destroyed immediately any trace is found.

Field Bindweed spreads like a cancer, twining around and over all other plants, choking and smothering them to death. Seeds or root stock will produce new plants, with seeds germinating after being buried in the soil for as long as thirty years.

According to the Field Crops Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Field Bindweed can be controlled but it calls for a continuous attack. The top growth of twining slender stems, narrow, arrow shaped leaves and white or pink trumpet shaped blooms is killed by spraying with 2,4-D at 8 to 16 ounces of 2,4-D acid per acre. New growth comes up from the roots, however, so that spray must be repeated until the roots also are killed. A black fallow, cultivated every 10 or 12 days for two growing seasons will clean out most of even a severe infestation. A combination of cultivation and smother crops will weaken it.

For small areas soil sterilants such as Sodium Chlorate at 6 lbs. per square rod; borax at 10 to 12 lbs. per acre; C.M.U. at 1-2 lb. in three gallons of water per square rod, or even common salt applied in killing quantities may be the quickest and most effective method of eradicating this week.

Field Bindweed being a prohibited noxious weed, the purchase of graded seed is cheap insurance against introducing the weed to the farm in seed.

The hiccups have persisted despite efforts of more than 200 doctors and helpful hints from thousands of well-wishers throughout the country.

USE FOR CHRISTMAS CARDS

After Christmas some were wondering what to do with Christmas cards. One of the Canadian magazines gave the addresses of different places where Christmas cards would be most acceptable. Some were sent to Mrs. Lillian R. Dickens, Taipch Taiwan, Formosa, where Mr. and Mrs. Dickens are missionaries among the lepers. They use the cards as a reward to the children when they learn Bible verses or what have you, and they can use many of them as they give out a 100 in a day. They just ask for the top of sacred cards and put a Bible verse on this.

Mrs. A. Meyers received a letter from Mrs. Dickens telling all about things there. This letter was read at the WA as a missionary reading.

Mrs. C. Curtis, Mrs. W. S. Harry, Mrs. M. Mallory, Mrs. H. Harder, Mrs. M. Harder and Mrs. G. Stickle were appointed as a committee to see about catering to a wedding of one of the local girls in July, which is to be held in Grace church, Trenton.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

BASEBALL

It is an ill wind that does not dry somebody's washing—and perhaps it is just as well this village did not enter the senior baseball picture this year. That is, if the box-office returns from other baseball cities can be judged a criterion. The latest to extract the crying towels is Oshawa. It seems the Joes and Janes are not turning out in multitudes to watch their starry Merchants perform against other clubs in the Intercounty League.

"Soup" Campbell, Oshawa sports scrivener, wipes large crocodile tears from his typewriter and moans:

"What's wrong with local ball fans?". "If not the best, we'd say that the 1955 edition of Oshawa Merchants is just about the best baseball team in Canada, with the exception of Toronto Leafs and Montreal Royals. Yet Oshawa fans are not interested in seeing them in action. Last night's attendance was a disgraceful denial of a statement that used to be made—Oshawa is a good sporting town. Not any longer, brother, not any longer! There weren't 500 fans on hand, not near that figure, but those who did go saw a fine game of top-flight baseball, with Merchants defeating Kitchener Panthers 6-4, playing errorless baseball and showing many sensational fielding plays. What else can a fan ask?"

* * *

In Galt the story is the same. Practically all the Intercounty teams are taking a box-office beating and reports from the area carry a dismal note in that the entire loop may fold before the frost silvers the traditional "punkin".

The Galt Terriers like the other clubs have no folding money in the treasury and recently the players took a salary cut rather than have the Terriers fade into the kennel.

As Chick (Stratford Beacon Herald) Appel comments, "Just how long the Intercounty League will be able to continue to operate depends strictly on fan patronage which has been anything but gratifying so far. For the past few years now it was freely predicted that the death knell had been sounded and last year Guelph and Waterloo amalgamated. It would appear that Galt will be next and if the Terriers are doomed to collapse, it's hoped that the club owners won't delay until they have lost their shirts".

And here's a wire story from Kitchener stating the Panthers of that city will continue to play until the week-end provided that it's members receive a salary payment. They will be paid on a share the wealth basis, it was decided at a meeting of club officials who said the team was being withdrawn from competition.

Financial losses said to run to several thousands were reported by president Mort Bezeau and playing manager Don Gallinger.

Regardless of whether the club continues as a player operation, the present officials are through. Gallinger said his personal losses were between $4,000 and $5,000. He promised the team a 50-per-cent payment on salary yesterday.

A committee of three players will see about carrying on until Saturday. If public response to an afternoon game with Oshawa on that date is sufficient, they may decide to carry on the rest of the season.

So from this village it looks as though the powers-that-be of that West Toronto senior baseball league did Manager Jack Carson and the Belleville Bata, 1954 co-champions, a great big favor when they ignored the Belleville application for entry. True the attendance here last year was good but not excellent and the club officials did not have too many gripes even if they did have to pay through the nose to two Toronto clubs and the Oshawa crew.

It seems the baseball people will have to resort to the "cure" for hockey clubs, a drastic reduction in operational expenses mainly through reduction of player salaries. We do not believe this situation was too marked in the Viaduct League last year, from a Belleville standpoint at least, but it is there in other places.

And who knows it may be a step back to the good old "amateur" days when the Central Ontario Baseball League was one of the best in the province. It is not at all likely the Intercounty will operate next year, and baseball men here predict a return to the former COBL with Kingston and Oshawa back in the fold with the Petes and Belleville.

Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion of the world, will be the special referee when the combo of Lord Athol Layton and Prince Maiava charges at the Texas twosome of Dick Raines and Lou Plummer in the tag team wrestling feature event at the Memorial Arena on Friday night. The Manassa Mauler is a firm, authoritative official, with his famed fists at the ready if need be to maintain order in the ring. With such miscreants as Raines and Plummer in there, Dempsey made have to use the old persuaders.

Now Two Behind the Bombers Length in Front of Indians; Brooks Lose, Maintain Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manager Marty Marion really had a workout Wednesday night keeping his Chicago White Sox within range of New York Yankees and holding off Cleveland Indians.

Marion juggled players and shuffled pitchers in splitting a twi-night with Baltimore. Sox lost the first 6-5 but won the nightcap 2-0. That put Chicago two games behind the American league-leading Yanks, who lost to Detroit 8-6 and a length ahead of Indians, who lost at Washington 3-0.

Trailing 5-4 in the first game, Marion pulled centre-fielder Minnie Minoso in to play third and moved third-baseman George Kell to first in place of young Ron Jackson so he could keep pinch-hitter Bob Nieman in the game. Nieman, a long-ball threat, played left field.

FOX TIES WITH HOMER

Nieman wound up hitless but Nellie Fox tied it at 3-5 with a homer. And when reliefer Millard Howell went 3-0 against Harry Dorish in the seventh, Marion brought on Sandy Consuegra to pitch. Sandy got out of the frame but was tagged for a run-scoring single by Bobby Young in the eighth that broke a four-game Chicago winning string.

In the nightcap, Mike Fornieles breezed along for six innings on a 1-0 lead after Fox had swatted his second homer of the night. But when Fornieles issued his first walk to open the seventh, Marion called in Billy Pierce. And when Pierce faltered with a 2-0 lead in the eighth, Consuegra showed up again to pack it away.

It was the third appearance in 24 hours for Sandy.

Fox was the hitting hero, getting three-for-four in both games while stretching his hitting streak to 11 contests. Fox tops Sox at .323.

Boston made it seven out of eight in the other American League game, beating Kansas City 9-6.

HOLD STRONG LEAD

In the National, Brooklyn lost to Cincinnati 5-2 but stayed 11½ games to the good as second-place Chicago lost to New York Giants 7-2.

St. Louis belted three home runs to beat Pittsburgh 7-3 and Philadelphia blanked Milwaukee Braves 4-0.

Billy Hoeft won his sixth while beating Yankees, although needing relief help from Babe Birrer. Tigers wrapped up their scoring with Jim Delsing and Frank House hitting back-to-back homers in a four-run fourth. Eddie Robinson homered twice for Yanks.

Washington ended a seven-game losing streak as young Dean Stone three-hit the Tribe. It was only the third victory and third complete game of the season for the left-hander. Johnny Groth and Roy Sievers homered for the Nats, who scored six runs in the fourth to beat Bobby Feller. The Tribe had won five in a row.

Rookie Rudy Minarcin gave brooks four hits and had them shut out on two safeties until the ninth, when Junior Gilliam homered after a walk. Carl Erskine was the loser as Gus Bell singled, doubled and homered for three of the Redleg runs It was only the 14th defeat of the season for Dodgers.

RALLY BREAKS TIE

Five runs in the ninth broke up a 2-2 ball game for the Giants, with reliefer Paul Giel hitting a double to start the rally that brought his first major league victory Paul Minner lost it as the Giants moved to within 2½ games of the Bruins.

Herm Wehmeier stopped the Braves on six hits. Gene Conley, looking for his ninth victory, left with his fourth defeat after he issued a walk with the bases loaded in a two-run fifth by the Phils. The loss left the Braves at .500 again—15 games off the pace in fourth place.

Al Schoendienst and Solly Hemus homered to get the Cards rolling, but Bill Virdon's two-run clout put it away in the seventh. Paul Lapalme saved Luis Arroyo's seventh victory by cutting off the Pirates a run short at 5-4 in the top of the seventh.

Mel Parnell won his first of the season for the Red Sox, with help from Tom Hurd in a four-run Kansas City ninth. Jackie Hensen hit a two-run homer in the 11-hit Boston attack as winless Ray Herbert lost his sixth.

SETS WORLD RECORD

LONDON (AP)—Paul Anderson, American heavyweight weightlifter smashed the world record for a two-hand press Wednesday, Moscow radio said.

Anderson's starting weight in a match between American and Soviet teams in Moscow as 172.5 kilograms, which is four kilograms more than the official world record established by Doug Hepburn of Vancouver.

He lifted this easily and went on to a successful two-hand press of 182.5 kilograms, the broadcast said.

Pirie Beats Crack Hungarian Track Stars

BRUSSELS (AP) — Britain's Gordon Pirie put on a fantastic burst of speed late in the 2,000 metres race here Wednesday night to win over two crack Hungarian runners.

The 24-year-old British runner beat Laszlo Tabori, hero of the sensational four-minute mile in the recent British games at London's White City Stadium.

Third came another Hungarian star, Sandar Iharos.

Pirie was clocked in five minutes, 12.6 seconds, 5.6 seconds slower than the world record set in 1948 by Belgium's Gaston Reiff, but still one of the best speeds returned over the distance this year.

Tabori's time was five minutes, 13.2 seconds and Iharos hit the tape at 5:16.4.

After his win, Pirie told reporters: "I didn't expect the tempo of the race to be so slow. At times, I felt as if I were walking."

The two Hungarians were both expected before the race to beat the 2,000-metre world record.

Pirie said he thought it was up to the Hungarians to dictate the pace because "they were determined to lower the record."

"I followed, keeping in store enough reserve for the fina. spurt. "I understood the public wanted a new record. I wanted simply to win."

Another Briton, Peter Driver, beat a strong international field to win the 5,000 metres.

He, too, pulled out a magnificent burst of speed in the last 250 yards to win in 14 minutes 17.8 seconds.

Canada's Top Athletes Eyed For Next Year's Olympics

MONTREAL (CP)—The Olympic games are not until next year but already Canada's top athletes are getting the once over from the selectors.

The Canadian Olympic Association has not committed itself yet but it was learned that about 30 athletes for the summer games and 20 for the winter games are considered distinct possibilities.

The field is still wide open but it looks as though the COA will send 87 contestants to the main games at Melbourne, Australia, and a contingent of 35 to the winter games at Cortina, Italy.

Both Rich Ferguson of Toronto and Don McFarland of Hamilton are considered top choices for the track and field squad. Ferguson, who ran third in the Roger Bannister-John Landy miracle mile at the British Empire Games last summer, likely will be groomed for the 1,500-metre event while McFarland, second at Vancouver in the 100-yards, is rated a top-contender in the sprint events.

Others likely to get the nod are Harry Nelson of New Westminster, B.C., and Terry Tobacco of Vancouver, a possible for the 400-metre event and the 1,600 metre relay team.

At least four girls are on the selectors short list. They are blonde Jackie MacDonald of Toronto, a shot-put and discus specialist, high jumpers Carole Hemmings of Montreal, the Canadian record holder, and Alice Whitty of Vancouver and Gwen Hobbins of Toronto, a strong challenger in the 80-metre hurdles at the BEG.

The swimming squad, which did well at the Pan-American games at Mexico City, is expected to bring in a few gold medals in the girls' division. Beth Whittall of Montreal took two first at Mexico while both Lenore Fisher of Ocean Falls, B.C., and Helen Stewart of Vancouver also came in ahead.

Among the men, there is Bill Patrick of Calgary, the BEG diving champion, and George Parks, the swimming cop from Hamilton who is rated a good possibility for the 100-metre event.

Four Canadian boxing champions appear set for the team. They are Wilfred Greaves, holder of the 156-pound title, Ron Paulson, Edmonton, 119 pounds, Norm Jorgenson, Vancouver, 147 pounds, and George Chuvalle, the heavyweight champion from Toronto. Mickey Bergin of Montreal who won the 139-pound title at the BEG is also a sure fire bet.

UBC NOT OVERLOOKED

In rowing, the selectors can hardly overlook the powerful University of British Columbia eight, the BEG winners, while Don Stringer of Sudbury probably will fill the slot in the 1,000 and 10,000-metre single Canadian canoe event.

British Columbia or Alberta are expected to supply the basketball squad while George Murphy of Delhi, Ont., is a probable for the cycling team.

Two wrestlers who won second-place honors at Vancouver last summer—Rudy Leibovitch, Montreal lightweight, and Bob Steckle, Kitchener heavyweight, are almost sure of making the grade.

Ernestine Russell of Windsor, Ont., is a certainty for gymnastics.

In skating, Frances Dafoe and Norris Rowden of Toronto, world champions, are sure of a berth, while Gordon Audley of Winnipeg, Ralph Olin of Calgary and Craig Mackay of Saskatoon are likely choices for the speed-skating.

Indians Get Woodling, Cox, White Sox Acquire Harry Byrd

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cleveland Indians, battling to retain their American League championship title, and the cellar-dwelling Baltimore Orioles produced the only important deal as the major league deadline for trades passed at midnight Wednesday.

The Indians, seeking reserve strength, acquired veteran outfielder Gene Woodling and utility infielder Billy Cox, an ex-Brooklyn Dodger, in exchange for a pair of veteran utility outfielders—Wally Westlake and Dave Pope—and a bundle of cash.

A hitch developed, however, when Cox went to his home in Newport, Pa. Billy was reported to have said he didn't want to report to the Indians. Paul Richards, Oriole general manager, said he didn't know what was wrong with Cox.

Hank Greenberg, Indians general manager, was trying to reach the third baseman by telephone. Cox has 72 hours to report.

The Orioles, in another deal, sold Harry Byrd, righthanded pitcher, to Chicago White Sox for undisclosed amount of cash but in excess of the $10,000 waiver price.

In dealing off Woodling and Byrd, the Orioles let go two more of the nine players they obtained from the Yankees last winter in the deal that sent Bob Turley, among others to New York. The Orioles purchased Cox with Preacher Roe from Brooklyn for an estimated $55,000 and two minor league players last winter. Only four of the original nine Yankees are still with Baltimore.

Detroit Tigers, apparently giving up hopes of dealing with the Yankees, acquired veteran first baseman Earl Torgeson from Philadelphia Phillies for an estimated $25,000. The Tigers were desperately in need of a first sacker since both Ferris Fain and Jack Phillips are hobbled by knee injuries.

To make room for Torgeson, the Tigers sent Leo Cristante, a right-handed relief pitcher, to Buffalo on option.

In other transactions:

Cleveland signed Ted Gray as a free agent. Gray was released last month by Chicago White Sox because of a sore arm. Indians put him to work Wednesday night.

St. Louis Cardinals swapped two pitchers with their Rochester and Houston farm clubs. Floyd Wooldridge of Houston and Mel Wright of Rochester were recalled. The Cards optioned Herb Moford to Rochester and Barney Schultz to Houston.

Pittsburgh shipped third baseman George Freese and pitcher Ben Wade to Hollywood and brought up southpaw Lino Donoso.

The Phillies purchased pitcher Ronnie Negray from St. Paul and threw in Dave Cole, an erratic pitcher.

Chicago Cubs purchased Owen Friend, a utility infielder, from Louisville.

Moe Norman Favored to Keep Place On Golf's Willingdon Cup Quartet

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Moe Norman, a golfing nomad from Kitchener's Rockway Golf Club, Wednesday firmly established himself as an odds-on favorite to keep his place on the four-man inter-provincial Willingdon Cup team.

The Kitchener amateur who would rather carry his own clubs than use a caddy, carded 18-hole scores of 72 and 69 in the London Hunt Club invitation tournament here to head a field of over 100 Ontario golfers.

His sizzling one - over - par was second only to a perfect 140 tallied by husky Tom Draper of Detroit.

Draper, the only United States golfer who accepted the London invitation, holed out with winning scores of 71 and 69.

Only Norman matched Draper's second round 18 and only Bill Parkes of Woodstock, who placed third in the tournament, matched the winner's morning 71.

Jerry Magee of Toronto Lambton and Bill Morland of North Bay counted identical 148 totals on the two rounds to tie for fourth.

Dave Morland, holed out with a 149 total one stroke off that of brother Bill.

SEEK TEAM BERTHS

Both Morlands, along with Magee and Parkes are among 15 Ontario amateurs who qualified to enter the Ontario Open in Kingston later this month, to seek Willingdon Cup team berths.

Selection of the team is based on play in the Open and in the London Hunt Club invitation tournament Wednesday and the Burlington invitation tourney two weeks ago.

Players with the four lowest totals in the three events will place on the team. In the event a player other than one of the four wins the Ontario amateur at Kitchener July 6-9, he automatically gets a place on the team and the lowest ranked of the other four is dropped.

Both Norman and Eric Hanson of Toronto Scarboro, who took scores of 73 and 79 for a 152 total in Wednesday's tournament, were members of last year's Willingdon Cup squad.

Norman, a colorful competitor, last year was named top Ontario amateur by the Ontario Golf Association.

Low gross scores of the 15 players at Burlington and London with totals:

1. Moe Norman, Kitchener Rockway 139-141—280
2. Jerry Magee, Toronto Lambton 141-148—289
3. Davoe Morland, North Bay 141-149—290
4. Eric Hanson, Toronto Scarborough 139-152—291
5. Nick Westlock, Windsor Essex 142-151—293
6. Bill Parkes, Woodstock 151-143—294
7. Bruce Gastator, Toronto Weston 147-149—296
8. Jack Nash, London Hunt 146-149—296
9. Ken Jacobs, Toronto Scarborough 149-149—298
10. Doug McKellar, Toronto Scarborough 145-153—298
11. Keith Kirkpatrick, London Highland 145-153—298
12. Bill Morland, North Bay 153-148—301
13. Bernie Johnston, Hamilton Glendale 148-154—302
14. Tom Woodall, London Hunt 148-155—303
15. Grant Shirk, Kitchener Westmount 151-152—303.

Linda Wagg Barely Misses No-Hit Game

Linda Wagg, Leo Lucciola's Shellettes mound ace came through with a sparkling one-hitter against the Trenton ladies' softball team last night but barely squeezed out a 7-6 victory to extend the unbeaten Shellettes win string to four.

Not far behind was Donna Drake, Trenton hurler who gave up but two clouts while whiffing seven and walking four in a tight mound duel. Linda struck out eight, walked none and rapped out one of her teams two hits.

Both teams errored rather badly with the Shellettes bobbling eight times and the Trenton girls five. The only hit off Linda was a home run by Miss Hooper in the third innings when errors and the clout accounted for all six runs scored by Trenton.

The Shellettes scored singles in the first and second innings, two in the third and three in the sixth. Lois Batchelor hit a double for their second clout of the game.

The score:

Shellettes	112 003 0—7-2-8
Trenton	006 000 0—6-2-5

Canadians Enter US Open Golf Tourney

By WILL GRIMSLEY

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Gold's "old guard," symbolized by limping Ben Hogan and unpredictable Sam Snead, makes what may be its final stand against onrushing youth in the 55th U.S. Open championship opening today at the Olympic Club.

Included in the field are three Canadians, Billy Mawhinney of Vancouver and Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener and Rudy Horvath, Windsor, Ont.

Hogan, 42, stiff-legged from a near-fatal automobile accident six years ago, is making another determined stab at his fifth Open title—which would put him above Bob Jones as the winningest of Open champions.

He still is viewed with respect and fear—although to a lessening degree—by his fellow pros.

"It's not just beating him physically," said young Dick Mayer. "We still have to beat him mentally."

TRYS FOR FIRST

Snead, 43, is still shooting for Open championship No. 1. One of the game's all-time greats from tee to green, he apparently has conquered a putting complex.

Behind these two tee titans of a couple of decades come a horde of the veteran Gene Sarazen has termed "young hungry wolves lusting for fame and fortune."

This group is headed by a sandy-haired San Diego, Calif., sphinx named Gene Littler, hailed as the sport's bright new hope, and a barrel-chested former Duke University football player named Mike Souchak, who shattered all-time scoring records in the spring.

In between is sandwiched a formidable collection of precisionists which includes lame-armed Ed Furgol, the surprise winner at Baltusrol last year; masters champion Cary Middlecoff, Dick Mayer, Jack Burne and others.

Most observers concede that there are 25 men in the field of 162 who might walk off with the $5,000 first prize, which is worth infinitely more in prestige.

Single rounds today and Friday reduce the field to the low 50 scorers and ties, who will play two rounds Saturday in the big showdown.

Canadian Wins For Yale

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Ken MacKenzie, the Canadian southpaw from Gorebay, Ont., who earlier pitched Yale to the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League title over Harvard, whipped the Crimson again Wednesday, 5-1 on a four-hitter.

MacKenzie and Harvard's Al Ward, his opponent when Yale won the EIBL crown with an 8-2 victory here last month, hooked up in a duel until the seventh inning.

Yale, with only two hits in the first six frames, got a 3-0 edge on Bill Shifino's two-run double and subsequent score on MacKenzie's two bagger. Phil Mathias hit a two-run single in the eighth.

1956 Olympics Summer Games Will Be Played in Old Rome

PARIS (AP)—The International Olympic Committee today awarded the 1960 summer games to Rome.

The voting—most important in the world of sports—was taken as the climax of the week-long IOC meeting.

Losing cities were Lausanne, Budapest, Brussels, Detroit, Tokyo and Mexico City.

A decision on the winter games will be reached Friday.

The 1956 games will be in Australia. In accordance with an unwritten Olympic rule that summer games must be in Europe at least two-thirds of the time, the return to Europe was almost a foregone conclusion.

The occasion marked the second time the summer games have been awarded to the Italian capital The 1948 games were due to be held in Rome, but 18 months before they were to start, the Italians said they could not stage the big sports festival because of financial difficulties, and London had to step in.

The Romans have more than enough money this time — cash from the national football lottery, which brings in about 500,000,000 lira ($800,000) every Sunday during the nine-month season.

Modern Rome is well equipped for the games—with hotels, transportation facilities, bulk of population, communications, a reservoir of officials throughly familiar with the Olympic sports, and with such necessities as a stadium, training grounds, pools and playing fields.

The 100,000-seat stadium which dictator Mussolini began, is ready, an appropriately named Olympic Stadium.

Detroit offered Wednesday to pay the travel expenses of all athletes if the American city were selected.

Leafs Beaten, Maintain Lead In International

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The arrival of Dick Kryhoski in Columbus may turn out to be the big factor in the Jets' drive for a first division berth in the International League.

The big first baseman, recently acquired from the Kansas City Athletics, drove in three runs Wednesday night with a home run and a double to lead the Jets to a 4-3 victory over the Syracuse Chiefs.

In other games the battle for first place remained unchanged with Toronto holding on to its half game lead over Montreal and Havana.

The three leaders all went down to defeat. The Rochester Red Wings came from behind to whip Toronto 5-3. The Buffalo Bisons routed the Montreal Royals 8-4 and the Richmond Virginians stopped the Havana Sugars from going into first place with a four run rally in the ninth to edge the Cubans 6-5.

Kryhoski's double in the sixth inning off starter Jack Spring tied the score at 2-2. In the seventh with the Chiefs on top 3-2, Kryhoski hit his first homer of the season off reliefer Lynn Lovenguth. It came after Spook Jacobs had drawn a walk. Home runs by Lou Heyman and Bob Micelotta were the only bright points in the Chiefs efforts.

The Red Wings scored three unearned runs to take the four game series from the Maple Leafs 3-1. The Leafs took a 2-0 lead in the fifth but Rochester tied the score on two unearned tallies in the sixth. Rochester added one more in the seventh and completed the scoring with two more in the eighth. John Mackinson the fourth of five Rochester pitchers took the victory. It was his third in five decisions.

The Bisons used some timely hitting to overcome a four-run first inning by the Royals and salvage the final game of a three game set. Dick Marlowe, who relieved starter Vince Traken pitched eight scoreless innings, and struck out seven. Royals, in gaining his second victory. Charley Kress ran up a hitting string of five straight hits in two games with a single and home run.

Ebbs St. Claivit's three run double in the ninth inning sparked the Richmond rally which stopped the Cubans winning streak at 12 games.

The Sugar Kings had a comfortable 5-2 margin going into the final inning when the roof fell in on Emile Cueche and Paul Sanchez.

Veteran Movie Actor Hopes TV Will Make Him a Star

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Forrest Tucker, veteran of 69 movies, is going into television in the hopes that it will boost his picture career.

Tucker has signed up to star in a new film series, "Crunch and Des," based on the Philip Wylie short stores about a charter fishing-boat captain. They will be produced by RKO for the NBC film division for telecast starting this fall.

With a backlog of six unreleased motion picture features accumulated, Tucker explains that while he has been successful in movies he's never really hit star status. He's hopeful his weekly appearances on TV screens around the country may give him the recognition needed for stardom.

Tucker, a six-foot-four giant, will play Crunch Adams, the boat captain. Joan Budill as Sari, his wife, and Sandy Kenyon as Des will round out the cast.

The series will be filmed in Bermuda to fit the mythical locale of Caribbee Key, a typical Florida or Bahaman fishing resort. Much of the action will take place aboard a 41-foot fishing cruiser.

How many people watch the average TV set in the evening? A survey of New York homes by Trendex, Inc., shows an average of more than two per set from 6 p. m. through 10:30 p. m., EDT, but less than three except for 7 and 8:30 p. m. Sundays when it goes slightly over three.

Barbara Ruick will be featured singer on CBS-TV's new Johnny Carson show starting June 30. She's the daughter of Lurene Tuttle, who plays Mother Day in "Life With Father". . . . Production of TV sets has been running 45 per cent ahead of last year. What about old-fashioned radios? Only 43 per cent ahead.

Belleville Rinks Share in Prizes At Campbellford

In a full double draw, the mixed doubles tournament staged by the Campbellford Bowling Club on Wednesday afternoon was a decided success. Rinks from all over the district were represented in the draw with the Belleville club supplying six rinks, including Mr. and Mrs. Harold Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Argue, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wonnacott, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Price and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Elliott.

Tribute was paid to the late Walter S. Wiggins before the start of the tourney, when a minute's silence was observed. Mr. Wiggins has been a power in bowling in this district and province for many years. He was a popular member of the Campbellford club and was a frequent visitor to every tournament. He was also active in executive work and his work will always be remembered.

The greens were in excellent condition and the bowlers enjoyed almost perfect weather for their games which were exceptionally keen. Fred Thorne and his partner from Brighton won the three-game high being followed by Mr. and Mrs. James McMullen of Campbellford and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Elliott. The two-game high was won by W. A. Connors and his partner from Madoc, while Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Price of Belleville won the one-game high.

Club games are being enjoyed by the local members at the greens. Ernie Jones, chairman of this committee, has started the games earlier this year and despite the early start some keen bowling has been seen. The club games are played on Tuesday and Thursday nights, while mixed jitneys are staged on Monday and Friday evenings under the chairmanship of Bill Wright and his committee.

An executive meeting of the club has been called for this evening previous to the start of the club games and all members are urgently requested to be on hand early as important business is on the agenda.

Esther Williams in "Jupiter's Darling". Lavish CinemaScope Musical

"Jupiter's Darling", M.G.M.'s eye-filling new CinemaScope musical in color, showing Tonight for the last times at the Belle Theatre, with Esther Williams, Howard Keel, Marge and Gower Champion, George Sanders, Richard Haydn and William Demarest, is one of the most spectacular musicals ever to come from M. G. M.

The whole mad frolic is set to a joyous pattern of songs and dances with the principals choosing appropriate moments to vent their musical emotions to such numbers as the plaintive "I Had a Dream", the comic "Never Trust a Woman", the rousing "Victory March" and the romantic "This Is What I Love", and "Don't Let This Night Get Away." The prancing Champions also have two dazzling dance routines with "The Life of an Elephant" and "If This Be Slav'ry", in which they prove that bondage sometimes may be a boon.

The temples, forums and villas of Rome are given spectacular presentation in the vast scope of the CinemaScope cameras trained on "Jupiter's Darling", and the colors are stunning.

One scene which you will never forget is that in which Hannibal's elephants, considered by Amytis to be a bit on the drab side, make a final appearance painted in all shades of the rainbow!

A new and funny Tom & Jerry Color cartoon, "Mouse in the House", the latest World News Events, a funny Pete Smith comedy creation, and a Technicolor Travel Tour, "Mexican Police on Parade."

AT THE McCARTHY

HERO ROLE OFFERS CHANCE TO ACT, ALSO

Disputing a popular Hollywood theory, actor Stephen McNally, who stars with Lex Barker and Mara Corday in Universal-International's color outdoor adventure, "The Man From Bitter Ridge," currently at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre, maintains that "An actor doesn't have to be bad to be good."

"No actor," says McNally, "has to play villains to be considered a fine actor. There's lots of meat in the sympathetic roles!"

McNally figures that he's the "good man" in about two-thirds of his stage and screen roles while in the other third he's played the villain.

His most interesting experience in this regard, he recalled, was in the play "Johnny Belinda." When it was presented on the Broadway stage he played the hero, but in the equally successful screen version he played the villain.

As a matter of fact, the story has to be an interesting one and the character itself well developed before an actor can hope to do anything with it.

Abbott and Costello Meet the Mummy is the added feature.

AT THE CAPITOL — Johnny Weismuller in "Jungle Moon Men" seeks a lost civilization in the jungle wilds, with Jean Byron, and finds lovely Helene Stanton its lone survivor, a blond goddess to the savage people of the area. The new Columbia thriller is at the Capitol Theatre tonight, Friday and Saturday. On the same program, Color by Technicolor, "Seminole Uprising," starring George Montgomery and Karen Booth. The two attractions are first Belleville showings.

Hospital Girls Drop Tough Game to Madoc

After piling up a comfortable lead during the early innings, the Belleville General Hospital Employees girls' softballers dropped a tough game at Madoc Wednesday evening when a comedy of errors paved the way for a homesters' rally and the local girls came home on the short end of a 16-11 score.

The softball fixture was the second league game for the Belleville girls in the Belleville and District Ladies' Softball League.

With Ann Smith pitching steady ball and the girls hitting well behind her, the Hospital girls plied up a 10-3 lead going into the bottom half of the 5th. Then the roof fell in and the Madoc gals took advantage of errors on the part of the visitors to go on a scoring rampage.

Buy Barons

CLEVELAND (AP) — Sale of Cleveland Barons, American Hockey League club, to a group of Clevelanders headed by the Barons' general manager, James C. Hendy, was authorized Wednesday.

The sellers are Cleveland Arena, Inc., a Detroit syndicate headed by Ed Bernstein, and the price paid for the AHL franchise, all players and lease of the Cleveland arena rink was reported by Hendy to be $300,000.

Hendy said the new owners would continue a long fight to get Cleveland into membership of the National Hockey League.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two teenage girls were found slain Wednesday in a park near University Hills, Md., a Washington suburb. One of the girls had been stabbed several times. They were identified as Nancy Marie Shomette, 16, and Ann Ryan, 14, daughter of a Washington policeman.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, June 17, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Friendly vibrations both artistic and laborious pursuits. New enterprises and the completion of old tasks equally favored. Prepare for a useful week-end.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — This should be a satisfying, pleasant day. Pleasure, occupational duties, household and family affairs, sports, all wholesome activities favored.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Government and military interests are under splendid Mars. Sun and other planetary influences. Daring deeds likely in the news. Be sensibly cautious but do be acquisitive for further good.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — A stimulating day, promising pleasant returns for efficient effort in many lines — especially in the artistic, domestic sports and entertainment fields. Have faith; proceed in your endeavors.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — You can accept this day's schedule with a smile. The planetary influences are encouraging, helpful in many directions; should help you to advance considerably.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Mercury's rays, somewhat toned down, can still be helpful, but suggest avoidance of strain, anxiety. Other aspects are highly favorable, stimulating. You are in line for gain.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Purely personal desires should be restrained somewhat so that you may give more essential matters full time and effort. A great day for benefits, improvement; good fun, too.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — An intriguing, challenging and encouraging day. Quickly, but also thoughtfully, look over your schedule and make your plans. Then, with a prayer and high hope, pitch in.

November 23 to December 22— (Sagittarius) — Fine aspects for professions, trade, industry, home and outdoor activities, care of children, nursing; also for military interests. Give your aid to worthwhile causes.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Your activities can be gainful since you are favored in many ways now. New, even adventurous, activities offer opportunities, advancement. Think, then proceed.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — One of your peak days of a generally pleasant month, planetarily speaking. Do not permit whims to sidetrack you from gaining as you should. Difficult matters, artistic, home affairs honored.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Your Neptune's benefic position, with the other fine vibrations prevalent, offer you an interesting, gainful day. Forethought before starting will prevent errors.

You born today are among the highly artistic; can be very intellectual. Varied in talents, and efficient, you are, nevertheless, restless (at times to a point where you could defeat the high aims you wish to achieve). Curb impatience and a desire for new things to do, new places to see. Healthy restlessness can be used to advantage, can prevent staying "put", give impetus to new efforts, but it must be sensibly controlled and directed. Many noted promoters, advertising geniuses, actors, journalists and politicians were born under your Sign. Birthdate: Chas. Gounod, Fr. composer; Sir Wm. Crookes, noted chemist, physicist.

BLACKHEADS

Don't squeeze blackheads — dissolve them. Get two ounces of PEROXINE POWDER from any drug store and apply gently with wet, hot cloth over the blackheads. They simply dissolve and disappear by this safe simple method.

PERON DECLARES REBELLION IS CRUSHED

Two Constables Charged With Beating Up Chief

Pickering Police Station Said Scene of Assault

PICKERING (CP)—Two Pickering township police officers were in Whitby jail today charged with assault occasioning actual bodily harm, following the beating of their chief, Ernest Lester Hill, in the township police station.

The chief was reported to have been slugged by one man while the other held his hands. He was alone in the police station when the two men came in.

Constables Roy Morden and Grant Thompson today were remanded one week on $2,000 bail.

When crown attorney A. C. Hall asked $500 bail for each of them, magistrate F. S. Ebbs said:

"I would suggest bail of at least $2,000 as this is a very serious case and the chief was badly beaten up."

Chief Hill was treated for a broken nose and face bruises in hospital.

Provincial police officers arrested Morden and Thompson after the injured chief called Newmarket headquarters for provincial police help.

For Morden it was the second arrest of the night. He was picked up earlier in the day by provincial police officers when it was reported he refused to bring a police cruiser back to the station. Thompson bailed him out.

Police officers said the affair started when chief Hill and another officer arrived at the police station Thursday night and were told by the officer on duty that Morden, who was on duty, had come in, taken the keys to a cruiser and driven away in it.

When the chief called the missing cruiser on the radio and told Morden to bring the car back, Morden refused and the chief called provincial police, officials said.

Morden was stopped in Scarboro and taken to Whitby jail, but was bailed out by constable Thompson. The two men left and a short time later the chief was attacked.

It was the first case of police officers being charged with assaulting their own chief in the memory of senior Toronto police officers.

A Pickering police commission meeting was called for 3 p. m. today.

Card of Thanks To Teacher Ranks As News

CINCINNATI (AP) — George Biedenbach, 10, telephoned the Cincinnati Enquirer Thursday to insert an advertisement thanking his school teacher. Report cards, incidentally, are due Saturday.

George, a fourth-grade pupil, said three of his schoolmates were joining in the tribute to Mrs. Lucille S. Webb.

"We don't know how to express our feelings and thanks," George's proposed advertisement read. "We can never repay what you have given this year. Thank you so much."

The feelings of the four schoolmates were expressed free of charge as a news story in The Enquirer.

Tests Show U.S. Would Survive Atomic Attack

By STERLING F. GREEN

EMERGENCY PRESS HEADQUARTERS, Operation Alert (AP) The United States, theoretically atom-blasted, has decided that its farm and industry potential would be sufficiently intact to avert collapse and support a war effort despite mock casualties numbering 14,750,000.

That was the assessment of government officials at the start of this third and final day of Operation Alert 1955, designed to test civil defence preparedness and ability to shake off the devastation supposedly wreaked in Wednesday's sham nuclear assault.

The Federal Civil Defence Administration reported that 4,250,000 persons were "saved" from death or injury by simulated evacuations in 24 of the 61 cities subject to the make-believe attack.

But 24,000,000 were calculated to be homeless refugees. These persons, FCDA administrator Val C. Peterson said, would be "the most pressing problem" of the home front if the synthetic war were real.

COUNT INCOMPLETE

The casualty count, still incomplete and coming in slowly, supposed 8,200,000 were dead and 6,550,000 injured in the continental U.S. alone.

Meantime President Eisenhower and 15,000 evacuated government workers, operating in 31 posts away from Washington, poured out dummy decrees designed to pump money, manpower, food and medicine into the supposedly wounded civilian economy.

Meanwhile, at Arrprior, Ont., it was reported the imaginary carnage inflicted across Canada has been cleaned up and the exercise declared a satisfying improvement over a similar one held last year.

Today's Chuckle

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Continued hot and sunny is the prospect today and Saturday for most of Ontario. The high pressure area associated with this fine weather is still moving only very slowly and this morning was centred southwest of Lake Erie. Thus it seems likely that the fine weather can last through the week-end in southern Ontario. In northern and eastern sections of the province isolated thunderstorms are again likely tonight and Saturday night.

HYDRO ANNOUNCES RELOCATION PLANS FOR IROQUOIS

1,100 Residents Will Be Moved to New Site

IROQUOIS, Ont. (CP)—The Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission will make an immediate start on the relocation of the village of Iroquois to be flooded by the St. Lawrence power project.

Hydro officials announced Thursday night details of the new compensation-relocation plan which involves flooding 20,000 acres on the site of the present town and moving 1,100 residents to a new site.

The project involves the relocation of 280 homes, as well as commercial properties, schools, churches and municipal offices. Hydro's property chief, Harry Hustler, will meet the village council today to explain details of the new plan.

For the purpose of the move, houses have been divided into two categories; those which can be economically moved and those which cannot.

WILL MOVE SOME

Owners of "movable" homes may have them moved to the new village site. Hydro will move the home to a serviced, landscaped lot in New Iroquois and will repair any damage which occurs to the home in transit.

They will be placed in full cement block basements, receive new heating plants and superficial repairs.

On the other hand, owners of "movable" homes may sell them to Hydro if they wish. Hydro will allow each owner a lot in the new village or which he must build a new home or resell the lot to Hydro within one year.

Every home in the existing village has been appraised at a price which includes a 15-per-cent allowance for inconvenience and disturbance.

PAY PERCENTAGE

If the home-owner moves with his house, Hydro will pay the owner 15 per cent of the value of the building and land on which the house originally stood as a straight cash payment.

If the owner does not or cannot move his house he may either sell out to hydro completely or re-locate in New Iroquois.

To those who sell out, Hydro will pay the appraised price plus the 15-per-cent allowance.

Reeve Lloyd Davis said the plan represents, "the first really honest attempt by Hydro to satisfy a majority of the people." He feels the arrangement is a workable one.

Residents near Cornwall, however, are concerned for a different reason.

GOVERNMENT OFFER

The Canadian government, which expropriated 50 acres of property near Cornwall in April, offered residents of the area a chance to remain where they were under a five-year lease.

The property, which is the key to the final link of the all-Canadian seaway, is near the Canadian site of the St. Lawrence powerhouse. It is a residential and light industrial area.

Will Get $112,291 For Dozen Years Spent in Prison

NEW YORK (AP) — Claims Judge Frederick Young awarded $112,291 today to 41-year-old Louis Hoffner as compensation for his 12-year imprisonment on a murder conviction that was set aside in 1952. Hoffner was sentenced to life imprisonment for the still-unsolved slaying of a Queens bartender in 1940.

Pope Arranges Private Audience For Expelled Argentine Prelates

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius today received in a quickly-arranged private audience the two prelates of the Roman Catholic Church expelled by Argentine authorities.

Auxiliary Bishop Manuel Tato of Buenos Aires and his assistant, Msgr. Ramon Pablo Novoa, were rushed here by Vatican automobile from the pontifical Latin American College in Rome.

They were ushered immediately into the presence of the 79-year-old leader of the Roman Catholic Church to give a first-hand account of developments in Argentina that led to their own expulsion and the excommunication of President Juan Peron and his government.

Elsewhere in the Vatican today, mass was celebrated for Argentina's Roman Catholics and Giuseppe Cardinal Siri, archbishop of Genoa asked during the service that the more than 60,000,000 members of Catholic Action groups over the world pray that "the light of liberty will return for the persecuted in Argentina."

Cardinal Siri, ecclesiastical head of Italian Catholic Action, described Peron's treatment of the Roman Catholics as "a new thorn in the crown of thorns for which the Sacred Heart of Jesus bleeds." Today is the Roman Catholic feast day of the Most Sacred Heart of Jesus.

Church sources generally agree that the church's excommunication has in effect, if not formally, at least temporarily broken or suspended diplomatic relations between the Vatican and Peron's government.

Some sources here fear that Thursday's uprising in Buenos Aires might be only the first of a series of such outbursts. There are fears that Peron may take even stricter measures against Catholics and their church.

Cunard Charters Airliners For Queen Mary Passengers

LONDON (Reuters) — A trans Atlantic airlift went into full swing today as passengers from strike-bound British liners packed every available aircraft bound for the United States and Canada.

Most of the passengers came from the 81,27'-ton Cunarder Queen Mary, which was unable to leave Southampton for New York Thursday because of the wildcat stewards' walkout.

Close behind them in the lineup for airliner space were passengers from another Cunarder, the 11,930-ton Scythia, whose sailing to Quebec from Southampton today has also been prevented.

The stewards, striking without union approval for better pay and conditions, have tied up nine liners at Liverpool and Southampton and cost Britain an estimated $3,000,000 already in lost revenue from North American visitors. Many Britain-bound tourists have had to make other arrangements on the North American side.

Meantime, leaders of 20,000 dock workers met today to decide whether to recommend that their followers end their 26-day-old inter-union stoppage.

The deckers, striking for recognition of their breakway union, have stopped or slowed work on more than 260 ships—almost half of Britain's maritime trade—in six major ports.

Cunard has arranged air passages for about 450 of the 1,175 passengers from the Queen Mary. The "airlift" of these people in planes chartered by the company, or on scheduled air routes, will continue until early next week.

Cunard is giving priority in air passages to persons short of money or faced with urgent business engagements.

The company has six liners affected by the dispute. The strikers believe they will tie up the pride of the Cunard fleet, the 83,673-ton Queen Elizabeth due in Southampton Monday. The strikers said today they had received a message from members of the crew of the Elizabeth saying: "No mistakes this time. We are with you."

Cunard liners involved in the stoppage at Southampton are the Queen Mary, Mauretania (35,674 tons) and Scythia. Tied up at Liverpool are three other liners in the company's trans Atlantic fleet —the 22,000-ton Saxonia, the Britannic (27,666 tons) and the Ascania (14,440 tons).

Canadian Pacific liners at Liverpool hit by the stoppage are the Empress of Scotland (26,313 tons) and Empress of Australia (19,379 tons). The ninth liner involved is the 7,438-ton Furness Withy vessel Nova Scotia.

Russia Seeking to Neutralize Japan Opinion of Observers

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia appears to be seeking to neutralize Japan as well as Germany in what American sources regard as a probable strategy aimed eventually at extending its influence over both these key industrial countries.

United States officials say Russia's designs on Japan stand out clearly in one reported price tag which Moscow has put on making a peace treaty with Tokyo. Tokyo dispatches say the price is withdrawal of American troops from Japan 90 days after the treaty becomes effective.

That would be a measure for the neutralization of Japan. U.S. troops there and in Korea provide at present the concrete evidence of American deterrent power and Japan's real protection against military attack.

When the U.S. and most of the wartime allies signed a peace treaty with Japan, a separate agreement was negotiated saying American forces might remain in Japan, as long as a danger of Communist aggression existed and the Japanese were unable to meet it effectively.

The state department has made no comment on the Tokyo reports, and officials said the treaty discussions between Russia and Japan, being held in London, are formally no affair of the U.S.

However, American interests in both Germany and Japan are vital, and unfolding pattern of Russia's designs is a matter of intense interest here.

The American view is this: The Russians have discovered that strong - arm tactics merely strengthen antagonism against them. Without abandoning their major objectives, they now are using completely different tactics—the tactics of goodwill and peacemaking.

The major purpose defensively is to split the U.S. from its allies in Europe and Asia—to leave it isolated and to leave allied countries without the source of American military strength.

The purpose offensively, while smokescreened by peace talk now, is eventually to extend their power over Germany and Japan whose industrial resources could swing the military balance respectively in Europe and Asia.

Trying to Raise Submarine By Pumping Air Into Hull

PORTLAND, England (Reuters) The steady beat of compressed-air pumps echoed hollowly over the harbor here today as salvage ships began pumping air into the sealed hull of the sunken submarine Sidon.

The submarine went down Thursday in 35 feet of water after an explosion of a practice torpedo, taking 13 men with her to the bottom, including a Royal Canadian Navy man from Stratford.

Divers rushed to the scene of the disaster by helicopter worked all through the night in relays to seal hatches and vents in the hull.

Shortly after dawn "frog men" went down and bored a dozen holes in the hull, then connected up pipes from air pumps on the ships on the surface.

With the order to start pumping a steady stream of bubbles began to rise round the orange marker buoy at the Sidon's bow where air was escaping from the torn forward torpedo compartment.

Fifty-six men were aboard the Sidon, including crew, passengers and trainees, when the blast occurred Thursday morning.

The Canadian was Petty Officer Laverne D. McLeod of Dartmouth, N. S., and Stratford. He was on a volunteer tour of training with the Royal Navy.

For 40 minutes after the explosion men struggled through the water to sister submarines which had been preparing to put to sea with the Sidon. Rescue craft helped some men off the conning tower as the stricken ship began to sink.

In the minutes before the submarine plunged out of sight, there were gallant bids to rescue trapped and wounded men.

A 27-year-old navy doctor, Charles Rhodes, rescued one man, asked for breathing apparatus and hurried back inside the gutted vessel. He went to his death.

Later, when divers tapped Morse code signals on the submarine's hull, they heard no sign of life.

A midshipman who had been on the bridge of the submarine when the explosion rocked the ship told a graphic story of the minutes before she sank.

"A short column of greenish water shot up from the bows. Then a blast of hot air shot up from the conning tower hatch. There were cries and shouts of help from below."

Men streamed up the conning tower hatch, their clothes torn and their faces and bodies bleeding.

Rhodes went down the hatch, came back choking, but returned to the smoke-filled submarine's interior and helped several of the injured up the ladder to safety.

"He was a brave man," said the midshipman. "The last of him was seen when he was supporting an injured man. We think he must have been overcome by the fumes."

CANADIAN ARMY SHOULD BE AIR-BORNE--DREW

Continental Defence Major Part of Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Drew says Canada's army should be given wings—moulded into small, hard-hitting units completely airborne to meet invasion of this continent.

And Defence Minister Campney says Canada no longer can count on being "an ocean away from war" and must work closely with the United States to reckon with attacks on its homeland.

They spoke Thursday in a Commons defence debate which showed that the problems of defending Canada itself are assuming a larger role in the eyes of parliamentarians.

While in past years the annual defence debate was concerned to a large degree with overseas military commitments, Thursday's debate largely ignored that topic and revolved instead of the needs of continental defence.

CANADIAN CONCEPT

Mr. Drew called for a "distinctly Canadian concept of the organization of our defence forces."

He said mobile airborne units, able to fight anywhere against aerial invasion of the northland, would best suit Canada's needs and would be Canada's best possible contribution to the ground forces of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The entire active army—and the reserve militia, too—should be set up on that basis.

The planned rearmament of West Germany meant Canada would need fewer army units. This country should start planning small, hard-hitting units.

ARMIES NEEDED

Mr. Drew, First World War artillery officer, said the fact that atomic weapons have not been used in any wars since 1945 shows the need for conventional armies. But Canada needed "conventional units used in an unconventional way."

Complete air mobility was the only way to meet the threat of enemy paratroop landings in the north.

Mr. Campney, going before Parliament with defence department estimates for the first time since his appointment last July 1, spoke of the joint Canada-U.S. program of continental defence through air forces, radar chains and ground and air interception.

Canada could not carry out the tremendous task of continental defence by itself. He added, however:

"There is today no absolute defence against atomic and thermonuclear weapons."

Ice's Strength 800 Miles From Pole Key to Fate of RCAF Mercy Flight

EDMONTON (CP)—Success or failure of an RCAF mercy flight to a weather station within 800 miles of the North Pole hinged today on the condition of the ice that must bear the weight of the mercy plane.

The flight was ordered after a radio message from the Northwest Territories weather station at Isachsen on the shores of the Arctic said transport department employee Edwin James Nashney was suffering from severe abdominal pains and required hospital treatment.

To snatch him from the Arctic, an RCAF Dakota piloted by Flt. Lt. Al Richards of Cloverdale, B. C., and carrying a nursing sister picked up along the way must try a wheel landing on the ice of the Arctic ocean's Prince Gustav Adolph sea.

The round-trip mileage to be chalked up is estimated at 3,980 miles, the most epic Arctic rescue flight since a 1950 mission which won an Air Force Cross for bravery for Wing Cmdr. J. E. Mitchell of Toronto. Mitchell flew 4,757 miles in less than 29 hours flying time.

The Edmonton-based Dakota left Whitehorse in the Yukon Thursday, landed at Fort Nelson in British Columbia to pick up Nursing Sister Edna Poirier and then flew to Yellowknife on the shores of Great Slave lake.

From Yellowknife the Dakota flew 950 miles to Resolute Bay, N. W. T. The plane was scheduled to strike on north after a short stop at Resolute and the RCAF said that, if all goes well, the Dakota is due back in Edmonton tonight.

The brief message received here gave no indication of Nashney's age, his address before going north or what emergency medical attention he is receiving.

Blames Priests For Revolt Aimed At Him Personally

Destruction of Churches Said Work of Communists

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (CP) — President Juan D. Peron of Argentina said today the revolt was over in that country, which is under a state of siege.

Peron addressed his countrymen by radio, as he had Thursday night in a previous announcement that Thursday's revolt by naval forces was under control.

His speech confirmed reports that there had been depredations against churches in Argentina. He blamed Communists for these. He said the revolt was connected with priests of the Roman Catholic church, whose powers he has been seeking to curb since last November.

Peron declared his government is ready to prevent any communistic or other disorders. He declared he is a Catholic and not against religion, and advised Catholics in Argentina to await a referendum on his proposal to separate the church from the state.

NO CASUALTY ESTIMATE

The Peron broadcast was monitored here. At the time he spoke there had been a blackout on direct communications with Buenos Aires for 15 hours.

There were no details on the damage done to churches in Argentina. Rumors had reached Montevideo that six or seven churches had been set afire as the climax to Thursday's events.

Casualties in Buenos Aires were heavy, but there were no reliable estimates of their total.

Peron said the revolt obviously was directed against him personally, since the air bombings and ground attacks centred on Government House.

He added he had learned beforehand, through intelligence sources, what was in store, and had left Government House to stay elsewhere.

NO DEMONSTRATIONS

He advised all Argentines to be calm and leave things in the hands of his government. He warned that the state of siege ordered by the government would prevent any demonstrations.

Fleeing naval and air officers had taken refuge in this country, bordering Argentina.

Commercial connections were cut late Thursday after President Juan Peron proclaimed the bloody attempt by navy rebels to unseat his regime had been put down. The last cable dispatch from Buenos Aires to The Associated Press came at 7:18 p. m. EDT. Air and sea traffic halted.

The Argentine radio stations, however, were hooked up to Buenos Aires and broadcast steadily throughout the night. They usually go off the air at midnight. Between musical numbers came such announcements as:

1. The government has taken severe measures, undefined, against Communists who "took advantage of the fight between the rebels and the loyal forces in order to perpetrate wrongful acts in many parts of the capital."

2. "Any groups of persons found in the streets in a suspicious attitude will be tried by military authorities on the spot."

Major Segment Of U.S. Maritime Strike Settled

NEW YORK (AP)—A major segment of the maritime strike on the United States east and gulf coasts has been settled by agreement on employer-financed unemployment benefits for seamen.

The National Maritime Union, which represents mostly unlicensed seamen, came to terms Thursday night with the operators of American passengers ships and freighters.

It is estimated that benefits paid by the employers to supplement state unemployment insurance benefits would give an idle seaman a total of $40 a week for up to 26 weeks.

Francis T. Greene, chairman of the bargaining committee for the passenger ship and freighter companies, said he had "great hopes" that meetings would be held early today with two other maritime unions and that settlements would be reached quickly.

He said "our ships will sail immediately" if the agreements are reached.

Despite the passengers ship-freighter agreement, the NMU remains on strike against tanker operators, Contracts of four maritime unions expired at midnight Wednesday. The NMU dispatched "no contract, no work" instructions to 18 east and gulf coast ports, and many ships were tied up Thursday.

Almost 1,000 ships, including transatlantic liners, and 33,000 men are involved in the four-union dispute with the operators.

WCA Home on Highland Ave. Opened, Dedicated Thursday

Yesterday was both "Open House" and "Dedication Day" at the recently purchased Women's Christian Association Home, 58 Highland Avenue, for elderly women wishing a sanctuary where peace, quiet and gracious living might be enjoyed.

The spacious and airy rooms were lovely with their softly tinted walls, and beautifully decorated with fragrant roses, and peonies into which over 200 guests were welcomed by the receptionists, Mrs. A. E. Purdy, president of the W.C.A.; Mrs. W. C. Mikel, honorary president, and Mrs. H. A. Thompson, first vice-president.

Previous to the dedication service, the guests were most courteously escorted through the residence by Mrs. T. R. Dolan, Mrs. R. M. Carmichael, Mrs. T. Y. Wills, Mrs. N. E Edwards and Miss Norma Clarke, viewing with delight the spic and span rooms with their attractive furnishings, and pleasing, restful, pastel-tinted walls, some in blue, others in soft grey and green, and some in pale rose and eggshell, whose generous windows afforded views of the city and eastern stretches of the Bay of Quinte

SPACIOUS RECEPTION HALL

On entering the door, one was greeted by the spaciousness of the reception hall, the gracefully ascending staircase with its soft carpeting, the newel post with its finely wrought iron figure bearing lights in scroll work of vine, and the large rooms to right and left; one the reception room, with its eggshell tinted walls, its black fireplace accented by square mosaics, and its single oil painting of pastel 'mums in a tall frame, and the other, the dining room with its three large windows looking eastward; its corner fireplace adorned with fragrant yellow roses and yellow Shasta 'mums.

Here the tea table was appointed from which tea would be served following the dedication ceremony. The fine Chinese lace cloth was centred by a crystal holder of white Fra Karl Druschi, American Beauty and pink polyanthus roses, while silver services added their lustre to an already delightful picture.

TEA ROOM HOSTESS

The tea room hostess was Mrs. E. Hickey, whose charming and gracious manner made everyone feel most welcome. Those who presided during the afternoon were: Mrs. G. A. Morton and Mrs. H. M. Davis; Mrs. F. S. Wilson and Mrs. V. Blakslee

Those serving included: Mesdames A. B. Sprague, R. W. Smith, J. T. Hawkins, H. D. Row, W. N. Hurst, G. A. Freeman and H. F. Alford.

GUEST ROOMS

The two upper floors were the private rooms of the paying guests where each one, according to her desire, had added the little touches which make 'a house a home.' In case of fire hazard, an easy exit from the second floor was available through a north window of a large and airy room, with steps leading to the window.

Each floor was appointed with its immaculate bath room, and there were ample closets accompanying each room, whose floors were either of gleaming inlaid linoleum or other material.

DEDICATION CEREMONY

Following the tour of the rooms, a most impressive and memorable dedication ceremony took place in the reception room, with the guests filling both it and the nearby hall. Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan, who was introduced by the president of the W.C.A., Mrs. A. E. Purdy, made the dedication in the name of the Father, and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost; the assembly reverently repeating in unison The Lord's Prayer, which was followed by the reading of Psalm 84 in which David expressed his longing for sanctuary of the Lord, and the blessedness of those who dwell therein.

The invocation was for the hallowing of the home, and that health, cheerfulness be vouchsafed to those who abide within its walls; that God's blessing be upon it; with the blessing of the house of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, and thanksgiving that the thought of establishing this home had been put into the hearts and minds of the Women's Christian Association, and that each one of those present might endeavor to portray Christian love in life, as it was exampled by this home.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION

Among those of the ministerial association who were present were —Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan, rector of Christ Church; the Rev. William J. Robinson, B.A., of St. Thomas' Anglican Church; the Rev. H. M. Davis, M.A., of Bridge Street United Church, and the Rev. R. D. MacLean, M.A., B.D., of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Morley Davidson rendered a lovely solo, which was most appropriate for the occasion "Bless This House."

Mrs. Purdy extended gracious thanks to the matron of the home, Mrs. Irvine; to Mrs. Marsh and Mrs. Marshall, the conveners, for their untiring efforts in making this day possible; to Mrs. Ponton's group; to Mrs. T. Y. Wills and Mrs. Smith for the lovely arrangement of the floral decorations; to Mrs. W. C. Mikel, to Mrs. Way, to Miss Clarke, to Mrs. Cordes, to Mr. Sprague, to Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan; to Mr. K. E. Box of the hospital administration; to the group of IT W.C.A. women who had put so much into this effort for the happiness of others, and to all those who had assisted in the culmination of this great attainment.

A telegram was also received from the former president of the W.C.A., Mrs. G. H. Morden, of Bergen, N.Y., who sincerely regretted that she was unable to be present on this outstanding occasion.

Lack of Funds Closes Research In Lake Erie

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Lack of funds has suspended research that directly affected Lake Erie's million dollar fishing industry.

For several years the zoology department at the University of Western Ontario has been studying the movements of fish in inshore waters, the amount and kind of fish food available, water temperatures and other aspects of lake life that are of much concern to fishermen.

Each summer Dr. D. M. Scott, associate professor in zoology, has moved with a small staff to Erieau to study the biology of the lake. Over the years an adequate laboratory has been set up, a 29-foot boat the "Limnoseer" has been purcased along with a truck, and work had progressed to a point where the scientists felt they were really getting somewhere.

This year Dr. Scott's grant from the Research Council of Ontario was cut off, his only means of financing the research.

The Limnoseer was sold for $450. Laboratory equipment was packed up and stored in a shed at Rondeau park. The truck was sold for a little over $100 and Dr. Scott himself accepted a position for the summer with the department of fisheries at St. Andrews, New Brunswick.

Scouts Can Win Jamboree Trips For Essays

Fifteen Ontario boy scouts will receive free trips to the World Scout Jamboree this summer, as awards in an essay contest.

Fifty Canadian Boy Scouts will be provided with an all-expense trip to the 8th World Jamboree to be held in August at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont. All costs of travel and of ten days at the Jamboree will be paid by The Bank of Nova Scotia for 50 winners in an essay contest on "What it Means to be a Scout".

The essay contest, sponsored by the bank in co-operation with the Boy Scout Association, is open to some 4,200 Scouts across Canada; those eligible to attend the Jamboree. Entry forms and rules on the essay contest went forward this week to the ten provincial headquarters and to district headquarters in Ontario of the Boy Scouts.

The Scouts have until midnight June 30 to mail their essay entries to their Provincial Headquarters; in Ontario to district headquarters. Winners in each province will then be picked by three-men committees comprising representatives of the Boy Scout movement and the bank. The 50 winners will include: two from Newfoundland; one from Prince Edward Island; four from Nova Scotia; three from New Brunswick; seven in Quebec; 15 in Ontario; four from Manitoba; three from Saskatchewan; five from Alberta, and six from British Columbia.

"We are conducting this essay contest because we realize how much attendance at this Jamboree can mean to Canadian Boy Scouts and we recognize that transportation and other costs may keep many a worthy Scout from going," said a bank spokesman.

As you always were before.
—Always remembered by Harold and Edith.

CARTER. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Wilbert Carter, who passed away so suddenly on June 17th, 1954.

Your last parting wish

And breathed in your ear
My last parting word.

Are able to tell
The pain in my heart
At not saying farewell.
—Ever remembered by his wife Carrie.

God alone knows how I miss you
As this ends the first long year.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U. S. dollar was at a discount of 1⅜ per cent, the Bank of Canada reported at noon EDT, today. Thursday's noon rate was 98 7-16 cents. Pound sterling $2.74½ against $2.74 13-16.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Western oils added to their earlier gains but other major sections showed little trend in sluggish early afternoon trading at the Toronto stock exchange today.

Canadian Collieries and Calgary and Edmonton jumped $1 and ⅞ to highs of 12½ and 17¾ respectively to lead oils up to the highest level in the last two years. Devon-Leduc climbed 20 to $1.99 but other changes were minor.

Industrials showed an undecided tone after an easier trend in early trading. Prices moved in a narrow range. Changes of $1 or more were rare.

Algoma continued its recent sharp rise, climbing $1 to a new high of $75. Other steel issues eased, however, after strong rise Thursday.

Normetal jumped 35 to a high of $4.45 among base metals and Quebec Lithium and Noranda each gained ¼ for the biggest advances. International Nickel eased ⅜ and Quemont ¼.

Most uranium issues edged up with gains ranging to 20 cents.

20-Hour Search By Boat, Plane Ends in Rescue

PORT ROWAN (CP)—A 20-hour search by boat and plane ended when David L. Jones, 31, of Ottawa, was found standing on a capsized sailboat 10 miles out in Lake Erie Thursday.

The United States engineer, who recently had been working in the Arctic on secret projects, was found standing on top of the 16-foot yawl in Long Point bay by a search plane.

Jones said afterwards he thought a strong soap detergent used to wash a sail may have been the cause of the capsizing. The mainsail ripped down the middle and the boat overturned from the weight of the wet sail.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP)—Cattle prices were steady to 50 cents a hundredweight higher this week at the Ontario public stockyards. Calves were sharply lower, while hogs gained $1.50 a hundredweight. Spring lambs were generally unchanged.

The cattle run was some 200 head less than last week and some 1,210 head more than the same period a year ago. Included in the fresh run were 909 head of western cattle, mostly stockers.

The western receipts are comparable to last week. Shipments to eastern Canadian slaughterers were one car less than last week at 14 carloads and there were no exports to the United States.

NARROW DEMAND

Long-fed, mature steers carrying a considerable amount of finish and weighing upwards of 1,150 pounds continued in very narrow demand.

Butcher heifers were in active demand at steady prices, however, medium fed yearling heifers registered losses of up to 50 cents a hundredweight. Butcher bulls and good heavy bolognas were slow at steady prices while fat, heavy beef type bulls were slow and hard to sell.

The dressed beef trade was reported as fairly good and it was estimated that there would be few, if any, slaughter cattle unsold at the close of trading.

Prices: Choice steers, all weights $20-21; good steers $19-20; with mediums $16-19; commons $12-16; choice heifers $18.50-19; with sales to $19.50; good heifers $17-18; mediums $14-17; commons $12-14; boner steers and heifers $10-12; choice fed yearlings $20-21; with some sales to $21.50; good fed yearlings $19-20; mediums $17-19; good cows $14-14.50; with tops of $15; good light heifery cows sold to $16; with canner and cutter cows ranging down to $8. Good heavy bologna bulls $14.50-15; with good light butcher bulls up to $16; heavy fat beef-type bulls $12-13.50; common and medium-light bulls down to $10.

Replacement cattle: Demand for this class continued fairly good with producers seeking out the top quality. Good stockers $20-21; with mediums $18-20; commons $16-18.

Calf receipts were comparable to last week. All grades were slow and hard to sell with good and choice quality showing losses of $1-2 a hundredweight at $20-22; with tops of $23. Medium vealers were $15-18; grass calves $10-11.

Hog receipts were about the same as last week. Grade A hogs closed at $30. There were four carloads shipped east. Sows were steady at $19 dressed while stags were unchanged at $14 dressed.

Sheep and lambs were about 100 less than last week. Good spring lambs sold at $26; commons $20-22. Good light sheep were $8-10 with common and heavy sheep selling down to $3.

BLAMES PRIESTS

3. Rear Adm. Luis Corner was sworn in as the new navy minister by Peron to succeed Rear Adm. Anibal Olivieri, reported to have disappeared after the rebellion started.

4. Everything is normal in Argentina, The General Confederation of Workers, which has supported Peron since the start of his rise to power in 1944, opened a 24-hour mourning strike at midnight.

The revolt erupted a few hours after the Vatican excommunicated Peron and his aides as a result of his expulsion from the country of Bishop Manuel Tato, one of Peron's chief adversaries in the president's running fight with the Roman Catholic Church.

After two waves of bombers and fighter planes had attacked Casada Rosada, the pink-colored Government House in the heart of Buenos Aires, Peron clamped on a state of siege and called on Congress to declare martial law.

(Reuters news agency reported Thursday night that Maj.-Gen. L. R. La Fleche, Canadian ambassador to Argentina, had been in Government House when the first bombing occurred. Later communications difficulties prevented any immediate word from him.

(In Ottawa, an external affairs spokesman said late Thursday that no word had been received from the Ambassador at that time, but that the Canadian embassy would make every effort to ensure the safety of its staff and other Canadians in Buenos Aires.)

One of the air raids caught hundreds of workers who had gathered to demonstrate their support of Peron in his fight with the church. The government-sponsored General Confederation of Labor called a 24-hour mourning strike to honor the "memory of the defenders of Peron's doctrine."

Montevideo radio broadcast an unattributed report Thursday night that two Buenos Aires churches and the Catholic archbishop's palace adjoining Metropolitan Cathedral were ablaze.

Uruguay's interior minister, Francisco Camarra, said 36 planes carrying 90 officers and men from Argentina's naval and air arms landed here Thursday and Thursday night.

Two Argentine warships carrying part of the country's rebellious navy were also reported en route to Uruguay, traditional haven for refugees from Peronism.

Hunt Missing Plane in B.C.

OCEAN FALLS, B. C. (CP)—An intensive aerial search was under way today along the rugged British Columbia coast for a light plane missing for three days with four men aboard.

The single-engined Pacific Western Airlines floatplane disappeared Tuesday after leaving this paper-mill centre, about 20 miles north of Vancouver.

Aboard the Cessna 180 on the northbound flight were pilot Bob d'Easum of Vancouver; Chris Lagkilde-Lauesen, 36, of Victoria, head of the B. C. forest service survey; Henry Jelinek, 42, Victoria, and W. Norman Wheaton, about 25.

JET HITS HOUSE

NAGOYA, Japan (AP)—A United States Sabre jet crashed into a row of Japanese houses near here today, killing the pilot and a 16-year-old boy and critically injuring three other Japanese. The Sabre was coming in for an instrument landing when it missed the runway and crashed in flames into five houses.

Flags Train When His Chum Caught on Bridge

TILLSONBURG (CP) — A 12-year-old boy flagged down an approaching CPR train here Thursday after his companion became wedged between the ties on a railway bridge.

Edwin Davis and Ronald Flannigan, 11, both of Tillsonburg were on a turtle-hunting expedition when the latter slipped through the ties and his legs became stuck.

Davis ran ahead and flagged the train, on an adjacent track, after unsuccessfully trying to free his companion.

Crew members of the train used crowbars to spread the ties and free the boy minutes before a CNR train was due on the line.

REGULATED OCCUPATIONS

"The farmer who wants to change his calling cannot, from one day to the next, become a doctor, a lawyer, a carpenter, a plumber or an electrician," observes "La Terre de Chez Nous" of Montreal.

But, it continues, a lawyer or a doctor can raise hogs and the retired fireman can transform himself into a chicken farmer.

"La Terre de Chez Nous" does not think this is fair. In one sense the Montreal paper is right. There is no justification for some of the restrictions which prevent a man or woman from engaging in certain types of work.

Everybody can understand why there should be strict regulations surrounding the practice of medicine. Unless a doctor is qualified, lives would be endangered.

Similarly, for the protection of his clients, it is essential that a lawyer should know something about law.

But regulations of these types have long since been extended to other occupations besides the professions.

The Montreal paper mentions such trades as those of carpenter, plumber and electrician as among the occupations now strictly regulated.

Faulty electric wiring may cause fires; faulty plumbing may endanger the health of a family and perhaps of the whole community; a jerry-built building may fall and injure its occupants. A case can be made out for requiring these tradesmen to meet certain standards, but at the same time sight should not be lost of the fact that almost all their work must pass inspection, by Hydro inspectors, plumbing inspectors and building inspectors. If this inspection is properly carried out, there will not provide adequate safeguards?

Even if that question should be answered in the negative there is a host of regulations governing occupations where the incompetent worker would create little hazard to the health or physical well-being of the customer he serves—although he might do considerable damage to his customer's bank account.

Perhaps it may be argued that all these regulations are designed primarily to protect the public. But are they? "Anyone can cut a slice from the revenues of agriculture and lessen the market from which the agricultural class expects its remuneration," complains the newspaper. "Exactly the same type of reasoning appears to lie behind many existing regulations. They have been written into the statutes not so much to protect the public from incompetent workmen as to protect those already in business from competition. Yet competition is the safety valve which is essential to the proper operation of the free enterprise system. Without competition, the consumer is unprotected from exploitation.

"One wonders, more and more, whether a professional status should not be established for the genuine farmer," comments the paper.

It certainly should not. But, on the other hand, the farmer has as much right to professional status as the service station operator has to the protection of a by-law prohibiting the erection of additional service stations in a town, as dairies have to a by-law prohibiting the importation into a town of milk packaged in cartons, as tradesmen have to regulations making it difficult for other men to practise the same craft. All these regulations are, or have been, in effect in some Ontario communities.

The growth of these regulations dates back to the depression years and the early days of the Hepburn regime. Senator A. W. Roebuck, then a member of the Ontario Cabinet, introduced the Industrial Standards Act. The primary aim at that time was probably to prevent price-cutting and wage-cutting which threatened to leave those who were working worse off than those who were on relief. But the act todays covers a multitude of—well, sins seems to be the only word for it.

Similar legislation has also been extended to trades which cannot by any sense of the word be considered "industrial." Barbers and even farmers have their regulations. Yes, "La Terre de Chez Nous", farmers! The production and sale of whole milk, for instance, is rigidly controlled.

Perhaps it is time we took a close look at all these regulations. And while we are at it, too, it might not do any harm to make certain that the regulations governing professions are no more rigid than is absolutely essential to protect the public and that these regulations are not being used to protect established members of these professions from increased competition.

No, there is no regulation which prohibits any person from publishing a newspaper, or from becoming an editor or a reporter. Thank Heaven!

THERAPEUTIC PLAY!

The thespian in our midst having departed for the circus, it seems safe to resurrect from the wastepaper basket a little item which came over The Canadian Press wire.

It was from Selkirk, Man. Patients of the Selkirk mental hospital finally staged their play this week. It was written, produced and acted by the inmates, but it took five months before they were able to stage the first performance.

The explanation?

According to Dr. Edward Johnson, hospital superintendent, the play had "excellent therapeutic value."

"So many patients got well and went home during the preparation of the play and so many new actors had to be substituted that it took five months to produce."

In the interests of better office relations and a longer life—no comment!

THRILL

The rougher the battle the broader the grin
That follows the frown at the moment you win.
The harder the struggle that's testing your skill
When once you've achieved it the greater the thrill.

The harder the problem the greater delight
When solving it proves that your judgment was right.
The more you are pressed when you've entered a race
To win will make wider the smile on your face.

The task that is easy the many can do,
But the pride of the master's reserved for the few.
So keep this in mind when you're troubled, my boy:
The harder the triumph, the greater the joy.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

June 17, 1935

Delegates representing the Ontario Branch of the Canadian Postmasters' association to the number of about 150 will hold a convention here with headquarters at Hotel Quinte for the next three days; delegates are commencing to arrive today. At the opening meeting the delegates will be welcomed by Mayor Geo. O. Tice and Postmaster J. V. C. Truaisch.

A beautiful crucifix has been presented to the Church of St. Michael the Archangel by Mrs. Samuel Domenico in memory of her late husband and at devotions on Sunday evening it was blessed by the Rt. Rev. J. V. Nicholson, V.G., who also delivered an eloquent sermon on the story of the Cross. During the blessing of the crucifix the "Stabat Mater" was played and the "Rose of the Cross" was sung by Mrs. J. Truaisch and Mrs. James Grant. The crucifix is a beautiful specimen of the carver's art and was produced in Montreal. The cross is of oak, thirteen and a half feet in length and the figure of Our Lord is five and a half feet high. It has been much admired by all who have seen it; it is placed on the inside wall near the entrance to the church.

30 YEARS AGO

June 17, 1925

Dr. A. T. Embury of Bancroft, reeve of that village for many years and former Warden of Hastings County, was selected as the Conservative candidate to contest the riding of Hastings - Peterborough at the next Federal election. The meeting was held at Marmora.

Strawberries were plentiful on the market today and sold at fifteen cents per box. The boxes contain more berries than was the case last year as the new regulation box is a full quart in volume.

Dr. and Mrs. Rutherford of this city have left to spend some time in the Old Country. They were given a hearty send off at the station by members of the Kiwanis Club of which Dr. Rutherford is a popular member.

40 YEARS AGO

June 17, 1915

Owing to low water Captain J. H. Porte of Picton had the misfortune to run aground with his cabin cruiser Nora II, while entering the Belleville harbor yesterday afternoon. Considerable difficulty was encountered in pulling her off.

Major Osborne of Fredericton, N. B., formerly of Belleville, was in town yesterday and called on his former commanding officer, Lieut. Col. W. N. Ponton. Major Osborne has been on active service for several months and has organized and trained several fine bodies of men now serving overseas.

Mr. E. W. Lloyd, who was born in Belleville 43 years ago and who left here years ago with his parents to reside in Erie, Pa., was elected president of the National Electric Light Association at the 38th. convention which was held in San Francisco, California, recently. Mr. Lloyd is the General Contract Agent for the Commonwealth Edison Company in Chicago, Ill.

The Hastings County Council has made a grant of $1,000. to the 39th. Battalion which is now stationed here prior to overseas service.

50 YEARS AGO

June 17, 1905

How would it do to call it "the leaky month of June?"; it has rained nearly every day in this month so far.

The members of the city council visited the Belleville Cement Company's plant at Point Anne this afternoon. Mr. McNab is manager of the company and Mr. English is the chemist.

The I.O.O.F. Band will give a concert this evening at the corner of Bridge and Front Sts.

After church services last evening many persons visited Victoria Park.

Mr. Thomas Nutbrown of Rochester, N.Y., formerly of Belleville, is spending a few days here with friends.

Mr. Walter Martin of Stirling was a visitor in town today.

Messrs. J. V. Jenkins and Harvie Beattie are attending a meeting of the Mystic Shrine at Niagara Falls.

Halley's Comet On Way Back

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

What has happened to Halley's Comet, which created a lot of excitement in 1910?

This famous sky wanderer is already on its way back again, but it won't make its next appearance until 1986. One of history's notable sky spectacles, it is again heading toward the sun. It makes an appearance at intervals averaging 76 years and nine months.

First noted in 240 BC, the comet has returned 27 times since then. It was named in honor of Edmund Halley, a British astronomer who believed the comets of 1531, 1607 and 1682 were the same. He forecast its return in 1758. It did.

Invisible except by telescope, it is riding the outer part of its elliptical course, farther away than the planet Neptune. It is the only known and easily seen comet that returns in less than a century.

Comets have been described as the "nearest thing to nothing that anything can be and still be something". More than 1,000 have been recorded by astronomers Although they may cover vast distances in the heavens they are tenuous things.

Each consists of a nucleus, composed of small particles, and a surrounding gaseous blanket known as the coma. This is so thin that stars can be seen shining through it. The most impressive part of the comet is the tail, sometimes streaming for millions of miles into space. Despite a comet's vast dimensions its mass is remarkably small.

Automatic Policeman

(Philadelphia Inquirer)

Some time ago the Garden State parkway established an after dark honor system at some of its 10 cent toll spots, putting it up to motorists to deposit coins, even if no attendant was at hand. It was a nice expression of faith in human nature which, for all we know, hasn't been cruelly blasted by the experiment.

However, the parkway people have installed at its Raritan toll plaza a device that automatically collects fares, detects cheating and records a log of all transactions.

If the correct amount is deposited, the device shows a green light. But if the driver tries to put something over, a camera snaps a picture of his licence plate, an alarm is sounded and red signals flash. And if it's dark, automatic floodlights expose the scene.

Here is a sweeping departure from any reliance upon the honesty and integrity of motorists.

U. S. Party System

(Miami Daily News)

The American two-party political system has lasted due to the fact that both parties are subject to change from within more than for any other reason. There are liberal and conservative factions in both major parties and either one, or a middle-of-the-road faction, may be prodominant in any particular campaign.

Turbo-Props Are Exciting

(Cleveland Plain Dealer)

"When is he going to start this thing?"

A reporter in New York last week made this query about the new Vickers Viscount turbo-prop plane. Yet at the moment he asked it, two of the four engines were already going and a third's propeller was whirling into a start.

Apparently Wilson Hirschfeld the Plain Dealer's aviation writer, underwent almost the same astonished reaction to the virtually vibrationless and noiseless Viscount during his ride on Trans-Canada's inaugural flight to Winnipeg. By June T.C.A. Viscounts will be making regular flights into Cleveland, and three months or so later Capital Airlines will give a repeat performance.

Excitement about the Viscounts must be considerable balm to Britons who have been ruffled about the failure of their jet Comet. For this is the first British-built aircraft ever to crack the monopoly of American manufacturers in the domestic market.

The invasion has set off a behind-scenes scramble for us to catch up. The Military Air Transport Service has even gotten into the act by netting up regularly scheduled simulated air line flights using two Convair 340's equipped with Allison turbo-prop engines. MATS will analyze costs and gather data which should help the private air lines considerably when American-built equipment does appear.

What is so attractive about turbo-props is their economy, plus all th comfort features. T.C.A. figures to break even even if only 12 persons ride their 40-passenger Viscounts. Major reason for the cheapness of operation is fuel. They use J. P.-4, a substance compounded basically of kerosene, gasoline and Diesel fuels which runs only 9 to 12 cents per gallon.

To some it may seem we go overboard with enthusiasm on this engine. Not so. Because its applications are not at all confined merely to aircraft. By 1960 you will have a gas turbine engine in your car. Auto makers are aiming for that date; in 10 years the reciprocating engine may be kaput.

Business Week currently suggests some interesting sociological possibilities resulting from our use of turbine cars. Advertising may take quite a jolt, particularly for the petroleum industry. Because the turbine will need only one standard grade of cheap fuel—no additives, antiknock aids, lead, high octanes of all that hoopla. Quality will lose its sales pitch.

Besides, the engine won't need any oil. And since there's no radiator, antifreeze will be out. The thing has all sorts of angles. Perhaps you can now forgive our excitement.

Colonialism Not Dead Yet

(Buffalo Evening News)

We've been hearing so much about the decline of colonialism—including the shrinking of the British Empire — that a budget item passed by Britain's House of Commons seems mildly astonishing. It was a matter of $300,000,000 to go to Britain's colonies. To prove that colonialism isn't entirely dead and that the empire has not been entirely liquidated, the money was allocated to the British West Indies (bigger than Connecticut), Nigeria (as big a France), Kenya (about the size of Nevada), Tanganyika (equal in size to Germany), Malaya (the size of Maine), Cyprus, Malta and Gibraltar (all small but important). The appropriations are intended to raise the standard of living in these colonies over a period of five years. More will be forthcoming after that.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A friend of mine who is a gay Lothario, though far past the tender age at which Don Quixote's Lothario died, still finds time to observe the girls with as much attention as he did forty years ago. Actually, he is a harmless old bachelor and nothing more than a flirt, who has lived in such terror of the fair sex all these years that not one of twenty or maybe forty members of that sex has succeeded, since about 1910, in capturing him None the less, I pay a good deal of attention to his comments on the girls. And his latest complaint is that their eyebrows today are all the same.

"Just sit in a bus," he says, "or some place you can view a bevy of them, of various ages and sizes. And by golly, every one of them has exactly the same shaped eyebrows. They are slender, curved and tapered. They are all about the same size, too, though the faces they belong to may vary from the size and shape of a good turnip to away up to a Chinese lantern, wrinkled and all.

"Eyebrows are extremely important to the character and individuality of faces, especially girls' faces. Where are the girls you used to see with big black eyebrows that met over the nose? Now, that was a type of girl worth knowing. She was usually the masterful sort. She had bold, aggressive eyes under those glossy black brows that made a strong straight line over them. You knew her character at once. She was somebody to be avoided, unless you craved to be mastered, and of course, some men do. Don't tell me girls with those old straight line bows have become extinct. They are merely disguised. Today you can't tell a masterful girl from a clinging vine."

"Then," he says, "what about the supercilious brows? You remember them, the perky, up-pointed eyebrows that warned you right away that she was a girl who would slap your face as quick as look at you. Well, sir, they have plucked these supercilious brows, and now, you get slapped without warning.!"

"How long is it," I asked gently, "since you were slapped?"

"Oh, well," he replied evasively, "after all, I am more the philosophical type. I like to study things like eyebrows.

Minister No Fu Manchu

(The Times of London)

In the good old days, when villains were villainous instead of being merely malnjusted, they quite often used drugs to further their wicked and improbable designs. These drugs came—as indeed did many of the fruitier villians—from South America or the Orient, and they always worked like a charm. The principal consumer was the heroine. Many a gripping chapter ended: "Ursula knew no more." The girl knew little enough at the best of times, and the simplest of ruses would almost certainly have sufficed to get her, under her own steam, from the lounge of Fontington Manor to the cellar, laboratory or alligator-vat where the exigencies of the plot required her presence. But the villains preferred to use drugs, and nobody can say that they did not know their business.

Compared with these twisted masterminds, the minister of Agriculture and Fisheries, who for the past month has been trying to stupefy wood-pigeons with narcotics, cuts a somewhat pitiful figure. "Some fairly important drawbacks" to his Machiavellian project have (the report says) already been discovered. Thee minister seems to have got hold of the wrong end of the right stuff. Although "because of its more complicated stomach formation the pigeon is five times more difficult to stupefy than the rook," its reactions after swallowing the drug are much the same as Ursula's. It loses consciousness, and can then be knocked on the head. The trouble is that —unless they are shooed away—the wrong birds keep on guzzling up the mysterious and rather expensive preparation which the minister and his associates put out in the fields for the pigeons.

Fu Manchu and Dr. Lakington never had difficulties of this kind. They were not always having to pop out from behind the curtains and snatch the drugged cigaret from the long jade holder almost invariably affected by the ladies whom they held in esteem. It is true that Ursula was probably easier rather than harder to stupefy than most of her sex; but even so their long and unbroken record of success in doping her is in marked contrast with the minister's somewhat hit and miss efforts to dope the pigeons. It must moreover be remembered, in fairness to those friends in humble shape, that at any moment their activities were liable to be interrupted by a straight left to tha jaw, accompanied by a ringing cry of "Take that, you unutterable swine!" The minister of agriculture can hardly, even at election time, plead any such occupational hazards in extenuation of his ill-success.

Heart or Watch?

(Wall Street Journal)

A pretty young girl returned from a date one evening in a state of delirious excitement. "Mother," she exclaimed, "I know that Ben is the man for me! Every time he takes me in his arms, I can hear his heart pounding."

The mother gave her daughter a long, searching look.

"You'd better be careful," she warned. "Your father fooled me that way for almost a year with a dollar watch!"

I Beg to Harp on Rheumatiz

A sovereign remedy for rheumatiz—chronic joint disability—back in the days when medicine was a profession, before the businessmen discovered how much more they could make out of "arthritis", was plain cod liver oil. Not just a dainty teaspoonful after meals for a week or two, but a tablespoonful twice daily, or two tablespoonfuls (a fluid-ounce) every day the year around—with perhaps a month off each summer, for good behavior.

Among other nutritional elements in cod liver oil, the patient who downed his beaker of oil like a little man — a little woman would take it without any fuss and ask "Who's for pachisi?" — got what recognized nutrition authorities consider the optimal daily requirement of vitamin D, a little more than I recommend for one with the rheumatiz; and also an optimal daily ration of iodine, a little more that I recommend for everybody.

That wasn't all. The individual with chronic joint disability (physical degeneration, not "arthritis") got about 18,000 units of vitamin A in the cod liver oil, and that, too, is an optimal daily ration, that is to say, the amount calculated to maintain the most healthful nutritional condition.

Now it is my belief—and remember I'm no authority about anything—that the cod liver oil treatment was as helpful as any other treatment for the rheumatiz (not "arthritis") then or now.

To the best of our present knowledge, the remedial effects of cod liver oil are entirely attributable to the vitamin A, vitamin D and iodine the oil contains.

Today any or all of these principles may be taken in virtually tasteless form, small tablets, and fish liver oils or so-called concentrates which still retain fishy odor or taste are as obsolete for preventive or remedial use as calomel and bleeding.

Provitamin A (carotene) is so abundantly available in fruits and vegetables and natural vitamin A in milk, cream, butter, cheese, egg yolk, liver, sardines etc. that clear evidence of A deficiency is rare in America except perhaps moderate "night blindness" (poor dark adaptation) and xeroderma (abnormal dryness of the skin). These manifestations of A deficiency seem unrelated to rhuematism.

There is a great deal of scientific empirical, clinical, and practical evidence that the modern ultrarefined American diet does not supply adequate daily amounts of certain essentials to maintain good nutrition, notably these: (1) vitamin B, (2) iodine, (3) sunshine vitamin D, and (4) calcium.

It is my belief, theory, opinion, notion, whatever you please to call it, that in most instances the rheumatiz (not arthritis) is physical degeneration of joint tissues due to these nutritional deficiencies.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

EXPERIENCE

Anyone who has had a long life of experience is worth listening to, worth emulating and worth trying to as a friend. No one can have too much experience. The more you know the more of life will you enjoy. We welcome readily to our group of friends that one who talks with the voice of experience and common sense.

We are safe in the hands of one who has lived and learned much of life. We can trust him fully. He is not going to get us into trouble. Rather is he able to save us much trouble by relating the detours! There is no experience that doesn't carry lasting good for us. Experience is like a coat you wear—but good for life. It never wears out!

Upon leaving college I secured a job with an advertising agency. I did anything I was told to do—and many things I wasn't! I only wanted to grow and learn. One of my jobs was to sell type to newspapers which credited the agency with a commission. I wasn't happy over this work and told my employer. He looked me in the eye and said: "Adams, you can never know too much about type." He was right. That knowledge and experience have been two of the best investments I ever made. They have been like permanent bonds—with rich coupons!

One of the most valued of all my friends was the late R.H. Davis, known to h e world over as Bob Davis. My friend, Fred Mathias, once took a three-month trip to Mexico with Bob and then wrote and illustrated a book about it all which was entitled "The Amazing Bob Davis." He travelled everywhere and knew the great of this earth, but he was the kindest of friends and brilliant as a newspaper reporter and writer. He packed the experience of a dozen or more men. For half a lifetime he was Frank Munsey's editor and discovered and encouraged more writers than any man of his time. To know him was to gain from his rich experience and to love the man.

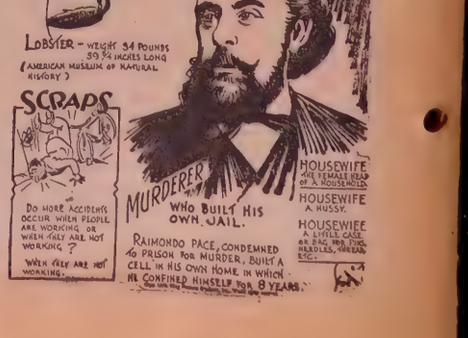
Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE ONLY ANSWER

One of the hottest issues of the modern world is racial prejudice. On the national level, it is in the news somewhere every day: desegregation, fair employment practices, housing-development riots, civil rights. Add religious prejudice, and you have covered many of the worst sources of tension in American life.

On the international scale, it is even hotter because it is more serious. It poisons the relations between Britain and India, China and the United States, Egypt and Israel. Discord between nations ready to hurl atom bombs is of crucial concern, threatening the existence of life itself.



The solution to this problem lies not in federal law, nor in United Nations. What force can unite all men as brothers? Only one—"The love of God in Christ Jesus is for all men." "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." "If God so loved us, we ought also to love one another."

No other force is big enough or all-inclusive enough to embrace all men. And like all solutions to really important problems, it begins at home. You and I cannot impose love on the nations of the world from above, but we can start at the bottom. We can begin spreading Christian love in our homes, on our streets, in our communities, and watch the transformation take place.

This is not only the best way; it is the only way.

Arson Charge Laid Against Sudbury Man

SUDBURY (CP)—John Barylko, a co-owner of a Sudbury apartment building which was found burning in three different places Monday night was arrested Thursday on a charge of arson.

Barylko, 29, is charged with the turpentine-firing of a 10-unit apartment building he owns jointly with four other men. Firemen say they arrived just in time to prevent flames from turpentine-soaked rags and papers, dispersed through Barylko's apartment, taking hold of the structure.

Barylko submitted to 13-hours of intensive interrogation before police and fire inspectors from the Ontario fire marshal's office finally preferred charges. Police said he denied any implication in the blaze and said he left the building considerably before black smoke was first noticed by apartment residents.

Level Crossings Should Be Banned Says Senator

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator Thomas Reid, a British Columbia Liberal, said Thursday every railway level crossing in Canada will have to be replaced by bridges or tunnels if authorities hope to protect "the crazy fools" who drive automobiles into the side of passing trains.

He made the comment during Senate consideration of legislation increasing the federal contribution to the grade crossing fund to $5,000,000 from $1,000,000 a year. The fund is for crossing improvement projects undertaken by municipalities and the railways.

Senator Ralph Horner (PC—Saskatchewan) said the number of crossing accidents indicates there are motorists who never should have been given a licence.

The legislation was approved in principle and sent to a committee to study the scale of fund contributions to crossing projects.

Display of Superb Bareback Riding Will Be Seen When King Bros. Circus Visits City

England's loss is America's gain this year as the result of the renowned Dorchester Troupe of equestrians forsaking their home country to join the ranks of the huge King Brothers Combined Circus, coming to Belleville, Monday, June 20th, under the auspices of the Kinsmen Club at the circus grounds on Sidney St.

England has produced innumerable famous circus acts, but no troupe has ever met with greater favor throughout Europe than has the great Dorchester group of bareback riding marvels who have proven to be the most outstanding riding display of the present day.

And, so it is, that the King Brothers takes great pride in presenting among its 1955 galaxy of internationally known stars and displays, this noted band of somersaulting, broad-jumping, and pyramid-building bareback riding geniuses from England.

The troupe, four men and five women, including the mother who travels with them, were born in London and they have been riding in foreign capitals for over four generations. They have long been famous as masters of twisting and passing somersaults from horse to horse—feats that only a very limited few bareback riders have been able to accomplish.

They present many new novelty additions in their superb repertoire of bareback artistry and many new thrills to American audiences this season.

With more than 200 men and women arenic stars and performers, including such famous Spangleland greats as the Sons of Morocco, whirl-wind acrobats from Arabia—their first tour of this country; the Kareff-Manus Duo, aerialists from Italy; the Jose Torres Alforo Troupe, slack- and taut wire artists from Australia; Sylvia Gregory, the aerial headliner; Valencianos, trampoline marvels, and the famed Johnny Hartzell Troupe of flying-return stars, the King Brothers this year offer the greatest line-up of spangleland attractions in circus history.

The performances, starting at 2 and 8 p.m., open with a gorgeously produced processional pageant, Circus Continental," in which hundreds of people and hordes of jungle beasts take part. The English Rockettes from the Olympic Circus in London, are featured in the magnificent production.

As an added 1955 feature, there will be a real old-time circus street parade at 11.30 show day morning through the downtown streets, with bands, calliopes, mounted circus stars, floats, tableaux wagons, clown carts, cages and dens filled with wild jungle beasts and all else seen in the circus parades years ago.

For the convenience of circus patrons, a downtown ticket office will be in operation show day at the Duff Drug Store, where tickets for all performances will be on sale at the same prices charged at the circus grounds.

Weddings

GAEBEL—STEWART

Orange blossoms and lilies formed a lovely background in Holy Trinity Anglican church, Maynooth, Ontario, for a late spring wedding, when Lois Aileen Stewart, of Maynooth, Ontario, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stewart, become the bride of Stanley Albert Gaebel, of Bancroft, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gaebel. The Rev. Owen Johnson, rector of the church, officiated.

Mrs. Eunice Williams rendered the traditional wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Annabelle Newman.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a charming bridal gown of nylon net over taffeta fashioned in cocktail length, with fingertip veil of tulle illusion, and star-shaped headdress encrusted with seed pearls. Matching gloves and a shower bouquet of red roses completed her ensemble.

Miss Jean Stewart was maid of honor, attired in yellow net over taffeta, and Misses Joan Anderson and Judith Gaebel in green net over taffeta were bridesmaids. All wore matching headdresses and carried bouquets of carnations and 'mums.

Mr. Barry Gaebel of Bancroft, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Max Burgess, Mr. John Hinze and Mr. James Murphy acted as ushers.

The wedding supper was held at the bride's home, and the reception at the Community Centre, Maynooth, where the bride's mother, wearing printed nylon with matching accessories, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who also was attired in printed nylon with matching accessories, received the guests.

Following their return from Algonquin Park, Mr. and Mrs. Gaebel will reside in Bancroft, Ontario.

PHILP—THAIN

In the presence of the immediate families, a quiet wedding was solemnized at St. Paul's United church parsonage, Stirling, on Saturday, June 11 at 3 p.m., when Dr. A. Packman united in marriage Ivah May Thain, of Stirling and Richard Henry Philp, also of Stirling.

The attendants were Mrs. Donald Rogers, daughter of the bride and Mr. Robert Philp, son of the bridegroom.

Following a motor trip to northern and western Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. Philp will reside in Stirling.

H-S New Ladies' Workshop Held At Sir Winston Churchill School

Approximately 70 new executive and interested Home and School members attended the Workshop at Sir Winston Churchill School, which was sponsored by Belleville Central Committee of Home and School.

The registration was capably looked after by Mrs. Jones from Queen Alexandra School; and Mrs. Watson from Prince of Wales School was in charge of a worthwhile display of publications.

The meeting opened with the new president of Central Committee, Mrs. C. Powell, graciously welcoming all those present, stating it was gratifying to note the interest shown in the workshop by so many from associations in Belleville and the surrounding district.

There were representatives present from Deseronto, North Trenton, Foxboro, Avondale and Belcrest.

LEADERSHIP TRAINING CAMP

The first item on the program was news from the Leadership Training Camp on Lake Couchiching. Mrs. O'Neil, who was the first person from this area to attend the camp in 1954, gave a description of the beautiful location which is owned by the Department of Education, and Mrs. J. L. Hitchon who has just returned from this year's session, gave a most interesting and spontaneous review of activities at the camp. Several really good ideas were brought forth, which will no doubt, benefit the many associations represented.

The importance of 'buzz sessions' was stressed, as in this way more people participate, and the more people involved in a meeting, the better the meeting. The idea of having membership cards on which each person joining the association would give some information in regard to himself; especially in large organizations, would facilitate the work of the executive to know the qualifications of each member, and where he would be of the most value to his association.

KINGSTON GREETINGS

Mrs. Morrill, president of Kingston Council, was present and brought greetings from Kingston. Mrs. J. W. Brooks, the guest speaker, also from Kingston, was then introduced by Mrs. R. Morden, a past president of Central Committee.

Mrs. Brooks' subject was "Program Planning", and not only did she deal with that, she also stressed the importance of having a proper setting for the meeting arranged ahead of time. The "feeling" of the meeting is important, and this includes room arrangement so that people are comfortably seated, and a hospitality committee to welcome people as they come to the meeting.

Mrs. Brooks went on to say that "we must be sure that our meetings are the democratic type," and to demonstrate this point she led a short roll play in which three different types of meetings were exemplified—first the dictator type, second the anarchy, and third, the type where everyone participated in planning the year's work.

RIGHT TYPE PROGRAM

She particularly stressed the importance of having the right type of program. "It's well to have a travelogue or a speaker to talk on some remote subject, but that type of program can be seen or heard at other places, or one may sit right at home and hear it on radio or TV. What we must keep before us are the aims of Home and School and the Creed." (She pointed out that these may now be obtained in big poster form from Ontario Federation in Toronto and can be hung on the wall at a meeting so that they can more easily be studied by all.)

Mrs. Brooks also pointed out that the interest of Home and School members is with their children and the program should be arranged in such a way as to promote a better relationship among teacher, parent and child. The Home and School program must be different and of the type that can be found in no other place than at the Home and School meetings.

It was also stressed, that participation by the members is the big secret of a successful meeting. Having roll plays is one way to accomplish this; films in regard to child training followed by a buzz session is another.

EVALUATION SHEETS

Evaluation sheets were passed around and it was suggested that this method be followed at Association meetings. In that way the program planning committee and executive know whether their meetings are of interest to the members, or in what way they can be improved.

Mr. C. I. Frederick, the school principal, expressed the thanks of the group, to Mrs. Brooks for her splendid informative talk, and Mrs. Powell presented Mrs. Brooks with a gift, also adding her thanks.

WORKSHOPS

The workshops were then arranged: presidents and vice-presidents: Mrs. Brooks; recording-secretaries: Mrs. Wallbridge; Corresponding secretaries: Mrs. Godwin; treasurers: Mrs. Finkle; membership conveners: Mrs. Powell; publication conveners: Mrs. Watson.

When the groups re-assembled in the auditorium, a summary as to the success of the evening's activities was given by Mr. L. A. Keils, and according to Mr. Keils' remarks the committee in charge feel that their efforts were not in vain as the knowledge gained by many associations should be most beneficial.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A GIRL WHO ISN'T SHOWING VERY GOOD JUDGMENT

A girl of 17, who is very much interested in a boy the same age, is thinking of defying her parents because they object to her association with the boy.

"He is a very nice boy," she writes me, "but my parents don't approve of him because he has a bad name, which is through no fault of his own but is because of his father and older brother.

"This boy quit school when he was a sophomore and he doesn't have a job, but that doesn't make any difference to me. But my parents also object to his quitting school and not having a job. They have forbidden me to go with him, and he isn't allowed to come to the house.

"I don't think they are being fair, and if they don't come to an agreement with me, I will go against their wishes and see him anyhow. They want me to go with someone else, but no matter who I go with, I can't get interested. I will appreciate any advice you can give me, helpful or otherwise."

Well, when this teen-ager says she will appreciate any advice "helpful or otherwise," I assume she means that she wants advice whether it backs up her own wishes or not. I hope she really does mean this, and that she will follow the advice even though it isn't the kind she wants, because I'm afraid that is the kind she is going to get from me.

She hasn't, of course, given me any information about why this boy has "a bad name" because of his father and brother. It would be helpful if she had. But entirely aside from that, I can tell her right now that the fact that the boy quit school and is apparently just going around doesn't speak very well for him.

It is a great misfortune, of course, if he lacks the proper home background. Even so, if he had any ambition at all, he would hardly do what he has done. If he were showing himself to be a boy of worthwhile character by keeping on at his studies and planning to make something of himself, her parents would probably not object to her friendship with him. But since he is not, her father and mother definitely have something on their side, and I am very much in sympathy with them. Moreover, I don't think our teen-ager shows herself to be a girl of very good judgment when she says it doesn't make any difference to her whether he is a loafer or not.

So I believe that, altogether, she would make a very serious mistake to go against her parents' wishes and see this young fellow on the sly. What I do suggest is that she tell him she doesn't at all approve of his quitting school and just hanging around, but that if he straightens up, and starts acting like a steady, reliable boy by returning to school and, perhaps, getting a job in his free time, her parents might be willing to let her remain a friend of his. As things are now, so far from helping him by letting him know it matters a lot to her that he seems to have begun to form habits of laziness and shiftlessness, is only encouraging him to continue them.

If she decides to follow my advice, and the boy wants her friendship enough to do as she suggests, then she can write me again and I'll try to show her the best way to win her parents' approval.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

LETTER:

. . . just a little hint for you, —perhaps you do the same thing . . . I make quite a lot of sweet yeast cakes. . . I do not care much for baking powder dough. I mix yeast dough only as stiff as I can with a spoon. It is quite sticky when you come to roll it out. I make pinwheels and other fancy things with it, and it sticks to the board, so instead of using flour for rolling out, I use icing sugar. It works the same way and your dough doesn't get tough and dry, as it does when you use flour. A good filling for these sweet breads is ground almonds mixed with one unbeaten egg white, icing sugar and a big teaspoon of baking powder and a little almond extract.—Frida M.

ANSWER:

Thank you Frida. I am sure many of us will profit from this tip.

LETTER:

(Correction):

. . . sorry but I must have neglected to double check my recipe for Spiced Beef as your column had the recipe with the four spices listed as "ground ginger, allspice, cloves and pepper". It should have read "ginger, allspice, cloves, cinnamon with pepper to taste."

I hope it will not inconvenience you too much to correct this as it would make a great deal of difference in the product. Actually you need only a light dusting of pepper. . . you can be sure I have rechecked the enclosed recipes so it won't happen again. You will notice that most of my meat recipes call for garlic. If you like the flavor but don't want it on your breath, here is a good way to use it: split the clove or garlic and impale firmly on a toothpick. When the dish is cooked you can easily locate and discard the garlic. It is only when it is eaten that it remains on your breath . . . our son is underweight after three years of college and working away summers but will be home this summer and I hope to put some pounds on him. If you have some dessert recipes —other than pie—than can be halved (my husband is overweight) I would appreciate them. —Marjorie A.

MEAT SAUCE FOR SPAGHETTI

(Courtesy Marjorie A.)

Two oz. salt pork, 1-2 lb. ground beef, 1 can mushrooms with broth, 1-4 teaspoon Rosemary, 1 teaspoon parsley, pinch of cinnamon and allspice, 4 fresh peeled tomatoes or 1 large can, 1-2 can tomato sauce, salt, pepper, 2 cloves garlic, 1-2 cup white wine. Try out pork and discard. Brown meat and garlic. Add wine and cook five minutes. Add remaining ingredients and simmer 1 hour. Cook 3-4 lb. spaghetti in plenty of salted water. Toss with sauce and sprinkle generously with Parmesan cheese grated. Served with tossed green salad ando hot garlic bread and you are practically in Italy!

SWISS STEAK

(Courtesy Marjorie A.)

Three lbs. round steak 2 inches thick, 2-3 cup flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon black pepper, 1 clove garlic, 1 teaspoon marjoram, 1-2 teaspoon savory, 1 onion, 1-2 cup white wine, cayenne pepper, suet, boiling water. Mix flour, salt and black pepper and pound into meat—as much as it will take. Rest 1-2 hour and repeat until the flour mixture is used up (makes a better gravy if it is all used). Try out some suet and discard. Brown meat well. Sprinkle lightly with cayenne. Strew over the onion, herbs and add garlic. Pour over wine and add enough water to just cover. Simmer 1 1-2 hours. Taste for salt. Cook 1-2 hour longer.

ANSWER:

Thank you for these—I will save the other two recipes you sent for the future. I am trying to do for Pete what you are for your underweight son — fatten him up for the hard summer's work ahead! I am mailing some dessert recipes.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

CHURCH WEDDING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Our church group is asked to take charge of the serving of the refreshments at a reception after a wedding which is to take place in the church at 7:30 in the evening. The bride wishes buffet service: punch made with frozen sherbet, wedding cake, and mints. Should anything else be included for these hours, 8 to 10?

2. Should a table be set for the wedding party? — B.

1. The bride's plans include the two really important items: (1) the cold drink for the guests to drink the toasts "To the Bride and Groom"; and (2) the wedding cake, the first piece of which is cut by the bride and groom, shared with each other, and then the rest of the cake is served to the wedding guests. Since the reception is so soon after the hour of an evening meal, this will be ample. However, you may add coffee, with a choice of hot or cold. (S many people expect a cup of coffee with any type of refreshments!)

2. Whether or not there is a Bride's Table depends on the wish of the bride and groom. It is, I think, always pleasant to have one, but in these circumstances, not necessary since you are serving only wedding cake and punch. Also, there are only two hours for the receiving of the guests, the proposing of the toasts, and the cutting and serving of the cake.

ALWAYS PUT WEDDING RING ON FINGER FIRST . . . THEN ENGAGEMENT RING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What is the correct thing to do—for me to take off my engagement ring just before the groom puts the wedding ring on my finger, or is the wedding ring put on above the engagement ring? — Roberta N.

It is definitely incorrect ever to have (or to wear) the wedding ring put on above the engagement ring. There should be no ring on "the" finger when the groom places the wedding ring on your finger. Although you may leave your engagement ring at home during the ceremony, customarily the bride wears her engagement ring on her right hand until after the ceremony, then, usually in the car going to the reception, slips the engagement ring on her finger over the wedding ring. A most romantic moment!

CHILD'S FATHER OR GODFATHER?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband thinks that it is logical that he is the one responsible for the donation to the clergyman who officates at the christening of our child (our first). But I am quite sure that I have heard that it is the baby's godfather who gives this gift to the clergyman. However, the godfather has not mentioned it, and we don't want to be indefinite. — Mother

Your husband is right . . . it is the child's father who gives the donation to the clergyman.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

DANGER LURKS UNDER FINGER NAILS

A mother cannot tell her children often enough to wash their hands—no matter how the youngsters themselves may resent it. For clean hands and nails are not only a matter of appearance, but of health.

Studies made some time ago by Dr. Lloyd Arnold, of the research laboratory of the University of Illinois School of Medicine, showed that, while a clean skin surface may disinfect itself fairly well, the areas under and around the finger nails do not always have that power.

"Underneath the nails and at the ends of the fingers is tissue that is never sterile," he reported. "This region nearly always has many of the skin cocci present."

Every child should pass a nail white pencil under the nails once a day. This should be done during hand washing. As the pencil forms a clean white line, a child will be interested in playing with it.

A steel instrument should never be used for this purpose. That practice will make the delicate inner surfaces rough and grooved so that dirt will adhere closer than ever and become difficult to remove.

Hangnails must be removed with the greatest care so a wound will not result. For that purpose one should have small curved, needle point scissors. To make this treatment easier, the hands should be soaked in warm soapy suds, the nails frictioned with a brush. Then a cuticle cream should be applied, and the flesh lifted gently with an orangewood stick.

If little daughter has her own orangewood stick, nail brush and cuticle cream, she will have greater incentive to keep her nails in a healthy condition.

Women's Institute

BAY OF QUINTE WI

JOHNSTOWN.—The Bay of Quinte Institute held its June meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Yateman on Wednesday evening, June 8, with a nice attendance.

Some communications were dealt with. It was moved that the W.I. try to get the Extension service of "Hospitality Foods" for 1955-56. The standing committees were asked for reports. Mrs. Clarence Holmes, the convener of Community Activities and Public Relations said she would like to see that names are painted fresh on mail boxes so that when people are driving through the country they will have no trouble finding a certain place; plant a shade tree in 1955-56; undertake a certain community project—this to be thought about for the next month by the members to see just what that project should be.

The meeting was then handed over to Mrs. Alva Meyers, who was delegate along with Mrs. DeClerg at the West Hastings Institute convention on Tuesday at the lovely Sidney Baptist church. Mrs. Meyers gave a report of the work done by this organization during 1954-1955 and some of the aims for 1955-56.

Mrs. John Reid thanked Mrs. Meyers for her detailed report.

During the business session it was decided to pay the donation towards the spoons for the Junior Institute girls. Each girl is given a spoon as she finishes each project.

Mrs. Reid moved a vote of thanks to the hostess and conveners for a lovely luncheon and the use of her home, helping to make this an interesting evening.

M. D. Jarell, eminent Trichologist, demonstrates causes of baldness and how it can be prevented.

How To Have Hair For A Lifetime To Be Demonstrated Here By Famous Trichologist

Offers Written Guarantee

An exclusive interview by Ward Allen

LONDON, Ontario (Special) — M. D. Jarell, Director of Jarell Hair Experts of Canada exploded the "myth of baldness" today in an exclusive interview.

"Baldness is unnecessary, costly, and a plague to mankind," says Jarell. "No man need be bald. No man need suffer the stigma of premature old age that is forced upon him because he is losing his air. The Jarell method of hair and scalp treatment can prevent baldness — can turn colorless fuzz into healthy growing hair—can make you look youthful again.

Demonstration to be Held in Belleville, Ont.

This revolutionary method of home treatment for the hair and scalp will be demonstrated in Belleville, Ont., Monday only, June 20th, at the Queens Hotel. Trichologist E. L. Hicks will conduct the private, individual interviews from 12 noon until 9.00 P.M. on Monday only. There is no cost or obligation, and you need no appointment.

Reason for Baldness

"There is always a reason for baldness," continued this nationally known authority. "Hair cannot grow through a scalp that is infected with dandruff, excessive oiliness, or extreme dryness. A scalp that has never been exercised cannot be expected to produce healthy hair." Men, and yes, women too, walk the streets today, completely devoid of nature's greatest ornament—hair. Simply because they were not taught the basic rules of hair and scalp hygiene while they were growing up. "The simple answer," emphasized this expert is that children should be taught the same simple basic rules of hair and scalp hygiene that they are taught for the proper care of their teeth. If this were the case, baldness would be a rarity today!"

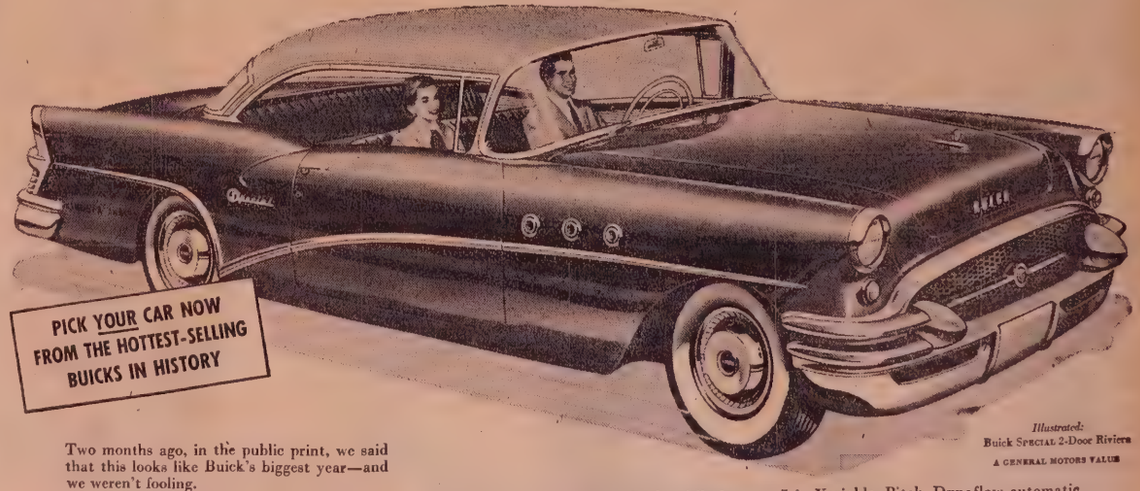
Heredity Not Involved

Trichologist Jarell dodged no issues. He quickly took up the most widely spread theory of baldness—heredity. "Mankind's unrealistic belief that baldness is heredity stems from a misinterpretation of the theory of genetics. Theory does not state that any person must be bald because baldness exists in the family. What it does say, is that in some families, a tendency exists towards an undernourished scalp." The purpose of Jarell Hair and Scalp Experts is to teach the methods of strengthening the weak scalp and nourishing it to a healthy, vigorous condition. A healthy scalp will grow hair, if it is not already completely bald," assures Jarell.

Is There Hope for The Completely Bald?

In his travels throughout the United States and Canada, Jarell has collected hundreds of testimonies of his ability to develop weak fuzz into healthy, mature hair. All of his clients have started with a private examination, hair and scalp analysis, and a diagnosis of the disorder, Jarell is quick however, to tell a hopeless case that he cannot be helped. "We strongly advise," says Jarell "that no person who is completely bald holds any hope whatsoever of regrowing hair. If there is any fuzz at all, we can restore a healthy scalp condition and the hair will grow normally again as nature intended."

Offers a Guarantee



"Jarell Hair Experts of Canada, offer a guarantee to any client who enrolls for treatment. If he or she is not completely delighted with results at the end of 30 days, the money invested will be graciously refunded," pledged Jarell. "We must have satisfied clients. We must regrow hair. After all, it is our best advertisement."

Is Your Hair Healthy?

If you have a scalp disorder, or if you are worried about your hair call Trichologist E. L. Hicks at the Queens Hotel in Belleville, Ont., Monday ONLY from 12 noon to 9.00 p.m. The public is invited. The examinations are private and open to men and women. You do not need an appointment, and you will not be embarrassed or obligated in any way.

Sales get BIGGER! and BIGGER! and BIGGER!

This '55 Buick must have something that folks just won't do without!

Illustrated: Buick SPECIAL 2-Door Riviera

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Two months ago, in the public print, we said that this looks like Buick's biggest year—and we weren't fooling.

But what has happened—and continues to happen—is almost beyond belief.

People buy up these stunning new Buicks practically as fast as we get them from the factory. Buick production—already revised upward several times—keeps forging ahead to new highs every month to meet the mounting demand.

And Buick sales keep soaring higher and higher and higher—out-stripping by far the phenomenal success of last year—the success that moved Buick into the Top Ranks of Canada's best sellers.

What is it about the '55 Buicks that folks by the thousands just won't do without? It's many things.

It's styling that's boldly distinctive and fresh as tomorrow. It's beauty of line and beauty of interior décor. It's a ride that's level, firm and steady. It's a new sweetness of handling. It's great power—walloping new V8 power of record might.

But above all, it's a new kind of performance, from a new kind of automatic transmission that was born of flight thinking.

It's Variable Pitch Dynaflow automatic transmission*—engineered from the principle of the modern plane's switch-pitch propeller—and what it brings you in the way of pure thrill, mere words can't describe.

Just you drop in on us this very week and try it. That way you can see what a terrific automobile—and a terrific buy—the hottest-selling Buick of all time really is.

*Dynaflow Drive automatic transmission is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Sunday School Lesson:

Why the Sermon Is Dull

By ROY L. SMITH

"I don't know what's the matter with our preacher. He does not seem to stir me. I really have a good deal of trouble listening to him. Maybe we ought to have a change."

So spoke a man who had been a member of the Church for years —a highly respectable individual who was active in all manner of community movements, a leader, and a splendid citizen.

Through six days he had been absorbed in his professional work, two evenings had been spent at a trade convention, he was out with his wife until after 11 o'clock another evening attending a concert, two evenings he had to spend at the office working, and on Saturday night he attended lodge, not getting home until almost two o'clock.

And he wondered why he could not keep awake Sunday morning while his preacher discussed a profound theme in a serious manner.

A very great deal of Sabbath desecration goes on Saturday night.

CHURCH SERVICE DIFFERENT

That one who is really intent on worship goes to the house of God for a different purpose than that which takes him to any other place on earth. The music he hears is different from any other music. There is a stateliness about it that sets it apart from the opera, a concert, a symphony, or dinner music.

The atmosphere of the Church house itself is different. The stained glass, the deep-seated pews, the vaulted roof, and the long aisles—all this is aimed to create within the waiting soul a spirit of receptivity.

Let a man spend an hour in the house of God, let him sing one or two great old hymns, let him listen to a superior anthem, and let him recite an ancient creed, and he is almost certain to think some things that will never occur to him under any other circumstances.

EVEN DRESSING UP HELPS

There is great moral value in dressing up in one's best. This does not mean that one should go to the house of God for the purpose of displaying one's finery, but one should pay at least as much tribute to the Almighty as one would pay to an old and honored friend. If we would appear in the presence of one of the world's great in careless attire, then we may be justified in appearing badly groomed on the Lord's day in the Lord's house. But all of us know that we pull ourselves together when we dress ourselves up, and every man ought to be at his best when he presents himself in the sanctuary. It is a little easier to think great and high thoughts if one has made careful preparation of his person in anticipation of the hour of worship.

PREPARING OUR MINDS

Even more important than dressing up is the matter of pulling one's mind together. That worshipper who appears at the altars of God with his mind freshly crammed with the screaming headlines of the morning paper, with the latest song hits from the radio or television ringing in his ears, and with the latest frenzy of some political orator, booming in his ears, is in a poor state of receptivity, either for the preacher's sermon or the word of counsel and guidance from the Holy Spirit of the Living God.

Even 20 minutes spent with a great text, a great hymn, a serious book, or a contagious idea, will prepare the worshipper for the holiest hour of the week. Thus prepared, it will not make much difference whether the sermon is dull or not, and he will not care much whether anyone speaks to him or not. He has found something vastly superior to either. He has met God.

The Uniform Sunday school lesson for June 19: "Joseph Keeps the Passover." II Chronicles 35, 11 Kings 23.

And the preacher talks about matters that are seldom discussed on any other day of the week.

CANADIAN ARMY

ATOMIC LINES

CCF spokesman Owen L. Jones, Okanagan - Boundary, said Canada's defence should be planned on atomic lines.

Mr. Jones, Second World War army officer, said there is "unadulterated waste" of taxpayers' money through purchase of weapons which are museum pieces. At least $400,000,000 could be cut from defence sponding without impairing the defence effort.

Maj. - Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, the Progressive Conservative party's military specialist, said Canada's entire army should be airborne and foresaw the day when the army and air force may be merged into one force.

He said the government's policy of emphasis on air defence has been appallingly barren in practice. More air strength was needed Army organization had changed little since 1915.

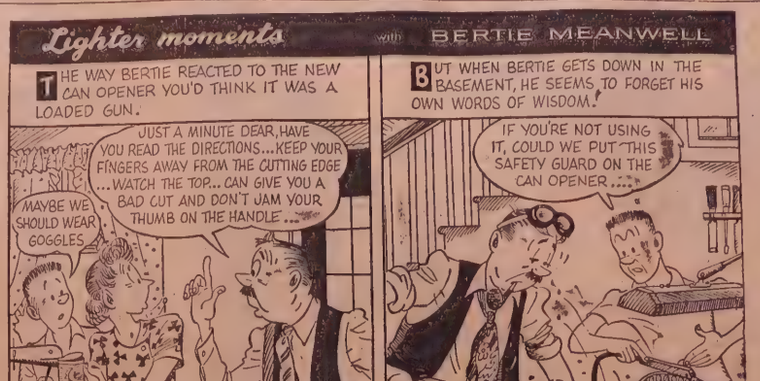
"I do not believe in maintaining yesterday's establishments in order to fight the war of tomorrow."

PROPER ALLOCATION

Gen. Pearkes said conscription should not be necessary if there is proper allocation of forces.

He also said the reserve army's prime role should be civil defence, with CD training also given to the active services.

Mr. Campney, commenting on that suggestion, said the services are co-operating to an increasing degree in civil defence and are prepared to help, provided that does not interfere with their main function.



Wallace Nesbitt (PC — Oxford) said not enough is being done to guard against attacks by guided missiles or jet planes launched from enemy submarines.

Mr. Campney replied that the navy is adding to its convoy work a new plan of hunting and killing submarines.

EVER WANT TO GO TO A

Jamboree?

You'll find many a Boy Scout who does. He's longing to join thousands of fellow Scouts at the 8th World Jamboree to be held in August at Niagara-on-the-Lake.

But he may be disappointed. Transportation, for instance, may be just too great an expense. It is to help such a Scout that The Bank of Nova Scotia is co-operating with The Boy Scout Association to set up 50 all-expense-paid Jamboree Journeys for deserving Scouts.

Scouts are invited to write a short essay on the theme "What It Means To Be A Scout." On the basis of these essays a total of 50 winners will be selected in co-operation with the Boy Scout Association. The Bank of Nova Scotia will meet the costs of travel and of ten glorious days at the Jamboree for these 50 lads.

The Bank of Nova Scotia's Jamboree Journey Essay Contest is another example of the Bank's policy of working with Young Canada. The Bank is their partner, as it is yours, in the great and many-sided enterprise of helping Canada grow.

Wooden Steamer Opened Traffic In Locks 100 Years Ago Saturday

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP)—One hundred years ago Saturday, June 18, 1855, a small wooden steamer opened traffic through the Sault locks, key to the world's greatest inland waterway. It was the forerunner of a stream of traffic that has been unbroken except in wintertime for a century.

The carriage record for this parade of ships reached a total of 4,228,552,898 tons at the end of the first century's operation of the Sault locks, more formally known as St. Mary's Falls canal.

In the record-breaking season of 1953, more than 128,510,000 tons were transported through the locks. This was more than the total of all freight handled by the canal in the first 40 years of operation.

Prior to 1855, Sault Ste. Marie was a barrier to navigation between Lake Superior and the lower lakes. It was at the Sault that the water of Lake Superior tumbled down over the St. Mary's river rapids to the level of Lake Huron waters, a drop of about 20 feet.

IRON ORE FOUND

A "copper rush" to Michigan's Upper Peninsula in the 1840s was followed by discovery of the "iron mountains" in what is now the Marquette range.

In the early 1850s, a young scales salesman named Charles T. Harvey looked over mineral areas of the Upper Peninsula and saw their potentialities. He also saw the need for a ship canal to tap those riches economically.

A group of eastern capitalists formed the St. Mary's Falls Ship Canal Co. and set out to construct the canal in what was still virtual wilderness.

Harvey was appointed general agent. He and his crew of 400 men started the job June 1, 1853.

For two summers and two winters, the work went on, through a cholera epidemic, local strife and construction setbacks.

SHIPPING STARTS

June 18, 1855, Capt. Jack Wilson brought the steamer Illinois into the canal to open the first Sault lock. Twenty-six years later the Weitzel lock was opened to traffic.

The Canadian government opened its ship canal at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., in 1895, and the U. S. government finished construction of the Poe lock in 1896.

The Davis lock followed in 1914, and the Sabin in 1919. The newest lock, the MacArthur, named for Gen. Douglas MacArthur, was constructed in record-breaking time in 1942-43 and opened to traffic July 11, 1943.

To commemorate the 100th anniversary of the locks, residents of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and Ont., have joined together in a centennial celebration opening June 28—a summer-long salute to the miracle mile.

Conviction In Ont. Not Valid In N.Y. State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The New York Court of Appeals has decided that a conviction of a New York driver for driving while intoxicated in Ontario is not grounds for revoking his New York state driver's licence.

In a 4-to-3 decision announced Thursday, the court ordered the commissioner of motor vehicles to restore the licence of Hal C. Moore of Schodack, N.Y.

The state revoked the licence in 1953 after Moore had pleaded guilty in Toronto a charge of driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol. The Appeals Court decision overrules the decision of the state motor vehicle bureau to withdraw Moore's licence.

WON'T SEEK BEAUTY TITLE

PANAMA CITY (AP)—Plans for Panama's participation in the 1955 Miss Universe contest have been cancelled, apparently because of a warning by Roman Catholic Archbishop Francisco Beckman that bathing beauty contestants would commit "a special sin." The cancellation was announced in advertisements today in Panama newspapers, which said the competition had been called off "for reasons known to all."

Peterborough County Wins In Competition

KEMPTVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Junior farmers from 16 counties milked cows on a raised platform here Thursday while four judges watched their techniques in the final day of the Ontario junior farmers' quality milk production competition.

Winners of the two-day event, sponsored by tre Ontario Milk Distributers Association, were Margaret Clark, 17, of Norwood, Ont., and Don Irwin, 18, of Peterborough, representing Peterborough county.

The entrants were all county champions, the 32 remaining from thousands of junior farmers aged 18-24 who had entered competitions in their own counties.

HOW TO USE IT

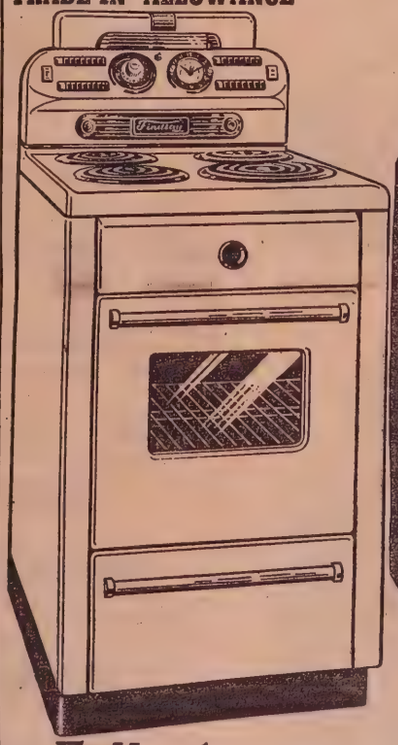
In addition to demonstrating milking techniques, the competitors also had to show the judges what to do with the milk—how to cool and store it properly and how to look after a milk house. They also had to answer a set of questions.

Runners - up were the Ontario county entries—Ron Werry of Oshawa and Rone Neale of Whitby. Carleton county's champions, Irene Campbell of Metcalfe and Don Duncan of Osgoode, placed third.

Officials estimated attendance at 10,000.

Four Butcher Prize Heifer Not Their Own

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Four Stamford township men pleaded guilty Thursday and were fined $50 each for butchering a prize heifer and taking the meat home.



Fined were Alexander McDonald, 38, Herbert Thorne, 40, Alexander Hetherington, 34, and Stanley Imhoff, 38. The cow was owned by Bernard Mewburn, who valued the animal at about $250.

The four were charged with theft over the value of $50, because the new Criminal Code eliminated the charge of cattle rustling.

Church's Coolness Toward Peron's Late Wife, Eva, Said Cause of Recent Breakup

By ALFONSO MAURI

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters) — President Juan Peron's battle against the Roman Catholic Church began last September.

In the previous eight years of his rule, Peron and the established church collaborated amicably. One reason for the breakup, neutral observers in Argentina say, was the church's coolness toward Peron's late wife, Eva.

However, many here saw Peron's attack on the church as the logical sequel to his stormy career.

Ever since he assumed power Peron has aimed at reshaping Argentina's social and spiritual outlook in accordance with his own ideas. To achieve it he had to have the road free.

OPPOSITION CRUSHED

Seven years ago he crushed the "Partido Laborista" which carried him to power.

Next he set his guns against the landed aristocracy which, directly or indirectly, wielded the reins of power.

Later he concentrated against opposition in general. He forced the Conservatice party to terms until it disappeared as a political force. He sowed discord among the Socialist party until it split. The Radical party, torn for years by internal dissensions, was alone left as an organized force of the opposition.

BUILT BUFFER FORCE

He built up the General Confederation of Labor but when it became too powerful, he clipped its wings by creating the General Confederation of Professionals and the Economic Confederation, representing the employers. They now are used as a bumper force to check the continuous claims of labor.

Apart from the military, that left the Catholic church as the only remaining coherent force capable of presenting a united front against Peron.

Argentine Catholics and non-Catholics alike had always accepted the assertion that "to fight the church is tantamount to suicide."

So invulnerable did the church appear in their eyes that no previous government ever attempted seriously to pass laws at variance with Catholic principles.

Then Peron gave battle even though he himself had been decorated by the Pope and eight years ago restored Catholic doctrine to the national schools, for 80 years run by laymen.

SEQUENCE OF EVENTS

These were the main events leading up to the present crisis:

September, 1954—A law passed over church objections giving illegitimate children the same rights as those born in wedlock.

October and November—Government supporters attack Catholics for trying to form a Christian Democrat party and "interfering" in labor unions.

Nov. 10—Peron broadcasts an attack on "individual priests" for interfering in politics. He names three bishops as "offenders."

Nov. 12—Catholics clash with police in Cordoba province. The government opens a purge dismissing Catholics from all public posts in the province.

Nov. 22—Broadcasts of Roman Catholic services suspended.

Dec. 2—Ministry of education's department of religious instruction abolished.

DIVORCE LEGALIZED

Dec. 14—Congress legalizes easy divorce. Peron gives his assent to it Dec. 22, despite Catholic protests.

Jan. 12—Catholic daily newspaper El Pueblo suspended.

Feb. 11—State subsidies withdrawn from 80 Catholic schools and hundreds of teacher - priests dismissed.

April 14—Religious and moral teaching in schools suspended.

April 26—Reference to God dropped from Congressional oath.

April 28—Many Catholics arrested for "terrorist plot."

May 7-16—Leaders of the Catholic Action movement arrested and held for 11 days.

May 13—Senate approves bill to end tax exemptions for religious institutions.

May 20—Congress approves bill to separate church and state.

June 1 —100,000 Catholics celebrate Corpus Christi day at cathedral. Afterwards people hoist papal flag in Congress building's gardens.

June 12—Despite official Catholic denials of Catholic responsibility for the flag-raising and other incidents, pro-Peron demonstrators march on archbishop's palace and cathedral. Police arrest many Catholics after skirmishes.

June 14—Msgr. Manuel Tato, assistant bishop of Buenos Aires, and Msgr. Ramon Novoa, canon of the diocese, dismissed by government decree blaming them for disturbances.

Judge Thomas Casares, a Catholic and leading judge of the Supreme Court, denounced to Congress by the government for his part in the events.

June 15—Tato and Novoa expelled and sent by air to Rio de Janeiro, en route to Rome. Police comb city for evidence on weekend's incidents, and occupy archdiocesan palace and Catholic Action headquarters.

British Government Moving To Reform House of Lords

LONDON (Reuters) — The government is moving at last to reform the House of Lords to make it more meaningful in Britain's national life.

On Tuesday Prime Minister Eden's Conservative government will ask the titled aristocrats to set up a 15-member fact-finding committee to investigate whether the House of Lords can purge itself of peers who "play hookey."

In the first centuries of its 900-year existence, the lords had immense power. But hardly a whiff of power has blown from the austere chamber since 1909, when it broke a precedent by throwing out prime minister Lloyd George's finance bill.

The Welsh prime minister angrily cried out then that the blue-bloods had "ceased to be the watchdog of the constitution."

EMPTY SEATS

At present there are 880 seats in the House of Lords, all held by hereditary peers. The trouble is, the seats are not often filled. Only on state occasions, when the peers don resplendent scarlet and ermine robes, do more than 200 of them attend. For ordinary debates less than 100 show up, and often only a handful.

Although the aim of reform would be to limit the House to peers who attend and vote regularly, next Tuesday's motion by Conservative leader in the House of Lords, the Marquess of Salisbury, will be only a cautious feeler.

The assembled dukes, viscounts, earls, bishops, barons and other titled folk will have great backing for certain adventures in reform. A week ago, in formally opening the new Parliament, the Queen said "further consideration will be given to the question of the composition of the House of Lords."

When the peers debated the issue earlier this year, some members felt the House could not constitutionally bar any peer. They argued that the monarch summons all peers to sit in the House, and that their tenure would therefore be inviolate.

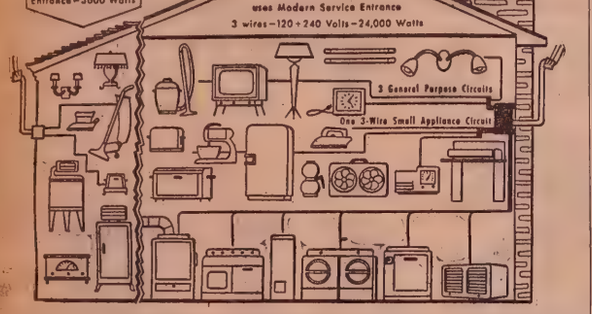
Vertical Drawer Of Fir Plywood Easy to Install

Many farm kitchens have a storage problem under the sink that women encounter every day. They've learned it takes a lot of reaching and fumbling to get at things in back of at least one deep, narrow cupboard there. And the item wanted is always at the back — behind immeasurable other cartons and tins.

The problem of annoyingly deep cupboards can quickly be overcome. Any handyman can do it and the method is as simple as the arrangement of three pieces of fir plywood shown above.



The vertical drawer shown here has a centre divider of fir plywood and is positioned by small wooden guides. If the plywood floor section is waxed and the sink framing on which the drawer slides is also waxed, the drawer will move out easily bringing the items stored at the back quickly to hand.

It is advisable to put a stop on the drawer to prevent it being pulled out more than half way if heavy goods are to be stored.

Wiring In Many Older Homes Now Out-Dated

The old vs. the new in wiring systems is pictured here. Obviously the 84 electric appliances in general use today cannot operate satisfactorily on wiring designed for 19 appliances on the market in 1930. The 34,000,000 homes built prior to 1940 are electrically obsolete according to the National Adequate Wiring Bureau.

If your house wiring is like that of four out of five of your neighbors in pre-1940 houses, it's wearing high-buttoned shoes today.

An electrical system can be outdated in a lot less than a lifetime of use, according to the National Adequate Wiring Bureau, an electrical industry educational organization.

Sad experience has already convinced many a home owner that his residence is not adequately wired for the number of appliances he has bought.

Blown fuses, fuzzy television pictures, half-done toast, lights that dim suddenly and inability to operate an air conditioner are beginning to persuade Americans to re-wire the homes they live in.

Wiring capacity and design that would "do" a decade ago are now unable to provide sufficient wattage for the multiplicity of electrical devices and equipment owned by the average American family.

The electrical capacity built into the pre-1940 house depended on the amount of current that could flow through two 120-volt wires, known as "conductors" which enter the house from the utility company's service drop. These feed through the fuse cabinet or circuit breaker equipment, and on through a series of branch circuits to lights and appliances.

But when wires are small, small current flows. The voltage which provided enough "push" for the current, when the average home had only lighting and a few small portable appliances, does not provide enough "push" for the versatile, wholly-automatic kitchen and laundry equipment of today.

Some improvement in the householder's electrical lot came in 1946 with the adoption by the electrical industry of a "standard" requiring a larger service entrance to give the home electrical plant twice the capacity it had before.

A service entrance with three wires leading in, instead of the former two-wire system, was required before a house could be called adequately wired. What the householder could take from such a system as 14,500 watts to power his equipment.

That electrical capacity did not remain adequate for long. As the range and water heater use about 12,000 watts between them, the home owner who expected to have a clothes dryer, an ironer, a roaster ,a broiler, room air conditioning and dozens of other refinements of electrical living, was stymied.

The National Adequate Wiring Bureau holds that the answer is in engineered wiring planned for equipment which the householder expects to own within a few years. He actually need about 25,000 watts available if he is to have a modern house that is good electrically for years to come.

CONCRETE SEPTIC TANKS
STEEL REINFORCED
These tanks are made from a special mixture of cement very similar to the formula that is used in the manufacture of our concrete burial vaults and are fully reinforced with a steel wire mesh. The baffles are cast into the tank and no special or any fittings are needed to connect the tank to the sewer lines. Being a horizontal type of construction the above tank has a much higher rate of digestion than tanks poured into the ground.
All tanks are guaranteed waterproof as this is done in the batching of the cement, it is therefore not necessary to plaster or asphalt as in the case with poured tanks.

Owners Find Many Low-Cost Ways to Step-Up Looks And Livability of Homes

Remodelling, Repairs, Modernization Projects Going Full Speed Ahead

Marching forward, stride for stride, with the booming demand for new home construction, is the burgeoning activity in the improvement and modernization of existing homes.

Four factors, in the main, appear to be responsible for this surging interest in home improvement: (1) Greater emphasis on the home as the focal point of the family's activities, (2) growing realization of the fact that almost any home improvement adds more to the resale value of the home than the improvement costs, (3) home owner's ability and willingness to do much of the work himself, as reflected in the accelerating "do it yourself" movement and (4) the easier financing arrangements that can be made today for home improvement projects.

Basically, the householder, embarking upon a program of modernization or improvement, is motivated by the desire to step up the livability of his home, to make it a more pleasant, comfortable and convenient place for family life, in all its manifold phases.

A primary project may well be the better utilization of space within the home. An attic or basement, now virtually idle may be finished off into a recreation room, study, home workshop, hobby room or extra bedroom. A breezeway may be enclosed to serve the same purpose. Houses built a generation ago almost invariably have front or side porches which can very easily be enclosed to make a room.

STREAMLINING THE KITCHEN

On the score of convenience, the conversion of the old-fashioned kitchen to its streamlined modern counterpart generally rates a high place on the agenda, especially if Mrs. Home-Owner has anything to say about it (which she generally does!)

Better organization of working space, strategically placed cabinets and working surfaces, modern work-saving appliances, a gay decorative scheme all can work wonders in easing the tasks and lifting the morale of the average housewife.

The bathroom, often woefully outdated in older houses, may well be due for a "face lifting." This can be as far-reaching a project as a complete installation of new fixtures or as simple as re-flooring or redecorating job, which oft-times the homeowner can do, himself.

Perhaps the house, especially if erected more than a decade ago, has outgrown in its electrical wiring. The addition in recent years of many appliances may indicate the need for new outlets or perhaps a completely new system of greater wattage. In either case, an electrical contractor should be contacted (these are no jobs for the "do-it-yourselfer.")

INSULATION SAVES FUEL

In the realm of greater comfort in the home are such improvements as insulation (which can soon pay for itself in fuel savings), air-conditioning, repairs in present heating system or installation of a new one.

Moving to the outside of the house, such projects as re-painting, re-roofing, new siding can give a home a "lift" that will greatly enhance its owner's "pride of possession" as well as the re-sale value of the dwelling.

New or additional landscaping can add much to the over-all attractiveness of home and grounds.

When the man of the house is handy with tools (as so many are in this "do-it-yourself" age) he can greatly reduce the cost of his program of home improvement by doing much of the work himself.

It is well, though, for him to have a sound sense of his own limitations and not attempt projects that had better be left to the professional. Included in the latter category are electrical wiring, plumbing and heating installations and repairs, and such hazardous operations as roof and chimney work.

The average homeowner will find the most practical solution to his improvement and repair problems in a sensible division of responsibilities between himself and the professional. He will do that part of each project which is within the scope of his abilities and experience and call upon the skilled artisan, where necessary, "to finish the job."

Thus the homeowner can save important money and at the same time be assured of a professional standard of excellence in whatever is undertaken.

Most Cellar Water Comes From Roof

More cellar dampness is caused by roof water than by underground water sources. Tests have shown that in most cases the ground water level is well below a cellar floor.

Cellar walls can normally keep out the amount of rain water that falls on the ground next to the foundation. But when the greatly increased drainage of a roof is allowed to seep into the small areas next to house, cellar walls are subjected to a task for which they were not designed.

KEEP BASEMENT DRY

Basement can be protected from dampness by using one of the water-repellent compounds which are painted on with a large brush.

FARM BUILDING TIPS AND NEWS

Record Year Seen For Air Conditioning

This year promises to set a new record in the installation of residential air conditioning.

Two factors, working together, have set the stage for this sharp up-turn in activity. Housewives shopping in air conditioned stores and bread-winners working in air conditioned offices have begun to feel more keenly the discomfort of their own homes. Manufacturers have followed through with an all-out effort to develop practical, low-cost air conditioning systems for the home.

Just a few years ago, residential air conditioning installations were nothing more than cut-down versions of commercial units. Today, however, units have been developed specifically for the home, conforming better to the limited space available, suited more to home needs and, what is most important, easier on the home pocketbook both in the cost and in operating cost.

There are two main types of air conditioning systems which a home - owner may buy — the room cooler, for one or two rooms and the whole-house system.

Most room units are mounted in a window and are popular wherever one room is to be cooled. But people who have learned to enjoy whole-house winter living since the stove gave way to the furnace do not want to go back to one-room living. As a consequence, the big trend is to combination heating and cooling forced air systems because they provide whole-house year-round air conditioning in a single system.

In the combination heating and cooling forced air systems, the ducts that carry the heated air from the furnace into the rooms in the winter serve to carry the cooled and dehumidified air in the summer. Such year-round units may be installed as heating systems first and cooling systems added later. Or, in some cases, existing heating systems may be converted to year-round air conditioning by the addition of cooling sections.

If an air conditioning system is out of the question, the home-owner still has many ways to beat the heat to some extent.

One of the most effective ways is to insulate and ventilate the attic. Large louvres in the gable ends and a good blanket of insulation over the ceiling will prevent heat accumulation in the attic and transmission of any heat to the living quarters.

Attic fans to get rid of heat accumulation also are effective. They may be used to blow heated air out of the attic by pulling in outside air in a louvre at one end and expelling the attic air out of a louvre in the other end. Or, mounted in the ceiling between the living quarters and and attic, air can be pulled up through the house, through the windows and doors, and into the attic, whence it is expelled thru' the louvres.

ASK CRIMES SURVEY

TORONTO (CP)—The Parents' Action League Wednesday asked the Ontario government to make a one-year survey of sex crimes and criminals in the province and to set up a central clinic here for the treatment and study of sex offenders. Dr. K. G. Gray, chairman of the scientific advisory committee of the league, tabled the recommendation at a meeting of the group's steering and planning committee.

Do-It-Yourselfer Can Hang Own Wallpaper

If you have decided on a smart looking redecorating job with wallpaper, but ar hampered by a tight budget, do what millions of other people are doing: hang it yourself!

First, measure your rooms. Your dealer will tell you just how many rolls you will need. Wallpaper comes in 22", 24", and 30" widths, so the number of rolls you need will depend upon the paper you select.

Get yourself a good steady ladder and a large saw-horse table (but any other large table will do). Then get hold of a putty knife and patching plaster, if your walls require a repair job. For pasting you will need scissors, a good wide sweep brush, a seam roller, sponge, and a good non-stiffening paste.

Your walls must be smooth before the paper is to be applied. If your walls are already papered, you can go right on applying the new wallpaper. For old plaster and painted walls, you had best first repair cracks with patching plaster.

Once walls are smoothened out, apply a good glue sizing to all walls except those already papered.

In older homes, walls may stand slightly crooked. Just to make sure to get your paper on straight, drop plumb line from ceiling to floor and mark line with chalk. Then cut strips of wallpaper and cut paper the height of your walls plus an extra 16" to spare.

Now comes the pasting. If you are right-handed, have top of paper on your right. Apply paste generously, and be sure to moisten paper throughout without leaving any dry spots. To make things easier for yourself, fold pasted strip by putting top end of strip to center, doing the same with lower half.

It is best to carry the paper to the wall on your left arm. Then catch top half of paper and let lower end drop, fitting top and side to wall, while leaving a 3" overlap at the ceiling. You can trim this later with disc cutter or a sharp razor blade.

When top half is in place, take wide sweep brush and press paper down in center, smoothing out air pockets as you go along. Slide paper around gently until properly placed along plumb line, corner, or matching strip.

Now unfold lower half of strip and repeat smoothing process.

Continue this process with each successive strip, and be sure to match strips properly. For a professional looking job, butt edges together to make continuous pattern.

Seams are best smoothed out with a seam roller, while excess paste should be immediately sponged off with cold water.

To paper around corners, windows and other openings, overlap generously just to make sure, and trim later.

Step 1: Cut strips 16 inches longer than height of wall. Unroll one strip at a time and brush on paste. Lift up both ends and fold over to center of strip. Now wallpaper is ready to hang.

Step 2: Catch top half of paper so that lower half will free itself, then fit top and side to wall. Sweep paper down in center. Smooth out air pockets. Unfold lower half and repeat.

Step 3: Smooth out seams with roller or sponge and remove all paste before it dries. Then trim overlapping paper at top and baseboard with a disc cutter or razor blade.

STOP THAT SQUEAK!

Squeaky or curling floorboards should be renailed. Nails should always be driven in at an angle.

Use of Proper Brushes Makes Painting Easier

For painting inside and outside use good quality brushes — they will do better work and last longer. They will hold more paint, carry it better without messy dripping, apply it without spattering, put on an even, smoother coat and cut a cleaner edge.

For wall painting, inside or out, use a flat straight-edge wall brush. This type ranges from 3 to 5 inches in width.

For window frames, spindles, scrollwork, etc., use a stub brush. Stub brushes range from 1 to 2 inches in width for painting narrow areas.

For varnishing and enameling, a flat varnish brush is ordinarily used. Most of these are made with chiseled or tapered edges to permit easier flow.

High quality paint rollers are also available for the application of most interior wall paints. They will not paint into corners so a brush is also needed.

Paint Brings New Beauty To Old Rooms

The next best thing to building a new home is decorating an old one. New paint can make old rooms look bigger, clear up dark corners, lend fresh life to furniture, draperies and rugs.

Surveys indicate that more than 60% of all American families have become "week-end decorators," doing all or part of their home painting themselves.

The clue to the lift you get from a room you've painted comes from the colors you selected. The right colors can bring restfulness to bedrooms, sparkling freshness to kitchens and new beauty to dreary rooms.

As a general rule-of-thumb, plan your color combinations around some related group of colors. If yellow makes you feel cheerful, use it for your main room treatment, and add variety and interest with yellow-orange and yellow-green, either as contrasting colors one one wall or in your draperies or on wood trim.

Most paint manufacturers have color booklets available that will give you basic color schemes in sufficient variety to suit your own taste With these modern paint color systems, you can get any one of hundreds of tints and deep colors from your paint dealer.

It's fun to be a "week-end decorator" and easy, too, because modern paints have painting skill "built in."

If you follow a few basic steps, the job of wall painting can be done correctly and in a surprisingly short time.

First, cover the floor with newspapers or drop cloth. Then remove all electrical switches and outlet plates. Start with the trim around the doors and windows. For protetcion, speed and efficiency, use either masking tape or a trim guard.

Whether you use a roller or a brush (4 or 5-inch) spread your paint on evenly, with sweeping to-and-fro strokes. Start each stroke where the paint is dry and work toward and into wet areas.

Start at an upper corner of the wall and paint an easy arm's length across, parallel to the ceiling. Then work down from ceiling to baseboard. Continue the same method across the wall, working in strips a yard wide so that you can come back and paint into an area you've just painted.

For baseboards, begin in a corner of the room. First apply paint to the centre of the board, then work toward the edges.

When you paint the ceiling, paint in stripes—the width, not the long way of the room. This allows you to join the next strip with the last one before the paint has started to set. Keep the strips narrow. Paint toward the light wherever possible.

Redlegs Cool Dodgers Two In Row As Cubs Gain Game; Yanks, Tribe Win

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

COULD BE

It could be that young Mr. Wes Santee, the Yakking Yank who once said they could hitch Roger Bannister to the rear of the Congressional Limited and "I would still outrun him" has yakked himself out of his amateur status.

He has the famous Avery Brundage, boss man of the International Olympics Committee who has a decided yen for ferreting out so-called breaches of so-called amateur status on his trail. Brundage has ordered a probe into Santee's alleged "over-expenses" track meets last year.

Mr. Brundage who visited Russia in connection with Olympics activities said he found nothing to make him believe the Reds and some of their satellites were not complying with the Olympics code of amateurism. He read a piece in an American newspaper about Santee's case and immediately took up the probe cudgels.

Has he not read articles in newspapers and magazines anent the situation in Russia and other countries behind the Iron Curtain, quoted by defected men who left these countries and reported on the athletic situation? Is there any reason to disbelieve them—or was Mr. Brundage satisfied with the Red version which was given him personally by some Olympics commissar during his visit to Moscow and other points?

Or does he believe that housecleaning should begin at home?

And what will he do about the Russian and Canadian hockey teams when the winter sports come up for discussion? In the strictest sense of the word we doubt if there is an out-and-out amateur hockey player in Canada, despite the fact that some claim they do not receive pay for their services. Remember, Barbara Anne Scott had to return the Ottawa automobile after Brundage had issued an edict. What's the difference between the gift of a car and that of a windbreaker or a watch?

Incidentally Santee is one of the world's top milers who has yet to run the distance under four minutes. His best time to date is 4:00.5. He has been quoted as saying that he can run the mile under "four" any time he feels like it. But while he has been boasting of his prowess the four-minute mile has been run seven times by five different runners. They are Roger Bannister, John Landy the record-holder, Lazslo Tabori, Chris Chataway and Brian Hewson. Landy and Bannister have each achieved the feat twice.

If Santee is banned from the Olympics because of alleged professionalism in accepting "too much expense money", he will not be the first track star to feel the weight of the official mailed hand.

Back in 1924 Paavo Nurmi, the great Finnish runner, was suspended by the International Amateur Athletic Association and his status investigated by the Finnish Amateur Association. Later he was banned from participating in the Olympic games held in 1932 in Los Angeles.

OPEN LETTER TO MICHAEL J. RODDEN

Dear Senor El Roddeno:

We note via your column that the Whig Standard boasts one of the "mightiest softball teams in Canada. Brother, you ain't seen nuthin' yet. You should get a glimpse of the Moira Dodgers who wear the uniforms of the Ontario Intelligencer. Like their Flatbush namesakes they are so far in front of the press pack they are practically out of sight.

So . . . We hereby challenge that "mighty" team of the KWS to diamond battle. Home-and-home games preferred.

Furthermore it is specially requested that you, with all your old-time prowess as an arbiter join this department in umpiring duties. You can "work the plate" for half the game, etc. Winner take all. Players must produce press cards or other newspaper credentials before being permitted to play. Typewriters will be parked at the box-office. We dare yuh!

PS—It is only fair that you be informed that we have the only one-man battery extant. Fleetfoot Double-Duty Donegal is the man. He pitches then dashes to the plate and catches his own throw. He is the only quadruple-play man in softball. On this occasion he put out three players then heaved the umpire out of the park."

ROYALTY AGAINST ROGUES

T'will be the Texas "Tornadoes", Lou Plummer and Dick Raines tonight against the colorful Prince Maiava and Lord Athol Layton. Royalty against Rogues to say the least. Then there will be the Manassa Mauler, Jack Dempsey, to toss in some additional color. Should be plenty of action when the quartet starts to mix things. And it looks like the best card offered so far this season. Couple of good prelims, too.

Kluszewski's Two-Out Homer Fatal to Flatbusher Crew; Ted Williams Homers, Singles

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some of the old pappy guys got together and really showed the crewcut class in major league baseball a few tricks of the trade Thursday.

There was Murry Dickson (38), Virgil Trucks (36) and Tommy Byrne (35) to name a few. Those figures aren't uniform numbers, incidentally. That's the number of years the gents have tucked away.

Byrne did the real bang-up job, stopping the still-wet-behind-the-ears Detroit Tigers 3-2 on four hits.

Trucks kept the Chicago White Sox within two games of the Yanks with his second straight shutout and fifth straight victory, a six-hit job that beat Baltimore 8-0.

BANGS THE BRAVES

And Dickson, who has led or tied for the most-games-lost title in the National League for the past three seasons, squared his mark at 4-4 by whittling down the Milwaukee Braves on four hits as the Philsdelphia Phillies won 3-0.

At the same time, Warren Hacker, a young sprat at 30, cut off a Chicago Cub losing streak at three games by stopping the New York Giants 2-1 on five hits. That pulled the Bruins to within 10½ games of National League leading Brooklyn. Cincinnati topped the Dodgers a second straight time, 6-5, in 10 innings.

St. Louis made it two straight by beating Pittsburgh 5-0.

The other American League games wound up with Cleveland handing off Washington 8-5 and Boston overhauling Kansas City in the ninth 7-6.

HOWARD PINCH HIT

Byrne, a sometimes erratic south paw, gave just one earned run, walked five and fanned nine. But he didn't get his fourth victory until the Yanks caught up with Detroit rookie Frank Lary for three runs in the ninth. Yogi Berra's one-on homer tied it and Elston Howard's pinch single scored the clincher.

Trucks, who has won seven, breezed in as Baltimore suffered its 11th shutout of the season and fourth in five games. Loser Duane Pillette and Joe Coleman gave up 15 hits—three each by George Kell, who drove in four runs, Nellie Fox and Walt Dropo.

Dickson didn't fool with the Braves, who got only one man as far as second base. The little right-hander walked just two and doubled to score the Phils' second run off loser Bob Buhl. It was the second straight shutout for Milwaukee, blanked by the Phils' Herm Wehmeier Wednesday.

SECOND OF GAME

Brooklyn's 15th defeat came on Ted Kluszewski's two-out homer—his second of the game—off reliefer Jim Hughes, who had retired 14 in a row. The pair tied big Klu with Dodger Duke Snider for the majors homer lead at 20. Buster Freeman won it in relief after Brooklyn tied it with two in the seventh.

Washington had 12 hits, but Cleveland smacked 15 as Bob Lemon won his ninth with Mike Garcia's help in the ninth. Three runs in the fourth chased loser Chuck Stobbs and wrapped it up for the Tribe, still a game shy of the White Sox.

Boston warmed up for a four-game set with Cleveland by winning its eighth in nine games on Billy Klaus' two-run homer in the ninth. It came off reliefer Johnny Sain, an old guy who missed. Ted Williams, still spry at 36, homered and singled twice while upping his average to .415.

Pittsburgh was the first 1955 shutout victim for the Cards' Harvey Haddix, who threw a four-hitter, fanning nine and walking two. Al Schoendienst and Bill Sarni backed him up with homers.

Galt May Leave Junior OHA Fold '3 Players, No Money, No Sponsors'

TORONTO (CP) — Galt Black Hawks all but dropped out of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League, 73 players were drafted and a 48-game season was approved Thursday at the annual meeting of the association's council.

Of the eight teams, only Galt failed to tender a cheque when bonds were called for the 1955-56 season.

"We have three players, no money, no backers, no sponsors and no bond," Jack Patrick said at the meeting.

The Hawks, co-sponsored by Boston Bruins and Chicago Back Hawks of the National Hockey League last season, lost Boston to Barrie Flyers some time ago and just last week had Chicago withdraw support.

CAN SELL PLAYERS

They were given until July 31 to declare themselves in or out. If it's out, they can sell their three players—Gus Ronson, Myron Stankewicz and Pete Pilois—to the highest bidders.

The council also approved Sunday playoff hockey for Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens. There were the usual bitter arguments over the draft.

Montreal Canadiens' Sammy Pollock, as a Kitchener representative, heard Staff Smythe of Toronto Marlboros, backed by Barrie's Hap Emms, charge that Canadiens are "trying to wreck the OHA draft" by using the drafted players as trade bait" with other clubs.

MOST ACTIVE

Rudy Pilous of St. Catharines was the most active draftsman, picking up 21 players. If Galt doesn't operate he will get two other players. The Hawks drew four players in the grab-bag, but a second choice was made in each case in the event Hawks fail to enter this season.

Of the 73 players, most were claimed in the priority draft in which junior teams protected sponsored outfits. Eighteen players were claimed by more than two teams and St. Catharines was involved in the draws for 16 of them. The TeePees won nine of the draws and were second twice behind Galt.

Guelph Biltmores were awarded 12 claims, Hamilton Tiger-Cubs 10, Kitchener and Barrie eight each, Toronto St. Michael's and Galt four apiece and Porcupine Combines two. Marlboros drafted four men.

There will be further dickering over five of the players involved.

Montreal Canadiens grabbed Don Johns of Paris junior Bees and Val Armstrong of Peterborough Midgets for their Quebec teams. The OHA entrants are forbidden to touch them until the draft period expires.

They did the same thing last year and this bothered Emms and Smythe. Last season Galt drafted a boy from Rouyn, Que., and scout Bob Wilson made a 1,100-mile return car trip for nothing after he discovered that Canadiens had signed the boy previously.

JOCKEY SUSPENDED

TORONTO (CP) — Vic Bovine, leading jockey at Woodbine racetrack with 19 victories so far in the spring meet, Thursday was set down for five days for cutting in during a race.

Redskins' Gilmer Goes to Lions

WASHINGTON (AP—The Washington Redskins Thursday traded Harry Gilmer, former University of Alabama great, to Detroit Lions. Gilmer is expected to be used as a substitute for Bobby Layne at quarterback for the Lions.

Detroit became interested in Gilmer after their No. 2 quarterback, Tom Dublinski, jumped the club to go to Canada.

Aussie Ousts American Star

LONDON (AP) — Mervyn Rose assured an all-Australian finish in the London grass courts tennis championships Thursday by eliminating the last American contender, Hamilton Richardson.

Rose won with surprising ease from the Baton Rouge, La., Rhodes scholar who is a member of the U.S. Davis Cup squad. The scores were 6-1, 8-6, and Rose's fine performance started spectators wondering if he might not upset calculations in the world's premier tennis tournament.

The London tourney is the last important warmup before Wimbledon begins next Monday.

Joining Rose in the semi-finals were three other Australians, all members of the official team—defending London champion Lew Hoad, Ken Rosewall and Rex Hartwig.

Jets Blast Syracuse 7-3

Forrest (Spoke) Jacobs, Columbus infielder, is sitting comfortably on top of the International League today with a .353 batting average.

Since being sent down from the parent Kansas City Athletics in May, second baseman Jacobs has made himself right at home in the lead-off spot for Columbus. Along with rightfielder Bill Stewart, who is moving at a .300 clip, he has provided most of the punch in the Jet line-up.

It was Jacobs, Frank Verdi, Dick Kryhoski and Stewart who set off the first of two big innings for the Jets Thursday night as they downed the Syracuse Chiefs 7-3.

All the other clubs had an open date.

Yankees May Face Serious Trouble Starting Pitchers Not Doing Well

By GAYL ETALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Seven American League clubs have just finished golfing. New York Yankees that the candy counter is closed. This will not prove in the end to have been the most important item of business in the current baseball season.

If Yankee general manager George Weiss had succeeded in extracting a top pitcher from one of his rivals, such as Ned Garver of the Detroit Tigers, the present league leaders would probably have [illegible] Casey Stengel his sixth flag in seven tries without too much trouble. Now Casey is going to have to fight for it.

As the trading deadline neared it was pretty much taken for granted around here that Weiss would come up with the added pitcher Stengel has been howling for all spring. Several times he was reported to have had Garver in the sack, but the Tiger righty must have struggled out.

"What those guys want to do," growled Bucky Harris, the Detroit boss, "is trade you a toothpick for a pile of lumber."

Weiss was willing to deal Eddie Robinson, a spare firstbaseman, even up for Garver, who is making a terrific comeback this season. Weiss refused to throw in second-baseman Gil McDougald, who would have rounded out the Tiger infield.

Those close to the situation got the impression that Stengel wanted to give the Tigers what they asked for Garver or hand Washington Senators almost anything for Bob Porterfield. But Weiss clung to the hope of landing a winner without weakening the powerful Yankee bench, and lost out.

For once the other American League clubs presented a solid front and refused to be suckered into another such deal as Baltimore fell for during the winter. We have no proof, but only a very strong suspicion, that they acted in concert, since Frank Lane of Chicago White Sox has been crying for a moratorium on one-sided swaps with Weiss.

The Yanks may be facing serious trouble before long. Stengel's starters have not been finishing. Between them, relievers Jim Konstanty and Tom Morgan have appeared in approximately two-thirds of the Yankee games.

The Yanks would be in bad shape now without pitcher Bob Turley and shortstop Billy Hunter, burgled from Baltimore. Their rivals appear to be catching on.

CAMPBELLFORD

'Professional Hockey' Topic At Rotary Club

CAMPBELLFORD — "Professional Hockey" was the topic of a talk given at the regular meeting of the Campbellford Rotary Club on Monday, when they had as guest, Harold Cotton, Chief Scout and Canadian Director of the Boston Bruin Hockey Club.

"Professional hockey to-day is an honorable profession affording the young man a good income and an adequate pension plan," Mr. Cotton said. It is a big business, much more so to-day than ever before. As an example, he told of how Conn Smythe and his associates purchased the Toronto St. Pats for $150,000, and in the early '30's undertook what appeared rather a wild venture at the time — the building of the Maple Leaf Gardens.

STOCK WORTH $100 SHARE

Times were so uncertain then that a necessary condition of employment was that part of one's wages went to purchase stock in the gardens. Preferred stock paid no dividends and several mortgages were placed by the company before they finally got on their feet. The common stock sold for 50 cents at its low point, and a few years later for $100 a share. To-day the Gardens and its franchise, are worth about four million dollars. Players have also become more valuable. Recently a $200,000 deal involving nine players between Detroit and Boston was made in Montreal.

PLAYER DEVELOPMENT COSTLY

One of the big items of expense laid out annually by the N. H. L. clubs is player development. Some clubs spend $100,000 a year on this item alone, which included a scouting system, training camps and sponsored teams. Usually an NHL club has as many as five or six sponsored teams amounting in player strength to close to 150 players. These, too, have training camps and instruction. Scouts to-day have to be on their toes as they seldom get a second chance to look over a prospective player because of the great demand for talent and the resultant keen competition.

CHANGE MINOR HOCKEY RULES

The speaker favored the change in rules for minor hockey players, claiming it will make minor hockey more interesting. As to the rules of former years, he said the forward pass is essential as speed is the prime necessity of a player to-day. He ventured the opinion that those who are accustomed to to-day's rules would find no interest in the game as it was played before the forward pass. Scores were small and action much slower. Players to-day are better equipped and faster than they were years ago.

THREE TALENTS NEEDED

In looking for talent, Mr. Cotton said he looked for the 'three S's', speed, size and spirit, in a prospective hockey player.

Television to-day is a competitor of hockey, not because of the games being televised, but because of other programs enticing people to stay home in the evenings. Hockey is, however, coming into its own again, and crowds are on the increase.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Paul O'Sullivan and thanked by Wib. Kingston.

Moore Battles With Scales

SUMMIT, N. J. (AP)—Without his goatee and his rubber sweat suit, Archie Moore looked positively thin as he battled with the scales to make the 175-pound light heavy limit by Wednesday, when he meets middleweight champ Carl (Bobo) Olson.

Moore's weight is restricted information. Even a conference with commission chairman Julius Helfand failed to produce the mystic numbers.

If Moore wins "convincingly" he will have the full backing of the New York boxing commission in his bid for a September shot at heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano.

Helfand assured Moore he would use the "prestige and influence" of the commission to get him the Marciano fight if he comes through against Olson.

Sam Snead's Golf School

2. Power, unless under absolute control doesn't pay off. Play every shot for placement. Pick out the spot on fairway or green, where you want your ball to come to rest. Then play a little private game with yourself to see how near you can come to placing the ball where you want it. You'll be surprised how quickly you acquire control. Never sacrifice accuracy to power in golf. The best shots with wood have a faint hook at the far end of the flight. This is due to the slight spin given the ball when you hit it, as you should from slightly inside-out across the direction line. A ball so hit also receives just a bit of counter - clockwise spin. And so at the far end of its flight the spin causes the ball to hook gently and roll perhaps ten controlled yards farther than it would have gone without such spin. And that yardage can make a real difference in your score.

Tommy Bolt Paces Field In Big Tourney

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It's true what they've been saying about the golf course where the best golfers in the land are playing in the national Open tournament.

They've been saying that the lake course of the Olympic Country Club, scene of the annual classic, is tough. And only Tommy Bolt, with a sparkling three-under-par 67, found it otherwise Thursday as the field of 162 took off on the 72-hole route.

Bolt, swinging a putter so hot he used it only once on 12 of the tricky greens, took a three-stroke advantage into today's second round of play over the 6,700-yard par 35-35—70 layout.

In the runnerup slot was Walker Inman, Jr., little-known Augusta, Ga., pro, with an even par 70. Third, another stroke off the pace, was Jack Burke of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., and fourth, with a two-over-par 72, came four-time titlist Ben Hogan.

CANADIANS LAG

The course took its toll of the three Canadian entries. Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver and Rudy Horvath of Windsor, Ont., shot identical rounds of 39-38—77 and Jerry Kesselring of Kitchener, Ont., had a 39-40—79.

It was the rough the boys complained about in practice and which the U.S. Golf Assn. ordered trimmed. But it still was the rough, narrowing the fairways and putting a premium on accurate drives—which was tripping them up Thursday. Billy Maxwell, Odessa, Tex., pro who carded a 77, put it into words neatly.

"Man," he said coming off the 18th green, "if we had that kind of grass down in Texas we'd bale it up and sell it."

The soaring scores were topped with a bulging 96 fired by, of all persons, home pro Johnny Batini.

Lacrosse Goalie Knocked Out Twice in Game

HAMILTON (CP)—In a rough game that saw goalie Justin Howe twiced knocked unconscious, St. Catharines Athletics on Thursday night defeated Hamilton Linclons 18-11 in a Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior League game.

The St. Catharines goalie was knocked out by a blow on his mask during the first period but returned in the second period only to be knocked out again by a similar blow.

Ted Howe and Barney Welch were also knocked out during the game and Al Frick suffered a cut over the eye. However, only five penalties were given, three to St. Catharines.

Frick, Doug Smith and Skip Teal each scored three for St. Catharines. Norm Corcoran, Welch and Les Howard tallied two each. Fred Martin, Bill Allan and Mick O'Hearn got the others.

Jack Kapasky was high scorer for Hamilton with three goals, while Jack Dorney, Don Barregher and Steve Kapasky scored two goals each. Singles were notched by Jim McNeil and Al Ruse.

Marlene Shoots 77 But Still Back in Ruck

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (CP—Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont., shot a 77 Thursday, her best round so far, but remained far behind with a score of minus 8 in the $8,700 round robin tournament with one round remaining.

Defending champion Patty Berg shot her second 72 par in three rounds to increase her leading score to plus 47 in the tournament, in which contestants' scores are measured against those of other members of their foursome to reach the plus or minus figures.

Miss Stewart, one of two amateurs in the field of 16, had a medal score of 238 for the three rounds and stood 13th. She had an 82 and a 79 for the first two rounds.

In second place behind Miss Berg's 219 and plus 47 was Louise Suggs with plus 29 for a score of 224.

Rome Named Olympics Site

PARIS (AP—Rome was picked Thursday as the site for the 1960 summer Olympic Games after the International Olympic Committee turned a deaf ear to Detroit's offer to pay transportation of athletes to that city.

Rome won in a straight test of power with Lausanne, Switzerland, on the third and final ballot. Unofficial reports said the Italians won out, 35 to 24.

Rome had been favored for months, but Lausanne's strength swelled during the last few days. The 1956 summer games will be held in Melbourne, Australia, and Olympic custom practically dictated a return to Europe.

Foxy Fox Gobbles Ball

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. —The quick brown fox ran out of the woods and gobbled up a golf ball. Nobody came to the aid of the party.

It happened Thursday in the Seigniory Club's 24th annual invitation tournament. Mrs. H. H. Murray of Toronto Mississauga had driven her ball down the 16th fairway. Out ran a baby fox. It picked up the ball and scooted off.

Nobel, Pulitzer Prize Winner Likes Writing For Movies

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The movie-writing career of William Faulkner was disclosed today in a rare interview with the Nobel and Pulitzer Prize winner.

Writing for the movies is a little-known aspect of the career of the noted author, yet he has been working off and on in the Hollywood mills for more than 25 years. He talked about this and other matters via telephone from Memphis, Tenn., where he was attending a preview of "Land of the Pharaohs." He was one of the writers of the screen play.

Faulkner said he enjoyed writing films for his long-time friend, producer-director Howard Hawks. Besides "Pharaohs," he has helped Hawks on the scripts of a couple of early Bogart-Bacall items, "To Have and Have Not" and "The Big Sleep."

NOT HIS RACKET

"We first met when I was out here in 1930 at MGM," Faulkner said. "I was working for Irving Thalberg on a short story of mine, 'Turnabout.' It was released as 'Today We Live' with Gary Cooper, Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone.

"I like working for Hawks. Writing for pictures is not exactly my racket, but I get along with him. We usually go over a scene and he says, 'This is the way to get the meat out of a scene.' Then I go and write it.

"When I show it to him, we might argue a bit until we get it right. No, I don't work with any other writers. Hawks will combine the efforts of myself and others to get what he wants."

GOOD MEDIUM

Are films a writer's medium?

"Anything that tells a story is a writer's medium. Some stories are told best in movies, some in short stories, novels or plays. You have to pick whatever medium is most suitable."

Faulkner said he writes films in longhand, as he does his novels—"I'm not much of a typewriter man." After his writing is transcribed, he may let it stand.

"Or I may work on it for nine years, as I did with 'The Fable..'" he said. He referred to his most recent novel, which won the Pulitzer Prize last month.

HAS NO FAVORITES

The author said he is a sporadic movie-goer. "I go when I know what is playing," he remarked. "I have no special favorites in kinds of pictures. Some subjects give you a better picture image from the word, some from the sight."

He said that he is spending a lot of time at his Mississippi home reading. Not the current books, although he did read "The Old Man and the Sea" and thought it Ernest Hemingway's greatest work.

"When you reach my age (57), you return to the books you enjoyed as a younger man," he declared. "I have been reading some of the things I was impressed with when I was learning my craft. I just finished 'Don Quixote' for about the 40th time, and I've been reading a lot of Dickens."

AT THE CAPITOL — "Jungle Moon Men," Johnny Weissmuller's new thrill-adventure at the Capitol Theatre today and Saturday, features Jean Byron, Helene Stanton, Bill Henry and Kimba, the educated chimp. On the same program, color by Technicolor, "Seminole Uprising," starring George Montgomery and Karin Booth. The two attractions are first city showings. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00.

AT THE McCARTHY

'WESTERNS' HAVE NEW AUDIENCE, SAYS STAR

Mara Corday, who stars with Lex Barker and Stephen McNally in Universal-International's color outdoor adventure, "The Man From Bitter Ridge", currently at the McCarthy Theatre, believes that movie studios must have discovered during the past decade that grownups as well as children like Western pictures.

The film beauty bases her opinion on the obvious fact that during this decade women's roles in Westerns have become increasingly important and now often include a genuine romance between hero and heroine—a good, clean romance, of course.

Although she is only 22, Mara remembers well when the first love of any Western hero was always his horse, and it seemed to be the opinion of Hollywood that real romantic scenes between the hero and his girl would alienate the audiences composed, theoretically, only of small boys.

All that has changed now, says Mara. Writers of Westerns no longer fear to put genuine romances in their stories, and there is even an increasing tendency to have feminine characters endowed with strong wills and forthright personalities and to make them active instead of passive participants in the stirring events of which plots are compounded.

All of this makes Mara very happy, because in "The Man From Bitter Ridge", her first Western and her first starring role, she's a vigorous and determined character who not only takes care of herself but actually saves the hero's life with a little straight shooting.

Nellie Fox Leads Sox Against Yanks

BALTIMORE (AP — The Chicago White Sox marched into New York today to challenge the Yankees for the American League lead with their drum major, Nellie Fox, swinging a fearsome baton for his side.

The second baseman, not much taller than two bats, left the Baltimore Orioles laid low with 11 hits in 16 times up after four games Thursday night.

It ran his base hitting streak to 12 games during which he averaged .541 and put him up among the big boys with an overall mark of .347.

Little Nellie drove the Orioles crazy trying to defend against him. He'd bunt and beat it out, loop one just over the infield and they'd play him tight. So he would belt it over their heads for an extra base.

If the infield shifted the slightest bit, he drove it through the hole. To top it all, he clouted two into the stands to give him five homers this season. In his six previous major league seasons, he had only nine home runs all told.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, June 18, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Stimulating vibrations to assist you along your way. We hope you are in tip-top shape to forge ahead and take advantage of available opportunities. Romance, family, social affairs favored.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — This day's influences are friendly for most well managed undertakings. An opportune time to make substantial gains, contacts for the future. Be amenable.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — You will find plenty of opportunity to promote, make contacts, put over worthwhile ideas. The stars favor all things within reason, but don't rush or waste time on foolishness.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — An excellent period for those of creative mind who will sacrifice some personal wishes for all-over progress. Many things that happened in the past could well be good directives for today.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Today's planetary influences are better than you might suppose. Cooperate with those "in the know." Go out of your way to promote harmony. Complete what you start where possible.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Be an exponent of your own new ideas, but respect those of others, too. Emphasize your ingenuity, and show what you really can do. Heart interests and domestic affairs favored.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — New trys are in order. But don't rush or become pessimistic.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Your planetary influences similar to Cancer's. But you will have to stress self - restraint. Care urged in all matters concerning family and home, in personal affairs. Take time to think things out.

November 23 to December 22— (Sagittarius) — It may not be easy to start this day with your usual pep. But keep pushing and you'll achieve high goals. Be optimistic; look things straight in the eye — your usual way.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — A day where some uncertain x uncertainties, suspense may build up to the snapping point if you are not alert and remain calm. Absorb, analyze, then come back, hitting hard and intelligently; you will succeed.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — You may have to "take it" — with reservations — in the early hours. Avoid a tense or taut attitude, however; relax and do some thorough thinking. Things could be rugged but obstacles can be overcome.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — One of those fascinating enjoyable days for smart, thoroughly awake folk. Use persuasive methods, outguess the opposition and you will finish up a winner.

You born today: The Sun in Gemini indicates a sensitive, imaginative individual. At times you are at loggerheads with yourself, usually because of your dual personality. High-strung some days, you must control your feelings or you'll find yourself constantly involved in trouble. Don't waste your energy; give thought to each move first. Avoid a tendency to "get by" on superficial knowledge. Develop your talents, there are many avenues to choose from whence you can attain success. Good indications in months ahead. Birthdate of: Robert Stewart, Marquis of Londonderry.

West's Big Three Turn to Study Of German Problems

By A. I. GOLDBERG

NEW YORK (AP)—The Western Big Three, preparing for high-level talks with Russia in a hope that Soviet peace moves may be sincere, turned today to Germany's problems.

The three foreign ministers were to take up questions involving their new ally and wartime opponent after a morning session on procedures for the Big Four talks which begin Monday in San Francisco and culminate in the "summit" meeting at Geneva July 18.

West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer came to New York to join State Secretary Dulles, Foreign Secretary MacMillan, and Foreign Minister Pinay.

The conferees were silent beforehand on whether the group would approve the date for Adenauer to go to Moscow on a Soviet invitation. Adenauer has made it clear that the date must follow the Geneva conference.

GERMAN OBSERVERS

President Eisenhower is to meet there with Prime Minister Eden, Premier Faure and Premier Bulganin. West Germany will have a team of observers there.

The duration of the Geneva conference is still to be decided. The West's original invitation suggested a four-day meeting, but Eisenhower has indicated he would stay longer should the discussions prove fruitful.

Macmillan said before the talks began here that a short summit conference in Geneva would only provide a start on what he said he hoped would be a new phase in diplomacy. He hoped negotiations would continue.

The British foreign secretary reiterated that in a speech to the Pilgrims Club of the United States here Thursday night.

"The Russians will always find us ready to take account of their legitimate requirements and to give them the security which is their due," he said. "But we are equally determined to secure satisfactory and that production on one small paper-making machine had restarted.

More than 200 workers Thursday reported to the plant to quit work and draw their pay. At the same time Mayor Gaston Hardy offered his services as mediator in the dispute.

Union officers said the mayor would be acceptable as a mediator, but reiterated their stand that the workers will not go back until a new contract has been negotiated.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

The boys who will participate in the World Jamboree are now working hard.

Belleville will have every reason to be proud of their group when they take part in the show at the Arena on Thursday, August 25th and the March Past at the C.N.E. on Friday, August 26th, which has been named by the C.N.E. International Boy Scout Day. D. S. M. Ken Moore had them out at the Fair grounds trying them on traffic control. There were sixteen cars driven by private citizens used in the test and the D. S. M. stated that every boy passed. He would like to thank the car owners for their generous support of this scheme.

On Friday evening there was a meeting of all the Jamboree Scouts from Belleville, R.C.A. Picton, Wellington, Bloomfield, Bancroft, Madoc and Stirling, under S. M. John Rankin of Madoc, assisted by Willis Jackson and Bernard Fox.

Parents and friends wishing to write to boys at the Jamboree will address letters to:

World Jamboree,
Sub Camp St. Lawrence,
Troop No. 5,
Niagara-on-the-Lake.

Cubmaster Lillian Ashley has been assigned to Training Post and Ass't. Cubmaster Betty Smith to canteen duties. Both these ladies will be at the Jamboree for the entire period.

Ron Lane, J. Couture, J. Ellard, W. Sweet, P. J. Callory and Edna Lalonde have offered their services for part time.

Scouts Fred Furmidge and John Plumpton of Corbyville have qualified for their First All-round Cord.

Swimming at the Y.M.C.A. will continue through June, breaking off for July and August and will start again September 10th.

KILLED BY ELEPHANTS

HAGOYA, Japan (AP)—Visitors watched in horror at the Nagoya zoo today as two female elephants knocked down a 23-year-old attendant with their trunks and then trampled him to death.

Strikers Resign Jobs to Avoid Legal Action

SHAWINIGAN FALLS, Que. (CP)—A walkout at the Belgo paper mill of the Consolidated Paper Company took a new turn today when spokesmen for the 800 workers said the employees have decided to quit their jobs so that they will not be open to legal proceedings.

In a letter to Quebec Labor Minister Barrette made public early today, Gerard Picard, president of th. Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor, said the workers have elected to resign to avoid any question of an illegal work stoppage under Quebec labor laws.

Announcement of the move came eight days after the start of the walkout and followed a statement by the company that some workers had returned to work Wednes-

Under Army's Eye Argentine Folk Return To Work

360 Killed, 1,000 Wounded In Brief, Bloody Revolt

By FRED L. STROZIER

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Armed troops patrolled downtown Buenos Aires today as stores shuttered by South America's bloodiest revolt in many years cautiously started to open again for business.

President Peron set up his headquarters in the army ministry, surrounded by military chiefs whose forces put down Argentina's naval-air uprising Thursday.

Millions of Argentine workers went back to their jobs after a 24-hour general strike called in mourning for the 360 persons killed and nearly 1,000 wounded in the short but violent action.

Appealing for calm, Peron said in a broadcast Friday night that the revolt had been put down and that peace prevailed throughout the country.

NAVY IN REVOLT

(A radio station claiming to be a clandestine rebel transmitter, heard in Montevideo, Uruguay, reported widespread areas of continued resistance, however. It said naval forces at Puerto Belgrano, in southern Buenos Aires province, had risen against the government and that two warships had put into that base under orders of Rear-Admiral Anibal O. Olivieri. This officer was replaced Friday as Peron's navy minister.

(The newspaper La Manana in the Uruguayan capital also received "a confirmed report" that most of the warships of the Argentine navy had joined the revolt. It said the vessels were on the high seas, but their exact whereabouts were unknown. The Argentine navy includes two old battleships, five cruisers, one coastal defence vessel, 11 sea-going destroyers and various smaller ships.)

The Peron government is ruling under a state of siege—a modified form of martial law—which gives authorities the right to make on-the-spot decisions to curb trouble-makers. Congress quickly approved the declaration of a state of siege Friday at the president's request.

In a communique issued early today, the army ministry said the "army high command has progressively taken over control of the internal order throughout the country" under orders from Peron.

It said army units have been instructed to forbid "gatherings of more than two persons, especially in the neighborhood of government offices and industrial plants."

49 Crew Members Of Queen Mary Facing Charges

SOUTHAMPTON, England (CP) Police today served court summonses on 49 members of the crew of the strikebound liner Queen Mary, alleging that as seamen they "willfully disobeyed a lawful command to board the ship."

The summonses were granted to the Cunard Line, operators of the Queen Mary and five other liners tied up by the 19-day-old wildcat strike. Two other companies have a total of three more ships tied up in the wildcat strike over wages and working conditions.

The ranks of the striking seamen were broken today when those liable for military service began showing up for work rather than face the prospect of being drafted into the armed forces.

Britain's conscription laws exempt merchant seamen, but those under 26 can be called up if they are without a ship for 14 days.

The Shipping Federation in Liverpool has sent out notices informing the strikers that they now are considered to have left the sea and are regarded as unemployed.

ASK FOR MEETING

Meanwhile the seamen revealed that they have asked their union, the National Union of Seamen, to talk over with them the prospects of a get-together with ship owners and a ministry of labor conciliation officer.

Such talks, it is believed, could be the break in the strike and lead to negotiations ending it.

The wildcat strike is proving an airlines bonanza. Regular flights to Canada are full up. German, Dutch and Swedish lines are being asked to supply spare planes to handle the stranded travellers on chartered flights.

Pre-Dawn Fire Kills Eighteen Jap Patients

TOKYO (AP)—A pre-dawn fire in a mental hospital at Ichikawa today killed 18 male Japanese patients who had been locked in their wards for the night.

Police said the fire was caused by a short circuit. Within minutes it raced through four wings of the rambling wooden structure, 30 miles east of Tokyo. The 18 victims were trapped in one corner.

"It was terrible," said a nurse. "They were screaming and crying and beating on the walls and we couldn't get to them."

A total of 138 patients were in the hospital when the fire broke out. Those evacuated milled about in confusion until they were removed to nearby hospitals or returned to rooms in the undamaged portion of the burned hospital.

Today's Chuckle

A Texan was trying to impress upon a Bostonian the valor of the heroes of the Alamo. "I bet you never had anybody so brave around Boston," he said.

"Did you ever hear of Paul Revere?" asked the Bostonian.

"Paul Revere?" said the Texan. "Isn't that the guy who ran for help?"

THE WEATHER

CHARGE OF RAPE LAID AGAINST HULL YOUTH

Police Claim Mock Wedding Performed

HULL, Que. (CP) — Jean-Guy Lacroix was scheduled to appear in court here today on a charge of rape in connection with a mock wedding ceremony performed in front of phony television cameras.

Lacroix, 18-year-old baby-faced youth, was arrested Friday at his Hull home where he lives with an aunt. Hull detectives Georges Dompierre and Jacques Charron, two six-foot officers, said the five-foot-six-inch youth offered no resistance.

NO FILM IN CAMERA

His arrest came two days after legal authorities told this story:

A young man from Hull passed himself off as a television producer to a 17-year-old Ottawa girl and an unwitting Roman Catholic priest in a nearby community.

He convinced the girl to "star" with him in a fake television film and talked the priest into providing his church for a wedding ceremony. The priest performed part of the ceremony in front of cameras which, police said, apparently contained no film.

After the ceremony, the young man talked the girl into believing the "wedding" was valid and that they should live together. After a few days she became suspicious and left.

FAKE LAWYER SENT

An acquaintance of the young man, posing as a lawyer, apparently still as part of the TV film, advised the girl to return to her "husband."

But she later left him a second time. When another acquaintance of the young man threatened the girl with a fake court order to return or face desertion charges, the girl's father went to police.

Forest Fire Covers 600 Acres

HORNEPAYNE (CP) — A forest fire first reported Friday afternoon had covered about 600 acres by midnight near this Canadian National Railways divisional point.

The fire, about four miles from Hornepayne, was moving away from the town but at Becker townsite, preparations were being made for possible evacuation.

Becker is 12 miles from Hornepayne.

The Hornepayne area was the scene of a disastrous fire in 1948. A shift in the wind almost caused the fire to sweep into town.

Foot-Square Parcel Arrives by Air Under Label 'Human Heart, no Value'

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — A brown, foot-square parcel, delivered by air express to the Royal Victoria Hospital, bore this notation:

"Human heart. No value."

The parcel was from the Veterans Administration Hospital in Newington, Conn. Inside was the heart of Charlie Adams.

The story of Charlie Adams and the heart he bequeathed to science is a remarkable drama in life and death.

Charlie was in a virtually hopeless state when he underwent at the Royal Victoria a specialized type of heart operation for angina pectoris. His death 18 months later was not from his heart condition but from unsuspected cancer of the pancreas.

The operation successfully performed is known as the internal mammary artery implant, originated, pioneered and developed by Dr. Arthur Vineberg. He is the surgeon member of the Royal Victoria's medico-cardiological team whose success with this revolutionary attack on coronary artery disease was told by The Canadian Press in a series of articles 18 months ago.

Permission to tell the story of Charlie Adams, who died last month, has been given The Canadian Press by authorities of the Royal Victoria, by Dr. Vineberg and by the Adams family.

Charlie was an aircraft worker at Hartford, Conn. He was 60 years old when he finally became completely disabled from angina pectoris.

In November, 1953, Dr. Vineberg detached the internal mammary artery — a large chest artery which normally carries blood to the chest muscles — and transplanted it into Charlie Adams' heart to bypass diseased coronary arteries.

Charlie returned to work at the aircraft plant in May, 1954, on an eight-hour night shift. He could walk a couple of miles.

Charlie travelled about Connecticut speaking at heart fund campaigns. Always Charlie carried in his pocket his written wish that if anything happened to him he wanted his heart sent to Dr. Vineberg.

This spring Charlie became ill and he died a few weeks ago. His heart reached the Royal Victoria May 25.

Since then Charlie Adams' heart has undergone minute examination and study. The finding: The transplanted internal mammary artery not only was freely open 18 months after the implant but had sent out branches into the heart muscle and had done the job expected of it.

Commons Controversy Boiling Around Retirement of Simonds

OTTAWA (CP)—Ten days have passed since the government announced the retirement next Aug. 31 of Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds but controversy still boils around the 52-year-old chief of army staff.

It was stirred anew in the Commons Friday by a veteran of the First World War who was severely wounded at the Battle of the Somme. H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) criticized the general's past record.

But, in an opposite vein, George Hees (PC — Toronto Broadview) lauded the outgoing chief's work and said it would be wasteful to dispose of Gen. Simonds' abilities now.

Mr. Herridge was an infantry captain during the First World War while Mr. Hees was brigade major in the 5th Infantry Brigade overseas during the Second World War.

Mr. Herridge, apparently indicating his party is not sorry to see Gen. Simonds go, devoted most of his speech to a criticism of the Regiment of Canadian Guards which he described as useless. Establishment of the regiment, an obsolete army organization and consummation of a small - bore arms agreement which would cost taxpayers $100,000,000 were Gen. Simonds' three accomplishments, he said.

The CCF member's attack on Gen. Simonds was protested by Defence Minister Campney, Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, Progressive Conservative military critic, and John Blackmore (SC—Lethbridge).

Mr. Campney served with the Royal Flying Corps in the First World War and Gen. Pearkes is a veteran of the First World War and was general officer commanding on the Pacific coast during the Second World War.

Mr. Campney, describing Mr. Herridge's remarks as a "violent and unfair attack," demanded an apology. Mr. Herridge did not reply.

Gen. Pearkes accused Mr. Herridge of casting a slur on the traditions of the British Brigade of Guards and Canadian Guards regiments.

Mr. Hees started the debate by saying it is inexcusable waste to "discharge" a man of Gen. Simonds' ability at the age of 52. The government was casting him aside because he refused to be a politician's general and a rubber stamp for government policies he opposed.

"To consider that . . . Gen. Simonds is ineffective at an age 21 years younger than the present prime minister is, I suggest, somewhat ridiculous . . . The prime minister still is pretty effective."

Mr. Herridge said the Regiment of Canadian Guards was set up by Gen. Simonds to "glorify and glamorize the plain foot-slogging infantry." Defence department advertisements said it was second to none on the parade square.

The country could not afford a goose - stepping regiment whose main purpose was colorful dress and ceremonial activities. The government should leave this glamor to Hollywood.

The regiment, he said, is a "receding ground of class distinction, a military class system and snobbery."

He called for the disbanding of the regiment and utilization of its members along other lines.

Gen. Pearkes said Mr. Herridge's charges are "entirely unwarranted." Gen. Simonds wasn't responsible for creating the Brigade of Guards. The government had formed it.

Reporter Takes Noon Walk, Finds He Is on Battlefield

(This eyewitness account of the bloodiest revolution in Argentina's recent history was received from Sam Summerlin of The Associated Press after normal communications from Argentina were resumed.)

By SAM SUMMERLIN

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—I was strolling through the noonday crowds past Metropolitan cathedral when it happened.

A plane suddenly zoomed out of the overcast and an explosion ripped the air with the suddenness of a thunderclap.

I ran up the street behind the cathedral toward the quaint-looking, pink Government House. At the corner, crowds crouched against the walls as trucks whipped by loaded with men in khaki.

The trucks screeched to a halt behind Government House and troops scampered out, rifles raised. They raced four abreast down the avenue toward us, and some of the crowd retreated around the corner to keep out of range.

Gunfire crackled, and a man nearby fell to the pavement.

Troops dashed across the wide-open boulevard and into the side entrance of Government House, as black smoke spiralled up from nearby explosions.

For nearly two hours the gun battle raged.

Civilians scampering across the streets were caught in the crossfire.

One elderly man waving a white handkerchief walked across the open street to the Plaza de Mayo. Bullets spattered on the pavement, but he was untouched.

Two other men scurried out of a bank. Both fell.

Scores of civilians shouting "Peron, Peron," crowded around Government House, many hugging close to the walls and behind the columns.

Shortly after 2 p. m. two tanks rolled up through the plaza, their machine-guns chattering.

They were greeted with cheers as crowds of Peronista workers swarmed towards the opposing forces. Some civilians had rifles, but most of them were unarmed.

The forces converged on the glass-fronted navy headquarters three blocks away. Victory seemed in the government's hands.

Then, out of the sky roared rebel planes in a second raid on Government House. Bombs splintered death and destruction. Smoke enveloped the scene like a black fog.

This was the terrifying moment when most of the victims died. Panic again seized those who had just been tasting victory.

Police swarmed in, chasing crowds out of the plaza and up the side streets. Bodies were strewn about the square as ambulance sirens wailed.

The panic passed when the planes vanished. Soon afterwards navy headquarters surrendered.

Later the curious came out of their hiding places and stared at the bomb craters and the debris. A few crowds milled around Government House the attacking planes swooped in for one last run.

The crowds scurried for cover under army trucks and fallen trees. Machine-gun bullets cut tracks in the pavement, then the roar of the planes disappeared, and the people got up again. The battle was finally over.

Five Who Chose To Stay in China Now Return Home

TOKYO (AP) — Red China today said it was sending home three American nuns and two Belgians who chose to remain in Red China after the Korean War.

A Peiping radio broadcast said 16 others who refused repatriation may go home, too, any time they choose — and hinted strongly that they're homesick.

There was no mention of 11 American fliers held by the Peiping government who were captured late in the war when a B-29 bomber was shot down. Four Sabre jet pilots, also captured late in the war, were released recently at Hong Kong and have reached home.

Officers Suspended

PICKERING (CP) — Pickering township police commission Friday suspended two police officers accused of beating up their chief.

Constables Roy Morden and Grant Thompson were suspended at a commission meeting called earlier Friday after they were remanded for a week on $2,000 bail.

They were charged with assault occasioning bodily harm on chief constable Lester Hill who was treated for a broken nose and face bruises.

AIRBORNE ARMY WOULD BE TOO COSTLY—CAMPNEY

Possibility of Enemy Landings Decreasing

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Drew has said Canada's army should be geared to meet the possibility of enemy landings in this country but Defence Minister Campney says the possibility is decreasing as nuclear power grows.

Mr. Drew pressed in the Commons Friday, for the second successive day, that the entire army be made airborne and drastically reorganized into small, hard-hitting units.

There is no doubt, he said, that any Russian attack plan would include attempts to capture aluminum centres like British Columbia's Kitimat, Quebec's Shipshaw, the Labrador iron mines and northern power plants.

FEELS ADEQUATE

Mr. Campney replied the government feels Canada's present three airborne battalions — the army's mobile striking force—are adequate for that type of fighting should it arise.

The govezrnment and its military advisers felt "that having regard to the long distances we are from our potential enemy and the fact that any men landed here would be far from any bases, the likelihood of physical invasion by persons in any number has probably decreased, whereas the power of the bomb . . . has increased."

The discussion arose on the second day of a general debate on introduction of defence department spending estimates of $1,775,000,000 for the 1955-56 fiscal year. The general debate ended Friday night and the House began detailed study of the various service branches.

TOO COSTLY

Mr. Campney said the Conservative proposal of a fully airborne army would be too costly. To move an entire 20,000-man division at one time would take $350,000,000 worth of 120-man transport planes.

Mr. Drew said the proposal does not envisage the present system of divisional organizations. There should be smaller units with greater hitting power, requiring a smaller army manpower.

"We repeat our request that our army shall not be trained merely as a segment of European Continental forces but that, having regard to the fact that the first demand of our training shall be the immediate defence of Canada, we should have a distinctly Canadian organization suitable to the needs of Canada . . . ."

Under questioning by Mr. Drew, Mr. Campney elaborated on a previous statement that Canada's 1st Divison is "under NATO primarily for the defence of Europe."

Mr. Drew said that seemed to be new policy—an expansion of this country's NATO army commitment of one brigade.

Mr. Campney said the commitment is only one brigade. But the 1st Division was set up with three brigades in accordance with the NATO commitment to provide rotation troops for the brigade in West Germany after its two-year tour of duty.

Roar of Plane Heard Over Station But Arctic Gloom Prevents Landing

EDMONTON (CP) — The roar of a rescue plane sent to pick up a stricken government employee was heard Friday over the far-north Isachsen weather station. But the Arctic gloom prevented the pilot from completing his mission.

The RCAF said the Dakota mercy plane will make another attempt today to come down at Isachsen, midway between the Arctic Circle and the North Pole, and pick up Edwin James Dashney of North Bay.

Flt. Lt. Al Richards of Cloverdale, B.C., the Dakota pilot, must come down on a crude landing strip marked on the ice of the Prince Gustav Adolph sea. The plane was sent from Edmonton Thursday after a radio message said Dashney was suffering severe abdominal pains.

Nursing Sister Edna Poirier of Fort Nelson, B.C., who talked with Dashney by radio from Resolute Bay, reported his condition somewhat improved. However, she said evacuation is necessary.

Richards said word from the weather station is that the ice he must use as a landing strip is rough from refreezing after melting but that a landing appeared possible granted good weather.

The Dakota left Whitehorse in the Yukon Thursday, landed at Fort Nelson, B.C., to pick up the nurse, then went on to Yellowknife, N.W.T., on Great Slave lake.

From Yellowknife, Richards flew 950 miles north to Resolute Bay. On the way, he had planned to stop at Cambridge Bay, N.W.T., but made the flight non - stop because of poor landing conditions.

From Isachsen, if a wheels landing can be carried out, the Dakota plans to fly 1,900 miles back to Edmonton.

Finance Company Manager Shot Accosting Bandits

One Man Tackled on Scene, Second Found in Brantford

TORONTO (CP) — Arrest of a second suspect today followed the streetside slaying of a loan company branch manager whose last words were a demand for the return of $180 grabbed in a holdup.

A youth identified by police as Keith Bayliss, 24, was arrested in a raid on a home in Brantford, and charged with murder. James North, 22, arrested earlier in Toronto, was booked on charges of murder and armed robbery.

Kenneth B. Jones, 29-year-old father of three, was shot down Friday on downtown Yonge street here after he caught up with two gunmen who were attempting to flee in a taxicab and told them to "hand over the money you took from our office."

DIED IN HOSPITAL

Jones dropped with a bullet wound in the head and died three hours later in St. Michael's Hospital.

Police said Bayliss, also known as Jack Leslie Burton and Charles Gray, was arrested after they staked out a South Brantford house. They said he was in bed when the arrest was made.

The two men who held up the Niagara Finance Company were getting into the taxi when Jones reached them. He was shot through the left eye.

One suspect was captured by an employee of Niagara Finance who brought him down with a flying tackle.

AT GUNPOINT

Police said two men walked into the Albert and Yonge branch office shortly after 3 p.m. and asked for a loan. Then, at gunpoint, cashier Cliifford Desormeau was ordered to empty a cash drawer; he told them he didn't know how to open the safe.

Worker Trapped With Broken Leg

DETROIT (AP)—Roy Carps was buried alive under six feet of clay for 2½ hours Friday with a broken leg and remained conscious throughout the ordeal.

The 32-year - old construction worker was trapped when the walls of a sewer trench in which he was working collapsed. But when the heavy clay tumbled in, Johnson's head was pushed against his left arm in such a way that he had breathing space. There were other air pockets between the clods of clay.

Carps said he lay there fully conscious and prayed the air would hold out. As the diggers neared him, Carps told them once: "You're hitting my head.'

Friday night Carps was in hospital with a compound fracture of his left leg.

Truck Driver Manhandled After Two Killed

TORONTO (CP) — A head-on collision between a loaded gravel truck and an automobile killed the two occupants of the car today in suburban North York township, police said.

Police identified the victims as Truman W. Eagleson, 58, of Toronto, and his 70-year-old sister Etta.

They said the truck driver was Alex Maleckyj, 29. He was unhurt.

Police said that, after the crash, Maleckyj was manhandled by two motorists who claimed he had cut them off so short a mile up the road that they were forced to ditch their cars. When the motorists saw the bodies of the accident victims, they grabbed the trucker but a third motorist who arrived on the scene freed him and kept him in his car until police arrived.

Investigators quoted Maleckyj as saying he pulled out to pass another car on Don Mills avenue and his truck smashed into the Eagleson car.

Seven Fatalities Reported Friday

TORONTO (CP) — Kenneth B. Jones, who was shot to death in a Toronto finance company holdup, was one of seven fatalities in Ontario Friday.

The body of John Thomas Gravelle, 67, was found in the St. Lawrence river at Cornwall after he was believed to have fallen into the water after suffering a seizure.

Five-year-old Michael Zaprova was struck by a car just outside Hamilton and died later of multiple head injuries.

As a result of an automobile accident last Wednesday, Mrs. Adeline Grealy, 73, of Toronto, died in an Ingersoll hospital.

Michael Zizanov, 23-year-old apprentice Hydro Commission lineman, was electrocuted while at work installing lights over a Chatham automobile lot.

An 11-year-old Indian boy was found dead by his parents on the Six Nations Indian reservation near Brantford. Sherwyn Staats had been playing a game when he became caught in the rope and died of strangulation.

A 16-year-old boy was killed when a tractor he was driving overturned in a ditch and pinned him beneath it. Douglas Gilfillan was killed at Auburn, near Goderich.

Market Vendors Pack Chicken In Ice Coolers

Local butcher stores with their refrigerated counters have nothing on vendors at the Belleville market who in recent weeks have been bringing chicken to market in ice cooled containers.

Gone are the neat rows of dressed chicken which formerly graced the tables on the inside market. Instead are the ice cooled containers bearing large printed signs indicating that "CHICKEN" is for sale.

The new motif is apparently all in accordance with sanitary regulations. Market vendors have been informed by an inspector that chicken must be transported from the farm and kept in iced containers while they are being offered on the market.

School Children To Be Instructed On Water Safety

The water safety committee of the Red Cross, Belleville branch, will endeavor to teach the city's public school children all the facts of safety near water during Water Safety Week beginning Monday.

Miss Beth Wilbur, chairman of the committee, will spend considerable time visiting the senior classes of all public schools with films and short talks, instructing her audiences how to enjoy the water without unnecessary dangers. Miss Wilbur is a former lifeguard at the Kinsmen swimming pool, which opens today.

Among other phases of the safety campaign will be a demonstration by the Belleville Fire Department of all its equipment at the pool on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. All schools have been forwarded safety pamphlets. A display of water safety posters, drawn by the children, will be shown in the McCarthy Theatre starting today. Miss Wilbur will be interviewed by Mrs. Jack Haig at 10.05 Monday morning over the local radio station in another effort to publicize the necessity of water safety.

The Red Cross will, as it has in the past several years, award safety badges to swimmers at the pool. Different badges and awards are available in junior, intermediate and senior divisions.

"In learning to swim well enough to win one of these awards, one takes a big step in reducing the hazards of water, which are always greater during these hot summer months," says Miss Wilbur.

Bowling News

Under ideal conditions the women's section of the Bowling Club held its weekly tournament on Thursday with a large number of members out to enjoy the afternoon. Mrs. H. Boyle, Mrs. L. Hermon with Mrs. Geo. Watkin as skip was high for the two games with Mrs. W. McKeen, Mrs. Gordon Vince and Mrs. J. O'Connor second and Mrs. A. Finkle, Mrs. Myrtle Smith, Mrs. Nora Kyle and Mrs. Charles Hyde third.

In the clubhouse a large number of tables were in play with Mrs. G. Lee, Mrs. William Coulby, Mrs. A. MacDougall, Mrs. Ken Yorke and Mrs. Countryman being the winners. At the conclusion of play Mrs. Grace Clapp, Mrs. Hazel Boyle, Mrs. Helen Buchanan and Mrs. Millie Smith were hostesses for the delightful tea that closed the afternoon's enjoyment.

In order that more people will become interested in bowling, the executive of the club have set aside Monday and Wednesday evening for "Open House" when non-members will be made most welcome. Arrangements have been made to have a number of the more experienced bowlers on hand and the visitors will be shown the rudiments of the pastime and group them so that a game can be played. It was the intention of the club to have three night but this was impossible due to the women's section having a tournament staged on Tuesday afternoon and evening.

It is lo be hoped that a large number will turn out at the greens on the two nights mentioned. There is no finer pastime than bowling. It is a sport where a great deal of exercise can be had, it is intricate enough to make it fascinating and the comradeship found in bowling is the highest in any sport.

The doubles tournament at the Kingston Bowling Club this Saturday afternoon has drawn a record entry of thirty-two pairs from the district. The Belleville club will be represented by four rinks which include, Austin and Gordon Watkin, Gordon Edwards and L. E. McLean, "Davey" Davison and Gordon Vince and Jack Johnston and Claude D. Tice. A beautiful trophy and excellent prizes are up for competition.

The members of the club have undertaken to do some renovations around the clubhouse by volunteer labor and the biggest undertaking in the plans is the painting of the wire fence that surrounds the property. Part of the work has been done but a real bee is called for Wednesday evening. The president, Orlo Smith, is the prime mover and has requested every member to make a concerted effort to be on hand as early Wednesday evening as possible so that a great deal of work can be done before the mosquitoes make their appearance. Aluminum paint is being used and the work already done has made a great difference in the appearance of the entrance to the club.

SPECTACULAR SUICIDE

PAYSANDU, Uruguay (AP)—The manager of an oil plant here prevented a disastrous explosion Wednesday when an employee committed suicide atop a gasoline storage tank. The despondent worker set himself on fire on the tank after drenching his clothes in the gasoline. The manager, R. A. Laire, grabbed a fire extinguisher, rushed up the tank ladder, and, while too late to save the worker, put out the flames before they penetrated the tanks.

They will be here Sunday and Monday—Floyd King and Arnold Maley, owners and managers of the huge King Brothers and Cole Brothers Combined Circus. Phenix City Now Peaceful Trying to Forget Sordid Past

By REX THOMAS

PHENIX CITY, Ala. (AP) — In the 12 months since an assassin cut short the crime-fighting career of A. L. Patterson, Phenix City has changed from a wide-open, vice-ridden gambling town to a quiet peaceful city trying to forget the sordid past.

A year ago today Patterson, winner of the Democratic nomination for attorney-general of Alabama on a promise to break up the racketeering empire, was shot to death outside his law office.

Former chief deputy sheriff Albert Fuller is serving a life term for the murder. He began his sentence today while lawyers started an appeal to the state Supreme Court. Fuller was convicted March 11. An appeal for a new trial was denied Thursday.

Two other former public officials, ex - prosecuting attorney Arch Ferrell and former attorney-general Si Garrett, also were indicted for murder. Ferrell was acquitted. Garrett is in a mental institution at Galveston, Tex.

But the former attorney-general's lawyers, who also represented Fuller, announced last week Garrett will return to Alabama and face trial "soon."

DOING DAD'S JOB

The murder anniversary brought from the slain crusader's son, John, a renewal of his promise to "keep Phenix City clean." Young Patterson was elected attorney-general after his father was killed.

Organized gambling, prostitution and other rackets are no longer evident in the city-long notorious for its neon-lighted honky-tonks and girlie bars, whose owners fattened on the dollars of infantrymen from nearby Ft. Benning, Ga.

An unprecedented grand jury investigation and a national guard cccupation—unparallelled in United States history scoured out the vice dens after Patterson was murdered. They broke the back of a vice ring that took in millions of dollars a year.

More than 750 indictments were returned, charging virtually every crime from murder to gambling. Scores of vice lords and their underlings went to prison or paid heavy fines.

National guard troops, called to duty under limited martial law, ousted the civilian police authorities and enforced the law under military rule for six months.

The city was put out of bounds to soldiers from Ft. Benning.

The guardsmen are gone now. Law enforcement has returned to a civilian status, with new officers in charge. The city administration is in new hands, too, and municipal officials have added new taxes to replace the police court fines and night club licences that once provided more than half the city's annual revenue.

Locally Grown New Potatoes Appear on Market

New locally grown potatoes making something of a record for earliness were offered on the local produce market this morning.

Three or four vendors who each year are among the first to have new spuds on the market, offered the potatoes at prices ranging from 35 cents per berry box for the smaller variety and up to 50 cents for good sized ones. Vendors said this was the earliest new potatoes had been offered in years.

Ripe tomatoes at 35c per pint berry box, and new cabbage at a dime per head, were also offered.

Strawberries took on a slight hike in price with 40c per box being asked for top grade berries. Smaller berries were quoted at 35c per box. Shelled peas were 40c per pint and 75c per qt., while unshelled peas were 70c per six-qt. basket.

Old potatoes brought $1 per peck; new beets were 15c per bunch; rhubarb and onions a dime per bunch; lettuce a dime per head and spinach 20c per half peck. Carrots were 25c per half peck.

On the inside market eggs sold at 50c per dozen for large, with mediums being quoted at 45c. Chickens sold at 50c per lb.

Honey was quoted at $1 per four-lb. pail and at 50c per two-lb. pail.

Firemen Busy With Minor Calls

A grass fire touched off by children, a false alarm to North Sidney Street and two smoke investigations comprised Friday's activities for the local fire department.

Firemen were called to Bayview where a grass fire was in progress near the playgrounds.

A false alarm calling the department to North Sidney St., outside the city, sent firemen scurrying early yesterday afternoon. Later firemen were called to a smoke investigation at Finkle Electric on Pinnacle St. After a long search the trouble was found to be smouldering papers in a furnace. The final alarm was to Sobie's store on Front Street, where a transformer in a fluorescent light burned out, the smoke causing concern on the part of employees.

TRENTON (Special) — Smith Albert Hendricks, 94, died in Trenton Memorial Hospital Friday afternoon from injuries sustained when he was struck by a car, while crossing the main street of Brighton earlier in the day.

He is survived by two sons, Frank and Ernest, both farmers of R.R. 4 Trenton, and four daughters: Mrs. Francis (Marguerite) Crawford, of Terre Haute, Indiana; Mrs. Fred (Mary) Povey, of Toronto, and Misses Sarah and Alice Hendricks, both of Toronto.

The accident is being investigated by Brighton detachment of the OPP.

5 More Holidays Coming This Year Two on Fridays

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians will celebrate five more statutory holidays this year — two on Fridays and three on Mondays.

July 1, the anniversary of Confederation, falls on a Friday this year as does Remembrance Day, Nov. 11. Labor Day will be celebrated Monday Sept. 5.

Thanksgiving Day is set by government proclamation, but for many years it has been celebrated on a Monday in October. Christmas falls on Sunday this year but is observed for business purposes on the following day.

None of these holidays are affected by the 1952 legislation which provided for Victoria Day to be celebrated on the first Monday preceding May 24, government officials said.

If July 1, New Year's Day or Christmas Day fall on Sunday they are observed on Monday, but Remembrance Day is never altered. Labor Day is always celebrated the first Monday in September.

The Queen's birthday, which actually occurs April 21, is celebrated on a later date set by proclamation. It has usually been observed on a Monday and for the last two years has been timed to coincide with Victoria Day.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

JESUS SAVES!

We have heard the joyful sound:
Jesus saves! Jesus saves!
Spread the tidings all around:
Jesus saves! Jesus saves!
Bear the news to every land,
Climb the steeps and cross the waves;
Onward! — 'tis our Lord's command:
Jesus saves! Jesus saves!

Waft it on the rolling tide:
Jesus saves! Jesus saves!
Tell the sinners far and wide:
Jesus saves! Jesus saves!
Sing, ye islands of the sea,
Echo back ye ocean caves;
Earth shall keep her jubilee:
Jesus saves! Jesus saves!

Sing above the battle strife,
Jesus saves! Jesus saves!
By His death and endless life,
Jesus saves! Jesus saves!
Sing it softly through the gloom,
When the heart for mercy craves;
Sing in triumph o'er the tomb,
Jesus saves! Jesus saves!

Give the winds a mighty voice:
Jesus saves! Jesus saves!
Let the nations now rejoice, —
Jesus saves! Jesus saves!
Shout salvation full and free,
Highest hills and deepest caves:
This our song of victory, —
Jesus saves! Jesus saves!

Boys and girls in a Baltimore Sunday School were delighted one day about 75 years ago, when their teacher announced that she had written a new hymn for them to sing in celebration of a missionary anniversary.

Miss Priscilla Owens was the teacher and her missionary song, "Jesus Saves!", soon was being sung in churches everywhere. Today it is a favorite in evangelistic services and mission meetings as well as at Sunday School gatherings. The tune to which it is now wedded was written by William J. Kirkpatrick, Pennsylvania musician and composer.

Mr. Kirkpatrick, who helped compose of of the marching songs used by soldiers in the civil war, was an accomplished organist and a widely known singer of gospel songs. He composed a good many of his own hymn tunes and sometimes he wrote verses to match his music.

It was while he was working on one of these hymn poems, late one night in 1917 in his Philadelphia home, that he was called heavenward. Twice during the evening Mrs. Kirkpatrick looked in at the library door to find him busy with his new song. Later, when she tiptoed back to see how he was getting along with his writing, she found him slumped over his work table—dead. On the table were the lines which he had finished just befor he went out to meet his saving Jesus:

"Just as Thou wilt, Lord, this is my cry,
Just as Thou wilt to live or to die;
I am Thy servant, Thou knowest best,
Just as Thou wilt, Lord, labor or rest."

To keep from getting separated from his father in the crowded streets, he held his father's hand. But after a while his little legs grew tired and his grip began to slip. He looked up to his father and said, "Dad, you'll have to take hold of my hand now. I can't hold on much longer." The lawyer said, "I need to feel God's hand taking hold of me."

That is about the way we all should feel if we are to keep our self-possession in these hectic times.

That is why Christ, the Master Mariner on life's sea, when He forsaw the stormy days ahead for His followers bade them not to trust the quick wit or impulse of the moment, but said, "In patience possess ye your souls."

SOLD SOULS

But being self-possessed is more than disciplined presence of mind. Sometimes we say of a person, "He cannot call his soul his own.' I think of a henpecked husband who has to look at his wife before he says what he can do, and she usually answers for him. Or over there is a politician who is afraid to take a stand until he sees which way the wind blows. Such persons are no longer in possession of themselves because they have sold their souls.

But go further. A man may boast, "I am my own boss," yet be so enslaved by his own possessions and habits that he is not self-possessed. The Apostle Paul, for example, had not lost his head when he said, "The good that I would do I do not; but the evil which I would not, that I do." Paul knew what he was doing. Nevertheless, he did what he knew was wrong because he did not have his will under control.

To be self-possessed is to keep oneself in hand. But the fact is that we cannot properly hold ourselves in our own hands. A lawyer some time ago told the alumni of his college that his feeling about religion was very much like an experience of his boyhood, when his father took him on a trip to New York City.

A Lift For Living

On Being Self-Possessed

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

If someone were to say of a person, "He lost his self-possession," we would all know what he meant. We would think of the man as having lost his poise, his self-control, his presence of mind.

An untutored cobbler in Leyden, Holland, used to attend the public debates at the Academy. They were conducted in Latin. Asked if he understood Latin, the cobbler said, "No, but I can tell who is in the wrong in the argument by seeing who gets angry first."

Webster defines self-possession as "presence of mind, full possession of one's powers and faculties." Certainly Jesus Himself demonstrated such self-possession in superlative degree. He never lost His head. His poise was never shaken by shattering calamity or shocking attack.

When critics tried to entrap Him with captious questions, He never let Himself become entagled. When false friends fawned upon Him, He was never fooled by their flattering. When the crowds heckled Him, He never hardened His heart.

CLEAR EYE

Jesus bade His disciples to keep their heads in the trying times that were before them. They were to preserve a clear eye and a steady hand in time of danger. That presence of mind which the good captain of a ship manifests when a submarine looms across his path, that cleanness of head which an able lawyer keeps in a courtroom, that calmness of spirit and sureness of touch which the skilled surgeon preserves when an emergency arises in the operating room—these are marks of self-possession.

And never was this trait more needed than now. The air is filled with controversy and beguiling propaganda. It is so hard to keep our heads amid the gusts of passion and fear. But to lose our heads is the surest way of inviting disaster, whether on a crowded highway, on a battlefront, or in a cold war.

This form of self-possession comes through patience, as Jesus once said. And the scriptural word here means also disciplined endurance.

A quick wit may be in part a native gift, but we cannot trust natural quick-wittedness to save us in dire emergencies. The sailor who promptly jumps to the right post in a hurricane has developed that precision of action through long discipline. And when we sail a stormy sea, we want to know that our ship is manned by disciplined sailors, not clever amateurs.

Temperance Union Wants Policy To Discourge Drinking, Smoking

KITCHENER (CP) — The Ontario Women's Christian Temperance Union yesterday approved a resolution asking Education Minister Dunlop to formulate a policy for high schools to discourage drinking, smoking and unbecoming conduct.

The WCTU's 76th provincial convention also said it will ask the education minister to have teachers specially trained to "bring before the youth of the country the habit-forming danger of narcotics drugs."

Members will be urged to write letters of protest to publishers and producers when they find stories of drinking stressed in magazines, books, radio and TV, posters, films and all indirect advertising.

A request will also go to the Ontario government for restriction on further outlets for the sale of liquor in the province.

LETTER OF REGRET

It was decided to write to the attorney-general to express regret at interpretations of law, in decisions handed down by some judges, concerning offences committed under the influence of alcoholic beverages. It was also recommended that stiffer sentences be handed down and that "the vendor share the responsibility."

A request will go to canning companies that they replace the word "cocktail" with salad or other suitable description when the product does not contain alcohol.

Wednesday, Mrs. F. W. Ambrose, provincial president, urged the WCTU to raise its standards in its platform of total abstinence and prohibition of liquor.

"What it would mean to our county if our governments could be brought to realize that the revenue the liquor traffic brings is broken homes, loss of life and numerous other miseries," she said.

Mrs. Ambrose said there were 53,187 convictions last year under the Liquor Control Act, 36,000 arrests for impaired conditions due to alcohol and 18,235 jail sentences served.

VIREO HOME LIFE

When we arrived at the summer cottage Mr. and Mrs. Vireo were just putting the finishing touches to their new home which hung from a forked branch of a small cherry tree.

It was beautifully woven of weathered strips of bark and weed stems firmly bound together with spider and caterpillar silk. Wasp paper and plant down were plastered on here and there, and spider cocoons and fresh little leaves acted as decorations, though they were actually intended to camouflage the nest.

As the tip of the twig just touched the corner of the window feeding tray, we could not help seeing everything that took place—but the vireos were not pleased. They kept adding more leaves, narrow birch bark streamers, and small white lumps every time they caught us spying on them.

However, if we had not known where to look we would not have been able to find the home. The Latin word "Vireo" means "I am green", and the birds themselves blended perfectly into the surroundings as they took turns sitting on the eggs.

There were three, unusually pointed at one end, and white with a few round, dark spots. They were laid on three successive days, and the babies broke through their shells in the same order in exactly two weeks time.

BEGIN LIFE NAKED

All vireo nestlings (and there are species in Canada) begin life almost naked, with the appearance of tiny red balls, for their skin is red-brown and very little fluff covers it.

Mr. Vireo was such a hard-working father that he had very little time for singing, but although the parents seemed to be identical we generally found out when he was in charge because he would sit on the side of the nest and sing softly before feeding the children. How he managed it with his mouth full we never discovered.

When his wife was incubating or keeping the infants warm he often came and sat on a branch about three inches from her and sang a sweet little song before offering her a tiny green worm or some other dainty morsel—insects usually.

The children grew tremendously fast, and in nine days all had soft grey down on their top sides and white under their throats. At the age of ten days the oldest struggled out of the nest, for a short time crouched bunched up on a nearby branch, then took to its small wings and landed under a bush several yards away, where it sat yelling for hours. Next day the second youngster left, and the following morning our fun with the Vireos came to an end. The nest was empty.

Who Was This?

By A. A. M.

Who was the baby boy whose mother gave him a name, saying "The glory has departed from Israel!"

The Israelites had been fighting against the Philistines and four thousand of their men had been killed. The elders of Israel decided to bring the ark from Shiloh, and carry it among their troops. Thus they hoped to save their army from further disaster.

When the ark came into the camp, the Israelites gave a mighty shout of joy. The Philistines heard the noise and they were afraid. They knew about the plagues which the Egyptians had had before they would let their Israelites slaves free. One of the Philistine leaders cried, "Take courage and acquit yourselves like men, lest you become slaves to the Hebrews."

In this second battle, the Israelites were again defeated. The ark was captured. After a great slaughter, every Israelite left alive fled to his own home. Phineas, father of this baby and his uncle were killed in the battle.

The grandfather, Samuel, who was ninety-eight years old, heard this bad news, from a messenger. When he learned that the ark was captured he fell backwards, his neck was broken and he died.

Just at this tragic time, this boy was born. The women who attended his mother, said to her, "Fear not, for you have a son." But she paid no attention to their words. Instead she gave her son his sad name. Read this baby's name and this story in Chapter 4 of First Samuel.

MOUTH-WATERING STATISTICS

About this time of year, there is a difference of opinion amongst Belleville gourmets.

What makes June days so rare? Do those luscious red strawberries hold the secret—or is the magic distilled by those fresh green peas?

If peas are favored, the reader will be interested to learn that in no other part of Ontario are June days so rare as right in this area. Prince Edward is the pea-growing champion of the province. That's official. The statistics to prove it are contained in the annual report issue of "Can Crop Newsletter," issued by The Ontario Vegetable Growers' Marketing Board.

In 1954 Prince Edward County produced 4,180 tons of peas, from 4,690 acres. Nearest rival was Kent County in Western Ontario, where 2,280 acres yielded 1,920 tons. Prince Edward is no Johnny-come-lately in the pea-growing business. Its production has been tops for five successive years, although in 1951 and again in 1953 Kent gave it stiff competition. But, as anyone might have guessed, the county which came nearest to unseating Prince Edward was Hastings. That was in 1951, when Hastings produced 3,350 tons, to 3,970 tons for Prince Edward. Last year, though, the Hastings production was down to 1,890 tons. Come, come, Hastings, buck up!

When it comes to tomatoes—and we will come to them gladly a few weeks from hence—Prince Edward did not do so well last year. It harvested 14,730 tons of the tasty fruit—or is it vegetable?; yes, to be sure, vegetable. But that was less than half the 1952 production of 29,270 tons and less than a fifth of the pace-setting 75,050 tons produced by Essex County. Hastings, with a mere 1,330 tons, was not even in the race.

Prince Edward was in there fighting in the corn competition, but finished second with 9,410 tons compared with the pace-setting 17,900 tons which loaded the cobs in Essex. Hastings made a much better showing in this department, its 6,820 tons putting it in third place.

Pass the butter, please.

HANGOVER HONEY

The latest "hangover" cure is honey.

This is not to say that tomato juice, black coffee, long walks in the morning air with the help of stout friends, one on either side, and long naps, have been supplanted. It merely means that these traditional "cures" have been supplemented.

The hangover, is, of course, a social ailment that is passed from one person to another in various forms, mostly glass. Its signs are unmistakable and its symptoms indescribable. Its duration varies according to individual sensitivity. Frequency of attack depends on a number of variables including singles, doubles, and different brands.

Scientific support for honey, however, holds out new hope to old hopefuls. Honey, say scientists, contains fructose, a form of sugar which promotes metabolism or the burning of sugar in the body. This is supposed to have an effect corresponding to the effect of Vitamin B-6. In short, it is sobering.

Honey, in referring to a bee's by-product, may have some curative properties. Honey, when used as a term of endearment, has singularly failed to relieve hangover headache in the past.

Knowing full well the bee's notorious reputation as a bon vivant flitting from flower to flower all summer long, we shall have to withhold approval of a honeyed hangover cure until something more specific than fructose can be summoned as evidence. In the meantime we suggest that once again an ounce of prevention is worth two ounces any time.

PLAYING GAMES WITH DEATH

On Monday a man was electrocuted in Montreal while trying to rescue a raccoon on a crossbar of a hydro pole. The man died when the 14-foot metal pole he was using to reach the coon crossed two wires. An hour later the man was pronounced dead.

This was a pointless loss of life.

The worst that could possibly have befallen the raccoon was electrocution. In such a situation the loss of a raccoon is to be preferred to the death of a human being.

This is not the first time a human has lost his life trying to rescue an animal nor will it be the last. However, each such fatality is to be deplored as another pointless tragedy and another example of misplaced concern for the welfare of animals.

All too often humans perish trying to lead horses from burning barns or drown trying to assist animals to swim.

No one who attempts to rescue an animal believes that his attempt is likely to end with his own death. Nevertheless, flood, flame, live electric wires, heights and depths leave the would-be rescuer open to the possibility of death.

The safety of any animal is not worth the gamble of a human life. Human beings should not play games with death for such small stakes as animals.

THE DANDELION

The dandelion doesn't beg for help from anyone,
It doesn't have an uncle rich on whom to lean upon.
It doesn't ask for favors; doesn't plead for special care.
Unaided it will get along and thrive no matter where.
It is a self-reliant plant. Its seed by none is sown.
Nobody serves it food and drink or guards it 'til it's grown.

The dandelion has no friends on whom it can rely,
And many are the enemies it daily must defy.
It feeds on poisons men prepare, it braves the cutting blade,
And yet it lives to fight again and comes back unafraid.

It never asks of anyone a helping hand to give,
But no one yet has found a way to curb its will to live.

So cut it down and dig it out and poison if you will,
The dandelion won't give up. Its ranks it will re-fill.
Where some were routed yesterday still others will appear.
It's never beaten, though alone it fights its battle here.
Though now and then from spade and rake and blade it may retreat,
The dandelion won't admit that it has met defeat.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The arctic grayling is a game fish little known to Canadian or American sportsmen. It abounds in the Mackenzie and Yukon river systems, in the Northwest Territories, Alaska and northern British Columbia. In quite recent years, with the opening up of vast areas of our north by the geological explorers and other interests of that remote region, the air travel facilities and increasing camps have permitted sportsmen to get into contact with the grayling, though still at considerable expense.

It is a superb fish for the fly fisher. It is best in the fast plunging little rivers of the north. It strikes like lightning, usually preferring the smallest and sportiest flies, and while it does not leap like some other game fish, its flight has a muscular vigor that is not easily described. The average size I got in northern Saskatchewan were under two pounds, but I did get one of three pounds, and the party got several over that weight, an American Dr. Weber, using a size 12 black gnat and a seven foot three ounce flyrod, got a 18 inch grayling that weighed four pounds.

The grayling's color is weird. It is a grey brown, but when first taken from the water is suffused with a sort of aura of magenta, as if it has been dipped in raspberry juice This color swiftly fades in a matter of minutes. The dorsal fin is a regular banner, many times the size of that of any other Canadian fish, and is spotted in forget-me-not blue. This fin adds greatly to the power of the fish in fast water.

The eating quality of the grayling is as hard to describe as its vigor. the flesh has the texture of the genuine Dover sole and to my palate something of the same delicate flavor. On our trip, in which Norman Ferrier, biologist of the University of Saskatchewan was host. I declined all other food, including potatoes, bread, vegetables and dessert, for straight grayling, which is the highest honor a man can pay a fish.

For those who have the money and the energy, grayling should be on the calendar. For those who haven't got the money but the energy, the grayling is something to put on next year's calendar. For elderly anglers, it is the perfect crown to a fishing life.

Place of the Amateur

(Victor Ross, on the BBC)

"This attitude of regarding the amateur as something higher than the professional makes Britain almost the only country where there are genuine amateurs left, where politicians paint, soldiers write poetry, poets write detective novels, duchesses act— where lay preachers, lay teachers, and lay healers command a great following and even professional football players like to preserve something amateurish in their character."

Male Typists Of Old School

(The Times of London)

When innovators advertised in 1880, in New York, for young ladies to train in the manipulation of a new office machine known as the typewriter, they made it clear that aspirants to this emancipation must be physically strong. The first typewriter to make any practical headway was manufactured by a firm of gunmakers, and was pretty heavy artillery, requiring from the first typists muscle as well as tact. Miss Tapper, one wagers, was no weakling — Miss Tapper who thumped along at fifty words a minute in a competition in 1882. Her successors employ a lighter touch, and get along faster with their lighter armament; but there are still to be found in many offices, and homes, unprofessional operators who are farther removed in this matter from the present day than they are from 1880.

They are, as a rule, masculine, and middle-aged or more. They were never trained to use a typewriter, but picked it up, like bridge and the foxtrot, as they went along, attaining in all three the same just passable proficiency. They cannot type very fast, but they do type very strong. No one could say they fail to make an impression; you could read the completed work as well in the dark as in the daylight as well from the back as the front, so firmly are the characters embossed upon the paper.

They like, above all, to hear themselves type; it gives them, when they come to the simpler, familiar passages, to acknowledging the receipt of our letter, or assuring us of their best attention at all times, an illusion of speed and power, that feeling of being a pretty good performer that comes to singers in the bath and to lawn tennis rabbits playing on echoing indoor courts. They have nothing against the noiseless machine for the rest of the office, but for themselves they find it merely disconcerting.

Their feelings towards the typewriter are a mixture of sentiment and suspicion. It has never been for them quite the accepted part of life that it is for a younger generation. They still cannot bring themselves to use it for their private correspondence; they would not entrust to it, any more than they would to telephone, the little personal touches of life. And yet they have to talk over the office tea and biscuits, of remembering quite fondly the machines they used to know. They get warmly voluble and offensively expert about the early Bar-Lock and the Blick and the Smith-Premier, and one of the pensioners has a tale to tell about something called a Pittsburg Visible. They do not go so far as to argue that the office ought still to be furnished entirely with these ancient types, but they have been known to make a stand against the advance of the moderns and to insist that some relic of, say 1910 should be spared from the scrap-heap and retained in a superannuary capacity. If they had their way there would still be a veteran of this kind in every office. Perhaps there are a few remaining still, "cocooned" in a dusty corner, or wheezing through some simple daily task, in dark rooms, in the Temple, or Glasgow basements, or Manchester mills.

Eaten After 3 Premiums

(Letter to the Editor of the London Specator)

Sir—I was most interested to read Mr. M. C. N. D'Arcy's letter published in your issue of March 25, in which he refers to his wife's forebear, Joseph Gellibrand, who was eaten by aborigines in Australia in 1937.

Among a few surviving records of the early? activities of this company is the first life policy to be issued by the Alliance in Australia.

This is dated 1934 and the life assured was Joseph Tice Gellibrand.

We also have a letter dated July 3, 1938, from Mr. Gellibrand's executors to our then agent in Australia in reply to his inquiry whether any further intelligence has been received to this period respecting Mr. Gellibrand's fate or anything transpired to throw discredit on the general opinion that this gentleman has perished by the hands of the natives at Port Philip.

In reply, the executors state that "not the slightest information but such as has tended to confirm this melancholy fact has up to this moment reached us nor have we unhappily the least reason to doubt the certainty of his death."

The claim was duly paid on July 19, 1838, and as only three premiums had been collected, the transaction proved to be one of our less remunerative ventures.

Yours faithfully,
E. T. Cardew

Broken Word Endangers All

(Toronto Globe and Mail)

Civilized societies live by contracts — written, spoken or implied. They rest, as they must, upon the principle that a man's signature means something, that his word means something, that the responsibilities entrusted to him mean something. When that principle gives way, everything gives way, and civilization reverts to chaos and barbarism.

The wildcat strike of British ship stewards is a case in point. Because these men and women have reneged on their obligations to their employers (Cunard and Canadian Pacific) and to their union (the National Union of Seamen), a whole vast structure of contracts and commitments has collapsed. The havoc wrought when a Queen Mary or a Mauretania or an Empress of Australia must at the last minute cancel her sailing, is beyond calculation; not merely in terms of monetary loss, but in terms of human hardship and bewilderment. Society may well feel, in such circumstances, that it has been stabbed in the back.

The Queen Mary stoppage is especially shocking — shocking at any rate, to those people who care about honor and loyalty and responsibility. While she was docked at New York last week, Captain Donald Sorrell addressed the 800 men and women who compose her catering crew, and appealed to them to remain on the job when she got back to Britain. In his own words:

I was given an assurance that they had no intention of walking off the ship at any time. Representations were put forward, which I undertook to bring to the notice of the company.

The Queen Mary docked at Southampton Monday night, preparatory to sailing back to New York at 7:30 Thursday morning. Shortly before that time, more than half of her catering crew walked off, leaving 1,100 passengers stranded. In all, close to a dozen of Britain's biggest ocean liners have had this treatment during the last two weeks.

We do not say that this kind of thing cannot go on. It has been going on for a long time in every part of the free world, and in all sections of society, and in all fields of activity. Responsibility, it would appear, does not count for very much any more. Contracts are scraps of paper. Honor is for the naive. So it has been going, so it goes now, and so, no doubt, it will continue to go.

But there comes an end. Historians tell us that civilizations are rarely destroyed from the outside. They are destroyed from the inside. They destroy themselves. The military strength of the Communist countries is indeed a threat to democracy. But the greater threat to democracy is its own moral sickness. If that sickness is not remedied, if it proceeds to its inevitable conclusion, our enemies will never need to drop one bomb, to launch one ship, to fire one shot. Democracy will have accomplished its own destruction.

Steel Chain For Soo Mayor

(Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Star)

Using a technique known as "filigree", a Sault Ste. Marie worker in ornamental iron is nearing completion on what may well be the only steel mayoral chain in the world.

The project, organized by the Jaycees, started some months ago when Sault manufacturers and association members were each asked to contribute a medallion representing their industry to the mayoral regalia.

Filigree work dates back to the sixth century BC and beyond. It was produced by the Greeks, Etruscans, Egyptians, Phoenicians and many other ancient races, and fine examples of this work are to be found in museums all over the world.

Basically, the art of filigree work consists of soldering together and building up small portions of metal rather than carving or chiselling. It also consists of curling, twisting and plaiting fine threads of metal and uniting them at their points of contact with each other.

Usually this work is performed with gold and precious metals, but our local metal artist has a more difficult task to contend with. Using metal mined and smelted in Algoma, the hard steel has to be expertly tempered and welded to produce the delicate effect needed. The use of steel, symbolic of Sault Ste. Marie, as the Steel City of the North, has added a unique feature to this jewel.

Our belief is, that when this jewel is complete, there will be no other comparable chain in existence, either in the way of local representation, or the type of art used in its creation.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Prevention of Motion Sickness

Some victims get it when they go to sea. Some get it when they go out fishing on lake or river in a rowboat. Some get it riding in a train. Some, riding in an automobile. Some, flying, even at low level. Some—well, I haven't heard from anyone who gets "seasick" riding an elevator or an escalator, but now I'll probably hear from several who do.

If there were not so much bowling to do, I suppose I might devote an hour or two to a survey of the medieval authorities and render into tolerably understandable language their scientific explanations of motion sickness.

But it wouldn't do a bit of good, and, bowling or no bowling, I still try to follow the injunction of Hippocrates. Up to the present moment no plausible theory to account for the susceptibility of some persons and the apparent immunity of others to motion sickness.

One reader says:

"We have tried everything imaginable to keep our son from becoming car sick . . . including (names of three proprietary remedies introduced since the war) . . . nothing seemed to help at all, until we received your pamphlet on Motion Sickness. We tried your remedy and it has solved the problem. Now we can take the boy on short or long drives, and he enjoys it as much as we do . . ."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A GOD WITHIN

I dare say that the majority of human beings never have really tapped the latent power within them. Emergencies, mostly, are what wake up the soul and give birth to newness of life. An emergency like a sudden call to unusual service, or an awakening to responsibility that deep sorrow or disappointment has created.

I met Dr. John Harvey Kellogg but once, and then only for a brief moment of conversation, but his writings, and the famous Battle Creek Sanitarium which he founded, have been wonderful guides to thousands. The great doctor had a deep and abiding faith and respect for the human body. Here is a saying by him that is worth pondering over and remembering: "The power in which we must have faith, if we would be well, is the creative and curative power which exists in every living thing." Dr. Kellogg practised this and was a worker well into his nineties!

I have a profound belief that a God lives within each one of us, who takes Him in by invitation. That God performs miracles, as evidenced by many of the great deeds that make a pathway through all history, giving it lustre and inspirational power. We must regularly exercise that "creative and curative power" Dr. Kellogg brought to our notice.

It doesn't take an expert to note the fact that cheerful, happy people are the healthiest, and advertise the fact. God put power into the mind and then left it for each one of us to call into action. I am not a Christian Scientist (so far as I know) but I have known many of them, and they are an inspiration. By their beliefs they are known; by their smiles of health and happiness as well.

The next time you face a situation that seems insurmount- consult that God within the mere petition will lift you the blue.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE MIRACLE LIFE

Christianity is a miracle religion. Take miracle out of Christianity, and you still have left a commendable system of ethics—but you have no religion. Religion begins when the power of an unseen world starts to impinge upon the situations of the material world. Religion is the assurance given to men's haearts that there is another order of life, different and beyond the order which they apprehend with their five physical senses. As soon as we begin to think in terms such as this, we immediately find ourselves in the realm of miracle.

And just as Christianity is the miracle religion, so the Christian life is a miracle. Anyone who has true Christian faith is conscious of the fact that providences are of frequent occurrence in his life. He recalls that many things have happened to him which cannot be explained in any other way than that a good God was guiding his life and a guardian angel was walking beside him. Furthermore, when a person who loves sin is either suddenly or gradually changed into a person who loves righteousness, a miracle has indeed occurred. Of all the miracles that have occurred in the history of the Christian Church, none is so astounding as the miracle of a converted and regenerated life. Others who have become saints are greater miracles than cripples who have become athletes.

When a person has Christian faith, he walks continually in the light and joy of another and better world.

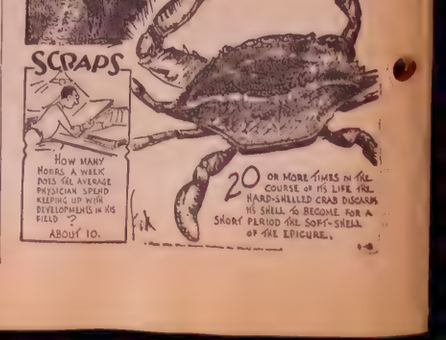
Minister Vs. Preacher

(Philadelphia Bulletin)

The old-fashioned word "preacher", with all its overtones of mingled respect and affection, is heard less and less often these days. It has been all but replaced by the more formal "minister" or "clergyman."

But it is not only the world itself, it seems, that has grown old-fashioned. The preacher, as a preacher, is himself disappearing.

The change that modern life has wrought in his duties has been revealed by a questionnaire submitted to 1,150 Protestant clergymen as part of a survey conducted by the Russell Sage Foundation and the Union Theological Seminary. Their answers, summarized by Dr. Samuel W. Blizzard, agree in emphasizing the difficulties of the "pracher" in remaining a "general practitioner" of religion in an increasingly complex world.



The minister's role as a preacher, Dr. Blizzard finds, "is being relegated to a less important position, and the roles of pastor, counsellor, organizer, administrator and promoter are coming to occupy the resulting void.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK By R. J. SCOTT

King Bros. Circus Arrives Early Tomorrow For Big Parade and Show on Monday

It's circus time!

That harbinger of joy for youngsters of all ages, — the King Bros. and Cole Bros. Combined Circus, now the second largest in the world, is due to arrive in Belleville early tomorrow to spend Sunday, their day of rest, and make ready for the street parade and performances Monday at the circus grounds on Sidney Street under the auspices of the Belleville Kinsmen Club.

But tomorrow, being Sunday, most of the circus folk will rest. Only the necessary work looking to the comfort of the personnel and the animals, both wild and domestic, will be done at the grounds. All of the tents will be hoisted with the possible exception of the gigantic big top, it may not be raised until early Monday morning.

No doubt countless circus fans will be seen making their way to the circus grounds where there will be much of interest to see and admire. Dozens of workmen raising acres of tents and animal men caring for the menagerie animals. Whether a performance is going on or merely being made ready, is always a lure to the circus fan.

Monday at 11.30 a.m. trumpeting bands, tooting calliope, rumbling wagons of red and gold, cumbersome elephants, humping camels, gem-studded floats, tongas, allegorical units, clown carts and all else one could hope to see in a real old-fashioned circus parade will take possession of the downtown streets.

In the afternoon following the lavishly produced opening processional pageant "Circus Continental" in which masses of people and a large number of animals take part, the big top will be filled with feature arenic displays,—three rings, stages, and a maze of aerial thrillers, to say nothing of the hippodrome track crammed with things to gladden the hearts of youngsters of all ages.

All of the famed 1955 stars and features will be seen here without a single exception. Belleville audiences will see, in addition to the bareback riding Dorchesters, such notable attractions as the Kareff-Manus Duo, breath-taking aerial stars from Italy; the "Sons of Morocco", whirl - wind acrobatic marvels from Arabia; Monsieur Toni Smaha, the noted horse trainer and his stable of super - educated equines from France; the Jose Torres Alforo Duo, tautwire artists who hail from Australia; the Hungaria Troupe, risley and high-balancing stars from Hungary, and the "English Rockettes", twelve in number, beautiful young ladies, aerialists and equilibrists, who were featured in the Olympic Circus in London. Stars and features all of whom are making their first tour of America and new to circus fans.

And, in addition, there are many American stars and features. Among them, the renowned Johnny Hartzell Troupe of aerialists, flying-return stars, who are conceded the most daring fliers in the world; the Valencianos Troupe, sensational trampoline performers; Phil Escalantes, slack - wire artist; Sylvia Gregory, aerial queen who performs in the very dome of the big top while hanging by her teeth, — without a net below; the noted Conley Family, bareback riding marvels, including the Conley Sisters, "Principal Riders"; the Escalente Troupe of comedy - aerial - bar performers, and the host of solo aerialists, Donna Pyle, Do Lisle Chappell, Marie Smith, Pierce Sisters, Erma Lincoln, and Miss Maybell, are some of the featured highlights.

Three rings full of Liberty Horses, and cute Shetland ponies, educated dogs, including the Mat Laurish noted group; three great herds of performing elephants, conceded the greatest in the land; the revival of the famous "leaps" and Roman races climaxed by the breath-taking chariot contest, are still other things in store.

In fact, all of the traditional circus features will be there. A huge menagerie filled with jungle beasts, including a two-ton hippopotamus just over from the river Nile, tapers, llamas, water buffalo from China, pongurs, camels, lions, tigers, leopards, zebras, whole monkey families, and many other species of jungle animals, not forgetting the long picket-line of elephants, and a big, double sideshow with a congress of human oddities and weird people from far lands and near.

The performances are scheduled to begin at 2 and 8 p.m. with the main gates opening at 1 and 7 p.m., and for the convenience of circus patrons, a downtown ticket office will be in operation show day at the Duff Drug Store where tickets for all performances will be on sale at the same prices charged at the circus grounds.

Along Canadian Trails

Moving Day On the River

By LEONARD L. KNOTT

Illustrated by David Ranson

Along the shore of the St. Lawrence River in what was once Upper Canada and is now Ontario, thousands of people are getting ready to move. Their's will not be an ordinary moving day. They are leaving the homes of their pioneer ancestors to make way for a seaway about which people have dreamed for almost 5 years.

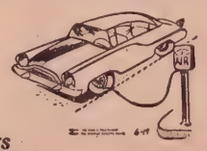
As they leave their farms and their old settlements which have now become towns and cities, the people of the river shore remember how the St. Lawrence once brought life to their communities. The river was the chief link between Upper and Lower Canada. It led to the building of cities such as Cornwall, Prescott and Brockville. It once passed the united provinces' capital at Kingston It has always been the highway from central Canada to the sea.

When the two Canadian provinces were young, people in the river towns were isolated during the long, cold winters. When spring came, the flat-bottomed bateaux from Montreal which the French Canadian boatmen propelled by oars and by poles began appearing in the river, making their slow way to the lakes. Larger Durham boats, clumsy vessels with square sterns and rounded bows, were introduced by Americans, and carried cargoes of freight.

ROUGH PASSAGE

Many passengers travelled on this tiny craft, huddling among the barrels and bales of freight without any protection from the river. At night, the boats pulled into the shore and the passengers camped out or sometimes found shelter in a primitive inn or farmhouse.

When the boats came to rapids, the passengers got out and walked over the portage trails or rode with the freight in lumbering wagons. Sometimes, the boats were hauled through the rapids by the crew but at the long portage teams of horses or oxen did the pulling. The passengers, including women in fancy bonnets and sweeping skirts, patiently waited at the end of the trail until the boats should catch up to them.



In 1816, a momentous event took placed when the first steamer on the Great Lakes, the Frontenac, was built and launched on the Bay of Quinte. She was a clumsy vessel, too, with paddles wheels and one funnel but the people who left the Durham boats and the bateaux at Kingston to proceed by steamer to York thought she was a floating palace.

DREAM OF SEAWAY

As the years went by, river traffic increased. Canals were built and bigger and bigger lake and river boats began passing the homes of the pioneers. The towns and cities grew, too, and agriculture gave way to industry. Then people began to dream of a great new seaway in which there would be no obstacles to prevent huge lake freighters from going all the way to the sea, or big ocean freighters from entering the Great Lakes.

The dream is coming true. The river which once provided a dangerous and weary course for the French Canadian boatmen is to become a modern water highway. But if those who watched the first of the river boats go by were to return to their farms or their little village houses, they would find their homes disappearing. Progress is moving a little Canadian history out of the way. The descendants of the the pioneers are moving away from the river.

Your Car

Overheating Is Caused By Many Things

By EUGENE MILMOE

A top-notch mechanic recently had a trying experience with one motorist who refused to accept his explanation that many parts of the car can contribute to overheating. It seems that the motorist just could not believe his cooling system was not at fault.

Fortunateiy, our mechanic friend traced the trouble to a slipping clutch and finally convinced the customer that this condition was causing his car to overheat by placing an extra strain on the engine.

Several other unsuspected sources, such as dragging brakes, faulty valve springs, muffler, wheel bearings, etc. are sometimes responsible for high engine temperatures. And, as many surprised car owners have discovered, underinflated tires are often to blame. They can cause enough excess friction to put an added burden on the cooling system and promote overheating.

WHEEL SHIMMY

From R.W.: I seem to have a case of wheel shimmy at high speeds. What would cause this?

(A) Any number of conditions might be to blame. Loose or worn wheel bearings, faulty springs or shock absorbers, unbalanced or misaligned front wheels, looseness in the steering system—these are the more common causes of wheel shimmy.

P.S. writes: After reading about the heat control valve in one of your columns, I checked up on mine. It doesn't seem closing at the proper times?

(A) When starting a cold engine, the valve should be closed to direct heat from the exhaust manifold to the intake manifold and thus aid in warm-up. Under normal operating conditions, the valve is in an open position so that most of the heat passes into the exhaust pipe.

E.T. asks: After standing overnight or for several hours, my 1951 car seems to have a bit of valve noise when the engine is started. After a few minutes, though, everything is ok. Is this anything to worry about?

(A) Your particular model is equipped with hydraulic tappets and it is not unusual to get a little valve noise when the engine is cold.

BUZING NOISE

From P.S.: On my 1954 car with automatic drive, I seem to get a kind of buzzing boise in Drive, Low and Reverse. It also seems to be slipping on hills. Is my trouble very serious?

(A) simple condition such as low transmission oil level will cause all the the symptoms you have described.

M.D. asks: I have used the same brand of high-detergent engine oil since my car was new. Now it has gone more than 50,000 miles and is beginning to use a little oil. Would a change to a non-detergent oil reduce consumption to any great extent?

(A) The grade of oil you use has very little, if any, effect on oil consumption. Stick to the high-detergent oil—it's best for your engine.

Senator Wm. A. Buchanan

Rugged individualism has been a potent force in shaping and guiding our national life and Senator William A. Buchanan, "Buchanan of Lethbridge" falls into this category. His forceful personality, his intellectual power and his sense of public duty place him high in the ranks of our outstanding Canadians.

William A. Buchanan was born at Fraserville, Ontario, on July 2nd, 1876. Educated at Trenton, Warkworth, Brighton, and Norwood schools, he started to work when most boys are biting the ends of their lead pencils and pondering over problems in Geometry.

Printers' ink was mixed with Buchanan's blood! His proudest boast was that he was a working newspaper man. When the report of his Senate appointment came over the Canadian Press News Wire he was working on the telegraph desk himself.

It was in 1905 that he first saw Lethbridge, where in November of that year he founded a weekly. This became a daily in December 1907. Twenty years later, at the age of 49, he entered the Canadian Senate as "Buchanan of Lethbridge" and the Publisher of the Lethbridge Herald.

As President of the Canadian Press, for two vital years, he travelled from coast to coast. These trips were part of a plan to learn personally, the needs and views of the daily newspaper members of the co-operative system.

As publisher of the Lethbridge Herald, his active political life began in 1909 when he was elected to the Alberta legislature as a Liberal. In 1911, he was elected to the Federal House from Medicine Hat.

Senator Buchanan's greatest personal satisfaction was found in his two years as President of The Canadian Press. Having helped found the Canadian news gathering co-operative of daily newspapers, he watched it grow into what he considered the greatest single unifying force in Canada.

A relentless fighter for a free press, Buchanan said in 1944 that he believed the Second Great War might have been avoided had news been free in the dictators' countries. Because of this, he called upon the Canadian Parliament to declare a freedom-of-news clause in the peace treaties.

It was on July 11th, 1954, that this popular public figure and one of Canada's best-known newspaper men wrote "thirty" to his long, useful public career, but his rugged personality lives on in his achievements.

Weddings

McDOWELL—HUCK

A lovely late spring wedding ceremony was solemnized on Saturday, May 28th, at 10.00 a.m. in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, when Lois Hilda Huck, of Belleville, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Huck, became the bride of William Patrick McDowell, of Toronto, only son of Mr. William J. McDowell and the late Mrs. McDowell. The Rev. J. J. Buckley officiated before a background of standards of white snapdragons and lilacs and the altar was also adorned with lilacs.

Mrs. Gertrude Simmons presided at the console of the organ, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Hazel Simmons, both cousins of the bride, who sang, "Ave Marie", Panis Angelicus," and "Star of the Sea."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Joseph Huck, the bride was charming in an original gown of champagne colored Chantilly lace over taffeta in floor length, fashioned with fitted bodice embroidered with seed pearls. She wore a matching Juliet cape of Chantilly lace, and fingertip veil of tulle illusion edged with single row of matching lace, and carried a cascade of Sweetheart roses and lily-of-the-valley. A single strand of pearls completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Gordon Huck of Toronto, was matron of honor; Mrs. John Badali, and Miss Patricia Kennedy, both of Toronto, were bridesmaids. All were gowned alike in hyacinth blue crystalette over taffeta, with scalloped-scoop necklines. The skirts were full and of ballerina length. They wore matching headdresses and single strands of pearls and carried hand bouquets of Golden Sceptre roses.

Mr. James Dunderdale of Toronto, was groomsman, while Mr. Donald Durst of Toronto and Mr. Herman Light of Orillia, acted as ushers.

The wedding reception and breakfast were held at the New Queen's Hotel, and later the guests assembled at the bride's parents' home. The bride's mother, for her daughter's wedding chose an old rose silk organza gown, with natural straw picture hat, and natural accessories and corsage of roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Herman Light, who was attired in navy blue sheer with white accessories and corsage of Havana roses.

For travelling to Kentucky and Virginia the bride donned a sapphire blue and pink silk taffeta with pink accessories, and corsage of pink carnations. Mr. and Mrs. McDowell will reside in Toronto, at 222 Brookdale Avenue.

Guests were present from Orillia, Toronto, Oshawa and Montreal.

Previous to her marriage the bride was honored by a trousseau tea given by her mother, Mrs. Joseph Huck, and by a miscellaneous showers given by several friends.

WAINHOUSE—TOBIN

Tall standards of multi-colored gladioli, interspersed with ferns, formed a lovely setting in the Sacred Heart of Mary Church, Madoc, Ontario, on Saturday, June 4, at 10.00 a.m., for the marriage of Mary Aileen Tobin, of Madoc, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis C. Tobin, to Francis Paul Wainhouse, of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid T. Wainhouse. The Rev. J. G. Alcorn of Toronto, cousin of the bride, officiated.

Stanley Mathieson. Pink and white snapdragons and ferns formed the setting for the ceremony. During the ceremony the bride and bridegroom received communion.

Mr. Fred Potter, church organist, provided the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Constance Owen, of Campbellford, who sang "The Lord's Prayer".

Chatterton W.I. Topic "Food For Peace"

The June meeting of Chatterton Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Ben Bleecker, with an attendance of 21 and six children. The subject was Agriculture and convener, Mrs. Leonard Prest.

Meeting opened in the usual manner with the president, Mrs Lorne Reid, in the chair.

The roll call, 'How to do Our Own Landscaping". The point was stressed that a green lawn not cut up by ornamental trees, and flower beds, always looked nice. The perennial border and green shrubbery up around the house made a pretty lawn and could be done by an amateur.

There were three thank - you cards read, and one more from a little Greek refugee girl, that the branch had a share in helping her to get an education. The W. I. is always proud to hear from her.

The topic, "Manufacture and Shipping of Food is a Mighty Weapon for Peace", prepared by Mrs. Leonard Prest, was read by Mrs. Gerald Irvine.

At the present time flare - ups are taking place in many of the Communist - dominated countries. In each of these the pattern is the same — innocent citizens being starved and reduced to slavery.

Farms and businesses are state-controlled; Christianity suppressed, and churches closed. Brain - washing is the practice of the law courts and prisons. This is one reason why these countries are in such a low state physically and mentally. People are fearful as they recall the gas chambers and slave labor camps which often break up families.

The greatest factor in reducing a nation or an individual to bodily weakness is hunger, according to Mrs. Prest's paper. A starving people is a conquered people. The citizens of the countries have been in this state since World War II. If they saw adequate and permanent living ahead and were restored to health by food, they would regain the strength and confidence needed to protect themselves from their enemies.

Canada has never been scarred by a battleground. North America knows peace and prosperity, while suffering and disregard can be found on the other side of the Atlantic.

The paper continued by naming the need for standing armies in Canada and in Western Europe as being one of the main difficulties.

The red tape involved in shipping brings the transportation of necessary foods to a stand - still. The food supply cannot keep pace with the rapidly - growing populations of the various countries.

Another problem is that too many people are engaged in war itself and not enough are left to keep up the farms and industries. The existing farmlands and factories are therefore disorganized.

Inadequate transportation results from not having enough ships or men for the merchant marine service to carry the necessary supplies of food on regular trips.

The talk was ended by describing sheer carelessness and inertia in the people at home as a main reason for the trouble.

As the Institute is making a study this year of surface and boundaries these were capably dealt with by Mrs. Charlie Prest.

Ontario is one of the most beautiful and prosperous districts in the British Empire.

The rolling land of fertile clay or sandy loam is, in the main, admirably adapted for farming and tilled farms are found everywhere.

The only surface feature of note is the Niagara escarpment which faces towards the north and east and is well marked throughout its length. It divides Southern Ontario into two plains. The western plain is so productive, that it deserves its name, "The Garden of Ontario." Northern Ontario possesses one of the finest areas of virgin land in the world. This is the Great Clay Belt to south of James Bay.

It is a region of 16,000,000 acres of fine farming land, and when cleared of its heavy growth of timber and brought under cultivation, would easily support a population as large as the present population of the province.

A demontration in summer deserts by Mrs. Bleecker, the hostess, were used for refreshments.

Youth For Christ Banquet Fine Climax to Season's Work

The first annual Youth for Christ banquet was held in St Andrew's Presbyterian church with approximately 180 present. Many of those attending the banquet were from Picton, Winchester, Trenton, Chatham, Stirling, Marysville, Bowmanville, Plainfield, West Huntingdon, Toronto, Marmora, Brantford, Kingston and other points.

Miss Jacquelene Toms, and Mr. Joe Cox as host and hostess, graciously showed the guests to the church auditorium where organ music played softly.

Mr. Ernie Belch, who presided as chairman for the evening, gave a word of welcome to the guests after which the Rev. S. A. Spearman offered grace.

ARTISTIC ARRANGEMENT

The banquet hall was artistically arranged by Miss Joan Rowland and Mrs. J. Jeffrey, with beautiful baskets of summer flowers of deep pink and red peonies interspersed with fern. A cross, flanked with white peonies and centred with dark red American Beauty roses, stood in front of the speaker's table which was covered with a white linen cloth, and bud vases with single rosees, while colorful salads all blended to add a note of beauty.

After enjoying the delicious repast prepared by the ladies of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Mr. Walter Jewel, vice-president of YFC, thanked Mrs. Alex Williamson for their courtesy and hospitality.

Mr. Douglas Trumble conducted the song service, asking that each make the familiar chorus "Let the Beauty of Jesus Be Seen in Me", be the prayer of each and everyone present.

Mr. Alfred Hemming of Kingston, favored with two trumpet solos entitled "My Home Sweet Home" and a special arrangement of "Onward Christian Soldiers".

A Youth for Christ all girls' choir sang sweetly, "Make Me a Blessing" and "Jesus Saves".

Mrs. Bev. Foster and Mrs. Floyd Cummings were at the piano for the musical arrangements.

PRESENTATION

After the introduction of the speaker's table, a beautiful corsage of dainty pastel-pink carnations tied with pink ribbon was presented to Miss Donelda Day by Mr. Ernie Belch, president of the YFC, with best wishes, on behalf of the YFC committee, for her work in helping to establish a permanent Youth for Christ in this city.

Mr. William Stapley introduced the various YFC directors and greetings were brought from regional director, Evon Hedley, for Eastern Canada, speaking briefly on the extension work of YFC, throughout Canada and the United States, basing his thoughts upon Psalm 98:1—The Lord gave the word: great was the company of those that publish it.

Mr. Jim Blackwood, Bowmanville, and Mr. Kenneth Edwards, of Marmora, also brought greetings. The Rev. William Newell, who was to bring greetings from Oshawa, could not be present but sent his regards.

Just before the message was given Mrs. Earl Wannamaker, of West Huntingdon, soloist, rendered "It's in my Heart".

GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. Evon Hedley introduced the speaker for the evening, the Rev. Douglas C. Percy, secretary of the Sudan Mission and chairman of committee for the Billy Graham Crusade of Toronto.

By way of introduction to Mr. Percy's message, he spoke briefly on two people who were frauds and who were living a hoax, that of Charles Dawson and Quenton Reynolds, whose names appeared in headlines in 1953 and then he asked the question: "Are We Doing the Same?" bringing to attention James 4:14—"For what is your life? it is even a vapour that appeareth for a little time and then vanisheth away."

Mr. Percy went on to say that the new life in Christ Jesus is not something that is a hoax, a lie, but it has reality, purpose, and all of the ingredients of power and eternal life.

In II Timothy: 1-1 Paul spoke about the promise of life which is in Christ Jesus and exhorts each one to reach out by faith and obtain such II Tim. 1-7—"For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind".

The person who has believed on the Lord Jesus Christ and has accepted Him into his or her hearts as Saviour, has no fear of the atomic age, no fear of death or things to come in the future, but instead has a peace, love, and power that passeth all understanding.

Mr. Percy challenged the Christian young people to do greater exploits for God, that of surrendering their lives completely to His service, as stated in II Tim. 1:9—"Who hath saved us, and called us with an holy calling. Not according to our works, but according to His own purpose and grace."

Mr. Butcher, of Stirling, closed in prayer.

Children's Aid Society Gives Detailed Report

Though the members of the Board of the Children's Aid Society do not meet as a whole again until September, the work of the society continues as usual under the careful supervision of the local director, Mr. Bruce M. Kerr and his staff. At the June meeting of the Board, the executive committee was empowered to deal with any emergencies that may arise.

An excellent report of the conference of the association of Children's Aid Societies of Ontario was given by Mrs. E. E. Follwell who prefaced her remarks with the apt quotation, "No man stands so straight as he who stoops to help a child." "Seeing 725 delegates plus 25 observers—double the attendance at the convention five years ago—one realizes the interest taken in child welfare and its many problems", she continued.

CONFERENCE CONDUCTED

The following speakers were among those who conducted the conference—Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Hon. H. Bury, J. K. Robertson, Canon Judd, A. V. Piggot and J. Griffis.

Mrs. Follwell reported upon the topics under discussion and concluded her talk with the thought provoking question "What about these children of ours? Are we doing all we can to insure that they shall realize their best dreams—that the world will be a place in which they will find the good that is here? Are we helping them to grow so that they will develop into men and women of dignity and self respect?"

Mr. R. Park reported on certain changes in the constitution. These were dealt with by the members.

Mrs. John Watson spoke on behalf of the committee appointed to review an interpretive handbook for distribution to foster parents.

She considered the pamphlet would be most valuable to foster parents. "It is carefully prepared, concise and complete," she said as she thanked Mr. Kerr for his work in the preparation of the booklet, and added that her committee had received helpful insight into the work of the society. Miss E. Nurse and Mrs. W. A. Watson, members of the committee, added their favorable impressions.

Mr. C. L. Hyde read the financial statement, and reported the results of the meeting of the property committee. He submitted recommendations which were discussed and approved.

Mr. Kerr in his report, informed the members that there are now 273 children in the care of their society. Each of these children has been committed to care by the court.

The number of children placed in adoption during the last eleven months is 49, varying in age from under one year to eight years.

Miss Judith Burrows, who is an experienced social worker, has been appointed as a new member of the staff.

With wishes for a happy summer, the president, Mr. C. B. Morgan, brought the meeting to a close.

Mrs. June Armon Heads Patriarchs Militant

Mrs. Irene Aman, 77 Highland Avenue, Belleville, was installed as president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Patriarch Militant Association of Ontario, IOOF, at the annual session held in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, on Thursday.

At the time of the installation, Mrs. Aman was presented with gifts from her family and from Belleville LAPM No. 8, also telegrams from Belle Canton No. 8 and close friends.

Miss Helen Miller was installed as chaplain; Mrs. Verna Summers as color bearer; Mrs. Florence Pollitt as historian and Miss Jeana Spry as left aide to the chaplain.

Hotel Accommodation and Rates

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

"It seems that your recent column was the answer to the questions I wrote you about going to New York City. Now why not go all the way and print the names of three or four less expensive hotels so I can write them for room rates? You said they are good and as centrally located as some of the more expensive ones. How about it?" — E.L.K., Worcester, Mass.

This question is typical of so many that reached us after our column on New York that we chose to respond to it here by way of answering all the others too.

For one thing, we never—except in unusual circumstances — mention the names of hotels, restaurants, or similar commercial enterprises in this column. The editor would call that free advertising, which is not very conducive to a newspaper's earning a living.

For another thing, there are so many "first-rate second-rate" hotels in New York that it would be unfair to us to single out a few to mention at the expense of ignoring the others.

Finally, it's the easiest thing in the world to obtain all this information for yourself. Drop in at any hotel in your home town and ask the room clerk for a look at the Hotel Redbook, the standard guide of the American Hotel Association, of which nearly all respectable hotels are members.

LISTS ALL HOTELS

This book lists every member hotel, its location, number of rooms, rates, and — where advertisements are taken—a great deal of other pertinent information.

If you can't get down to the hotel, the room clerk or assistant manager on duty will be happy, over the phone, to combine his experience with a check of the redbook to assist you.

And if you do get a gander at the redbook yourself and see the number of hotels in New York, you'll have a better idea of why we could never begin to list them here. Or even by mail.

(Q) "Do railroads still charge a service charge when you buy your ticket on the train?"—P.F.L., Indianapolis, Ind.

(A) Most railroads have discontinued this practice.

EQUIPMENT AS GOOD

(Q) "Is the so-called 'coach' or 'tourist' equipment used by the airlines any different from the regular first-class equipment?" — N.S., Wichita, Kans.

(A) Only in terms of comfort, and even that doesn't apply on some airlines. Usually a seating arrangement is used which allows the plane to carry more than the usual number of passengers, thereby making up for the reduced fare. Thereby, too, goes much of the passenger's comfort. Seats are narrow and leg room scarce. On most lines three seats instead of two are placed abreast on one side of the aisle. However, a few carriers do this on their first-class planes also, making the planes interchangeable. And other lines use standard seating. On these carriers the tourist comfort stacks up to the first class.

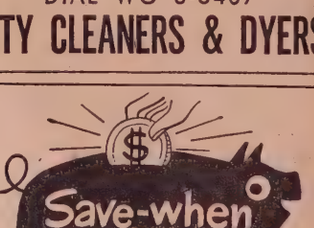
As far as crews, maintenance, safety standards, speed, dependability or anything else (except meals) is concerned, there is no difference.

(Q) "Will airlines check through garment bags on your ticket, the way you wrote recently railroads will?" — A.J.C., Boston, Mass.

(A) Yes.

HOTEL RATES

(Q) "On what factors do commercial hotels base their rates?" — M.M., St. Paul, Minn.



(A) On several things. First, the competitive situation in a city sets the general range of rates. Oddly enough, however, non-competitive situations sometimes lead to lower rates than competitive ones. One probable reason for that is that a non-competitive city indicates there is a low demand for hotel rooms and the one leading hotel has a generally hard time filling up.

Inside the house, the size of the room is usually basic in determining the rate. Next comes its proximity to the elevator. Rooms right next to or opposite the elevator are considered undesirable because of the noise of the elevator. Rooms at the very end of the hall and a long walk from the elevator are also considered least desirable. In tall hotels, rooms on upper floors are sometimes less expensive because of the long elevator ride.

Decoration, air conditioning, equipment of the room (bath and shower, or only one; television; radio, etc.) are also determining factors.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

PERHAPS THE LEGAL AID SOCIETY CAN HELP YOU

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Two years ago, my husband left me for another woman. Before that, he had been running around with women for over 20 years, but I tried to overlook it. I always worked and gave him money.

My mother loaned us money to buy a home. We sold that house for more than we borrowed from her, built another, used the same loan for it, and since then I have worked hard to try to keep things up. I put my husband's name on the house, the same as mine, but although I helped him to buy several cars, he wouldn't put my name on them.

Now, because his name is on the house, I can't sell it or do anything about it. My husband can walk in and claim his share any time. I do not have money for legal help, as I have not had full time work for over a year. I do not approve of divorce. — Mrs. H.H.

Dear H.H.:

If I understand you, what you want is to have full control of this house so that you can do what you please with it. This is purely a legal problem, and you would definitely have to have advice from a lawyer about it.

If you cannot afford to consult a lawyer, then I suggest that you get in touch with the Legal Aid Society in your area and see if they can help you. If you have the kind of problem which this organization can handle for you, and you haven't the money to pay for advice, they will advise you without charge.

For Parents Only

Good Health, Good Holiday

By NANCY CLEAVER

A happy vacation for parents is one when all the members of the family keep well. Many of these suggestions for living comfortably out of doors at a cottage, camp or in a trailer you may know. But the important thing is to get the family to co-operate in following them! Why not read them aloud, discuss them and make plans for healthy holidays!

The very first essential for a good camping site is safe drinking water. This is the one thing with which no chances can be taken, because various sicknesses, especially typhoid fever are caused by germs in polluted drinking water. The appearance of the water has nothing to do with its purity. Crystal clear water may contain harmful bacteria. The one reliable rule to follow is—when in doubt about drinking water, always boil it for half an hour or treat it carefully, according to directions with commercial preparations as as chlorine tablets.

NEED LIQUIDS

During the hot weather, children perspire freely and need to drink sufficient water to make up for the loss of moisture through their pores. Small boys and girls should not be given too much ice-cold fluid to drink.

Boiled drinking water should be cooled and then poured back and forth from one container to another to aerate it and make it palatable. Small quantities of charcoal dropped in water will absorb any odors and make water more palatable. Public Health authorities in any province co-operate in testing water from wells.

A safe milk supply is also a problem in some vacation areas. It is against the law in many provinces for unpasteurized milk to be sold. Cottage-pasteurizing over a wood fire is a bit arduous for a mother and so many families resort to the use of condensed or powdered milk. But a generous supply of fruit juices is a good health investment.

MOSQUITO LOTION

A camping site should not be chosen near a stagnant pond or a swampy district where mosquitoes breed. A site where the air can circulate easily should be picked. Some of these repellants to keep away mosquitoes and black flies are a bit strong in their odor. But But each year they are improved. Cheesecloth sprayed with an insecticide protects a small child in a crib or carriage from bites while he is asleep. The Canadian Entomological branch developed the following excellent repellant for mosquitoes, midges and flies: ½ fluid oz. Oil of Thyme, 1 fluid oz. concentrated extract of Pyrethrum, 2 to 3 fluid oz. Castor oil.

An inquiring small boy in the woods may be stung by a honey bee, hornet, or a large bumble bee. If the sting remains in the wound it must be scraped out antiseptic applied. The Indians used crushed Jewel Weed juice to soothe insect stings. Ammonia or baking soda dissolved in water can be dabbed on an insect sting. Wet mud or clay also relieves the swelling.

SNAKE BITE REMEDY

A rarer affliction is a snake bite. Harmless snakes leave a row of small punctures on the skin. A poisonous snake usually makes two punctures. A tourniquet should be applied to an arm or leg bitten by a poisonous snake. If medical help is difficult to obtain quickly, a short cross cut should be made over the punctures and the poison sucked out of the wound. If there are no cuts in the mouth, the poison from the bite will not have ill effects on the mouth or stomach.

Parents should teach their children to avoid unnecessary hazards in camping, and also what remedies should be used for accidents. A simple first aid Kit should be carried when travelling. Keep it in a locked cupboard with medicines out of the reach of tiny children.

ANOTHER SUMMER

Just another summer
Added to the store
Of the long-lost summers
That have gone before;
Just a fleeting summer
With its fruit and flowers,
Bringing to remembrance
Happy by-gone hours.

All the golden summers
Of the years long-past
Hold for us a fragrance
That for aye shall last;
Year after year is passing
With pleasure or with pain,
But their fervid impress
On the heart remain.

—Helen B. Anderson.

WELLINGTON. — Summer is here again with its fruit and flowers. Although the tulips are fading, the peonies and the poppies are in bloom and the delphiniums are in bud. A basket of beautiful flowers adorns my living-room— an appreciated gift from the congregation of the historic church at Bowerman's, when its centennial was observed on Sunday by a wonderful and inspiring service.

Plans are being made for the church vacation school for pupils in July.

Miss Helen Lane of Kingston, spent the week-end in Wellington, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lane.

Miss Mary Lumb and Gladys have been entertaining friends from Ajax, also Mrs. Wiley of Springfield, Ontario.

Members of the executive of the W.A., of the United church met at the home of Mrs. Bishop on Friday evening to arrange for the summer bazaar. They enjoyed a pot-luck supper.

Mr. Alex Tait, student at the Art School, Toronto, after enjoying a brief holiday at home, has returned to Toronto to assume his duties on the Cayuga, which makes daily trips between Toronto and Niagara during the summer season.

CENTENNIAL SERVICE

The Centennial service of the Bowerman church on June 12, was a wonderful inspiration to the vast congregation assembled to celebrate the hundredth birthday of this historic church. The service was also in celebration of the thirty years of the union of churches making the United Church of Canada. A loud speaker was provided for the benefit of the overflow congregation, many coming from Picton, Wellington, Belleville and Trenton, beside the local residents.

Rev. Alfred Poulter was in charge, assisted by former pastors, including Rev. J. F. Lane of Madoc, who extended warm greetings and read the Bible lesson; Rev. G. J. Miniellly, chairman of Belleville Presbytery, who took for his subject, "We are laborers together with God"; Rev. F. G. MacTavish of Bradford, guest preacher; Rev. J. W. Shier, Picton and Mr. D. Mounteer of Hagersville, Ontario. Mr. Charles McFaul gave warm words of welcome.

Rev. A. Poulter opened the service with a brief inspiring prayer and the choir, with Miss M. Barber, pianist, gave a selection "The Country Church". In his sermon, Rev. F. G. MacTavish took for his subject, "The Great Hours of Life" and as his theme developed, he held the close attention of the audience as he reviewed some of the outstanding hours of life, concluding with this great day in commemoration of the church's centennial and the faith and labor of the pioneers. Mr. Harold Johnston expressed thanks to the speakers. Following the service there was no immediate dispersal for old friendships were renewed and youthful memories recalled. Truly a great day in the life of the church.

SOCIAL AT ALLISONVILLE

On Monday evening, the centennial concluded with a social in Allisonville Hall which was filled to capacity. A program with Rev. A. Poulter as chairman was presented—a number of musical numbers with an address by Rev. Mr. MacTavish. Refreshments were served at the close.

While in the county, Rev. and Mrs. MacTavish were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford McFaul, and called on several friends including Rev. and Mrs. Poulter and Mrs. H. B. Anderson, Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Boyd of Indiana, are holidaying with Mrs. Boyd's father, Mr. C. McFaul and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Taylor spent a few days holidaying in Watertown and Syracuse.

Friends were very happy to welcome, Mrs. J. F. Lane, Mrs. D. Mounteer, Mrs. F. G. MacTavish, Mrs. J. W. Shier and Mrs. Miniellly at the Bowerman's centennial.

UNITED CHURCH W.M.S.

The June meetinf of the W.M.S. of the United Church was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clarence Hicks, Gilead, with a good attendance, all enjoying the drive to this pleasant home in the country. The meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. Gerald Stoneburg with Mrs. E. Maybee, pianist and Mrs. B. Hicks, secretary, who gave the report of the May meeting. Mrs. Ralph Dorland reported for temperance and Mrs. Hicks for literature. Following business discussions, Mrs. Frank Harris conducted the devotional, taking for her subject "The Light of the World." Mrs. Pierce Jones, literary president of the Presbytery, displayed and reviewed several interesting books. A vocal duet by Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Hicks was much enjoyed. Mrs. Thompwere welcome guests and Mrs. son and Mrs. Barker of Elmbrook Barker was heard in a pleasing address. The meeting closed with a social hour and refreshments.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

INVITATIONS TO AUNTS AND UNCLES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter has received an engagement ring from her fiance, who at the present time is home from service on a 30-day fulrough. I would like to have an engagement-announcement party for them, but I am at a loss to know how to word the invitation to the guests, who will be her aunts and uncles and his aunts and uncles. Will you please suggest the proper wording of this invitation? — B.

Since you probably won't have very much time to send invitations, and since you are inviting only these close relatives of the couple, it will be quite all right to telephone your invitations. Or, if you prefer, write notes of invitation. (Naturally in the invitations to a party to announce an engagement, you wouldn't mention this announcement in your invitations, whether verbal or written.) To an aunt and uncle of the prospective bride:

Dear Katherine,

Arthur and Betty and I want so much to have you and Jim come to our house for an informal little party we are giving on Saturday evening, July 16th, at 8 o'clock. Please tell us you'll surely be with us!

Love to all there from all here . . . and high anticipation of seeing you both on the sixteenth of July.

Affectionately,

To an aunt and uncle of the prospective groom:

Dear Mrs. Thompson,

My husband and I want so much to have you and your husband come to our house for an informal little party we are giving on Saturday evening, July 16th, at 8 o'clock. Your nephew, Ken Clark has promised to be with us, and we're looking forward to having you both with us also.

Friendliest greetings to you both.

Sincerely,

VAGUE PARTY INVITATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A few weeks ago I received an invitation to a housewarming to be given for a relative. There was no salutation to the invitation. It read like this: "We are having a party at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. P. (then the address was given) at 8 o'clock, April 3." The invitation was not signed, and there was no way to know who sent it. Was I wrong in thinking that this invitation was incorrectly written? And was I wrong to refuse to go to the party? — M.E.T.

You were certainly right in thinking that this invitation was incorrectly written. There should have been some information as to who was giving the party, either by a signature or an explanation of "We". It doesn't say to whom to send the reply to the invitation. Also, it doesn't mention the kind of party it is to be . . . although you say in your first sentence it was to be a "housewarming". It's all fairly vague!—Whether or not you were in the wrong to refuse to go to the party, would depend entirely on your own preference and inclination.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

REDUCING THE HIP MEASUREMENT

Fashion designers seem to take it for granted that all women have ideal figures. Consider today's long-torso look, for instance. A woman cannot possibly achieve it if her hips have expanded beyond pleasing boundaries. But that is no reason for despair. In fact, such fashions can act as an incentive to regaining a perfect figure.

After all, there is no sense in lugging around excess fat when one can dispose of it. It slows up the step, puts one in slowmoving traffic. It destroys youthful lines and is a menace to health, as the medical profession constantly points out.

There are two methods of dieting: you can cut down on the intake of food or you can cut out certain elements that build fat cells. Fats, sweets and starches are the enemies of the overweight.

Calisthenics seem like bitter medicine to the heavy woman, but, if she would make a start and continue for a few weeks, she would find that a fifteen minute workout every day will give her a sense of exhilaration and well being.

Here is a hundinger of an exercise for reducing waist, hips and thighs:

Lie flat on your back. Lift your legs slowly until you are fairly standing on the back of your neck. Lower them slowly. Repeat six times, relaxing in between; take several deep breaths and at it again.

Here's another: Lying on your back, lift the left arm and the left leg, then stretch the leg to the limit and roll over to the right. Do this one six times to the right, six to the left, relaxing between movements.

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

I must tell you how much I enjoy your column . . . the recipes are all down to earth and I'm sure any bride could learn to cook by using them alone because they are all so easy to follow and call for everyday ingredients. . . . would you please rend me your leaflet on selling home baking.—Susan G. P.

ANSWER:

I'm sorry Susan but I do not have a leaflet on selling home baking but I can tell you a cute story about some girls who are doing it and I can mail you some foolproof popular recipes.

When I was in Brandon last month and was shaking hands with some of the ladies in the audience after one of the shows, two very neat and smiling young ladies stood to one side, waiting for the greeters to depart. I could see they had something up their sleeves like a precious secret. When they did tell me who they were I said "Let me in on the secret." They showed me a little printed slip of paper and on it was printed "Six-In-One -Cookies" "For Sale" and it gave their names and addresses and information about price and mailing arrangements. They both at once started to tell me it was a recipe they had taken from this column and that they were selling these cookies as far north and west as Fort Churchill and Saskatoon. Their merry little faces gave me such a lift I could have hugged them on the spot for their enterprise.

Do start modestly. Be sure you have customers and orders for everything you make before making it. I am mailing you the recipe for the six-in-one cookies and some others that you may want to try your hand at making and selling. Good luck and let me know how you are making out and if you want more recipes for other things. Figure out your costs and add 50 per cent to arrive at your prices.

QUESTION:

I do enjoy your wonderful column. Could you tell me how to get that sour taste in rye bread that one gets in commercial loaves. We use cracked rye, caraway seeds and fennel seeds and still it is not "sour".—Mrs. P. M. M.

ANSWER:

Sour rye bread is made by keeping half of the dough from a previous batch and adding it to the next dough. This gives the acid flavor so many people like. I like it too. The black bread of European folk is made of coarse rye flour with sour milk for the liquid. After the second rising it is stirred or kneaded as long as after the first rising, and it is baked about 2 hours in slow oven. If you want more details let me know. You seem to know how to make rye bread. That is why I have not given the detailed recipe.

LETTER:

. . . in your column I noticed a recipe for mulled wine. Is it necessary for you to print recipes for rotten drinks? If your readers want them and you feel you should give them such recipes could you not send them along privately and in that way keep them out of of your column?—Mrs. David H.

ANSWER:

I am sorry to have offended you. In a column of this character I try constantly to steer a middle course and regardless of my own convictions try to answer my readers. When an answer to a request seems to be of common interest—and short—I occasionally print it here. Let me know if and when I can be of help to you at any time.

Canada Does Not Intend To Lessen Defence Efforts

---Campney

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada welcomes friendly gestures from behind the Iron Curtain but does not intend to lessen her defence effort, Defence Minister Campney said Thursday.

Military spending will continue high, the minister said as he opened a defence debate in the Commons.

"Defence is costly and will no doubt continue so," he said. Canadians were willing to pay dearly to maintain their way of life.

"The present climate of international affairs appears to be moderating," he said, "but we cannot be sure that the better weather of recent months will endure."

"While the outbreak of war now seems less likely," he added, "The imperative need for success in our policy of deterrence has increased very greatly."

PLAN FOR PEACE

"The magnitude of this increase is directly related to the tremendously greater consequences of war and is roughly proportional to the destructive power of the H-bomb as compared to the A-bomb."

The plan of Canada and her allies was, not to win a third world war, but to prevent it.

"In our thinking about defence matters today," Mr. Campney said, "the crying need is for realism. Let us not fool ourselves. Absolute security cannot be purchased, and any reasonable measure of security comes high. Canada's defence program must be kept within some sensible money limits if we are to be able, year after year, to sustain it.

"By further streamlining our administrative practices, we can effect some economies but it is . . . quite illusory to think that very substantial cuts can be made in our defence estimates without weakening our defence effort."

The minister spoke as the House opened discussion on defence estimates for 1955-56 totalling $1,775,000,000 plus other items for defence production and related matters.

ADOPT FN RIFLE

On specific points involving Canada's defence program, Mr. Campney made these statements:

1. The army has decided to adopt the Belgian-developed FN rifle as its standard rifle, following the lead of the United Kingdom and Australia.

2. It is "arrant nonsense" to talk of abolishing the army, as there will be continuing need for high-calibre ground forces in the foreseeable future.

3. Though Canada expects to spend on the air force this year approximately as much as the combined expenditures for the other services and defence research, this increasing emphasis on air is not at the expense of the other services.

4. The strength of the three regular forces at April 30 stood at 117,999 against the approved maximum strength of 120,000. The division: navy, 19,292; army, 49,187; RCAF, 49,520.

PLANS CHANGED

5. Development tests on air-to-air guided missiles have yielded good results, but as to ground-to-air guided missiles the department believes all-weather interceptor planes probably will provide the best answer to Canada's defence for the next few years.

6. The government's intention to equip RCAF auxiliary squadrons with CF-100 jets is being reconsidered in the light of belief that complex interceptors are not suitable for use by personnel engaged in full-time civilian employment.

Bees Swarm On Parked Car Owner Fined

LONG BRANCH, N. J. (AP) About 4,000 bees got sweet on Mrs. George Richter Thursday and left the main shopping centre of this shore resort in a honey of a mess.

The bees swarmed all over the front bumper of Mrs. Richter's auto. Traffic jammed. Crowds gathered. Mrs. Richter, afraid to move her car, got a ticket for overtime parking. About 200 to 300 bees on detached duty zoomed around the area. A newspaper photographer was stung on the wrist.

No bee expert could be found to lure the swarm away.

Mrs. Richter, becoming impatient, finally drove away to her home.

What happened to the bees?

"They just flew away," Mrs. Richter said.

MARMORA

Mr., Mrs. James McAvoy Celebrate 35th Anniversary

MARMORA — Mr and Mrs. James McAvoy, of Marmora township, celebrated the 35th anniversary of their wedding at their home in the 7th concession on Tuesday evening in the presence of about 75 neighbors and friends.

An eulogistic address was read by Mrs. John A. Bell, wife of a former reeve of the township and the presentation of two attractive upholstered armchairs was made by Wilbert and Gordon Jones.

Mr. McAvoy made a fitting reply of thanks.

The evening was spent chiefly in social get-together and wound up with the serving of delicious refreshments.

The marriage of the honored couple took place in the Sacred Heart Church, Marmora, on June 14th, 1920. The Rev. Father Coyle was the officiating priest. It took place but a short time after the lamented death of Rev. Father Thomas Murtagh, parish priest, over a long period.

Rev. Father H. J. Farrell (interparish priest at Marmora) was in temporary charge of the parish, but through being on vacation, necessitated the ministrations of Father Coyle.

The wedding united two families of long standing and high respect in the township.

James McAvoy is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John McAvoy, and Mrs. McAvoy is the former Mary Shannon, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Shannon.

TWO SONS

They have two sons, Michael, who served overseas during the Second World War, and John, who resides at home, and is immediate past president of Marmora Agricultural Society.

Tuesday evening's event climaxed the high regard in which the McAvoys are held locally. They reside on the farm that was the home of Mr. McAvoy's parents for so many years, and are faithful and devout members of the Sacred Heart Church.

Garden Notes

Ferns Lend Elegance to Displays

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

A lovely and unusual flower arrangement starts with a fern-ball.

The occasion may be a June wedding or any important social occasion where flowers can add a note of elegance. In June the flowers might be white Siberian iris, snaps, daisies, or stocks. Later in the year you might use carnations, chrysanthemums, sweet peas anemone, aster, corn flower, freezias, or calendulas. The flowers should not be too large, and should be good keepers, that is, they should remain in good condition for several days.

You will need approximately a bushel of fern leaves, or short pieces of cedar, and a spool of fine wire, or number 10 black thread. Form the fern, or cedar, into a ball the size of a good size cabbage, pulling the wire tight and shaping the ball as you wrap it round with the wire until you have a firm, compact ball. Fasten the wire and drop your ball into a pail of cold water for eight hours, or overnight. Drain the ball for an hour or two before starting to arrange the flowers. These too should be hardened in cold water for several hours, or overnight. Place them in a wide deep receptacle and plunge them in up to their heads but do not crowd them.

USE GLASS PLATE

Place the drained fern-ball on a glass plate, or a platter. Begin pushing in the flower stems, which have been cut to eight inches, at two inch intervals around the base of the ball. See that two, or more inches of the stem penetrates the fern. Work up higher and higher, varying the length of flower stems slightly, also their position. This will give a more natural look than placing them in straight rows. look at the results as you go. Fill in bare spots with a little foliage. This should be some fine leaf, or fern, like green material such as carrot leaves. Keep the arrangement open and avoid a packed look. Arrange a few sprays of foliage on the plate, pushing the stems into the ball to tie the flower arrangement to the container.

If you would like something different for your garden try some iris, other than the bearded types. There are the water iris, suitable for growing around your little pool. The leaves are sword-like and the flowers may be bright blue, or glowing red.

JAPANESE IRIS

Then there are the kaempferi, or Japanese iris. These are the giants of the family. They have flower spikes three feet high, with about a dozen flower stems to each plant, bearing three to four large blooms. The flowers are like small plates. They are of easy culture, and the color combinations are exotically beautiful. They bloom in mid-June.

The Siberians are smaller and excellent cutting material, in white, light and dark blue and purple. The grass-like foliage remains attractive in the border, after the blooms are passed.

UNDER ARMY'S

In his broadcast, Peron promised vigorous justice upon those responsible for the revolt, and stern punishment for roaming mobs who sacked and burned some of Buenos Aires' finest churches in the aftermath of the fighting.

Peron blamed the Communists for the vandalism against the churches, which he called "historic relics."

(The United States embassy in a report to Washington estimated that seven churches were affected by the mob violence.)

The bulk of the fighting in the capital centred around Government House on the Plaza de Mayo, which was bombed and strafed in a series of air attacks.

NO WORD ON LA FLECHE

Canada's ambassador to Argentina, Maj.-Gen. L. R. La Flèche, was reported to have been in Government House before the bombing began. There was no word up to this morning on how he had fared, as communications from the Argentine capital were blacked out for a long period after the revolt started.)

As the first bombs fell, violent fighting broke out between navy forces in the ministry of marine building and units of the army and presidential guard at Government House.

Damage in the Plaza de Mayo area apparently was heavy, although there has been no official estimate of the total. Correspondents have been barred from a first-hand inspection by a police cordon which closed off a 15-block zone to allow demolition squads to deal with unexploded bombs. The squads were continuing this hazardous task today.

Among the buildings damaged in the air attacks were the United States and British embassies.

WATCH ALL EMBASSIES

The police called out all their forces for the job of keeping an alert as the city slowly returned to normal life. A communique said that officers would be stationed at foreign embassies, presumably to prevent suspected rebels from seeking refuge under the Latin American code of diplomatic asylum.

Across the Rio de la Plata, in Montevideo, Uruguayan authorities reported that 122 Argentine naval officers and men sought sanctuary there after fleeing from Argentine in 39 planes.

The communications blackout that prevented correspondents from reporting events in the city directly to the outside world was lifted Friday night, but the correspondents were required to have their copy cleared (censored).

PERON PROMISES POLL

Peron, who was excommunicated by the Vatican a few hours before the revolt broke out, insisted in his broadcast that "we are not fighting religion."

At issue, he said, was the question of whether the Roman Catholic Church should remain the official state church.

He urged again and again that Argentinos remain calm and let this issue be settled at the polls, probably late this year, when an assembly is scheduled to be elected to consider amending the constitution to cut these ties.

FINANCE

After counting the money the men headed for the street. Desormeau shouted "holdup" and he and Jones gave chase. The bandits tried to throw them off by running into a crowded department store but Jones saw them emerging from one of the exits.

As he caught up with them, Jones grabbed one man but he wriggled loose. Jones then poked his head through an open window of the taxi, eyewitnesses said, and told the bandit to return the money.

The cab driver, Pete Brittain, quoted Jones as saying: "Hand over the money you took from our office."

BROUGHT UP GUN

"The man in the cab put his hand in his pocket as though getting the money," Brittain said. "He opened the door and stepped out. Then he pulled a gun and brought it up as though to hit Jones."

The driver said the gun, an automatic pistol, discharged as the gunman was bringing it down on Jones' head.

Four Toronto and two Brantford officers were in on the raid at Brantford. Bayliss was taken into custody at 2:15 a.m. After brief questioning in the house, a single-storey wartime home, he was lodged in cells at police headquarters.

Police said they also were questioning two men who were in the house.

The Toronto policemen, inspector Adolphus Payne, detective-sergeants Ernest Gill and Jack Gillespie and sergeant James Mackey, were at Brantford police headquarters when they got word from officers on stakeout to make the raid.

Detective sergeant Charles Kellas and detective Gordon Crococek helped the Toronto officers.

LEFT ADDRESS

Toronto police said they found a scrap of paper on which the Brantford address was written during a search of Toronto rooming houses and hotels.

They telephoned Brantford police and asked them to keep a watch on the house. From 9 p.m. to after 2 a.m. Det.-Sgt. Kellas and Det. Crocock kept the house under observation. Just after the four Toronto officers arrived at Brantford police station, the detectives radioed that a car had entered the driveway of the house.

Eight officers with guns drawn entered the house and arrested Bayliss. They said he had about $300 with him.

Bayliss was taken to Brantford police headquarters and charged with murder. Later, the police said they found a gun believed to have been used in the holdup.

Around 8 a.m. Toronto police left with Bayliss to bring him here.

Parley on Costs of Relief Fixed for Ottawa on Monday

OTTAWA (CP) — Representatives of the federal government and the provinces meet here Monday to exchange views for federal sharing of unemployment relief costs but observers here don't expect any final formula will come out of the conference which probably will last two days.

Informants say the federal authorities have ready for submission a proposal that some of the province's won't like. It would in effect mean that the federal government would not share the unemployment relief costs on the first 150,000 Canadians on relief.

Federal officials are said to take the view that about one per cent of the population, or about 150,000 people, are semi - permanent or permanent relief cases and should continue to be the total responsibility of the provinces.

Some provinces are known to be seeking a formula by which the federal government would bear the full cost of unemployment relief. Others want the central government to eliminate any proposal for a floor on federal sharing of the costs.

Because of this, informants believe the likely outcome of the Monday meeting will be that the provincial delegates will return home for further consultation with their cabinets on the federal offer and will give their reply to the federal government later.

Informants say that if the provinces are unyieldingly opposed to the federal proposal to share the cost only on able-bodied unemployed then the central government might agree to reduce the proposed one per cent floor to three-quarters or one-half of one per cent. But federal authorities are pictured as not prepared to agree to complete elimination of floor.

Chisox Whip Yanks, Peek At Top Spot As Tribe Splits; Dodgers Win

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

WHAT, NO HOCKEY HERE?

This department has apparently failed to convince the sports editors of the senior "B" circuit that Belleville has not as yet entered a team in the group. All apparently have taken it for granted that this village, which has been represented in the upper shinny brackets since way back when, will be around when the whistles toot for the first face-off.

Gentlemen, we have news for you.

Belleville has not entered a team—and present indications point to non-participation in senior "B" hockey next season. These are the cold facts.

And a strong rumor has it that the arena will not make ice next winter—and may close its doors.

City hall circles have it that an offer has been received from a private individual to rent the arena, on a percentage basis. What has actually transpired is not known but one source has it that the private individual's rental future is about half of that demanded by the arena commission.

So there you are. Unless something short of a miracle happens Belleville senior hockey fandom will be forced to go out of town to see their favorite winter sport.

And while on this hockey subject we note where the group powers-that-be have decided to engage the services of a publicist. This smacks strongly of the Cornwall and Whitby managements—and we can well understand why the Whitbyites would like some publicity.

Other centres gave the group excellent coverage and pre-game publicity. This corner wrote it for the "Tely," while friend Devine looked after the G and M coverage. Just how much do some guys want—for free? And incidentally, we have a letter on file from the Canadian Press advising us that other than the bare scores, they use nothing in story form under the pro loops and senior "A" and junior "A".

"NO, NO, BOBO"

Carl "Bobo" Olson, Hawaiian-born middleweight champion, takes on a tough job next Wednesday when he will attempt to wrest the light-heavyweight bauble from the kinky noggin of one Archie Moore.

Olson will not beat Moore, in this corner's opinion, but "Kid Scales" might turn the trick.

Right at the moment the 38-year-old light-heavy champ is battling desperately to beat the "Kid" and get himself down to the required 175 pounds. The whole matter is strictly hush-hush and is one of the best publicity blurbs to come out of boxing since Tony Galento threatened "I'll moider da bum" before his fight with Joe Louis.

It could be that the weight question will decide the issue, although we cannot see the flailing Olson, who seems to have as many fists as an octopus has tentacles, defeating the master-boxer Moore, a crafty, cunning fighter, who waits for the opportunity and then cashes in on it.

But don't sell the Bobo short. He has beaten heavyweights before but you never saw their names in lights.

Olson got his first close-up of the fighting negro the other day at the office of the New York Athletic Commission. He wasn't impressed by the sight. In fact he waxed a bit cocky.

"The guy ain't as big as I thought," Olson said, "but big or small, I expect to throw with him."

"I've done it before to heavyweighs and lived to tell the tale," he told reporters. "Lloyd Marshall weighed 177 to my 166 when I fought him in Honolulu in 1951. He clipped me with the hardest right I've ever been nailed with in the third round and had me on the deck, but I fixed him in the fifth."

But lest we forget, Marshall was not even a run-of-mine heavyweight. Don Cockell, British champion, and Harry Matthews knocked him stiff in one round. Then Marshall hung 'em up for good.

Olson defeated another heavyweight, Tommy Harrison, who fought Earl Walls not so long ago and failed to impress anybody. However, he earned decisions over Charley Norkus, Jimmy Bivins, Wes Bascom and Paul Andrews which should rate him something or other.

Olson's last defeat came at the hands of Sugar Ray Robinson who split-decisioned him at San Francisco with the middle title at stake. Bobo has not intruded on any other class than his own until he beat the bulbous Joey Maxim early this year. He weighed 166 for Uncle Joey and expects to make 170 for Marse Archibald.

Bobo opines that added weight makes him punch the harder with a reverse effect on Moore. "I'll beat this guy," he said, oozing confidence, "by wearing him down to my speed. Then I'll polish him off when he tires."

Olson admits Moore is a good fighter but after seeing him in three bouts with Maxim and one with Harold Johnson, figures he is ripe for the Bobo attack. "Remember," he said, "he has to make the weight for this one and he won't be strong."

"He had to make it for Johnson," a reporter said, "and managed to knock him out in the fourteenth round."

"Yeah," said Olson, "but he won't tag me like that, and remember I have no worries about weight. I can eat anything I want to."

So much for Mr. Olson. We are of the opinion, to use an old slangerism, that he "has bitten off more than he can chew."

TO PLAY EXHIBITION

VANCOUVER (CP)—B.C. Lions announced Friday they will play an exhibition football game against Toronto Argonauts in Empire Stadium here Aug. 15. City council agreed to the game after Lions said they would use the proceeds to help pay the cost of rebuilding the stadium field.

MATCH CHARLES

CHICAGO (AP — Ezzard Charles, former heavyweight champion, and Paul Andrews of Buffalo, N. Y., Friday were matched in a 10-rounder at the Chicago Stadium, Wednesday, July 13.

Donovan Has Bombers Crazy With Slow Breaking Stuff; 'Newk' Wins 11th, Hits Homer

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Those Chicago White Sox leave a pretty strong impression for a club that's supposed to be a weak sister expected to drop out of the American League race any minute now.

Manager Marty Marion's athletes, virtually the same bunch who failed before under Paul Richards, have generally been disregarded as a threat by first-place New York, but after spilling the Yanks 2-1 Friday night, the Pale Hose are just two percentage points shy of the lead.

Cleveland, the team the Yanks figured they have to beat, is 2½ back, beating Boston 3-2 after losing 6-5 in the afternoon portion of the day-night twinbill. Fourth-place Detroit was beaten 3-2 in 11 innings by Baltimore and Kansas City defeated Washington 4-2.

BROOKS CHARGE AHEAD

Brooklyn extended its National League lead to 11½ games again, breaking a two-game losing streak by walloping St. Louis 12-1 as Don Newcombe won his 11th. The runnerup Chicago Cubs were spilled by Philadelphia 3-2 while Milwaukee moved to within a game of third-place New York by defeating the Giants' 5-4 in 10 innings.

And Cincinnati, after beating Brooklyn two straight, lost to tail-end Pittsburgh 3-1.

Righthander Dick Donovan, who was sent packing by the old Boston Braves and Detroit Tigers in previous attempts at the big time, won his eighth against two defeats for the White Sox and drove the Yanks crazy with slow, breaking stuff. He had a two-hitter and a 1-0 lead until Mickey Mantle belted his 15th homer to tie it in the eighth.

Then Gerge Kell, the third baseman with the back miseries, fouled off Whitey Ford's attempt to give him an intentional pass on a 3-1 count and followed with a single that scored Nellie Fox with the winning run in the ninth.

EXTENDS STREAK

Fox had gotten the fourth hit off Ford (7-3) to run his consecutive game streak to 13.

Marion then called in Sandy Consuegra, who has relieved in four of the Sox' last five games, to wrap it up after Irv Noren singled to open the Yank ninth.

Some 33,744 fans sat in on the Yankee Stadium thriller—just a few more than the 33,014 who watched Cleveland's Ray Narleski one-hit the Bostons after Norb Zauchin's two-run double in the first. Narleski, a last-minute change for Art Houtteman, who showed up with a blister on his hand, pitched a four-hitter while breaking the Red Sox' four-game string.

Billy Klaus homered and got three singles to drive in five runs as Boston made it nine out of 10 in the day game.

ALSO HOMERED

Newcombe, only once beaten this season, added his fifth homer to the 16-hit Brook attack that gave the Dodgers their first success of the season at St. Louis. Duke Snider belted his 21st and 22nd homers.

The Giants caught up with the Braves with three runs in the eighth and made it 4-4 in the ninth after Milwaukee regained the lead with a run in their half of the eighth. Danny O'Connell's single after George Crowe's double finally won it for the Braves.

It was a single and double combination that won in extra innings for Baltimore, too. Chuck Diering thumped the scoring punch after reliefer Art Shallock had singled for the fifth hit off loser Steve Gromek. The Tiger veteran had fanned 10 and walked just one.

Another oldtimer, Max Surkont, had better luck, blanking Cincinnati until Gus Bell's sixth-inning homer and then winning his sixth as Ramon Mejias doubled home the lead marker in a two-run Pirate seventh.

Leafs Break Losing String, Defeat Chiefs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was "home sweet home" in Toronto, Montreal, Rochester and Columbus today after triumphant homecomings in the International League Friday night.

For Toronto, the return to friendly Maple Leaf Stadium saw the end of the champion's three-game losing streak—their longest of the season—with a 3-2 victory over the Syracuse Chiefs. Leaf ace Cliff Johnson and Syracuse's Seth Morehead dueled for ten innings before Pete Castiglione broke it up with a base hit, Toronto's sixth safety of the evening. Johnson, who yielded 11 blows, became the first pitcher in the league to notch his ninth triumph—he's lost twice.

Buffalo put the skids on Havana's recent surge, handing the Kings their second straight defeat, 4-3, while Montreal remained half a game off Toronto's pace as they whipped Richmond 7-1. No - hit Duke Markell's neat five hitter downed Columubs 4-1 before 5,500 fans at Red Wing Stadium.

FOURTH STRAIGHT

Russ Sullivan's fourth inning home run deprived Markell of a shutout as Rochester moved to its fourth consecutive victory with centerfielder Jack Brand's single, double and triple packing the winners offense.

The Sugar Kings fell to a game and a half out of the lead, losing after two were out in the ninth when Bison Buddy Hick's fourth hit of the night scored Chick King with the winning tally. Havana jumped off to a 3-0 lead, but Wayne Belardi evened it up in the sixth with a three-run homer.

Montreal experienced a little difficulty with Richmond starter Jocko Thompson, who set the first 12 Royals down in order. But a six-run uprising in the sixth wrapped up the contest as Don Drysdale won his sixth game in nine decisions for Montreal.

The Shadow of The Hogan "Hawk" Lies Over US Open Golf Tourney

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The shadow of "The Hawk" lay over the U.S. open golf tournament again today.

Ben Hogan, the limping four-time champion dubbed "The Hawk" by his touring pro companions, was one stroke off the pace as the field of 58 squared away for the gruelling 36-hole finals of the 55th-annual tournament.

Holding the lead, but looking over their shoulders at the man seeking an unprecedented fifth Open title, were amateur Harvie Ward Jr. of San Francisco and tempestuous Tommy Bolt, each with 144.

Hogan himself was bracketed with three others—two of them virtual unknowns on the golf circuit—with 145. Walker Inman Jr. of Augusta, Ga., and Jack Fleck of Davenport, Ia., equalled Hogan's 36-hole total. So did Julius Boros, the 1952 Open titlist.

KESSELRING QUALIFIES

Only one of three Canadians qualified for the final rounds. He was Jerry Kesselring of Kitchener, who cut three strokes from his Thursday score of 79 for a two-day total of 155, cutoff point for qualifiers.

Vancouver's Bill Mawhinney came in with an 80, three strokes more than his Thursday score. Rudy Horvath of Windsor, Ont., added five strokes for an 84 and a two-day total of 159.

The 42-year-old Hogan, obviously dreading the long double tour today over the rough-strewn 6,700-yard lake course of the Olympic Country Club, brooded late Friday as he finished his round. He studied his card intently but had little to say.

BOLT IS ANGRY

Bolt, the quick-tempered Texan who chopped three strokes off par with a 67 on his opening round, skyrocketed to a 77 Friday and stalked angrily from the clubhouse.

"I have nothing to say to newspaper men," he stormed, in contrast to his affable attitude of 24 hours earlier. Later he made a token appearance in the press room

The purse for the tournament is $24,000, with winner pocketing $6,000. Endorsements and personal appearances, however, raise the winner's pot to thousands of dollars more than that.

Petes Whip Fergus 24-8

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Peterborough Trailermen whipped Fergus Thistles 24-8 here Friday night to keep their first-place position in the Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior League.

Trailermen took a 9-2 lead in the first period and were ahead 15-4 at the end of the second. Only mixup of the night was when Thistles' Jay Jay Hill and Harry Wipper tangled in the first frame and drew match penalties for swinging sticks with intent to injure.

Ike Hildebrand and Bob Curtis each scored five goals for Peterborough, Bobby Allan got four, Bob Thorpe, three, and Curly Mason, two. Jim Heffernan, Grant Burns, Lou Nickle, Carl Brioux and Rocky Batley scored singles.

Jack Sibbaled tallied three goals for Fergus and singles were notched by Al Garbutt, Jim Burr, Lloyd Smith, Don Gear and Jack Ashbee.

"Rasslin" Royalty Beaten After Referees Disagree

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

There ain't no justice!

There might be deep in the heart of Texas but not here in Belleville after a couple of alleged officials last night could not agree and those smug deep-dyed villains from the Lone Star state snuck out of the arena with a gifted victory under their collective belts.

It happened thisaway.

To make the story as brief as permissible, in the first place Pathrick O'Flanagan, boss man of the Tooney Looney troupe, informs us with large globular tears in his eyes that one Jack Dempsey, whom we free-loaded with publicity all week was sick and could not officiate.

Well and good. Anyone is liable to get sick. Especially in the rassle ra . . . (Oops pardon) wrestling game. And especially when a big name like Dempsey is supposed to have, does not show up.

But to get back to the fight?

TWO REFS

They tossed a couple of guys in there to act as officials. One was the well-known Toronto hotel dick Bert Maxwell and the other was Billy Stack a wrestler from Bowmanville who tossed aside the trunks for the whistle. Did a good job, too.

Except that he did not agree with the officials official Mr. Maxwell, who by his alleged seniority, proved himself judge and jury, and rendered the final verdict.

As a matter of fact the pair of officials almost staged a battle of their own when the riot was over.

This reporter had to resort to Mr. Flanagan for the final result. The balding Irisher told us that the Royalty Kids, Prince Malava of Samoa and Lord Athol Layton of Surrey, (no fringe on the top) and other over 'ome points were disqualified. Why? You see Mr. Flanagan or Mr. Maxwell. Dagnabbit, Stack was "agin' it".

ADDED FEW GIMMICKS

Lest we forget, the Texas Tornadoes were Lou Plummer and Dick Raines and after last night's performance we realize why the Lone Star State has more or less excommunicated them. We would hate to think that any of the 48 would recognize such ornery hombres.

They committed about everything that is not in the wrestling book of words — and added a few gimmicks of their own. But the Prince and his blue-blooded British "poodle" furnished the most of the color and were tops with the fans.

Prince Malava provided a lot of the color with his jumping - jack tactics while the tall stately Layton, hair tossed willy - nilly, got in a few powerful licks of his own. His famous judo chop was missing the most of the time for the royal pair figured they could whip the hell out of the Texas team without resorting to their aces in the hole.

However the dizzy duo from south of the border wrapped up the first fall in twenty minutes but fell to the wiles of the royal pair in the second. Came the third with everybody out of the ring in a battle royal but somehow Maxwell and Stack clambered back while they looked over the crowd for the principal actors.

Then out of the blue Mr. Maxwell became embroiled in a verbal argument with Mr. Stack. It seems Maxwell liked what the Texans did and did not approve of the royalty rampages. So he declared them ineligible and lifted high the Texan flippers in victory.

The crowd roared its disapproval, so Mr. Tunney, let's have 'em back again.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Back in the '20s when he twice was driving the Yankees to three straight pennants, Miller Huggins would moan of the trials and tribulations of managing a championship club. It was twice as hard to win the second fing as the first one, he said, and three times harder to take the third in a row.

He referred, of course, to the headaches accrued in trying to keep a group of sudden-rich young athletes interested in playing ball at full speed. They were inclined to feel, Hug lamented, that they could scare the opposition into defeat again merely by tossing their gloves on the field.

Leo Durocher is finding now, for the third time in a comparatively brief managing career, that you can't treat a lot of affluent ball players like heroes during the winter and expect all of them to play their hearts out for you the following spring. Leo underwent the painful experience once before in Brooklyn and again at the Polo Grounds with his miracle boys of '51.

A BIT TOO MUCH

Those looking for an explanation of the Giants' rather shoddy showing thus far suggest that Leo might have made just a little too much of Willie Mays and Dusty Rhodes in his talks on the banquet circuit. Both of them are able to read, and they must have been impressed.

While the Giants' immortals were devoting the off months to signing autographs and eating rubber chicken at sports gatherings, the Dodgers for the most part had little to do but sit around and get mad each time they thought about the bale of money they had let slip away.

Walt Alston's boys were noticeably quiet during spring training. This was mistakenly, it now would seem, taken as a sign that they were feuding with manager Walt Alston and blaming him for their troubles in '54. Looking back, we are inclined to think now that they simply were fed up with reading about Willie Mays in every magazine they picked up. The first time we entered their clubhouse in Florida we got the salutation:

"'What are you doing here? Why aren't you out in Phoenix writing about the great man?"

Orfuns Roll To Seventh Softball Victory

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The Belleville Orfuns pounded four Bobcat pitchers for 18 hits while the disorganized Temple crew bobbled the ball on seven occasions last night at the C.N.R.A.A. with the undefeated Orfuns grabbing a fantastic 23-3 victory.

Big Bruno McCurdy hurled excellent ball for his third win of the season, allowing but two singles, neither of them figuring in the Bobcat runs. He claimed eight on strikes, while walking ten, four in the first frame and three in the ninth.

Al Adams started for the losers, giving way in the fifth frame after surrendering 10 runs on 13 hits, many of them the scratchy type. He was followed by Junior Day, Skip Dracup in the sixth and Bob Temple in the eighth. They combined to walk 16 batters while Day fanned one.

The winners broke up a 1-1 tie with five runs in the second and continued to score in every inning but the fourth and ninth. The Bobcats gathered one in the first stanza on four walks, another in the fifth on a walk, stolen base and Dave Jones' two-base error and finished with one in the ninth on three walks and a wild pitch.

Batchelor's double and singles by Barclay, Carr, Bromley and McCurdy featured the Orfuns second-frame rally but they scored seven runs in the eighth on only two hits, singles by Hull and Belnap, four walks and two errors among other things. Four runs in the sixth were scored without a single hit, five walks, errors, passed balls and wild pitches doing the damage.

Claude Carr and John Batchelor paced the Spafford-Dolan crew with the wood, Carr blasting a triple and two singles, while Batchelor clubbed a pair of two-base blows and a single. Don Barclay had a trio of singles; Jack Wardhaugh two; Glenn Young two, with one each for McCurdy, Bromley, Belnap, Hull and Locke.

Harry Wardhaugh and Doug Bone lined singles to left centre field for the losers, the former's in the fifth and Bone's in the eighth.

Don Dolan, Orfun manager, was ejected from the park for arguing with base umpire Mike Whalen in the top of the second.

Line-ups:

Orfuns — Barclay, Russell, J. Wardhaugh, Hull, Batchelor, Belnap, Young, Carr, Jones, Bromley, Soule, McCurdy.

Bobcats — Creeggan, H. Wardhaugh, Woods, Lockyer, Bone, Dracup, Empy, Letman, Temple, Adams, Duesbury, Day.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Major League Scout and Instructor

According to Charlie Grimm, manager of the Milwaukee Braves, the importance of the run determines what you do and whether the situation makes the double steal possible. The speed of the runners and ability of the batter are other considerations. The catcher, second baseman and shortstop signal each other if they expect a steal.

The catcher is the key man in this play. He must "look" the lead runner back to third as he starts to throw to second.

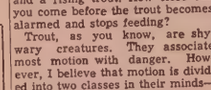
The first baseman calls the play, shouting "There he goes!" as the runner breaks from first base. The first baseman stays at first base in case of a possible pickoff or rundown play.

The second baseman covers second base for the throw from the catcher. He must make a quick glance at the runner at third base and take a step or two to meet the throw and speed its return to the catcher if the runner breaks for home plate. If the runner at third doesn't break, the second baseman stays at the base to make a play on the runner coming from first base.

The shortstop backs up second base. If the hitter bats left-handed, the shortstop may take the throw and the second baseman back up the base.

The outfielders race in to back up the bases as indicated in the diagram in case there is a wild throw.

Solunar Notes



Short-Line Trout Fishing

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT.
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables.)

The more I fish, the more firmly it is brought home to me that fishing is indeed a complex sport. It is not possible, I'm convinced, for one man to learn all there is to know about angling. In the words of one well-know writer is is summed up quite well. "Count that day lost," he says, "whose setting sun finds you on lake or stream without having gained at least one item of useful fishing lore."

For example, consider the distance that is required between you and a rising trout. How close can you come before the trout becomes alarmed and stops feeding?

Trout, as you know, are shy, wary creatures. They associate most motion with danger. However, I believe that motion is divided into two classes in their minds—friendly and unfriendly motion.

Few things in the outdoors, not associated with fear or danger, move swiftly or suddenly. Trees, bending in the wind, move slowly. Animals which are not alarmed rarely move quickly or rapidly. In short, slow motion is friendly motion.

TRICKED A TROUT

The other day, wishing to learn what I could about motion and proximity, I tried an experiment. In a long, rather shallow "flat" I spotted a brown trout feeding actively to a drifting hatch of flies. He was downstream from me, which made wading easier, so I moved toward him, placing my hobbed shoes carefully on the creek bottom and wading very slowly.

Before long the little trout was less than rod length away. I stood quite still and watched him take at least a half-dozen flies. Then—admittedly a dirty trick—I dapped my artificial fly on the surface above his feeding station. Up he came and took it solidly. I handled him gently, removed the small hook, and set him free with admonitions to grow larger and smarter.

Some years ago I was fishing the big May-fly hatch on Brodhead's Creek, Pa. My interest in a king-size brown trout some distance away was interrupted by a noble splash directly behind me. I turned and saw, not ten feet from me, some impressive "rings" spreading on the surface.

Carefully, without hurried motions, I stripped in line and then flicked the fly out over my shoulder, as though I were making a short back cast, allowing the fly to settle to the surface. Up came the trout, slightly better than two pounds, and five minutes later he was in my landing net. But one quick move on my part would have sent him flying for safety.

Using the "friendly-motion" theory, and wading slowly and carefully, it is possible to fish for trout quite successfully with a very short line. Moreover, there are methods that can be employed with a short line that cannot be used with a long cast.

"BUMP-CASTING"

For example, there is the method known as "bump-casting." This is how it is done. Using a short line, the cast is thrown at a spot some three feet above the surface of the water. As the cast completes itself, the rod tip is raised so that the fly strikes the water at an angle, jumping and skipping several times before coming to rest. The method is quite effective, particularly in broken water, and often will produce trout when more orthodox methods will not.

Again, consider what the salmon anglers call "scratching." This is done with a cast of wet flies. Using a rather short line, the flies are cast diagonally across the current "across and down." Then the rod tip is alternately raised and lowered.

This causes the flies to rise and skip at the surface, then to sink and drift, and again to rise and skip at the surface, up and down until the cast is fished out. This method also is effective and often produces good results.

With any of these short-line methods, however, one thing is of vital importance—wade carefully and quietly so as to cause the absolute minimum of disturbance. If you do this, you have the advantage of being able to fish a short line and to avail yourself of its many variations. A false move, however, such as stumbling or losing your balance, will certainly spoil your fishing, at least for the time being while the trout recover from their fright.

Enter Race In Detroit

DETROIT (AP) —Nine unlimited class speedboats — eight of them Gold Cup hopefuls—have entered today's seventh annual Maple Leaf regatta, to be contested on the Detroit river.

Qualifying runs were scheduled in the morning, with three heats comprising the finals in the afternoon.

Last year's winner, Gale V, again is in charge of Lee Schoonmith of Detroit. Gale V's sister, Gale IV, is driven by another Detroiter, Bill Cantrell, who was victorious in the President's Cup last year.

The lone non-Detroit boat is Miss Supertest, from London, Ont., and Ont.

Each heat is 15 miles, with points given to the boats in the order of finish.

Pt. Anne Whips Madoc 16-0 For Third Win

The second place Point Anne Cementmen buried Madoc 16-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Pat Maracle and an 18-hit attack at Madoc last night in a scheduled Belleville and District softball league game. The win was Point Anne's third against as many losses for a .500 percentage.

Pat Maracle registered his third victory of the season, spacing four hits, one in each of the second, fourth, sixth and seventh innings while whiffing 11 Madoc batters and walking only one. He hit three batters.

The victors opened up the big guns with three tallies in the first frame, added two in the third, five in the fifth, two in the sixth and after plating a singleton in the seventh, sent home three more in the ninth stanza.

Eric McInroy sweat through the first four 2/3 innings, giving up nine runs oft ten hits, getting two on strikes and walking four. Wayne Shaw completed the game, fanning a pair and walking two.

Gerry Goyer's double drove in a pair, on by walks, in the initial frame, Logue singling him home. A double by Wade and infield hits by Bennett and Logue plated two in the third. Gilmour and Maracle hit doubles in the fifth - inning rally while singles by Goyer and Bennett helped, with three walks.

An error to Burnside on Goyer's fly, Bennett's infield hit and Rusty Logue's double made it 12-0 in the sixth while singles by Lally and Elliott added to the total in the seventh. Extra-base blows told the story in the ninth. Lally singling, Elliott and Wade hitting triples and Bennett a double for three runs.

Phil Bennett set a blistering pace at bat with a double and three singles while Rusty Logue slammed a double and a brace of singles. Jake Wade clouted a triple and double, Elliott a single and triple, Gerry Goyer a double and single and Tom Lally two singles. Pat Gilmour and Maracle doubled while Horwood also hit safely, a single.

Harry Brown had a triple for Madoc and Fred Nickle a double while singles went to Bob Schofield and Tommy Burnside.

Tiger-Cats Sign Three

HAMILTON (CP)—Carl Voyles, coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football Union, Friday night announced the signing of three import players, including former Argonaut quarterback Nobby Wirkowski. Ten Canadian players also have signed contracts with the club.

Voyles, whose team last year suffered from an acute lack of good pass-receiving ends, said his two latest acquisitions are ends Tom Jelly and Charlie Jones. Voyles now has signed 17 Americans. Six of the imports are ends.

Jelly, 27, recently released from the United States marines, played one season with Pittsburgh Steelers.

Canadians under contract include tackle Paul Ivanich of Port Colborne, guard Robert Zuzuk of Beamsville, half Edgar Kondziolka of Grimsby, and end Jim Baberad of Port Colborne.

Westlake Will Go to Orioles

BALTIMORE (AP) — General manager Paul Richards of the Baltimore Orioles said Friday night outfielder Wally Westlake, late of the Cleveland Indians, has notified him he would report here Sunday or Monday.

The Indians traded Westlake, outfielder Dave Pope and some cash to the Orioles Wednesday for outfielder Gene Woodling and infielder Billy Cox.

Westlake said earlier he hadn't decided whether to report to Baltimore.

Cox also balked and said he had decided to retire. Cox's reporting deadline is Sunday.

Oshawa Wins But Who Looks at 'Em

OSHAWA (CP) — Oshawa Merchants, already established as the top hitting team in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League, added 22 more base hits to the records Friday night as they turned back Galt Terriers 20-4.

Rightfielder Hal Keller and Harry Schaeffer, two former International League players with Toronto Maple Leafs, were the only Merchants who went hitless.

Galt sent four moundsmen into the game to stop the Oshawa hitting splurge.

Playing-manager Roy Lefebvre was the sparkplug for the winners, collecting four hits in six trips to the plate. He bashed out a double and a home run which drove in three runs.

Fred Thomas homered for Oshawa and hit two singles good for three runs, Galt scored all four runs in the seventh when five of the first seven batters hit safely, sending starter Schaeffer to the showers.

Four Teams Seek Olympics Hockey Glory

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, Allan Cup hockey winners this year, said Friday they are interested in representing Canada at the 1956 Olympic Games.

Directors of the club met Friday with George Dudley, Canadian Amateur Hockey Association secretary-manager, to discuss ratification of such a trip.

Dutchmen are one of four teams seeking the Olympic nomination. The others are Fort William Beavers, Allan Cup finalists this year; Kingston Goodyears, Ontario Hockey Association senior B champions; and Brandon Intermediates, western Canada champions.

Dudley said the CAHA decision will be announced at its August meeting. The CAHA would pay all travel, hotel and living costs but other expenses would have to be paid by the club.

The tournament will be played in late January and the Canadian team competing will be able to return home in time to take part in league playoffs.

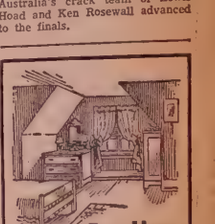
Pitching — Ray Narleski, Indians, tossed a four-hitter to sidetrack Boston 3-2 after the Red Sox had won 6-5 in the first half of a day-night doubleheader.

Hitting—Billy Klaus, Red Sox, powered a three-run homer and drove in two other runs while adding three singles in Boston's 6-5 first game decision over Cleveland.

South African Teen-Ager Nets Second Upset



LONDON (AP)—A chubby, 15-year-old girl from South Africa scored her second successive upset Friday to overshadow the men's singles play in the London grass courts tennis championships.

The tournament's chief claim to fame is the fact it's the final warmup for next week's Wimbledon tournament, and it did provide a stiff practice for Darlene Hard and Mrs. Beverly Baker Fleitz, both of Long Beach, Calif., before they finally won the women's doubles title. They had to work overtime to defeat Britain's top doubles team, Angela Mortimer and Anne Shilcock, 8-6, 3-6, 6-3 in the final.

But it really wasn't a Wimbledon warmup for young Jean Forbes, the surprising miss from South Africa. She's too young for Wimbledon, but she played well enough Friday to defeat Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of Alameda, Calif., 6-3, 3-6, 6-2. Mrs. Knode is fifth in the Wimbledon women's seedings.

Thursday it was Miss Hard, only 19 herself and seeded sixth at Wimbledon, who felt the power of Miss Forbes' game.

In the overshadowed men's play, Australia's crack team of Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall advanced to the finals.

AT THE CAPITOL — Broderick Crawford, one of the stars in Edward Small's presentation for Warner Bros. "New York Confidential," also co-starring Richard Conte, Marilyn Maxwell, Anne Bancroft and J. Carrol Naish. On the same program more excitement in "Terror Ship," starring William Lundigan. Both attractions are first Belleville showings and open at the Capitol Theatre Monday evening.

AT THE CAPITOL

'NEW YORK CONFIDENTIAL'

'New York Confidential,' the film story which bares the secrets of the international crime cartel, opens Monday at the Capitol Theatre. For its first Belleville showing.

An Edward Small presentation from Warner Bros., "New York Confidential" stars Broderick Crawford, Richard Conte, Marilyn Maxwell, Anne Bancroft and J. Carrol Naish.

Broderick Crawford, Academy Award winner, is seen in the role of Lupo, the boss of the organization's operations. Richard Conte is Nick Magellan, the cool-as-ice killer who accepts the "contracts" (assignments to kill) from the crime leaders — even if it means his own life. Marilyn Maxwell appears as crime-boss Lupo's girl. Her wardrobe, especially designed for this picture, created a sensation at the Hollywood premiere of the film, it is reported.

The film is said to illustrate the "kill-theory" of the modernday underground: Hire a good friend to stop your enemy; then find someone else to do in your friend. This "theory" and other machinations of the syndicate are reputedly exposed in "New York Confidential." The original screenplay suggested from the story by two of the country's top crime reporters, was prepared for the screen by Clarence Greene and Russell Rouse, co-producers with Edward Small. Russell Rouse directed.

On the same program more excitement in "Terror Ship" starring William Lundigan.

AT THE BELLE — A fiery clash of temperaments punctuate the romance between Tyrone Power and Susan Hayward, in 20th Century Fox's stirring action-packed romantic African adventure, "Untamed, co-straring Richard Egan, showing today, Monday and Tuesday at the air-conditioned Belle Theatre.

Showgirl Sets Off 'Women's Prison' Riot Over Revels

Motion picture producer Bryan Foy, who gave us such powerful prison films as, "Canyon City," "Alcatraz" and "Behind the Walls of Folsom," now turns the penetrating eye of his movie cameras on a "Women's Prison." The new dramatic shocker, Columbia Pictures' "Women's Prison," starring Ida Lupino, Jan Sterling, Cleo Moore, Audrey Totter, Phyllis Thaxter and Howard Duff, is due at the McCarthy Theatre on Monday.

"Women's Prison" is said to reveal the real raw truth about man-smuggling inside a big house for women, where a sadistic superintendent mentally and physically tortures the women prisoners in her care, to the point where they finally revolt. Set in a penitentiary which houses male and female prisoners under the same roof, but separated by a presumably "invincible" wall, "Women's Prison" reportedly is a shocking indictment of prison methods today deemed both outmoded and dangerous.

Ida Lupino plays the superintendent who vents her neurotic rages on her prisoners, causing one to break down completely and another to be injured fatally. Jan Sterling and Cleo Moore play the hard-bitten leaders in the riot which follows the exposure of a "love nest alley" behind prison bars; Audrey Totter is seen as the unfortunate whose death initiates the prison explosion and Phyllis Thaxter is seen as a timorous frightened new prisoner who breaks under the shock of Miss Lupino's inhuman treatment. Howard Duff plays the humane prison doctor who tries to shield his patients from the sadistic superintendent's emotional excesses.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television's most reluctant star is through with the medium, and he couldn't be more pleased.

"I'm the happiest man in the world," smiles Ray Milland.

Some TV performers would be singing the blues if their show were cancelled, but not Milland. When General Electric dropped sponsorship after two years of the Ray Milland show, he was tossing his hat in the air.

"I never wanted to do the show in the first place," he explained. "My agent talked me into it."

In December of 1952 he was heading for a three-month vacation after a heavy film schedule. His agents invited him to a luncheon in New York.

"I thought surely they would present me with a platinum cigaret case or something like that, after all the money they had made from me," he remarked.

SAMPLE WAS SUCCESS

But he was in for another kind of surprise. Reluctantly, he had made a sample program for a TV comedy series. At the luncheon, he was told that the series had been sold to a big sponsor, General Electric.

Milland said he was against the series from the start, but agreed to do it after the three-month rest brought him home eager for work. At least that's his story. If true, then he has virtually backed himself into a fortune.

"We didn't have to wait for the re-runs to turn a profit," he admitted. "We were in the black from the start. And now General Foods has picked up sponsorship for the summer."

After that, the films will probably be syndicated.

Having washed TV out of his hair, Milland is buckling down to his film career. He says he has more assignments than he can handle.

If he had it to do over again, would he repeat the TV experience?

"I should say not!" he said emphatically, stalking off.

Assoc. Praises Handling Of Salk Vaccine

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Medical Association said Friday it is "full of admiration" at the way Canadian public health officials have handled the limited supply of the Salk anti-polio vaccine.

A resolution approved by the CMA general council said:

"The CMA has been impressed by the handling of the Salk vaccine program in Canada. It demonstrates a co-operative effort between manufacturers and provincial - federal government officials at all stages of planning. The future use and value of the Salk vaccine cannot be anticipated, but at present the association has nothing but praise for the management of the program."

By contrast, in Chicago Thursday the American Academy of Pediatrics recommended that injections of the Salk vaccine be discontinued "for the present" in the United States in view of difficulties which "have arisen with respect to manufacture, testing and usage."

Agent Convicted

WALKERTON, Ont. (CP)—Dennis Desmond, a 40-year-old insurance agent here, Friday was convicted on a charge of abduction in connection with a nine-year-old girl. He was remanded to Thursday for sentence.

Desmond had pleaded not guilty to the charge after the girl was lured into a car. She was found later unharmed.

Desmond testified he had lost his memory after drinking about 20 beers and a jam jar full of whiskey.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Sunday, June 19, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A better day than you may think at first. Give it the benefit of the doubt and you will be starting right. Also start strongly by going to church.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — There are often more good reasons for not doing a thing than for doing it. Be sure you have all facts straight, and use the best methods available. Emphasize good cheer, optimism.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Systematic methods will facilitate matters greatly. The day offers benefits, but you will have to do things right, too. Gain blessings at church first.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Talk matters over calmly, reason out difficulties or differences rather than get upset and have heated discussions. Begin and end the day with prayer and you cannot go amiss. You may meet a new acquaintance.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Here is a day in which to become better acquainted with yourself and your family; enjoy children's company, help other to smile and be happier. Your attitude will set an example.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Make up your mind you are going to be at ease whatever comes up. In this way you will handle things with less trouble, and not become overtired. Start at church; join in family plans.

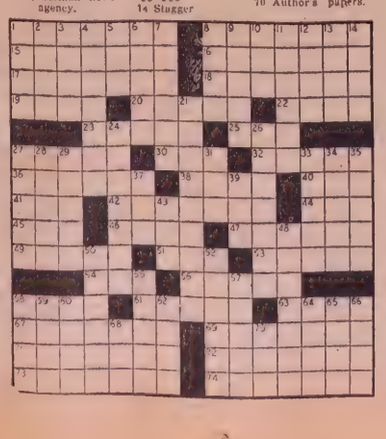
September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Pre arranged plans can be made more efficient now. Private matters may require delicate handling, but can be successful. Bolster hope and confidence in others, and your own will increase.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Habit is a vital factor in our lives; today is a good time to check on this wonder-worker — or enemy — whichever the case. It is up to you, and the real you is strong-willed, capable.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — If your day is normally free now, but there are some business or work matters to attend to, do them promptly and with no fuss. This day offers much in the way of character - building.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — It isn't how much you can crowd into a period, it is how well you do what you must, or wish to, and also with what attitude — the latter being more important than is often realized.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Self-discipline has its place and time, but moderation should be with us all the time. Overtaxing yourself with exercise or other activities can upset nerves, health. Don't neglect church.



February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Don't look on the darker side of anything; be optimistic and don't overlook important details and trends. Relaxation today will help the new week get off to a better start.

You born today are versatile, quick-witted, active and have a great liking for people. Be careful not to succumb to flattery, or to over-sensitiveness. You get excellent ideas for promotional work creating new methods; can alter and revise capably, but may have to school yourself to accept others' suggestions, listen more. You enjoy children, so why not devote some spare time to them (especially the unfortunate?) It's a great tonic. Birthdate of: Blaise Pascal, famous Fr. religious philosopher-mathematician.

State Support For Indigents Being Sought

TORONTO (CP)—The general council of the Canadian Medical Association convened Fri. to act on recommendations that it seek state support for medical indigents.

The proposal was put forward by Trans-Canada Medical Plans, a subsidiary of CMA which Thursday reported on a four-year study of health insurance and approved a contract offering large employers of labor uniform insurance benefits and premiums for all employees throughout Canada.

It also criticized demands for socialized medicine in Canada as out of order, but said the time has come for the state to assume responsibility for citizens who cannot pay insurance premiums.

It asked the policy-making general council to help promote:

Financial assistance from public funds for indigents.

Extension of voluntary prepaid health plans as a means of spreading the costs of medical care and greater coverage for the individual by allowing rural populations and the self-employed to buy insurance as groups. In most provinces this requires provincial legislation.

Officials indicated the general council would adopt the recommendations.

The CMA begins its 88th annual meeting next week, convening with the Ontario and the British Medical Associations as the fourth Commonwealth medical conference.

It will install as president Dr. T. Clarence Routley of Toronto.

Dr. Routley will be installed as president of the British Medical Association Monday. He is the first Canadian to hold the dual presidencies.

Three thousand delegates from 11 nations are expected to watch the ceremony of investiture.

May Bring Suit Against 'Flash'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police chief Walter Mulligan said Thursday night that he has retained Senator J. W. Deb. Farris, prominent Vancouver lawyer, in connection with allegations against the police department by Flash, a Toronto weekly tabloid.

Chief Mulligan said in an interview he has not yet decided whether to launch court action against the tabloid which published a story alleging police corruption, moral misconduct by police officers and other charges.

Meanwhile, the Vancouver police commission said it may issue a statement today concerning the charges made in the weekly, which published a Vancouver edition.

The commission met for the second straight day Thursday behind closed doors to discuss the charges. No statement was issued following the meeting.

M. D. Jarell, eminent Trichologist, demonstrates causes of baldness and how it can be prevented.

How To Have Hair For A Lifetime To Be Demonstrated Here By Famous Trichologist

Offers Written Guarantee

An exclusive interview by Ward Allen

LONDON, Ontario (Special) — M. D. Jarell, Director of Jarell Hair Experts of Canada exploded the "myth of baldness" today in an exclusive interview.

"Baldness is unnecessary, costly, and a plague to mankind," says Jarell. "No man need be bald. No man need suffer the stigma of premature old age that is forced upon him because he is losing his air. The Jarell method of hair and scalp treatment can prevent baldness — can turn colorless fuzz into healthy growing hair—can make you look youthful again.

Demonstration to be Held in Belleville, Ont.

This revolutionary method of home treatment for the hair and scalp will be demonstrated in Belleville, Ont., Monday only, June 20th, at the Queens Hotel. Trichologist E. L. Hicks will conduct the private, individual interviews from 12 noon until 9.00 P.M. on Monday only. There is no cost or obligation, and you need no appointment.

Reason for Baldness

"There is always a reason for baldness," continued this nationally known authority. "Hair cannot grow through a scalp that is infected with dandruff, excessive oiliness, or extreme dryness. A scalp that has never been exercised cannot be expected to produce healthy hair." Men, and yes, women too, walk the streets today, completely devoid of nature's greatest ornament—hair. Simply because they were not taught the basic rules of hair and scalp hygiene while they were growing up. "The simple answer," emphasized this expert is that children should be taught the same simple basic rules of hair and scalp hygiene that they are taught for the proper care of their teeth. If this were the case, baldness would be a rarity today!"

Heredity Not Involved

Trichologist Jarell dodged no issues. He quickly took up the most widely spread theory of baldness—heredity. "Mankind's unrealistic belief that baldness is heredity stems from a misinterpretation of the theory of genetics. Theory does not state that any person must be bald because baldness exists in the family. What it does say, is that in some families, a tendency exists towards an undernourished scalp." The purpose of Jarell Hair and Scalp Experts is to teach the methods of strengthening the weak scalp and nourishing it to a healthy, vigorous condition. A healthy scalp will grow hair, if it is not already completely bald," assures Jarell.

Is There Hope for The Completely Bald?

In his travels throughout the United States and Canada, Jarell has collected hundreds of testimonies of his ability to develop weak fuzz into healthy, mature hair. All of his clients have started with a private examination, hair and scalp analysis, and a diagnosis of the disorder. Jarell is quick however, to tell a hopeless case that he cannot be helped. "We strongly advise," says Jarell "that no person who is completely bald holds any hope whatsoever of regrowing hair. If there is any fuzz at all, we can restore a healthy scalp condition and the hair will grow normally again as nature intended."

Offers a Guarantee

"Jarell Hair Experts of Canada, offer a guarantee to any client who enrolls for treatment. If he or she is not completely delighted with results at the end of 30 days, the money invested will be graciously refunded," pledged Jarell. "We must have satisfied clients. We must regrow hair. After all, it is our best advertisement."

Is Your Hair Healthy?

If you have a scalp disorder, or if you are worried about your hair call Trichologist E. L. Hicks at the Queens Hotel in Belleville, Ont., Monday ONLY from 12 noon to 9.00 p.m. The public is invited. The examinations are private and open to men and women. You do not need an appointment, and you will not be embarrassed or obligated in any way.

Argentine Army Chief Directing Return To Normal

Rumor Says Army Plans To Oust Peron as Dictator

By SAM SUMMERLIN

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Argentina's new military chief, Gen. Franklin Lucero, pressed grimly ahead today with efforts to return the revolt-bloodied country to normal.

The 57-year-old army minister, who vaulted into the spotlight after his troops rescued President Juan Peron's government from Thursday's navy revolt, called on the people to stamp out "false alarms" disturbing efforts to restore peace. He signed his communique as "commander-in-chief of the forces of repression."

Lucero and other military leaders were to take part today in a ceremony in bomb-blasted Plaza de Mayo commemorating Gen. Manuel Belgrano, who created the Argentine flag. The prominence given the military in advance announcements of the observance underscored the army control of the country.

SUBJECT TO CENSORSHIP

(News dispatches from Argentina are subject to censorship imposed after the revolt. But an Associated Press dispatch from Montevideo said Argentine refugees in the Uruguayan capital had learned in telephone calls to Buenos Aires that army leaders were negotiating with Peron and the navy in an effort to set up a three-man ruling junta consisting of Peron, Lucero and Rear-Admiral Alberto Teisaire, the vice-president.)

Evidencing his new importance, Lucero spent a crowded Sunday morning inspecting security emplacements and troop positions in the capital. Later he went to the army ministry where he worked the rest of the day on plans and orders for the country.

In contrast, Peron remained in seclusion in his residence, although he was reported keeping in touch with government officials. He did not visit his temporary office in the army ministry, where he had moved after Thursday's revolt deafened his office in Government House.

Urging his countrymen to aid in reclaiming the flood of false reports, Lucero's communique charged that "people interested in impeding the return to a normal situation continue circulating alarming rumors, completely unfounded and devoid of truth."

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Tribune says diplomatic circles in Uruguay report the Argentine Army is making plans to demand the resignation of President Juan Peron.

A dispatch from Tribune correspondent Jules Dubois in Montevideo adds that the reins of Argentine government under the present state of siege in that country "are virtually in the hands of "Gen. Franklin Lucero, army minister.

"There are persistent reports in diplomatic quarters here that the Argentine Army is strengthening its position and making plans to demand the resignation of President Juan D. Peron," the dispatch said.

PERON FIGUREHEAD?

NEW YORK (CP) — The New York Times says the fall of Juan Peron as "dictator" of Argentina may take place in "a matter of hours."

This was the indication The Times gained in a telephone conversation Sunday with its correspondent in Buenos Aires, Edward A Morrow, the newspaper says in a front-page report.

"General Peron's resignation was expected Saturday night but did not materialize," Morrow reported. Gen. Franklin Lucero, army minister, is acting as spokesman for the government and appears to have taken over the reins, he added.

"In any new government that might be formed, Mr. Morrow said, Peron probably would retain his title as president but would be reduced to a figurehead."

A junta to take over the government appeared to be in the making, The Times says. This probably would be headed by Lucero, former Argentine delegate to the United Nations General Assembly.

Unemployed Are Now Fewer Than Year Ago

OTTAWA (CP)—Unemployment dropped sharply between mid-April and mid-May, pushing the jobless total to about the level of a year ago.

The government's bureau of statistics estimated today that those without jobs and seeking work fell 114,900 to 213,000 from 327,000 between April 23 and May 21. This compared with 218,000 without jobs and seeking work May 22 last year.

At the same time, the labor department reported a drop to 332,378 from 556,314 in the number of applications with the National Employment Service by those looking for work in approximately the same period. The year previous there were 358,080 applications.

LONDON DOCKERS VOTE TO END WILDCAT STRIKE

Expected Other Strikers Will Take Same Action

LONDON (AP)—Striking dockers in the port of London voted today to end the wildcat walkout, now in its fifth week, which has piled up shipping in Britain's six biggest ports in an inter-union dispute.

At a mass meeting outside the dock gates, the strikers elected a delegation to tell union chiefs they intend to get back on the job Tuesday morning.

Similar moves were expected from the ports of Manchester, Birkenhead, Liverpool, Hull and Rochester later today.

The strike began over demands by a small union, the National Amalgamated Stevedores and Dockers, for equal recognition with the big Transport and General Workers Union which represents most dockers.

The smaller union ordered its men back to work after eight days, but they refused and the strike dragged on.

LINERS CLOG PORTS

Meanwhile, strikebound liners continued to clog the major ports of Liverpool and Southampton as a wildcat seamen's strike tied up the vital dollar-earning trans Atlantic trade. The sailors, mostly stewards, are striking without union approval for better wages and working conditions.

The Queen Elizabeth, flagship of the Cunard fleet, was due at Southampton tonight, and the strikers claimed she will be affected too.

Fire Not Likely To Drive Folk From Hornepayne

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario lands and forests department official said today that "at the moment" it is not likely that an evacuation of the fire-threatened community of Hornepayne, 200 miles northeast of Sault Ste. Marie, will be necessary.

J. C. Dillon, supervisor of forest protection council, said precautions decided upon at an emergency meeting in the town last week, still are being carried out.

Railway officials ordered boxcars to the scene in preparation for a possible evacuation and today passenger cars from Toronto were on their way to the town.

"There is always a danger in these isolated communities that a sudden shift in the wind-direction may cause an emergency situation for which you are not prepared," Mr. Dillon said. "These wise precautions are being taken, even though they may not be needed."

Breaths Into Mouth Of Baby, Saves Life

TORONTO (CP) — The lives of three persons, including a baby who was smothering under a plastic blanket, were saved on Toronto island during the weekend by alert passers-by.

Mrs. Celia Doakes breathed into the mouth of five-months-old Douglas Graham after his mother, Mrs. Pauline Graham, found the child unconscious under the blanket. The child was later revived by a fire department inhalator.

Irwin Wosner rescued an unidentified child and Mrs. Dorothy Jones, a non-swimmer who went beyond her depth in attempting to aid the child when he got into difficulties.

Hungry Austrian Internees Tear Red Guards Apart With Bare Hands

WIENER NEUSTADT, Austria (Reuters) — Several Austrians returning today from Russian captivity told of a prison camp revolt in which hungry internees "tore Russian guards apart with our bare hands and trampled on them."

The haggard, ragged men, members of the second group of repatriates handed over by the Soviet Union under terms of last month's Austrian treaty, could describe the site of the insurrection only as a uranium mine "somewhere in Siberia."

There were 184 men in the group that arrived here today from Russian. Relatives and friends, some weeping and some laughing, surged forward to greet them as their train entered the station of this provincial town 30 miles south of Vienna.

One prisoner gave this description of the uranium mine revolt:

"We were simply starving. Men fell down as they marched to work and were left lying by the wayside.

"This went on, not for days, not for weeks, but for months." But even the worm will turn one day. Our revolt was not organized, but one day when things got too bad to bear, one of us just threw down his pick and seemed to go starkstaring mad, and rushed at the guards arounds us, who were all armed with pistols and automatic rifles.

"He was shot down like a dog, of course. But we could not stand by and watch. We all threw down our tools and rushed at the Russians. They fled for their lives, because they were outnumbered 100 to one. But we caught a few of them and simply tore them apart with our bare hands and trampled on them.

"Then several thousand of us, all crazed with hunger and desperate, broke out and marched in a solid mass against the guards who had in the meantime been alarmed.

"But what was the use? They set up a dozen or more machine-gun posts and fired into the midst of us. It was not even target practice for them. It was like aiming at a haystack at pointblank range.

"Several hundred must have been killed on the spot and the wounded were just left to bleed to death.

"The revolt was quelled."

Federal-Provincial Parley To Hear Federal Relief Offer

OTTAWA (CP) — Delegates at today's Dominion-provincial conference were expected to hear a federal plan to share unemployment relief costs. But any province with a longing for the broad federal program of social services and public works available in 1945 could anticipate disappointment.

At least three premiers—Hon. Leslie Frost of Ontario, Hon. W. A.C. Bennett of British Columbia and Hon. Alex Matheson of Prince Edward Island—were expected at the conference, under Prime Minister St. Laurent's chairmanship.

All provinces were represented, most of them by departmental ministers.

The present federal relief plan, according to informants, would be based on a calculation that about 150,000 persons are normally unemployed because of inability to work and hence would be outside the realm of federal responsibility.

The plan could meet with objections from several provinces since it would not bring Ottawa under the full burden of the unemployed.

The proposed 150,000 floor would mean, in effect, that the federal treasury took care of a specified percentage of the relief for able-bodied persons who either cannot qualify for unemployment insurance or whose benefits have run out, since the provinces and municipalities now are responsible for care of the unemployable.

Federal contributions would start as unemployment went above the floor figure. The payments, provinces and municipalities contributing, would go to those not drawing unemployment insurance.

The conference is an outgrowth of last April's federal-provincial meeting. Called originally to draft an agenda for a full-dress fiscal conference in October, the April gathering decided unemployment should be dealt with separately before the main meeting.

At the April meeting the federal government proposed a sliding scale of treasury contributions ranging between 30 and 50 per cent of relief costs, depending on intensity of unemployment.

And lest anyone look with nostalgia on the 1945 federal-provincial conference, Mr. St. Laurent has already made it clear, in a Commons speech a couple of days after the April meeting, that what went then doesn't go now.

He said if the federal proposals had been accepted 10 years ago the central government would find it "pretty embarrassing" to carry them out under present conditions. The offer had been based on expectations that defence expenditures of $250,000,000 a year would be quite sufficient. Defence in the current fiscal year is expected to cost about $1,700,000,000.

In 1945 Ottawa offered a health insurance program, federal acceptance of responsibility for all able-bodied unemployed and a program of public investment and public works. The offer, which was not accepted, was tied to requirements for tax rental agreements with the provinces.

Say Eisenhower's UN Speech Will Be Policy Declaration

By MAX HARRELSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—President Eisenhower was reported ready to open the United Nations 10th anniversary session today with an important policy declaration.

This word came from informed sources as the Big Four foreign ministers prepared for a private conference tonight to plan the meeting of their chiefs of government in Geneva July 18.

The president was scheduled to speak at 3 p.m. PDT (7 p.m. ADT). Some diplomats believed his speech would have special significance, coming as it does just a month before the top-level talks.

The first direct contact between Russia's Foreign Minister Molotov and the Western leaders was established Sunday night at a dinner given by Colombian ambassador Eduardo Zuleta Angel. There was no information as to whether any serious discussions were held, but the two sides had a chance to sense the atmosphere which will prevail tonight.

Diplomatic sources reported the Russians likely will press for a declaration of some sort by the 10th anniversary meeting.

They said Molotov believes the meeting should not end without the UN taking a stand, perhaps in the form of a resolution for peace. The birthday meeting, under rules adopted by the General Assembly, is supposed merely to hear speeches on the UN record and make no decisions of any kind.

The diplomatic sources pressed belief the business of the Big Four foreign ministers may be concluded without too much difficulty. The only subject for discussion, it is understood, is the agenda of the "summit" talks and other procedural arrangements connected with the Geneva meeting.

Molotov appears to be living up to advance reports that he would spend an active week here. Sunday he saw two of the staellite foreign ministers, Vaclav David of Czechoslovakia and Stanislaw Skrzeszewski of Poland. He also conferred briefly with Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold of the UN. Hammarskjold declined to comment to the visit, but one aide said it was merely a courtesy call.

The Soviet foreign minister also attended a small cocktail party given by assembly president Eelco N. van Kleffens just before the Colombian ambassador's dinner party.

The main round of speeches at the week-long anniversary meeting will get under way in earnest Tuesday morning, when Foreign Secretary Macmillan of Britain will deliver his policy declaration. Molotov will speak Wednesday. France's Antoine Pinay Thursday and State Secretary Dulles Friday. All 60 members of the UN plan to speak before the end of the week.

LONG ECLIPSE BLOTS OUT SUN FOR RECORD RUN

Scientific Observers Almost Missed It

By DENZIL PEIRIS

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — The moon totally eclipsed the sun over South Asia today, but most scientific observers missed it.

As the lunar body cast its shadow across the fiery orb more than 400 times farther from the earth, heavy rain clouds blocked the view from Ceylon observation posts set up by most scientists, including a Canadian group.

But only a light cloud was over the central Ceylon spot where an American team from Harvard University waited. A spokesman said the phenomenon was fully visible for the four minutes that the eclipse was total, beginning about 8:10 a.m. (10:40 p.m. EDT Sunday).

"We are quite happy," one of the Americans said. "Our experiments were very successful."

GERMANS WEEP

German technicians attached to a combined British-Ceylonese team wept copiously when a single black cloud obscured their view. They were trying to check theories of the late Albert Einstein and had brought with them a telescope designed for Potsdam University, where Einstein once taught.

The Harvard team took pictures of the sun's infra-red spectrum and another of the corona, the ring of incandescent hydrogen gas from the sun outlining the moon's shadow. in an effort to determine its precise shade.

In the Philippines, an American scientist was flown in an air force jet trainer to record the event on special cameras.

24 MILES A MINUTE

The eclipse began at sunrise in the Indian ocean along the eastern coast of Africa and southern Arabia. As the earth rotated, it streaked at 24 miles a minute, visible entirely or in part, across India, China, the Indochinese and Malayan peninsulas, Indonesia, northern Australia and the Philippines.

The 180-mile-wide path of total darkness streaked 7,200 miles across Ceylon, South Thailand, Central Indochina and the Philippines.

The longest totality lasted seven minutes, 7.9 seconds at one point in the south China sea. Many scientists say it was the longest since 717 A.D.

India's Hindus Disturbed By Sun's Eclipse

NEW DELHI (CP) — Today's eclipse of the sun disturbed the lives of India's Hindus.

Hundreds of thousands of devout Hindus thronged the holy waters of sacred rivers to wash away the "evil effects" of the sun's obscuring. The Hindus believe it is caused by the god of evil temporarily overcoming the god of light. Many offices declared a holiday to let their employees bathe. Most Hindus fasted from Sunday night until after the eclipse.

Father Opens Storm Cellar Door, Texas Children Drown in Flood

QUANAH, Tex. (AP) — Little Emma Jean Keeney's twin, another tiny sister and her brother all were victims Sunday of a torrential thunderstorm like many that have hit northwest Texas in recent days.

The three Keeney children—Doris Allene 5, Thomas Truman 4, and Alma Dean, the three-year-old twin—all were drowned in predawn darkness when a flood of water crashed into a storm cellar as their father opened a ground-level door to the refuge.

A series of squalls pounded much of the state's worst drought country. Torrential rains fell Sunday but flood threats, posed earlier, have subsided.

"I heard my little boy call out, 'help daddy' and that was all," said farmer Ira Keeney, the shocked and grief-stricken father.

Keeney said his wife awakened him about 4 a. m. and asked him to look at the threatening clouds. Afraid of a possible tornado, the couple and their children hurried to the storm cellar.

Keeney told reporters he was investigating a trickle of water into the cellar when he opened the door There was a great rush of water

"The lantern went out and there was a lot of sticks and trash on top of the water. I tried to dive back into the cellar to find my babies, but I just couldn't get back far enough."

Thirty Injured, School, Hospital Badly Damaged

Homes Destroyed, Town Of 400 Helpless For Hours

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VITA, Man. (CP)—Ugly, black clouds swept over the horizon and blotted out the sun.

Bill Wakimischak and his 13-year-old son, Miron, decided to cut short their father's day fishing expedition on the Red river, nine miles from here, and hurry home.

At home the town druggist's wife, Elizabeth, and two daughters Donna, 9, and Barbara, 4, were watching the swirling mass overhead.

The sky grew blacker as Bill and Miron reached the house. Suddenly, Bill spotted a long waving finger dangling from the cloud mass.

"It's a tornado!" he shouted to his family.

TOSSED UNDER TABLE

Miron drew the drapes over the picture window in the living room. His mother grabbed the fern and walked over to set it on the sofa.

The tornado screamed down on them.

"It all happened in a split second," said Mrs. Wakimischak. "The next thing I knew I was under the kitchen table on my hands and knees, bleeding and screaming."

Bill was struck by a flying kitchen chair. Barbara was cut on the forehead by what she thought was a piece of the picture window. Donna and Miron were bleeding about the head.

RETREAT TO CELLAR

Somehow, Mr. Wakimischak grabbed his wife and children and pushed them into the cellar.

The family sat terrified in the darkness as their house shook over their heads.

Barbara felt the blood trickling down her face and wailed: "Oh won't you take me to the hospital?"

Donna prayed: "Oh please God, why don't you help me?"

And it suddenly grew deathly still

The Wakimischaks waited a few moments then climbed the cellar stairs. They were awed and sick at the sight.

HOUSE WINDOWLESS

The walls were still standing, the roof was still on but not a window was left. The furniture was smashed and overturned. What was still in one piece they moved outside.

They joined their friends and neighbors. Bill crawled into the remains of his drug store and retrieved bandages and antiseptics for the wounded.

Help finally arrived. The Wakimischaks were driven to the Steinbach hospital for treatment. But none stayed long. By late Sunday night they returned to Vita for another look. After midnight they drove away from their shattered home to stay with friends who escaped with lesser damage.

"As long as we have a roof over our head, we'., feel lucky," smiled Mrs. Wakimischak.

SIX DIE IN CAR

LEIPSIC, Ohio (AP) — Six persons, including two young children, were killed Sunday when their car was struck by a north-bound Baltimore and Ohio passenger train at a crossing two miles north of this village.

By WALTER GRAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VITA, Man. (CP)—A giant finger of wind dropped from cloud-blackened skies Sunday and in two terrible minutes tore the heart out of this southeastern Manitoba farming community.

In that space of time, at least 30 terrified residents were injured. Six or more homes were destroyed. A six-roomed school collapsed in a jagged heap of brick and wood. A 25-bed hospital the town's only hotel, bakery, church mission, drug store and church were badly damaged.

What was left of a general store and three of the homes were burned to the ground. A funeral parlor vanished. A lumber yard was scattered for blocks. Cars were upended on the street. Trees were uprooted.

The town of 400 lay helpless for hours, its contact with the rest of the world silenced by shattered communications.

NO KNOWN DEATHS

Early today officials were still trying to piece together the story. First reports of two dead were later found incorrect. The exact number of injured was not yet known; the wounded were scattered about district hospitals.

Throughout the night police and volunteer workers probed the inky darkness with flashlights, checking tottering buildings for any other persons who might have been missed in the earlier confusion.

At the north end of the street the town's hospital stood in the dark, its roof caved in, its windows shattered. Ten patients and the hospital staff who were in the building when the rare prairie tornado struck apparently escaped injury.

Fire broke out in the shattered shell that was the home of Nick Pudloski 10 hours later and volunteer firemen, with no water at hand, were forced to rip out the burning wood and toss it to the ground.

13 FOUR-LEAF CLOVERS, ONE FIVE-LEAF, FOUND

It was lucky Thirteen for Mrs. Jack Young, 59 Burton street, on Saturday. She found four - leaf clovers, thirteen of them, on her front lawn. If you are sure that thirteen is an unlucky number and wonder whether that fact will offset the four-leaf clovers, there was a saving feature to the find — a fourteenth clover leaf with not three, not four but five leaves.

Police Thanked By Children For Courtesy

Last week's circus in Memorial Arena was free to thousands of Belleville school children because the Police Association, sponsors of the show here, arranged it that way.

Well, the Police Association received a "thank-you" for its efforts.

Last Wednesday night after the show a 10-year-old girl with stars in her eyes walked out of the arena and across the street into the police station.

On duty was veteran sergeant Clarence R. Arnott.

"I just want to thank you for making it possible for me to see the circus," said the winsome miss. "It was wonderful."

With that she skipped out. Sgt. Arnott, who always gets his man, was unable to get the name of this little lady.

The police association also received an official "thank-you" from Mr. Joseph Demeza, superintendent of the Ontario School for the Deaf. Through the courtesy of the association all students at the big school west of the city attended the circus and Mr. Demeza's letter expressed their appreciation.

A Day In The Life of A Circus

One of the biggest gifts anyone can get is a free pass to a circus.

It is a voucher for a presentation wrapped in the biggest and brightest of colors on the outside and, on the inside, crammed with a multitude of lively attractions, frosted with sparkling lights and offered to a crash of music.

When presented it is the pinnacle of glamor. Preparing the gift is the epitome of hard work.

Up on the circus grounds at Sidney St. this morning there was a lot of circus music to be heard. But responsible for it was no brass band or steam calliope. It was the sound of mallets striking stakes; the creak of block and tackle; the swish of canvas being raised; the splashing of hoses and the soft plodding of elephants shunting wagons into place. Above the cacaphony was the soft jargon and the loud shouts of the roustabouts as they prepared the wrappings for the big presentation.

Location of much of the activity was the weatherbeaten, yellowed big top.

Here groups of workmen flocked through the big belly of the yellow giant raising trapezes and arc lamps, spotting lights, driving stakes and positioning seats around the rim of the rings. All of them going about another rough job exactly like the last one and the one before that.

Here a gang of roustabouts hauled and slacked off on ropes curling down from the canvas top of the giant. Above their heads on the outside of the top sprawled a workmate connecting the ropes to rings.

There an aged negro supervised a quartet of boys in the erection of the seats. Here a wrinkled Chinese busied with lumber; beside him another group of workmen malleted iron spikes into the ground while out centre others fitted together the joints of the circuses' three rings.

Outside, at the feet of the giant, the sprawling village of brash - colored wagons, shiny and weatherworn caravans and trailers also was early awake and busy preparing for the big show. Elephants were being fed and watered, cages cleaned, horses and ponies being tended to.

Busily, a water truck made the rounds of the location, distributing water to the caravans and animal enclosures. Busily the roustabouts moved round, tending to the final chores, wrapping up the big, glamorous parcel. Maybe a short pause for a smoke or a brief conversation then they were on their way again.

Tonight, with another opening and another show, when the lights pick out the roof of the big top, shimmering on the spangled tight-fitting costumes of a lithe aerialist, the big parcel will be unwrapped and received with busy, applauding hands.

The great loud voice of the ringmaster ushers in act after act, his introductions couched in superlatives and glowing with the traditional adjectives of the big show.

But afterward, when the glare of the lights and the piping of the bands die down and the one-night stand is over, the roustabouts and their jargon and shouting take over again. The circus breaks up, forms line and hits the road.

Another big parcel is on the way and in advance go publicity men, their big posters and more superlatives.

But for the moment the most important words are:

"Let's roll."

And away they go.

Former Collector Of Taxes Given Six Months

Six months in the Ontario reformatory was the sentence handed out this morning by Judge Gerald F. Smith to LeRoy Woods, former Sidney township tax collector who last week was convicted by a Hastings county petit jury on a charge of stealing tax money.

Woods, 37-year-old wartime pilot with the RCAF, was convicted last Tuesday following a seven day trial. The Crown contended there was shortage of approximately $15,000 in township tax money during the period of 1946 to 1951 in which Woods was tax collector.

In passing sentence Judge Smith said he was taking into consideration the jury's recommendation for leniency also Mr. Woods' war record and the fact that he had no criminal record. He said frankly that he had liked Mr. Woods' demeanour and attitude in the witness box.

However the public had to be considered in addition to personal feelings, the judge said.

Judge Smith said he could not give suspended sentence as was asked by Defence Counsel J. D. O'Flynn. His conscience would not allow this nor would the public appreciate it.

Sentence given was six months definite and six months indeterminate.

RESCUE TWO

Yacht Club's First Summer Program Enjoyed

Sailboat races, water skiing, a sea cadet demonstration, a band concert and free cruises for the public yesterday featured the Belleville Yacht Club's first summer program of water sports.

The program, a big hit with spectators was held off Victoria Park.

Six keel boats and two Y-flyers took part in the boat races over a four-mile course. Elwood Wickerson in "Cygnet" finished first in the keel boat class in both running and corrected time. Frank Foley in "Naida" and Harold Selden in "Halcyon" tied for second place on corrected time.

Others in the race were: George Haggis in "Paulic", Freeman Burrows in "Viking" and Jack Sills in "Windrift II"

Ken Ross defeated Bill Wills in the Y-flyer class. Milt Davison piloted the official boat and Joe Caldwell was official starter.

Boats sailed from the government dock to the Bay Bridge, to Peche Point near Cedar Island, across the bay to the Bakelite shoal and finished in the harbor entrance off Victoria Park.

Following the races sea cadets from RCSCC Quinte, under Lt. Ross Boyce, put on a demonstration of boat pulling, while the sea cadet band played sprightly tunes in the park. Sea cadets also patrolled the harbor in a cutter and supplied cruisers from the yacht club with life belts for passengers.

Some 200 persons took cruises on the bay as guests of yacht club members Morley Smith, Bob Boyce, Phil Crane, Jack Marshall, and Bill Bell.

During the cruises Barbara and Linda Keel and Roger Sprague put on a demonstration of water skiing.

The program was prepared by a committee headed by Ab Mazer.

Steam Calliope Is Heard Again On City Streets

The piping of the steam calliope, traditional herald of the circus in town, echoed in Belleville's streets again this morning.

Thousands saw and heard it and cheered its escort . . . the first circus parade to tour Belleville streets in years.

Event was the advent to town of the King Brothers and Cole Brothers combined circus, here for a one-night stand, not counting an afternoon performance, today.

Lining the sidewalks were flocks of school children and adults, standing in brilliant sunshine to watch the parade go by.

School authorities hailed the parade by freeing children from classrooms around 11 a.m., sending droves of small-fry down on city streets.

Led by a big brass band and outriders with the flags of Canada and the U.S. the parade hit the main section of the city shortly after 11.30 a.m. Clowns, camels and calliopes (there were two of them) proceeded before the wide eyes of the moppets, down Moira St., Front and up Bridge St. West, before returning to the pitch at Sidney St.

Lulls were caused in the parade by highway traffic passing through the Four Corners where city police inspector Claire Hayes directed passage of the big transports.

Highlights of the parade was the stately procession of the 13 circus elephants. Some enterprising city merchants seized on the opportunity for good advertising and had two of the elephants draped with banners advertising their wares.

Three Woodstock Youths Arrested At Kingston

Three Woodstock youths, two of them juveniles, who left home to travel with the circus were arrested early today near Kingston after a 90-mile chase over a twisting highway that ended when their car crashed a telephone pole and rolled into the ditch.

Police said that one of the youths, 17-year-old "Red" Pember is in Hotel Dieu Hospital at Kingston with head injuries. The two juveniles have been brought to Belleville for questioning in connection with the theft of a car at Belleville.

City police here said that a car owned by Miss Elsie Rose had been stolen from the corner of Pinnacle and Campbell streets some time before 10 o'clock Sunday evening. The licence number was broadcast and Kingston provincial police spotted the car on No. 2 highway early this morning.

They gave chase and the car cut over to Highway 33 about a mile south and headed west. Near Collins Bay the car missed a turn and crashed into the telephone pole.

Police said there were six youths in the car. One they found injured lying beside the wrecked car but the five others dashed off into the darkness.

Kingston and provincial police searched the area and rounded up the five youths who had cut across several open fields.

Three of the youths, said to have been hitch-hikers picked up at Napanee, were released after questioning. They told police they had met the Woodstock trio at a Napanee cafe. They said the three told them they were stock car drivers and invited them to come for a ride.

Unsatisfied Judgment Fund Pays 7 Million

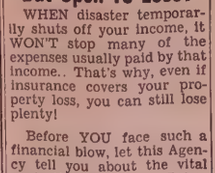
TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario fund established eight years ago to protect accident victims against financially irresponsible drivers has been paying out money at almost a $1,000,000-a-year clip.

The Unsatisfied Judgment Fund, set up under the Ontario Highway Traffic Act in 1947, has paid more than $7,000,000 to individuals who have won court cases against automobile drivers or owners but have been unable to collect damages.

With a compulsory $1 yearly contribution from every motorist, the fund has been self-supporting. Maximum payments range from from $1,000 for property damage to $10,000 when two or more deaths are involved.

The fund supplements the province's financial responsibility law, which denies a driving licence to any driver unable to satisfy a judgment against him.

Elephants Upset Truck



Here's another marker to enter in your safe-driving manual:

Don't drive with elephants in the back seat.

Sunday a transport containing elephants for the combined King Brothers-Cole Brothers circus at Belleville was travelling smoothly on Highway 2.

About five miles west of Colborne the transport stopped near the rim of the highway. All might have been alright had it not been for the elephants. Their restless bulk in the back of the trailer tipped it off the highway.

However, no injury was done the elephants, it was reported.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Fred Mallory, Glen Miller, Fifty Years Wed

TRENTON. (Special) —Mr. and Mrs. C. Fred Mallory of Glen Miller four miles north of here played host to more than 200 relatives and friends yesterday on the occasion of their 50th wedding celebration at home. The well-known couple received many gifts and messages of congratulation and were visited by three members of the ministry representing the congregations of churches in Trenton, Stirling, and Frankford. Mr. and Mrs. Mallory's five daughters and one son returned home for the occasion.

Mrs. Mallory was the former Mamie McLeod, daughter of Norma and Mary Anne McLeod. She became the bride of Charles Fred Mallory, son of Wallace and Bridgett Mallory in the Presbyterian church at Matawatchan. The Rev. E. McLean performed the ceremony. Adenauer Home After Strenuous Week in U.S.

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BONN (AP)—West Germany's Konrad Adenauer got back to his work in his home capital today in preparation for a possible meeting with the Russians.

The 79-year-old chancellor returned home Sunday night from a strenuous week. Adenauer indicated he will not visit the Soviet Union until after the Big Four talks in July. But a London report suggested Britain thinks it might be a good idea for him to sound out Moscow intentions before the Geneva conference.

That this and other ideas are to be followed up was indicated by a joint Adenauer-Eden statement that they plan further exchanges of views.

TO TEST SINCERITY

Adenauer made it clear to his Western Allies he is to measure the sincerity of Russian intentions in apparently relaxing cold-war pressure by their readiness to agree to free the 18,000,000 East Germans to join a democratic and independent united Germany.

Kids Day Marked Here Saturday

Kiwanis third National Kids Day went off with a bang Saturday afternoon.

At least the enthusiastic explosion of the voices of some 2,500 school children in the Fair grounds seemed to give that impression as the big service - club sponsored field day swung into action.

In tdhe track and field events about 800 pupils from three separate and seven public schools in the district took part.

A gala touch wa added the event this year by banners on the field, marking rallying points for the schools.

Free ice cream and soft drinks added fuel to the enthusiasm of the kids present.

The event was opened by Kiwanis resident Staff McKenna, who was one of about 40 Kiwanians taking part in supervision of the event.

There were so many races and so many names involved the club is still noting them down.

Twenty Planes Hunt Aircraft In Northern B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Twenty planes were thrown into the search today for a plane missing for a week along the northern British Columbia coast with four men aboard.

Search officials turned their full attention on the missing Pacific Western Airlines float plane after spotting the wreckage of an American plane on a mountain 25 miles east of Vancouver Sunday. Body of the pilot, Frederick Atkinson of New York City was recovered.

The planes are starting their second sweep over the rugged coastal area since the single-engined Cessna 180 disappeared Tuesday while on a 140-mile timber-survey flight. RCAF search headquarters said the entire search area had already been covered "at least once."

Wreckage of the Atkinson's plane was spotted on 5,000-foot Coquitlam mountain and a search party, dropped near the scene by a helicopter, recovered the pilot's body.

The rescue party said Atkinson had been thrown clear of his Cessna 120 when it crashed. He was on a solo flight from Vancouver to Penticton, B. C., when the plane crashed Friday.

OPEN LIDICE GARDEN

LIDICE, Czechoslovakia (CP)—A garden planted with thousands of roses contributed by 32 countries was opened Sunday at this Czech mining village wiped out by the Nazis 13 years ago. Dr. Barnet Stross, Labor member of Parliament, led a British delegation of 21 to the opening ceremony.

WIN BARBER SHOP SINGING

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The "Four Hearsemen" of Amarillo, Tex., whose members dress as undertakers, Saturday night won the quartet contest of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

THIRTY INJURED

The chimney stood in a bed of embers, all that remained of John Propbizanske's home. Another pile of embers was what was left of Mat Bodnarchuk's house. It was the same with Alex Pidlubney.

THROWN 300 FEET

In the early-morning hours a few of the dazed residents stood by the wreckage, trying to recall those terrible two minutes of hail, screaming winds, and flying daggers of glass and wood.

Tom Ridley, his wife and two children, Cynthia, 4, and Rodney, 2, were in their home when the tornado struck. The frame house was lifted into the air, tossed 300 feet and then dropped in a heap. The family crawled out of the debris alive, suffering minor injuries.

Mike Sandel, about 75, was in his home when it was blown apart. Mr. Sandel was found shaken, but still alive in his garden.

Modest Kadymink ran from the hotel to his bakery next door to warn his four employees. He managed to herd them into the cellar just before the building collapsed.

A restaurant operator, John Bodnarchuk, was serving customers when he saw the funnel-shaped cloud "with clouds around it swirling like crazy" roaring down the street. He hid behind a refrigerator as a wooden beam crashed through the window and flying debris filled the store.

Jack Pidlubny was in his store when he noticed the tornado. He had time just to rush outside before the building was destroyed.

His house was also burned down when falling wires short-circuited. Two other homes and a store were destroyed by fire.

Electric power and telephone communication were cut off overnight. A Manitoba Power Commission official said repairs would be needed at the Vita sub-station before service could be restored and telephone repair crews were working on broken telephone lines.

A weather office spokesman in Winnipeg said tornados are "very rare," on the Canadian prairies.

TROUBLE IN ARGENTINA

Argentina is one of the most important countries in one of the world's richest continents, considered from the standpoint of its natural resources.. Brazil may be said to occupy the place in South America which is held by the United States in North America, although its predominance as a continental giant is not so great as that of the U.S. But if Brazil is the U.S. of South America, Argentina is quite definitely the Canada of the south. It follows that nothing that happens in Argentina is without importance or significance to the remainder of the world.

Events of great importance—just how great is not at present quite clear—have been transpiring in Argentina in recent weeks and have been climaxed by an armed revolt against the regime of President Peron.

Such events call for editorial comment, but to be of value this comment must be informed. Some of the great newspapers of the world may have on their staffs men who, through personal knowledge or years of study, are qualified to analyze the situation in Argentina. Few small newspapers enjoy this same advantage and the Ontario Intelligencer is certainly not one of them.

Still, if care is taken to avoid sitting in the judgment seat on a situation which is almost certainly most complex, it is possible to make a few general observations.

The lovers of liberty have no good reason to admire Peron and what he stands for. He is a dictator. He has suppressed free speech and the freedom of the press.

On the other side of the ledger, it appears that his rule has not been without material benefits to the country. Peron enjoys the support of organized labor, not in itself a guarantee of good government, but in a section of the world where the masses have suffered exploitation perhaps an indication that the government's program has included some needed reforms.

The origins of the present struggle between Peron and the Roman Catholic Church are not clear. Roman Catholicism is the state religion of Argentina. In Canada, most people distrust the principle of state religions. Peron plans to abolish the system. His real reasons for this action are, however, obscure. His record in suppressing civil liberties and his dependence on the support of mobs of workers to retain power casts the gravest doubt on any suggestion that in the present controversy he is actuated by liberal principles.

Latin American newspapers are expressing support for Argentine's Roman Catholics. That is to be expected. The vast majority of the residents of that continent is Roman Catholic.

Perhaps the most telling criticism of Peron, however, comes from a traditionally anti-church newspaper, "El Dia", published in Montevideo, Uruguay. "El Dia" says it will not defend the Roman Catholic clergy in Argentina, whom it claims have in the past fully backed Peron, but adds: "It is sad to see that in Argentina, in the past democratic, tolerant and free, the low passion of hatred and vengeance has been unleashed by Peron."

SEX APPEAL

The best of courtroom cartoons has the shapely female prisoner, legs crossed and eyes downcast, scoring another triumph over an all-male jury as the prosecution vainly tries to overcome a lovely limb with legal logic.

It is funny every time because women recognize the compliment and men think they know more about women than they do about the law.

The foil that makes this comedy all the funnier is the solemn, impartial, usually stoney-faced judge, who knows only too well what is coming but is determined to do his duty nonetheless.

However, the whole plot has been upset by Judge J. A. A. Duranceau, of Cochrane, the presiding judge at the trial of a 22-year-old expectant mother who was found guilty on three charges of extortion involving $6,000. The 12-man jury, in this case found the accused guilty—but added a strong recommendation for leniency.

Judge Duranceau, in sentencing the woman to reformatory for six months, said the pretty brunette was the first woman he had had the misfortune to sentence in a criminal case since taking the bench. All of which is well and good. Then he said that if the accused had been a man he would have considered a penitentiary term. And there we have it.

A woman wins again. It is still the man who pays. A "pretty brunette" gets six months in the reformatory for a $6,000 extortion—$1,000 a month so to speak. A man, handsome or not, would have been considered for a penitentiary term, a sentence that has a minimum duration of two years and a day.

The facts in this case should be sufficient to convince all males with any pride in their sex that women judges and all-women juries are long overdue.

SLOW FUSE?

In a civil defence exercise on Wednesday, Vancouver's civil defence workers did not know that an "atom bomb" had fallen on the city until three hours after the attack.

There is some reason to believe that civil defence officials do not think that this is par for the course. Among the ordinary men in the street, the suspicion lingers that the civil defence group learned about the mock attack much faster than many such organizations are likely to learn about a real attack. Unless, of course, St. Peter posts bulletins.

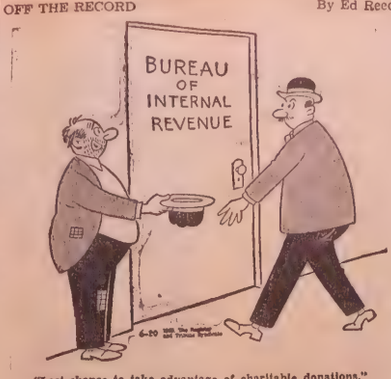
SO LONG, MR. CHAIRMAN

Bang the gavel on the stand,
Say "good bye" and wave your hand.
Mr. Chairman, now you may
Put the joke books old away.
Until summer comes and goes
Here's the banquet season's close.



When at home the table's set,
What you choose to eat you'll get.
Be it stew or chop or steak,
You will have no notes to make
Of the ones to introduce,
So enjoy your glass of juice.

There will be no singing group
To present when done with soup;
None to rise to take a bow.
You can eat your dinner now.
You can get the rest you need
Without telegrams to read.

Without lectern, two lamps lit,
At your table you can sit.
'Til the summer time has gone,
There will be no "mike" turned on.
Mr. Chairman, homeward wend.
Here's the banquet season's end.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

As far as I can recall, it is years since anybody has grasped me by the upper left arm. Or even the upper right arm. My friends usually seize me by the hand, the elbow or occasionally by the forearm. To greet me, to restrain me, to emphasize a point, they will make a grab at some part of my brachial limbs. But never, as nearly as I can now painfully recollect, do they grab my upper arm, especially my upper left arm.

But I have been vaccinated. In order to bet back into my native land after an impending trip to London to look at the Queen, I have to bear with me a grisly little yellow booklet, duly signed by my doctor, declaring that I have been vaccinated within the past three years.

It was within the last three weeks the operation was performed. A nasty blister rose on my arm. It itched. It was sore. It sent shadowy pangs of pain down my arm, up my shoulder, out my fingers.

And almost everybody I know in the world has, within the past three weeks, grabbed me by the upper left arm, whopped me enthusiastically on the upper left arm, gripped me and swung me around to meet their joyous friendly gaze, sneaked up behind me in crowded department stores to enclose my upper left arm in a vise-like grip for no reason whatever but to whirl me around and say hello.

Throughout an adventurous and not entirely blameless life, I have been curiously free of interference by the police. I have seen my friends and boon companions picked up by the nape of the neck by the police, I have seen them given the heave-ho by the constabulary and gendarmerie of sundry lands. Yet not until two days ago has a cop ever laid hands on me. I was rather proud of this distinction. But day before yesterday, as I was about to step off the curb at an intersection, a policeman seized my arm to save me from being clipped by a car. And where do suppose he seized me?

You're right. When I got home, I told my dear wife about several misfortunes of the day.

She patted me affectionately right on the blister.

The English Language

(Cleveland Plain Dealer)

Authorities estimate the vocabulary of the usual unabridged dictionaries of the English language runs to between 400,000 and 600,000 words. The latter figure admits the special jargons of a good many occupations and lines of thought.

Writes Report On IQ Tester

(Milwaukee Journal)

Australian government education officers, their high IQ's shrouded by blushes, have conceded that a nine-year-old girl has made them wonder about their intelligence testing program.

The case of the intelligence quotient expert and young Rosslyn Bayley is making highbows and low alike laugh, and laugh.

In the IQ test the examiner decided the girl was "mentally backward". For one thing, while he was arranging wooden blocks there was a sharp knock on the door, and Rosslyn didn't even look up.

The girl's worried parents soon afterward accidentally found a report their daughter had written on the expert who had examined her.

Part of it read:

". . . Tired appearance, rubbing of eyes, taking glasses on and off.

"Not placing hand over mouth while yawning. . . .

"Flopped into chair which should not be done (sign of bad manners) . . . . . .

"Book thrown from chair to desk (lazy) . . . Dropping things on floor while child was doing sums. . . . While reading from card he had his head in the drawer, looking for a rubber. Not paying attention. . . . .

"Ho did not have any conversation or ask any questions. Not an interested or talkable type."

As to the knock on the door, Rosslyn explained: "I heard the knock, but it was none of my business, so I just went on with my problem."

The parents took Rosslyn's report to the education officials. They agreed there was nothing backward about Rosslyn and agreed to destroy the expert's report. They didn't say what they would do with him.

Can Doctor Pick Patients?

(Ottawa Journal)

The British House of Commons is to be asked by a Labor member to consider the case of an English doctor who cancelled his appointment with the wife of a striking railway worker. His principles, he said, prevented him from seeing patients "on strike" except in an emergency.

The physician would argue, no doubt, that he has as much right to choose the people for whom he will work—and to specify the persons for whom he refuses to work—as the husband of the lady whose appointment he cancelled. With the provision that he would accept his professional duty in an emergency he might contend, and with some plausibility, that the railroad worker's implied obligation to keep the trains running was as great as the doctor's implied obligation to see any patient who sought his services.

Always saving the emergency, when a doctor must make expert use of his special skill and experience, every successful physician has to exercise some selectivity in the matter of his patients, this because time and human strength impose limitations upon his activities and because he would hardly be expected to discard old patients to take on new ones. The question in this incident from England is therefore the right of the doctor to select his patients on the basis of his principles—his strong conviction that railroad workers should not go on strike.

There is a good subject here for debate and controversy.

Baby-Sitters Lucky Here

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

Have you paid your baby-sitter tax?

If you have not, you can congratulate yourself on the fact that you live in Canada, where no such tax is imposed.

In the United States it appears that anyone who employs a baby-sitter must file a social security return and pay a two per cent tax on the baby-sitter's wages.

Further, the employer is required to withhold two per cent from the baby-sitter's pay and turn it in to the government — this making an aggregate payment to the latter, by the employer and baby-sitter, of four per cent.

In actual practice, the baby sitters generally have taken strong objection to the deduction; so that employers have usually paid the entire four per cent out of their own pockets.

If, in due course, the baby-sitter's social security card comes in without the taxes recorded, the employer is subject not merely to tax payment but to interest and heavy penalties.

With Finance Minister Walter Harris setting the laudable precedent, in his first budget of reducing taxes, we are hopeful that he will refrain from imitating our neighbours to the south, and will leave the baby sitter and her — or his — emoluments untouched.

Vision Key To Success

(An editorial for young people in the Hamilton Spectator)

The other day we read a news story which we liked very much. It was about a janitor who swept the classrooms and emptied the wastepaper baskets in an English school and who determined one day to be principal. It seemed a long way to travel, but he studied at home and went to evening classes. Soon he was to take a teacher's training course. When he had successfully passed this, he returned to his old school as assistant teacher. In due time he became a teacher, then a senior teacher and finally, the other day, he became principal. It had taken him fifteen years.

It would be easy to draw an obvious moral from this story, to stress determination and hard work which brought reward in the end. But perhaps that would be missing the main point. More important than anything else was the fact that this man had a "vision", and because of it he was prepared to work and to sacrifice for an aim which others would consider foolish.

This idea of a vision is very different from a dream. Dreaming of a happy future is a negative pastime that helps lazy folk get through another day. A vision is a mind picture of things as they could be, shaped by will and work, and it brings with it the determination to do the shaping.

We know of a man who bought a tumbledown old house in the country with a leaking roof, broken windows and a weed-infested garden. His friends implored him not to buy it, telling him he would be foolish and would soon regret it, but he quietly insisted, saying: "I have a vision." And he had. Several years of work, all of which he has loved and calls "fun", have transformed a neglected ruin into a charming dream only for a positive vision.

How does a person get a vision that awakens the "driving force" that is within everyone? There does not appear to be any particular set of rules, but minds that are vital and alert are certainly more likely to get them than minds that are lolling around lazily. The person is happy who has something he believes in to work for; in such circumstances work becomes a hobby and one is too absorbed to be worried by the petty pinpricks of life.

Factory-Made Food Possible

(Edmonton Journal)

A science writer reports that a plant called "thermophyllic chlorella," which grows at a fabulous rate, offers the prospect of enormous supplies of factory-grown food to feed the world's rapidly expanding population.

The thing is not yet economic but this single-celled plant appears to be the most efficient instrument so far discovered for capturing the energy of sunlight by photosynthesis and turning this energy and mineral elements into carbohydrates. It is therefore being studied as a likely prospect for factory-farming, and also for feeding space travellers and keeping the air in space ships purified.

This is a lot to expect of a single-celled plant, even with a name like thermophyllic chlorella, but scientists find that under appropriate conditions it reproduces its own mass in chlorella-food many, many times over in a single day. This is the sort of thing the food experts, worried about feeding the global populace, are looking for — quantity production.

One of the problems yet to be solved is how to make chlorella hash of such a consistency that it will feel and taste like rare steak when placed between the hungry teeth of meat eaters. A life condemned to a vegetarian dict, we cannot abide.

New Buggy Causes Stir

(Saint John Telegram-Journal)

If you think the horse and buggy days are something out of the dim past — you're wrong. They're still with us.

Mr. Oscar Jackson, eighty-four-year-old farmer who resides near Delaware, Ohio, has just taken delivery of a brand new, shiny buggy to replace the second-hand rigs he has been using in recent years.

The new black rig created a good deal of excitement when it was unloaded from the train that brought it from a vehicle factory at Lawrenceburg, Indiana. Freight Agent Ernest Snedecker rubbed his eyes when he saw it. Soon it was attracting as much interest as the first automobiles did around the turn of the century.

Then Mr. Jackson showed up to claim his purchase. After all years, he explained, he thought it was time for a new one. His first buggy had been purchased when he was courting his wife. That was in 1892. In between there had been second-hand replacements.

Personal Health Talks

May You Return From Vacation in The Best of Health

Sad to say, a good many of you will not return from vacation. In fact some of you won't arrive at the place where you plan to visit. Either you or the other fellow will drive carelessly or recklessly and, bingo. Here we go into the deep blue yonder.

It takes at least one second degree sunburn (burn with blisters) to teach some vacationists discretion about exposure to direct sunlight or indirect sunlight, reflected by water or sand to skin kept carefully in the shade.

An indoor worker who plans to take an outdoor vacation should train for it by exposing the skin to sunlight for gradually increasing periods of time twice daily, if possible, or anyway every day, beginning with five minutes and increasing the duration of the exposure five minutes a day until some tanning becomes evident; after that increase the duration of the exposure ten minutes a day.

The secret of acquiring a good tan lies in cautious graduation of exposure, which should always terminate for the day if or when the skin shows first degree burn—erythema, flushing, redness.

There is no substance which applied to the skin, prevents sunburn and at the same time promotes tanning.

Heavy zinc oxide ointment applied to the lips, the nose or the entire face will of course protect from sunburn. So will lipstick of dark shade. Some such preparation is particularly desirable to protect the lip when sunlight is intense, for lip sunburn is painful and slow to heal.

To relieve sunburn cover the part with soft cloths wet with a solution of aluminum acetate, 15 grains to the pint of water.

If vesicles or blisters form, the condition becomes surgical. Quit monkeying with it and procure the services of a physician and surgeon —that's singular—I mean one guy is enough—if he's licensed to practice medicine he is necessarily licensed to practice surgery too—understand, knucklehead? There's just one course of training, one degree, one state board of medical examiners and one licence—the licence authorizes the doctor to practice medicine, surgery or any specialty of either field he or she chooses.

You must excuse me for my vehemence. I'm not yet fully recovered from the set back I suffered when I hung my shingle over Two-er's clothing store on the Four Corners in Penn Yan. I had commissioned the artist to paint it not just Dr. Wm. Brady but Wm. Brady, M. D. Physician & Surgeon. But he rearranged it for better balance, so when he backed it up it read Wm. Brady, M. D., SURGEON — and underneath in letters so small that a passer-by could hardly read them, and physician.

For months the paying customers — or so I had been given to understand — called me only as a last resort — when no other doctor could be reached. The impression that I'd operate on the slightest provocation cooked my goose. People avoided me in droves. Eventually some of them found I didn't carry a bistoury behind my back, but then it was too late to keep me from turning quack.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

SUNDAY, MONDAY, AND ALWAYS

What happens to Christianity on Monday morning? There is a question that many a clergyman would like to be able to answer about his own congregation. And many a layman has asked it about himself, too.

Churches are likely to be crowded these Sunday mornings, and that is a good sign. But how many men and women there are who sincerely seek God through worship on Sunday and then forget all about Him during the next six days!

It would not be practical or perhaps even possible for most of us to attend a public worship service every day. But there are countless ways of seeking God outside of church. God speaks to us with many voices, and surely no more audibly than through other people. Family and community relationships offer daily opportunities to testify quietly but unmistakably that we believe in full-time, not a part-time God.

And we should never forget prayer—a form of worship and communion which is not dependent on the day or the place or the time. It is a stairway to God's throne whose steps are always there for those who truly wish to climb them.

Sunday is important, of course —very important. But remember Jesus' words, "Lo, I am with you always." Not for one hour, or one day, but always.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SURPASS YOURSELF

We are apt to become discouraged—and sometimes embittered—over the fact that someone else whom we know, or who may be associated with us, makes greater progress than we do. But that should not worry us. What we should take to heart and consider of the greatest importance should be to constantly seek to surpass ourselves in some way.

I like the idea of always trying to do better whatever I attempt that can be improved upon. In other words to do a job better than it has been done to date! People invent important machines, but there are those who keep improving upon them. A few years ago who dreamed of such things as the telephone, radio, TV and an endless number of other inventions that have added to our health and comfort, to say nothing of adding to our happiness.

There are ideas in the minds of many today that a kindly Providence has planted there. Those ideas bear buds in time, and then fruit, and some bright morning the one who gave them mind space will be inspired by the fact that he has added to the sum total of all knowledge in the world. He will have surpassed himself!

We were put into this world to be kindly and helpful to others, to rejoice in the success of others, and never measure that success in terms of mere money. No thief breaks in and steals unborn ideas! But if you have a better idea than any revealed, the world will thank you to step forward with it. People will like to know that you have surpassed yourself.

No matter to what age you may live, there is no limit as to the improvement of your mind and character. There may be things to do at 70 or 80 that never occurred to you when you were careless and foregetful as well as heedless at 20. Surpass yourself and personal cheers will bless you!

Returned Missionary Tells Rally Of Work Done in India

The Kingston Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church in Canada held its summer rally last Tuesday in St. John's Church, Pittsburgh. This beautiful, historic Presbyterian church, set with its Manse in ample grounds with lovely trees, gave an inspiring setting to the gathering of nearly a 100 women who came from as far west as Trenton and Stirling, and as far east an Gananoque, to discuss the work vital to them all, and to listen to able speakers.

In the morning, at an executive meeting, dates were set for the autumn meeting of the executive and for the annual meeting of the Presbyterial. Arrangements were begun for conferences to be held with a "team" of missionaries and leading W. M. S. secretaries, at Kingston on November 3, and at Belleville on November 4. In making these plans the officers and members were glad to have information and advice from Mrs. A. T. Curr, president of the Synodical Society.

DELICIOUS LUNCHEON

After a delicious lunch in the bright, new hall, prepared and served by the women of St. John's Church, the general meeting took place. Mrs. Smart, who presided, spoke with deep appreciation of the work done by Mrs. George Darling, of Gananoque, whose tragic death has meant sorrow and loss to all who knew her. The devotional exercises, led by representatives of the Amherst Island Auxiliary, the call to worship given by the president, and the welcome extended by the president of the St. John's Auxiliary, struck a fine note for the whole meeting. The treasurer, Miss Mary Nesbitt, gave a clear, interesting account of the money contributed by the various Auxiliaries, large and small, made up of women and girls, old and young, during the past half-year. Mrs. Rollins, ready and alert, called the roll and read the minutes, noting the number of members present and the number of Auxiliaries represented.

INDIAN MISSIONS

The main speaker was Miss Marion Williamson, on leave from her work in India. Returned missionaries work hard, travelling and speaking all over the Dominion. Her hearers, who have this year been studying conditions in India, listened with keen interest to her description of the work of Missions, linking medical services with Christian teaching and social work, of the struggle against disease, suspicion, superstition, the increasingly high standards of school work, the co-operation with other Protestant churches, the increasing effort to train Indians to make the mission work self-supporting.

She spoke with gratitude of the long years of hard work by British officials in the Indian Civil Service, teaching the Indians the great lesson of integrity in office. In what was British India the Government Departments now are built on the British pattern: — "They took over a going concern."

In the small states of Central India, now joined for political administration, public services had to be brought together and re-organized, but our own work in Amkhut, begun by Dr. and Mrs. Buchanan a little more than 60 years ago, owes much to the help and example of a deeply Christian British official.

FIGHTS DISEASE

She also spoke of the efforts of the Indian Government today to fight disease and to educate the people, for example in dealing with tuberculosis; the Government of India can compel where British officials could only suggest; on the other hand, in the struggle for independence many young Indians learned to disobey rules and laws. Miss Williamson's was a masterly address.

Mrs. Curr explained the organization of the Women's Missionary Society on various levels, and described the important Mission work being done in Canada among our Indians and among Chinese. After closing words by the president, the Minister of St. John's Church pronounced the benediction, and the visitors all enjoyed a cup of tea before setting out for home.

RCAF Plane Brings Man Back From Arctic

EDMONTON (CP) — An RCAF Dakota landed in Edmonton early today after a 1,900-mile mercy flight from a lonely weather station half-way between the Arctic Circle and the North Pole where it picked up a sick department of transport employee Sunday.

A waiting ambulance took 39-year-old James Dashney of North Bay, Ont., to hospital. He is believed suffering from appendicitis.

Dashney was flown from Isachsen, N. W. T., 800 miles from the North Pole.

The plane made only two stops for refueling, at Resolute Bay, 300 miles south of Isachsen, and Yellowknife, 430 miles northeast of Edmonton.

DANGEROUS LANDING

The two-engine aircraft made a wheels-landing on a crude strip marked on the ice of Prince Gustav Adolph sea opposite Isachsen. The pilot, Flt. Lt. Al Richards of Cloverdale, B. C., said the ice was covered with water and slush and melting rapidly.

The mercy flight started Thursday when the Dakota left Whitehorse, Y.T.

Nursing sister Edna Poirier was picked up at Fort Nelson, B.C., and the plane made its first trip over Isachsen Friday but bad weather prevented it from landing. It returned to Resolute Bay.

Thirty Canadian Soldiers Fight German Police

DETMOLD, West Germany (Reuters)—One Canadian military policeman and several German civil police were injured in a fight with about 30 Canadian soldiers in a beerhall near here at midnight, police said Sunday.

They said "a barrage of beer bottles and pieces of wood" greeted the police when they arrived to stop a disturbance.

Five of the soldiers were detained and two were held.

Princess Called "Honey" By Danny Kaye

LONDON (AP)—A London columnist said Sunday Danny Kaye addressed Princess Margaret as "honey" in a backstage conversation at the Palladium.

The columnist, Red North, in the Sunday Pictorial, registered indignation, as did Kaye when informed of North's jottings.

"I'd like to spit in his eye," Kaye thundered. "Ask him (North) if he was there (back stage). Anyway, it's a pitifully poor way to fill a column to hop on things like that."

North said the princess and some friends walked back stage to see the American comedian after one of his Palladium shows and that things went this way:

"Hello, honey," said Kaye. "I didn't expect to see you back here."

REPORTED REPLY

The columnist said Margaret swallowed once or twice and countered, a little limply, "Hello, Danny."

The columnist commented:

"In my view there are times when it is permissible to call a woman honey—if you happen to know the sort who doesn't mind this sort of saccharine sweet endearment.

"There are other moments in history, when speaking quite personally, I would address the young lady concerned as ma'am. The moment would have been at the theatre after the show.

"I should add that in America any woman of any rank who has been met socially a few times is almost automatically a honey."

Two Suspects In Murder Case To Appear Friday

TORONTO (CP)—Keith Baylis, 24, and James North, 22, will appear for preliminary hearing Friday on a charge of murdering Kenneth Jones and staging the $180 armed robbery of a Toronto finance company, authorities said today.

The suspects were placed in a lineup at police headquarters Saturday. Clifford Desormeau, assistant loan office manager, who handed an armed man the cash, and who saw his manager, Mr. Jones, shot through the head, was a key witness at the lineup.

The robbery was committed in downtown Toronto Friday afternoon. The manager was shot as he approached one of the bandits in a taxi and demanded the money back. North was arrested soon after the holdup and Baylis was captured in Brantford during an early-morning police raid.

Four Accused As Members Of Theft Ring

TORONTO (CP)—Police said today they have arrested two youths and two girls and charged them with shopbreaking.

Officers accused the four of being members of a gang which raided out-of-town stores and stored their loot in a garage where last week police found about $10,000 worth of articles listed as stolen.

Arrested were Donald Standon, 21, of Toronto, and Eugene Lambert, 17, Janette Costello, 16, and Ann Jardins, also 16, all of Hamilton. The four will appear in Hamilton court Thursday.

The two girls and Sandon were arrested near Aurora last week after a car accident, and Lambert was arrested after he hitchhiked to Hamilton, police said.

Officers of six municipalities were involved in investigation that resulted in recovery of all the loot before it had been sold. It included a great variety of items from a mink coat to ammunition.

Prescribes Beer, Blood Letting, For Heart Ills

TORONTO (CP) — A British heart specialist today advocated beer and the ancient art of blood letting as treatments for heart ailments.

Beer is a "harmless and pleasant" way to increase elimination of water from the system, Dr. Stephen Whittaker of Warick said in a paper presented to the joint British and Canadian Medical Association convention here.

The slowing heart caused water retention in the body and this led to pain.

Dr. Whittaker said Swedish authorities discovered that two bottles of lager-type beer substituted for an equivalent amount of water has "positive therapeutic value and in addition relieves the monotony of saltless diet." He added:

"The appetite improves and I can think of many patients who will welcome this news."

STILL USEFUL

He also said that in some cases the letting of blood from the veins of the thighs relieves pressure on the heart. He urged that this centuries-old art not be forgotten.

The paper was the first of more than 160 being presented at scientific sessions this week to some 3,000 delegates from 11 nations.

Returns to Home On Father's Day, Finds Sons Slain

SEATTLE (AP)—A bleak and bloody father's day greeted 30-year-old Charles Reimers early Sunday.

He returned to his small home to find his sons, aged 5 and 1, battered and stabbed to death. In another room he found his wife, Josephine, with knife slashes in her throat, wrists and groin.

Mrs. Reimers, 29, eight months pregnant with twins, died in hospital Sunday night. The sheriff's office called the tragedy a suicide and double slaying.

Reimders, an aircraft factory worker, found the two boys battered with a rolling pin and slasned with a knife. Authorities said apparently the younger boy had been slain in his crib, then thrown on the bed of the older boy, also slain.

Reimers said his wife had been despondent.

Bombs Explode In Cyprus Bars

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—A fresh spate of bomb explosions hit Cyprus Sunday night, but no casualties were reported though blasts rocked crowded bars here and in Famagusta.

Windows were broken and furniture damaged when two bombs went off in a Nicosia bar owned by a London veteran. About 25 British servicemen there at the time were reported unhurt.

Another bomb was thrown into a Famagusta bar owned by an Englishman. Approximately 24 British soldiers and their wives and girl friends in the bar escaped injury.

A bomb also was exploded in the yard of a house here occupied by Brigadier A. H. C. Ricketts, commander of British troops. Ricketts and his wife were unhurt.

MANITOBA RESORT IS UTOPIA TO AVID ANGLERS

There's nothing "fishy" about the fish stories told at God's Lake, for thirty and forty pound pike and lake trout are common catches in the remote fishermen's Shangri-la. Accessible only by plane, God's Lake is 460 miles northeast of Winnipeg. Although accommodation averages $500 a week, avid anglers from all parts of North America pack the area from June to September. Here Mary and Jimmy Smith display t huge pike. One fisherman caught 26 lake trout in a row, the biggest weighing 32 pounds.—Central Press Canadian.

Canadian Embassy Windows Broken In Recent Revolt

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian correspondent was imprisoned temporarily and windows in the Canadian embassy were broken in last week's uprising in Buenos Aires. There were no Canadian casualties.

Maj.-Gen. L. R. LaFleche, Canadian ambassador to Argentina, reported in a wireless message Sunday that the embassy had windows broken by the explosion of bombs that missed the nearby presidential residence.

The message, a little vague, was sent from the SS. Delmar on which Gen. LaFleche was believed to be a passenger for Uruguay.

HOLD REPORTER

Douglas Blanchard, described by Gen. LaFleche as a correspondent from the Toronto Star recently arrived in Buenos Aires, was arrested while taking pictures of the dead and injured in the bombing in the Plaza de Mayo.

The ambassador managed to get him released at midnight Friday after a day and a half in prison.

Gen. LaFleche is ambassador to Uruguay as well as to Argentina and maintains an office in Montevideo. He said the chancery (embassy office building) in Buenos Aires had been vacated and closed to all persons by the police.

Special Civic Fund For Family

TORONTO (CP)—Mayor Nathan Phillips of Toronto Saturday established a special civic fund for the family of Kenneth B. Jones, who was fatally shot Friday while chasing two gunmen who robbed his finance company office of $180.

The mayor asked citizens to send their cheques or money orders to the city treasurer to help the slain man's widow and three young children.

PERON BLAMES REDS FOR BURNING CHURCHES

This is a closeup of part of the mob of several thousand gathered in the Plaza de Mayo in Buenos Aires during the general strike called by the General Federation of Labor to back Juan Peron's later later publicly blamed Communists for attacks on Roman Catholic churches in Buenos Aires under cover of the bloody June 16 revolt. Hhe pledged his government will block any further raids against the churches.—Central Press Canadian.

WANTS STIFF PENALTY

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill providing the death penalty for persons convicted of selling narcotics to minors will be introduced by Representative Henry Latham (Rep. N.Y.). "We know what the Lindberg law did to kidnapping," Latham said in a statement. "Let us do the same thing to these human vermin who are selling narcotics to minors."

Canada's Top Fighter Planes In Air Show

PARIS (CP) — Canada's top fighter planes, fully armed and demonstrating an advanced attack technique, went through their paces at the French International Air Show here Sunday.

Some 50,000 observers at Le Bourget airport saw two Avro CF-100s piloted by RCA Ferews and a third with an RAF pilot match their speed and manoeuvrability against western Europe's best aircraft.

The twin-jet planes, built at the A. V. Roe Canada plant at Malton, Ont., showed off a "collision course" attack procedure in which radar guides the aircraft to its target and fires its bank of rockets.

Start Raft Trip On Tuesday

QUEBEC (CP) — Tuesday has been set as the departure date for a raft and four young adventurers who hope to cross the Atlantic to Europe with the help of the Gulf stream and favorable winds.

Announcing the date Sunday night, skipper Henri Beaudout also squelched reports that there is dissension between him and the others which might force cancellation of the trip.

Since the raft arrived last Tuesday from Montreal, it has been tied up in Quebec harbor and some acquaintances of the crew said the departure was being delayed because of frequent squabbles.

The 28-year-old Beaudout said, however, the time in Quebec has been spent trying to arrange a tow down the St. Lawrence river.

Meanwhile, other crew members —Paul Lapointe, 24; Gaston Vanckere, 28; and Bernard Sourleux, 25—rearranged supplies and other articles on the cedar raft.

Capt. Townsend Mobbed After Riding in Race

NEUSS, Germany (AP) — RAF Group Capt. Peter Townsend finished second in an amateur horse race here Sunday and afterward was mobbed by feminine admirers seeking autographs.

Townsend, British air attache at Brussels whose name has been linked romantically with Princess Margaret, rode his first race at a German track and placed two lengths behind the winner.

A crowd of young women pushed forward with pleas for autographs. Townsend signed two or three pieces of paper thrust at him, then smilingly waved the others away.

But his admirers were not easily put off. In the end, police had to clear a way for him so he could get from the paddock to his dressing room.

Weddings

KING—HAWBOLT

The marriage took place Saturday, June 11, at 9 a.m., Mass in St. Patrick's church, Halifax, N.S., of Joan Dolores Hawbolt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hawbolt, Halifax, N.S., and Earl King, son of Mr. and Mrs. William King, Belleville, Ontario. The Rev. J. H. Toomey officiated at the ceremony, and the organist was Mrs. Horner.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and wore a white floor-length gown of nylon trimmed with lace and pink and blue sequins. It was princess-lined, with a low neckline and long sleeves coming to points over the wrists. She carried an arm bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. G. W. Moffett was matron of honor, and wore a white gown with blue accessories. She carried a nosegay of mixed flowers. Colleen Sole, niece of the bride, was flower girl, and wore a blue nylon dress. She also carried a nosegay of mixed flowers.

The best man was George Coburn.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, 333 Rector Street, where the toast to the bride was proposed by Padre MacLean.

The mother of the bride wore a black dress with cerise trim, pink accessories, and a corsage of pink flowers.

'Drinking Films Being Cut By Hollywood', Says Director

The June meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held at the "Y" with the president, Mrs. E. Farnsworth, presiding.

A welcome was extended to all and reference made to the World's Council of Churches which met a year ago. Such a gathering of nations of many races, classes and creeds under the Christian church was nothing less than a miracle. The deep underlying unity was Christian love.

The most beautiful thing in the world is love; love lives not for self, but for others; love alone will conquer the three present-day enemies: greed, pride and fear.

The devotional was taken by Mrs. (Rev.) Steers who read from John 16th chapter. She said, "So many sects yet all savor of unity. The Holy Spirit will guide us if we commit our all to Him. She closed with a poem, "Give Me Wide Open Windows".

Folders for the YWCTU camp at Lake Consecon, were given out and several registrations have already been sent. Some 60 girls are expected July 5th to 15th.

POSTERS REPORT

The report of scientific temperance of posters and essays was given by Miss Barnum.

The film "Any Boy", which has been shown in many public schools, was shown to the union and pronounced an excellent film.

The study book was presented by Mrs. W. B. Vandervoort. Liquor is the enemy of youth. What can we do? It has no equal as an inciter of wrong doing. It defeats and robs youth of his rights.

Reference was made to the report of the recent Baptist convention when an appeal to the provincial governments of Ontario and Quebec, to increase their grants to the cause of research, education and rehabilitation in an effort to deal effectively with the alcohol problem.

LIQUOR PROFITS

The resolution said only $200,000 of Ontario's liquor profits of $47,000,000, almost none of Quebec's liquor profits of $35,000,000 and $89,000 of the Dominion government's liquor profits of $200,000,000 have been employed to deal constructively with the alcohol problem. The request is that one per cent of the profits should be given.

A series of articles is being published in the "Christian Science Monitor" to inform WCTU on the character of today's problems.

Mr. Shurlock, new director of the production code administration motion picture association of America, is one of a group responsible for supervising the use of liquor in the movies and he gives information of how Hollywood is now handling the problem.

Here are a few points:

"The use of liquor in American life where not required by the plot or for proper characterization will not be shown";

"To open a scene with a character remarking, "Let's have a Scotch highball', or the like, is open to criticism and is not approved";

"We used to have scenes in which a character gives a full description of how a drink is mixed. This is forbidden now."

"You never see a teen-ager drink in a picture";

"I think the studios do make a definite effort to confine drinking scenes to bars and to places where drinking is expected and to cut down on liquor scenes. The reason? Pressure from church organizations."

The writer says, "I would like to see a picture where some one offers a drink and the other person says 'no thanks', or 'I've had enough', so much of the social drinking portrayed in movies, is really poor writing.

"Of course if there is drinking, and the person who indulges finally ends up by recognizing the evil in it—I would buy that." As far as we in this office are concerned, there has been no relaxation."

"One thing for which we can thank Hollywood is that they are moving away from the humorous idea of the drunk, to a serious portrayal of his difficulty. Hollywood now does not see the drunk in terms of laughter. An alcoholic once said, "Do you laugh at a man with a broken leg? Do you laugh at a TB patient lying on a hospital bed? Then in God's name stop laughing at the alcoholic. You are laughing at tragedy."

From the "Christian Science Monitor comes an article, "Research Buttresses 'Don't Drink' Advice."

"On the drafting board are plans for a modern movie which will be available for TV showing, which aims at a believable appeal to the nation's youth. We want our work to shine as brightly as the four-color liquor ads in the big magazines."

"Instead of "Don't Drink" approach, the Board of Temperance now, carefully, intelligently tells why—why it is not good or right or even smart to drink and a richer, healthier life, is open to those who do not drink."

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THESE TWO SHOULD BE ALLOWED TO MARRY NOW

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 20, and engaged to a boy of the same age. He is in service, and will be getting leave in about two months.

We want to get married when he comes home, and he wants to take me with him wherever he will be stationed. My parents approve this, but his do not think a young man should marry until he is at least 21, and so they refuse to sign for him. They give no other reason for not signing, but he is an only child and perhaps they do not want to lose him.

We have decided the only thing we can do is to go away and get married without their consent. I have talked this over with my parents, and while they do not like the idea, they are willing for us to do this because they want to see us happy. We have been going together for four years, so there is no doubt about our love for each other.

Could you please tell me in what states a young man of 20 can be married without his parents' consent? — Ginny

Dear Ginny:

You may actually have the right idea about the real reason why your fiance's parents do not wish him to get married now. They may not even realize it themselves, but may unconsciously have settled on the fact of his being under age in order to be able to give a reason for their attitude.

While, as a general rule, I am against young people marrying without the full approval of their parents, I cannot help feeling that circumstances do alter cases, and that in your particular case, your wishes should have the right of way.

However, there are only four states where a young man under 21 can legally be married, and none of them are too close to where you live. These staes are Idaho, Michigan, North Carolina and South Carolina.

man's parents scould be persuaded. man's parents scould be persuaded to give their consent, and I do urge you to try again before you make a definite decision in the matter. You haven't mentioned your fiance's birthday, but perhaps it is not too far off, and, if so, perhaps you could wait until then to get married.

THE ONE WHO'S AT FAULT SHOULD APOLOGIZE

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My ex-boy friend is always sending me songs and acting as if he wants me to go back with him. Yet one day I called him up and he told me I was only wasting his time and my own. I think he was mad because I hadn't called him sooner, but because of my pride I wouldn't do it.

Do you think I should call him again, as he wants me to do, or let him come to me and ask for an apology? — E.

Dear E.:

What do you mean when you talk about letting this boy come to you and ask for an apology? Have you been in the wrong, and is it you who owes an apology? Or do you mean that he should come and apologize to you? Your letter is pretty confusing. You don't even say what happened between you to make this boy friend an "ex".

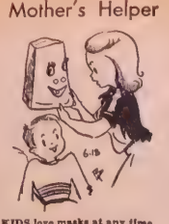
Assuming that you quarreled and broke up, then the right thing to do would be for the one who was in the wrong to apologize, provided whichever one it was wants to make up and be friends again.

HE'S 'TOO YOUNG' AND YOU'RE 'TOO YOUNG'

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My mother thinks I am too young to go out with a boy. She told me to get my father's opinion, but I just don't know exactly how to go about asking him. I am 14.

The boy I love is 12. He doesn't live near us and my parents don't know either him or his parents, but I love him very much and he loves me. My mother probably thinks I don't know what love is, but I think I do.



I don't get to see this boy except at school, or unless we go to a party, and then I have to meet him at the place we are going, since school will soon be out, I want him to be able to come and see me at least on Sundays.—E.D.

Dear E.D.:

Don't you think a 12-year-old boy is a little young for a girl 14 to want for a steady friend? I do, and I also think that you are too young to be talking so much about "love." If you really knew "what love is," as you say you think you do, then you would know yourself that you are too young for it.

For the present, I would advise you not to try and make a special friend of any boy, but just have good times with all the boys and girls you know at school who are in your own age group. By the time you are 15, which is old enough for a girl to start having real dates, you'll undoubtedly be interested in another boy, and one, I hope, who is closer to your own age, or a little older. By that time, your parents will probably be willing for you to date him.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

DEAL YOURSELF A FAIR HAND

Looking at pictures taken in the gay Nineties," one could well come to the conclusion that those so-called "good old days" were extremely confining where a woman was concerned. Her torso was compressed by a steel-riverted corset. She popped out above and below the waistline, that eighteen-inch span between was her pride and joy.

Her neck was enclosed in a tight, whole-boney collar that well-nigh choked the breath out of her. She bought shoes too small and she wore skin-tight gloves that took forever to smooth on to her dainty, snow-white hands.

Hands, in those days, were supposed to be small, preferably dimpled. The more useless they looked, the prettier they were supposed to be. We have different ideas now. Today the ideal hand looks as strong and capable as the modern woman herself.

Today's women are painting walls, washing windows, running cars, mowing lawns, doing laundry work, hosing the garage. And all of these jbs are tough on the hands. Despite the punishment they take, however, a woman wants her hands to look pretty when she sits in at a bridge game or 'pours" at a tea party. To achieve this, she must give them fastidious attention.

A soothing lotion must be used daily. Every so often a cream must be frictioned into the flesh to take the place of the natural oil which is removed by constant contact with soap suds.

It is well worth the time and money to have a hand and arm treatment at a beauty shop. After a soapy scrubbing, rinsing and drying, a heavy cream is applied. It is pressed into the flesh with circular movements from finger tips to shoulders. A cosmetic meal is sprinkled over the cream, forming a pack, then moist, hot applications are applied. Try it at home sometime!

NOTE ACCEPTING A SHOWER INVITATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have just received an invitation to a large "miscellaneous" shower for a bride-to-be, with the request to answer the invitation. What is the proper form for the acceptance? — Betty M.

Your note might read somewhat like this:

Dear Irene,

Thank you so much for giving me the pleasure of sharing in the shower for Marie on Friday, the seventeenth. I'll come at 4 o'clock with my gift in hand. And I know we'll all have a happy time at your party!

Lovingly

Betty

CUTTING ANNIVERSARY CAKE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently we attended an Open House to celebrate a Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary. We were served coffee, ice cream with a dainty square of cake with its own ornamentation. The lovely tiered anniversary cake (a gift from the children of the couple) was kept as a show piece. Both my sister and I thought this a clever idea, and if it is correct, we would like to use it for the wedding anniversary At Home we are giving for our parents. Is this idea correct? — Sisters

Of course there isn't any reason not to have the anniversary cake served at the anniversary party, if this is the preference . . . but in my judgment this would be omitting one of the most festive and memorable highlights of this wonderful occasion. I think a very special and charming ceremony should be made of the cutting of the Anniversary Cake by the "bride and groom." When all the guests have arrived, a signal is given that the cake is to be cut, the "bride and groom" stand together, the groom holds his hand over the bride's hand, together they cut the first slice and joyously share it. This festivity should be carefully planned, and someone who has a good cheer leader quality is asked to lead the guests in the singing of "The Bride Cuts the Cake" (to the old stand-by tune "The Farmer in the Dell.") I'd so much rather have that "golden" memory of the Golden Wedding than the memory of an uncut show piece cake.

IS WEDDING RECEPTION NECESSARY?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a deeply religious girl, and in making the plans for our wedding, my fiance and I are more interested in the emphasis on the marriage ceremony than on the social occasion. Our wedding is to be a large, formal wedding in our church at four o'clock in the afternoon. To settle a discussion we are having with our families, will you please tell us: Is it absolutely necessary to have a wedding reception after the ceremony—even if our church wedding is a large, formal one? — Anne B.

No . . . it is not necessary to have a reception of any kind after any kind of wedding, formal or informal, large or small. It depends entirely on the wishes of the couple themselves and of the bride's family. As a matter of fact, sometimes a bride or both the bride and groom choose to have only the religious ceremony, with no follow-up of any social occasion whatever.

REFRESHMENTS AT HOUSE-WARMING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are soon to move into our new house, and we would like to have a housewarming sometime in the late summer. We are wondering if it is necessary to serve a meal, even a buffet meal, at a buffet meal, at a housewarming. Is it? — J.M.

No. It is not necessary to serve a real meal at a housewarming . . . and it isn't customary. The hours generally chosen for a housewarming are the afternoon hours . . . 3 to 6, 3 to 7, or most often, 4 to 7. Refreshments served at these hours are appropriately simple, really a tea menu. Small, slim sandwiches, with simple fillings. Small cakes (petits fours, for example) and or interesting cookies. Tea and or coffee, perhaps either one iced, or other cold beverages. And usually such accessories-for-nibbling as nuts, mints or other candies, popcorn, potato chips, favorite packaged specialties, and so forth. The idea of a housewarming is not, or at least should not be, the serving of a meal, but should be a leisurely look-see of the new house and its furnishings. So, when simple refreshments are served, more guests can be accommodated, and the procedure for all concerned, particularly the hosts, is more convenient and relaxed.

CORRECT TIE WITH DINNER JACKET

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My groom-to-be and his attendants are to wear white dinner jackets at our wedding soon. The company who is furnishing the dinner jackets has told the groom that he (the groom) wears a white tie, and the attendants wear black ties. Now I am very much confused because in several books about weddings I have read that it definitely is a mistake for the groom to wear a white tie. Have I in some way misinterpreted? — Reader

With white dinner jackets all the men in the wedding party—the groom as well as his attendants—should wear black bow ties. (A white bow tie is correct with formal evening wear—"tails"—but a black bow tie is correct with dinner jacket, whether the jacket is black or white.)

The Experts Say —

Bowl of Home-Grown Yeast Popular Dowry for Girl

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The most popular dowry for a girl in pioneer days was her little bowl of home-grown yeast.

This may sound strange. But in those days the struggle for basic foods was just as fierce as the struggle against the Indians and the elements.

In the new land yeast came to be recognized as a symbol of civilization. Yeast that could produce light, tender, bread was a credit to its owner and a sure ticket to marriage for the single girl.

IN EARLY QUEBEC

When bride ships brought out marriageable girls from France to Quebec a few fortunate ones even carried their own yeast and they were the first to be picked by hungry French bachelors.

In pioneer days housewives used to set bread overnight to rise—now the whole process takes between three and four hours.

For the enterprising modern housewife who wants to try her hand at bread making here are some tips and recipes.

In handling yeast temperature plays an important part. Yeast is a living plant and too much heat can kill the action. Not enough can slow down the action. For best results, active dry yeast must be dissolved in lukewarm water.

WHOLE-WHEAT DOUGH

Basic whole-wheat dough: ¾ cup lukewarm water; one tablespoon granulated sugar; 3 envelopes active dry yeast; 3¾ cups milk; ¾ cup granulated sugar; 4½ tsp. salt; 1-3 cup shortening; 10 cups whole wheat flour.

In ¾ cup lukewarm water thoroughly dissolve one tablespoon granulated sugar. Sprinkle yeast on top of water and let stand in warm place for 10 minutes. Stir well. Scald milk and add ¾ cup granulated sugar, salt and shortening. Stir and let mixture cool to lukewarm. Add yeast to lukewarm milk mixture, then stir in 6 cups wholewheat flour and beat until elastic. Work in four more cups of flour. Turn out on board sprinkled with flour and knead dough lightly until smooth and elastic. Place in a greased bowl and crease top of dough.

Cover and set dough in warm place, free from draught, and let rise until doubled in bulk. Turn out dough on lightly floured board and knead 10 minutes. Divide into three equal portions and finish as follows:

For whole-wheat bread: Shape one portion of dough into a loaf and fit into a greased pan about 4½ by 8½ inches. Grease top, cover and let rise until just doubled in bulk. Bake in moderately hot oven, 375 degrees, for 35 to 40 minutes, covering the loaf with heavy brown paper after the first 15 minutes of baking.

For pan buns: Cut one portion of dough into 16 equal-sized pieces. Shape each piece into a smooth round ball and arrange in a greased 8-inch square cake pan. Grease tops. Cover and let rise until double in bulk. Bake in moderately hot oven, 375 degrees, for about 30 minutes, covering buns with heavy brown paper after first 15 minutes of baking.

For salad or wiener rolls: Cut one portion of dough into 12 equal-sized pieces. Shape each piece into a slim roll four to five inches long. Place, well apart, on greased cookie sheets. Grease tops. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in moderately hot oven at 375 degrees, for 20 minutes. Then split rolls and fill with salad or heated wieners.

Elasticized bengaline does a good job as the fabric for a fine figure-delineating swim suit. White banding sets off the black, and is used at the neckline and down the front, a good slimming notion. Banding, too, at the curved pockets. The suit is seamed strategically to fit and the thin shoulder straps are detachable.

SKYCAR HOISTS 20-TON CARGO

An over-water aerial tramway for landing supplies ship-to-shore across open beaches, without the use of piers or other harbor facilities, has been developed by the U.S. Army Research and Development Engineers. A series of 100-foot-high towers support cables which provide "tracks" for self-propelled "Skycars," as shown above. The tramway system can shuttle 15 to 20 tons of cargo at one time at speeds up to 30 miles an hour. The system is expected to keep open supply lines at wrecked, damaged or mined ports.—Central Press Canadian.

Balmy Breezes Blow no Good To East Cities

GUELPH (CP) — The breezes from southern Ontario may be warm and balmy but they blow no good for eastern cities when it comes to air pollution.

B. C. Newbury of the Ontario Research Council says they can carry pollution from Hamilton to Montreal like fire through a cornfield.

Mr. Newbury in an interview before the opening of the second Ontario Industrial Waste Conference, explained it this way:

Prevailing winds from southern Ontario are from the southwest and hence are warm in comparison to the ground below. Thus the air tends to cool off and remain near the ground—retaining any pollution it picks up on the way.

If winds were from the north and hence colder than ground temperature, they would rise as they warmed up and disperse the pollution quickly.

Beverage-Room Fight Causes Death of Man

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—A 48-year-old man, felled by one punch in a beverage-room fight, died in hospital Sunday despite the action of a surgeon who massaged his heart back into motion when it stopped during an operation Saturday night.

James (Scotty) Chalmers, a plumber here, died in an iron lung. He was involved in a fight at a local hotel Saturday night and was taken to hospital with fractures of the face just below the right eye.

His heart stopped beating during the operation. Dr. Edgar Flak made an incision in Chalmers' chest and massaged the heart into action. Chalmers was put in an oxygen tent and then transferred to the iron lung.

Arthur Finn, 28, of nearby Bridgenorth, was charged with assault occasioning bodily harm in connection with the fight.

New Technique In Brain Surgery Is Announced

TORONTO (CP) — A technique using ultrasonic waves to perform delicate brain surgery without even opening the skull was described here Saturday.

Dr. S. Bernard Wortis of New York described the method to the joint annual convention of the Canadian psychiatric Association and the Ontario Neuropsychiatric Association.

Dr. Wortis said the ultrasonic waves are directed through the temple to the exact spot and for the exact purpose the surgeon has planned.

"For two minutes they are played on the spot. The surgery has been done—no wound, no scar, no dressings, no pain to the patient."

Dr. Wortis stressed that present knowledge is insufficient to show how superior the technique is to conventional surgical methods.

ELECTED GROUP'S PRESIDENT

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—Don Hardy of Canon City, Colo., was elected president of the National Editorial Association at the group's 70th annual convention which ended here Saturday. Publisher of the Canon City Daily Record, Mr. Hardy succeeds E. M. Anderson of Forest City, N.C., who presided over the three-day convention attended by about 300 U.S. editors and publishers.

Harbor Police End Adventure For Two Boys

TORONTO (CP)—Two Toronto boys loaded a flimsy raft with food, cooking utensils and an axe Sunday and set off on Lake Ontario in search of adventure.

They found it, too, even if they only made half a mile before harbor police caught up with them.

The police were called in by a lakeshore resident who saw what appeared to be a small boat ablaze. By the time the patrol boat arrived the fire, which the boys had started to heat their lunch, was spreading over the raft.

To top it off, a sudden storm lashed the lake minutes after they were back on shore.

Donald Doring, 13, and Manfred Pirwitz, 15, said they had planned to make "a long voyage."

REMEMBER SINKING

ST. NAZAIRE, France (CP)—Poppy wreaths were dropped into the sea swirling over the troopship Lancastria Sunday during ceremonies in memory of more than 4,000 British troops who died when the ship was sunk by German dive-bombers in 1940. The Lancastria was evacuating troops from France. The exact death toll was never known since regimental records were lost at the same time.

Herald Tribune Suggests U.S. Take Lesson

NEW YORK (CP) — The New York Herald Tribune suggests that the United States might well take a lesson from Canada in handling its polio vaccine program.

In an editorial, the newspaper notes that 800,000 Canadian children have been inoculated and by the end of next year the total will have reached 3,000,000. "There has been no political dispute and no public controversy."

Direction and planning of the Canadian program "were so thorough and effective that a decided impression is left that they might have achieved similar results in the United States.

"With little of the publicity and none of the improvisation of the American program, the Canadians went about their task in a scientific and detached manner, their paramount concern being to administer the vaccine to all who needed it as swiftly and as safely as possible."

Both in safety and distribution, The Herald Tribune says, Canada has achieved "remarkable success by dint of foresight and planning. There is still time for the lesson to be applied in the United States."

Second Century Of Great Lakes Shipping Begins

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP)—The second century of Great Lakes shipping began at noon Saturday.

That was when the 525-foot, 11,000 ton freighter Valley Camp was hoisted by the Soo locks to the level of Lake Superior.

At the same time June 18, 1855, the little wooden-hulled steamer Illinois was locked through—first of more than 1,335,000 to follow in this world's busiest canal.

Capt. Joseph McLean of the Valley Camp was presented a scroll recognizing his ship as the "first of the second century of Great Lakes shipping" on behalf of the Soo centennial committee by George A. Osborn.

TO THE HOUR

The celebration was held 100 years to the hour.

The locks were built in 1855 to bypass the rapids which prevented navigation between Lake Huron and Lake Superior and to provide a water-route to the interior of the continent.

In 1855, a total of 196 passages were recorded with a total cargo of just over 14,000 tons. Today 196 passages would only require three days and a single freighter often carries more than 14,000 tons through the locks.

The lock celebration is part of a centennial program which will start June 26. Voting is being held to choose a centennial beauty queen.

ARGENTINE

He branded as completely false reports that rebellious army units were marching on Buenos Aires from outlying regions, and that there had been naval bombardments and garrison uprisings in the interior.

Lucero declared that the only troop movements were men returning to their garrisons. He added that navy forces remain loyal and that airplanes seen flying overhead are operating only on vigilance missions.

Today's memorial marked the opening of the Plaza de Mayo for the first time since navy planes swooped over it Thursday to rain bombs on Government House and unleash the short-lived attempt to oust Peron.

The police list only 174 identified dead from the bombings, but Peron said in a speech Saturday night that hundreds perished and 1,000 were injured.

BODIES IN RUBBLE

Bodies were still turning up in the debris as wrecking crews strove to clear the rubble from the bombed area. Hospital authorities said many of those wounded in the revolt had returned home, but that 772 persons were still in metropolitan hospitals.

Pro Fire Eater Nearly Sets Place on Fire

CHICAGO (AP)—A Chicago furniture company hired a professional fire-eater Sunday to point up the fire-resisting qualities of its wares.

The fire-eater, a Samoan named Uluale Tavui, was to have performed today at the opening of the American Furniture Mart Show. He won't.

A crowd gathered in the mart Sunday to watch Tavui practice blowing fire on a sample table. He took a huge swig of kerosene from a bottle and blew it out past a small torch held near his mouth. There was a muffled roar and a tremendous ball of smoke. Flame filled the hall. The crowd jumped back.

"Get that guy out of here," someone shouted.

THEN OUTDOORS

The test moved outdoors. Tavui set up shop near the lake shore drive entrance of the mart. Tavui took aim again and a three-foot ball of flame bounced off the table. On the drive, brakes braked and bumpers bumped as drivers turned to watch.

"What are you using, Uluale?" asked the worried exhibitor.

"I shift to gasoline," said Tavui calmly.

The exhibitor gave the table a quick check. Apparently satisfied with its flame resistance, he declared the test over and cashiered Tavui.

BACK FROM ANTARCTIC

SOUTHAMPTON, England (CP) The 900-ton wooden-hulled royal research vessel John Biscoe docked here Sunday after her annual voyage to the Antarctic to deliver supplies and relieve men in seven bases there. It is expected to make only one more voyage before being replaced by a diesel-electric vessel next year.

About 50 craftsmen are engaged, and experts from private firms have made the coach fire-proof and sound-proof. It has four bedrooms, a bathroom and nursery.

Panelling of the rooms is in polished Australian Walnut, Queensland maple and English sycamore.

Crippling, Deadly Diseasees Attacked by Corps of Scientists At National Institutes of Health

By BEN PRICE

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Scientists are waging one of history's greatest struggles against the crippling and deadly diseases that still afflict mankind.

The attack is carried on in a maze of laboratories in 20 red brick buildings known collectively as the National Institutes of Health. This is the biggest organization of its kind in the world.

The attack on disease is compartmentalized under NIH into seven great institutes: cancer, heart, micro - biological, mental health, neurological, dental and arthritic and metabolic.

NIH, an offshoot of the U.S. department of public health, is engaged in large measure in basic research into what makes people tick. In the process they also are seeking cures. New drugs, new surgical and diagnostic techniques are being developed and tested constantly.

HE[illegible] AND LUNGS STUDY

Dr. Donald L. Fry, for example, may have developed a diagnostic technique of immense value in connection with his study of the heart and lungs.

Fry's research has led to a study of the elasticity of the lung as means of gauging whether the heart is working properly.

The right side of the heart pumps blood into the lungs, where it takes up life-giving oxygen, gives off its carbon dioxide and then passes into the left side. The hard-to-reach left side of the heart pumps the blood through the body.

MEASURES ELASTICITY

If the left side does not pump fast enough, blood backs up in the lungs. Fry believes the amount of such backing up can be checked by measuring the elasticity of the lungs. To accomplish this, he has developed a complex technique in which[illegible] tiny balloon is inflated again[illegible] the lungs after being swallowed by the patient.

Fry thinks his technique will give information not now obtainable from a cardiogram and eventually may become standard procedure in physical examinations.

By measuring the elasticity of the lungs after exercise, Fry hopes to establish a procedure for measuring the heart's ability to stand work.

EXPERIMENTS WITH NERVES

In a temporary building about half a mile from Fry's laboratory, Dr. William Windle is working on nerve regeneration.

Scientists have known for years that in the lower orders of life, such as the salamander, it is possible to remove whole sections of the central nervous system without permanent paralysis. By some process, nerve regeneration takes place. How? Why?

W[illegible] has been experimenting with [illegible]gs which apparently cause some nerve regeneration. "After 12 to 18 months, though," he said, "there is some retrogression. Right now we are at a dead end."

But Windle keeps plugging.

NEW CLINICAL CENTRE

The heart of this vast organization [illegible] the new 10-storey clinical centre, a model 500-bed hospital surrounded by laboratories.

The only patients are volunteers referred by private physicians. They must have a disease which the NIH doctors have under study and often the disease must be at a specific stage of development.

These patients are not guinea pigs. They receive the best medical care possible, but additionally they get the benefit of the most advanced treatments.

Some of the patients are incurable. In offering themselves for study, they are furthering medical science. They also have a hope that during their stay the miracle of cure will be found.

Long List of Students Left By Principal Dramatic School

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP)—"Really, darling," said a slinky young woman in skin-tight slacks, "I always say that to appreciate Shakespeare truly, you must read him with your shoes off."

"How perfectly divine," said another slinky young woman in skin-tight slacks, "of course one must."

Sir Kenneth Barnes, the 77-year-old principal of the Royal Academy of Dramatic Arts, peered over his glasses at the two lithe figures twinkling down the corridor of what he calls the world's greatest theatrical school.

"Ah," he said with a nostalgic sigh, "when I came here 46 years ago, young ladies talked just like that. They didn't wear slacks, but they said the most outrageous things."

After all these years and all those actresses and actors Sir Kenneth is finally giving up. He's going to retire in August, to be succeeded by John Farnald, 40.

He leaves a long and impressive list of former students, which includes Vivien Leigh, Charles Laughton, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Robert Morley and Sir John Gielgud.

The profession is over crowded. London alone has 1,000 actors and actresses out of work. Yet, year after year, hundreds of recruits come wanting to act.

"It's always been that way," said Sir Kenneth, a large lumbering, kindly man. "I'm sure the profession was overcrowded 3,000 years ago and 3,000 years from now it will be overcrowded."

Asked why so many young people want to act, he thought for a moment.

KEEPS ANSWERS

"I always ask them that same question," he replied, touching a large leather-bound book, "and I keep their answers in here."

The most common reason:

"I acted when I was in school. People told me I had talent."

The academy was founded by famed actor-manager Sir Herbert Tree in 1904.

Sir Kenneth joined in 1909. He had two ambitions:

To get a royal charter and to have acting accepted as a fine art.

The charter has been granted and Sir Kenneth feels the second wish also has been fulfilled.

TEACHER'S ADVICE

Asked what advice he has for young people who want to act, he replied:

"Discover sincerely if they have any talent for it. If they haven't, then forget the stage. If they have talent, then by all means pursue the urge."

He made it plain he was speaking as a teacher.

"You see," he said, "I've never been an actor."

HOCKEY

More information gleaned anent the senior "B" hockey loop of this district reveals that the Kingston Goodyears, 1954-55 champions of Ontario will stage an exhibition game with a team of group all-stars in Kingston Memorial Centre some time this fall.

Playing coach Frank Mario of the Cornwall Colts has been named coach of the all-star with Wren Blair, Whitby mentor in a managerial capacity. Each club will nominate four players.

The 15 per cent levy will again go into effect with the teams cutting the melon at the end of the season after travelling allowances for the clubs have been taken out. It is not at all likely the clubs involved will go for the fifty-game schedule same as last season, the majority seemed to favor the shorter, forty-game affair but this will be settled definitely at the next meeting of the group scheduled for July 24.

SOFTBALL

Frankford Merchant trek to Madoc tomorrow night in a scheduled Belleville District Softball League fixture while the Point Anner plays hosts to the Bobcats in another of their sizzling series down at the Point. And we wonder whatever became of that Ole Bearcat Al. Adams? Has he gone into hibernation, thinking it's winter or something, or is that flipper of his not what it used to be?

The "Printed Word" comes up with a neat story of a fabulous hockey game that never was played. Here it is:

PINCHER CREEK WINS

* * *

June is late for a hockey story, but this one has been intentionally held back till it seemed safe to tell it. It has to do with daily papers and the sports department slaves who toil all night preparing the involved tabulations known as hockey standings for the morning paper, only to have the afternoon papers clip and paste them for resetting in PM editions next day.

In an eastern Canadian city where there are still several dailies published, the injustice of it all worked a fever on the nightside boys when the playoffs hit their hectic pitch in April. The staff of one paper plotted a simple expose. Out of a clear black night sky and their fertile imaginations they dreamed up an imaginary playoff series, The Kootenay Valley Finals between the Americans and the Canadians. Night after night they played the seven-game series on their battered typewriters, Pincher Creek vs. Bellingham. And methodically the afternoon editions clipped, pasted and copied the standings. All but one, that is. Aloof or unaware, this one paper refused to bite.

Tention was high when the series had run to three games, each for the Canadians and Americans and this one particular PM daily had still not gone for the fraud. In desperation the morning paper sports writers summoned a miracle. The seventh and deciding game was proclaimed a draw after four overtime periods. Worn-out players and officials, it was said, had voted for an eighth game.

All this was too much for the hold-out afternoon editors. A situation like this might be hockey history. They broke down and ran the standing in the memorable Kootenay Valley Finals. There were exhausted cheers of victory in the morning paper sports department that night as weary typewriters wound up the series with an overwhelming win for the Canadians. And now that tempers have settled a bit with the coming of warmer weather, it should be safe for the Pincher Creek Echo to boast a little about winning the first unplayed Kootenay Valley Championship in Canadian hockey history.

BIG TOURNEY

The defending champions of the U.S. and British Opens, Ed Furgol and Peter Thomson, will be in the field for Canada's top golf event, The Labatt Open, it was announced today.

Furgol and Thomson are among the score of the world's best players already committed for the Labatt event which will be played at Summerlea, Montreal, August 25-28. "The Labatt tournament is one of the big tournaments in the world. Why should I miss it," Furgol said on the eve of his bid to retain the U.S. Championship. Thomson, the young Australian who took Britain's top event last season, said he will come back from England after defending his title.

Another entry in the tournament will be Flory van Donck, who a few days ago tied Furgol and Thomson to go into a play-off for the International Golf Championship. Almost unknown to Canadians and little known in the States, van Donck is a Belgium pro who has taken most European golf titles. Van Donck will also be returning from defense of his titles abroad this summer.

One of the half dozen big purses in golf this season, the $26,800 Labatt prize list is attracting most of the best golf talent to Montreal's Summerlea course where this tournament was launched in 1953. With the event still two months away commitments already include most of the top money winners. Mike Souchak, Gene Littler, Billy Maxwell and Ted Kroll are among those who put in early bids.

Leafs Lead Montreal By Half Game In Bitter Battle For League Top

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The bitter battle between Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Royals for first place in the International League shows no signs of letting up.

The two teams have been fighting it out for first place ever since the season started.

Toronto leads Montreal by a half-game today after both clubs swept Sunday doubleheaders.

The Leafs beat Syracuse 6-2 and 4-3 behind the two-hit pitching of Jack Crimian blanked the Chiefs in the nightcap 2-0.

Montreal easily handled Richmond in the opener 7-3, but needed a home run by Charlie Neal in the 10th inning to defeat the Virginians 5-4 in the nightcap.

The fourth-place Rochester Red Wings took 17 on the chin as the Columbus Jets, behind the brilliant pitching of righthanders Vernon (Jake) Thies and Mike Kume, Thies tossed a six-hit shutout 6-0 in the nightcap after Kume went the route to win the opener 5-3.

Buffalo Bisons and Havana Sugar Kings split a doubleheader. Buffalo, behind the five-hit pitching of Ben Flowers, flanked the Kings 2-0 in the opener and Havana came back to win the nightcap 3-1.

Crimian, a Leaf reliefer, has held the opposition runless in two of his three starting assignments this year. The victory boosted his season's record to 7-1.

In the opener Eddie Blake went the route to post his ninth victory in 14 decisions as the Leafs broke the game wide open by scoring four runs in the first inning.

Set Back White Sox Twice As Tribe Bows to Boston Brooks Eleven Games in Front

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Yankees are perched atop the American League again today in the see-saw battle for first place—and they are there because they whipped their No. 1 rivals, the Chicago White Sox.

Meanwhile, Boston triumphed 11-7 over Cleveland Sunday, a significant victory.

The victory over the Tribe was Boston's seventh in 12 games this year and third in the four-game set. It also was the Sox' 11th triumph in their last 13 games, but they're still fifth, 10 games off the pace.

Ted Williams blasted a pair of home runs in the slugfest, and to add insult to injury, the Sox teed off on Indian rookie Herb Score for eight hits in the four-plus innings he lasted.

The Yanks' triumphs over the White Sox were by 7-1 and 5-2 and they used their favorite weapon, the home run, to good advantage. Elston Howard and Bill Skowron hit for the circuit in the opener and Gil McDougald and Mickey Mantle connected in the afterpiece.

NO CONTEST

The first game was no contest with Ed Lopat scattering seven hits for his fourth victory. The nightcap, however, presented more of a problem. The game was tied at two-all going into the last half of the seventh and Sox pitcher Jack Harshman had the Yanks worried. But McDougald broke the tie with a blast into the lower right field seats.

Then Hank Bauer tripled and in same Sandy Consuegra, who was greeted with a home run off the bat of Mantle. Rookie Johnny Kucks needed help from Jim Konstanty. The latter was the winner.

There was no other action in the American League. The Detroit at Baltimore doubleheader was called off because of rain, as was the Kansas City at Washington twin bill.

DODGERS UP 11

In the National League, the Brooklyn Dodgers fattened their lead to 11 games by beating St. Louis Cardinals 7-4 while the second-place Chicago Cubs were splitting a doubleheader with Philadelphia Phillies. The Quaker City outfit won the first, 1-0, behind Ron Negray and Jack Meyer, and the Cubs took the nightcap 8-7, a curtailed 6½ inning affair because of darkness.

Milwaukee whipped New York 8-7 and Pittsburgh and Cincinnati split a pair, the Pirates taking the first 5-2 and the Redlegs the second 4-0 as Joe Nuxhall wielded the whitewash brush.

The Brooks peppered an assortment of five St. Louis pitchers for 15 hits—including a home run by Sandy Amoros — in their victory. Carl Furillo was the only regular except pitchers Carl Erskine and Karl Spooner, who didn't get a hit. Spooner, who relieved Erskine in the fifth, was the winner.

WON IN 15TH

The Phils won the first game in the 15th when Marv Blaylock singled and Willie Jones doubled him home. Cub reliefer Hal Jeffcoat's six-game winning streak was broken, while Meyer, who gave up only four hits in the last eight innings, snapped a six-game losing skein.

Milwaukee took over third place with its victory over the slumping Giants. Manager Leo Durocher of the Giants benched Willie Mays, the most valuable player in the league and batting champion of '54. Ray Crone was the winner in relief and Paul Giel the loser. The winning run in the eighth inning was unearned, scoring as a result of an error by Al Dark.

First baseman Dale Long hit two home runs to lead the Pirates to their opening-game victory over the Redlegs.

USC CAPTURES MEET

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The University of Southern California Saturday won its seventh straight U.S. collegiate track and field championship and five meet records were smashed in the 34th annual competition.

The mile race was won by Jim Bailey of Oregon in 4:05.6. Rich Ferguson of Toronto, running for Iowa, finished seventh.

Miss Supertest Sets Record, Finishes Second

DETROIT (AP)—Bud Saile, a comparative newcomer to big time speedboat races, scored his first major triumph Saturday by capturing the Maple Leaf regatta in Miss Cadillac.

Saile, president of a Detroit tool and die company, won the opening heat, finished second in the next and then played it cozy to protect his point advantage with a fourth-place finish in the final heat.

Miss Cadillac collected 869 points to 795 for the second place finisher, Miss Supertest, owned by R. G. Thompson of Sarnia, Ont., the only Canadian entry.

Miss Supertest finished second in the first heat, sixth in the second and then set a Maple Leaf regatta heat record of 99.457 miles per hour in the closing heat over the S-shaped 15-mile route on the Detroit river off the Windsor Yacht Club.

Miss Supertest's record eclipsed one set in the first heat by Miss Cadillac of 93.862 miles an hour.

Suspends Two Harness Drivers

UTICA, N.Y. (AP)—George P. Monaghan, New York state harness racing commissioner, has suspended two drivers, one a Canadian, in an investigation at Vernon Downs race track.

Those suspended are William Harvey of Norwich, Ont., and Louis Rupone, not further identified.

Monaghan said in New York Saturday the inquiry resulted from a police report on a Buffalo man arrested in Utica Thursday, but gave no further details.

The commissioner stressed that the suspensions did not mean "in any way" that Harvey and Rupone are guilty. Their names had been "bandied about" by Utica bookmakers and he felt they should stay off the track until the investigation is completed.

Harvey said Saturday he had done nothing wrong and did not know why he was suspended.

GROSSINGER, N. Y. (AP)—Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., winner of the Los Angeles, Oklahoma City and Eastern Opens this year, added the round robin golf tournament to her collection Saturday when she defeated a crack field with a total of plus 44 points.

VANCOUVERITE WINS

MONT GABRIEL, Que. (CP)—Lawrence Barclay of Vancouver Saturday defeated veteran Henri Rochon of Montreal 6-4, 6-3, 6-2 to win the Mont Gabriel invitation tennis tournament.

Barclay, a candidate for a berth on Canada's Davis Cup team, entered the finals against Rochon by ousting Jack Spencer of Montreal 6-2, 7-9, 6-2. Rochon beat Val Harit of Chateauguay, Que, 6-1, 6-2 in the semi-final.

Harit is the 27-year-old unknown who scored an upset win Friday over Lorne Main, rated Canada's No. 1 tennis player.

Jack Fleck, Unknown Iowan, Beats Hogan For U.S. Open Championship

Uses Old Master's Clubs To Retain Fifth-Hole Lead In Thrill-Packed Playoff

By CHRIS EDMONDS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Tournament golf has seen the last of Ben Hogan, he says, but it'll see a lot more of a hitherto unknown Iowan who used the old master's mannerisms, style—even his clubs—as he won the national open golf championship Sunday in a thrill-packed 18-hole playoff.

Soft-spoken Jack Fleck, operator of two municipal golf courses at Davenport, Ia., played the four-time links king off his feet in the first overtime session of the open in five years. He took the lead on the fifth hole and held it grimly to post a one-under-par 69 as Hogan skidded to a 72 over the heavily-trapped and lightning-fast greens of the Olympic Country Club's lake course.

Fleck's triumph was a dandy—and a heartbreaker. It was the first tournament of any kind he'd ever won outright and it apparently marked the decline of the Hogan era in golf.

CHOKED VOICE

"I'm through with serious competitive golf," he said in a choked voice to thousands of fans packed on the hillside overlooking the eighth green after it was all over.

"I want to become a weekend golfer. It's too hard to train for a big tournament."

Just how he meant it defied interpretation. He was a tired man, discouraged at his failure to reach the coveted honor of being the first man in history to win five open titles. The feeling was that he might—probably would—make another bid for the crown by the time next year rolls around.

Hogan's remarks stole some of the thunder from Fleck's victory, but it left the 32-year-old Iowan as top man in the nation's golf picture and netted him $6,000 in cash prize money plus thousands more from other sources. He is the longest shot to win the Open title since Sam Parks pulled the trick 20 years ago. Hogan won $3,600.

STARTED IN TIE

Fleck started Saturday at 145 tied with Hogan, Julius Boros and young Walker Inman, Jr., behind Tommy Bolt and amateur Harvie Ward.

He shot a 75 in the morning to fall off the pace as Hogan forged into the lead on a 72. But all other contenders soon folded, leaving the course first to Hogan and then to the unbelievable Fleck.

Sam Snead got a 70-74 to finish five strokes back of the two leaders at 292, tied with Bolt, the early leader, who faded to 75-73.

Julius Boros, the sphinx-like 1952 Open champion, and young Bob Rosburg of San Francisco were tied at 295 followed by amateur Harvie Ward, Jr., Doug Ford and Bud Holscher, together at 296.

KESSELRING 25TH

Jerry Kesselring of Kitchener, Ont., fidished in a tie for 25th with rounds of 79-76-79-81—305 for prize money of $180.

Fleck's actual triumph was almost too easy, an anti-climax to the sensational surge of birdies he rode into a 287 tie with Hogan late Saturday to force the playoff.

Fleck took command on the fifth hole when Hogan decided to play his second shot safe after slicing his drive into the rough and wound up with a bogey five. The one-stroke lead was all the hungry hawkeye needed.

Hogan birdied the short eighth—and Fleck did the same. Two more birdies on successive holes put the new champion three strokes ahead after 10 holes.

He bogeyed the 11th, but Hogan gave the stroke right back by fluffing a 12-inch putt on the 12th.

The grim-faced Hogan, smoking incessantly, stroked in a 20-foot putt for a birdie on No. 14, and clipped his deficit to a single stroke on the 17th when Fleck's second shot was short, forcing a bogey five.

But Fleck was equal to the pressure on the 18th, with a sudden-death finish facing him if he failed to hold his lead. He was on easily in two and was down in four, but not so with Hogan. The veteran competitor drove into the rough, then moved his ball only four feet with two swings, and finally made the fairway with his fourth. He was on in five and one-putted for a double bogey windup.

The Fleck swing—flat with a long follow-through — and the hunched-shoulders and bowed head putting stance had spectators comparenting on how much they looked like Hogan's.

"That's right," Fleck acknowledged. "I've admired a lot of things about his game and I've adopted some of them, mainly position."

Weightlifters Treated Well In Russia

MOSCOW (AP)—An American weightlifting team left Moscow today by plane for Copenhagen after a round of entertainment and an amazing display of friendship by the Russian man in the street.

"We won't need any brainwashing when we get home," said Robert Hoffman, York, Pa., manufacturer and manager of the squad which met the Russians in matches at Moscow and Leningrad last week.

The contest was the first dual athletic competition between Americans and the Soviets, and never in recent history have any U.S. visitors been so lionized by the ordinary Russian as this group.

Never before was the American flag and national anthem so applauded, and the Americans have been mobbed by crowds in Moscow subways in friendly greetings.

Paul Anderson, American heavyweight champion from Tacoa, Ga., even reported Russians attempted to persuade him to wed a Russian girl after he gave a record-breaking performance in the Moscow meet.

"The Russians have been very nice to us," said Stanislaus Stanczyk, of Miami, Fla., "but we've seen their clothes, their living conditions and prices and their stores and the condition of their merchandise. We want to go home."

Orfuns Whip Cobourg 9-6 In Exhibition

In an exhibition softball game played under the lights in Cobourg on Saturday night, the Belleville Orfuns squeezed out a 9-6 decision over Cobourg in ten innings.

The home club held a 5-1 lead going into the ninth but Ron Belnap slammed a terrific grand-slam homer to send it into extra innings. John Batchelor provided the winning margin with a two-run homer and Doug Soule also hit a circuit blow with one on. Cobourg came back with one in the bottom of the tenth but it was too little.

Bobby "Rubber Arm" Hunter went all the way for Belleville.

Haggis Juniors Drop 12-8 Game To Marmora

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Building up an 8-0 lead in the early innings, Marmora hung on to hand the Belleville Haggis Juniors a 12-8 setback in a seven-inning Belleville and District baseball league game at the Exhibition Park on Saturday evening. The victory hoisted Marmora into second place with a three and three record. Wellington handed Picton their first defeat of the year, 8-4, to pull into a tie with Belleville, each with two and four records.

The visitors sent four runs home in the first frame, added a trio in the second and another in the 4th before the city crew hit the score sheet. The Kelleher - coached nine rallied for five in the fourth but Marmora widened their margin to 12-5 with four in the sixth. Belleville's last-inning rally fell short as they registered three tallies.

Wayne "Wiener" Brown hurled and batted his team to victory, going the route on the hill with ten hits charged against him. He cooled eight juniors on third strikes while issuing five free tickets to first. At bat, Brown cracked a triple and single, walked once, sacrificed, scored twice and drove in three runs.

Lefty Stan Reid was shelled from the mound in the second inning for Haggis' club, giving up seven runs and since his team never overcame the deficit, he took the loss. Don Sherry tolled the remainder of the game, allowing five runs on seven hits, getting five via strikes and walking four.

Marmora's first inning runs came on only one hit, a popup lost in the sun by Kelleher, playing first base. A walk, errors by Reid and Goyer, a wild pitch plating 2 runs and an infield out told the story. Reid fanned two. A pair of walks, Bridgeman's single and Wayne Brown's triple to deep left field upped the score in the second. Their lone tally in the fourth came on Jones' single, a walk, error and Brown's sacrifice.

The juniors batted around in the fourth. McKay walked to open the inning, Casey singled as did Sherry and Batchelor drove in two with a double. Stoliker singled home another and Batchelor scored on a throwing error before Goyer lined a double for an 8-5 score. Singles by Bridgeman and Bill Brown, Jim Dikun's 3-run triple and a sacrifice scored four for Marmora in the sixth. Stoliker singled, Fox walked and Al Kelleher plated them with a triple while Casey knocked in the final Belleville run with a single.

Wayne Brown led the winners at bat while Bill Jones and Dick Bridgeman each punched a brace of singles. Darrah, Bill Brown and Armstrong also hit safely. Harvey Stollker had a perfect night at the plate for Belleville with three one-base blows and a walk while John Casey cracked a pair of singles. Kelleher had a triple while Goyer and Batchelor boasted doubles. Buskard and Sherry gathered one hit each to round out the ten.

The juniors have an exhibition game planned for this Thursday night here at Exhibition park with the Kingston Giants providing the opposition at 6.30 p. m. Tony Pettitt, former Belleville Bata, is the Giant receiver.

The association has given about $90,000 to the society from its four sports celebrities dinners, held in Toronto.

Ivan Miller, sports editor of the Hamilton Spectator, had low gross score among active association members. He fired an 85 over the par-72 Niagara Parks commission course.

Bob Frewin of The Telegram took low net honors with a 67.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Major League Scout and Instructor

Being set to field any batted ball is of paramount importance to an infielder. It is a good idea to relax between pitches, but you must be on your toes and ready for action as the ball is pitched. Sometimes the ball is rifled back through the infield by the batter with such force that the fielder could be injured if he happened to be off balance and unprepared to make a play.

There is the story about a game in which Jim Bagby, former major league pitcher, was having trouble in retiring the batters. Their drives were whistling past Don Gutteridge, the third-baseman, so fast that he suggested to Bagby that he walk a couple of men and give Gutteridge time to rest up before tackling the next drive aimed in his direction. Bagby is alleged to have replied: "Get back there, you coward! I'm a lot closer to this thing than you are!"

While this may be only an amusing baseball legend, neither Gutteridge, one of the bravest infielders who ever battled a batter's blast, nor any other athlete could succeed if he didn't have the proper fielding position to pounce on any ball that might come his way.

Panthers Clip Elgins' String, Oshawa Beaten

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The lower teams had a field day at the expense of the top teams during the weekend in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League.

Kitchener Panthers ended St. Thomas Elgins' home winning steak at seven as they handed Elgins their first home loss of the season with a 3-0 shutout.

Gentry Jessup won his second game in as many starts as Galt defeated London Majors 6-3. Brantford Red Sox defeated the league-leading Oshawa Merchants 9-4.

In Saturday afternoon game, some 800 fans saw the home team, Kitchener, drop a 12-6 verdict to Oshawa.

In the Niagara district league, Stamford Kerrios nipped Niagara Falls Cataracts 5-4 and the league-leading Fort Erie Steels beat St. Catharines Saints 10-4 in a game marred by a fist fight and seven St. Catharines errors.

PITCHES TWO-HITTER

Preston Elkins, Kitchener right-hander, pitched a fine two-hitter as Panthers collected seven hits for their three runs. Only one Elgin runner reached third base. Elkins struck out six batters.

Panthers scored single runs in each of the fourth, fifth and sixth innings.

Ollie Wall and Stan Glenn were the only two St. Thomas players to get to Elkins. They each had a single.

Jessup, who ended his hold-out against the Galt management two weeks ago, scattered 10 hits to go the route as Galt's fourth victory of the campaign. Two of them have been won by Jessup.

Home runs won the game for Terries as Jessup helped his own cause by crashing a round-tripper. Second baseman Evans and Marv Raab also homered for Galt.

Champion Wins Grand Prix

ZANDVOORT-ON-SEA, Netherlands (AP) — Defending world champion Juan Manuel Fangio of Argentina won his third Grand Prix automobile race of the season Sunday, virtually assuring him of retaining the title.

Piloting a Mercedes, he finished first in the Dutch Grand Prix ahead of his team mate, Stirling Moss of Britain.

It was the first big racing event since the preceding Sunday's Le Mans race in which 79 spectators were killed. Safety of the Zandvoort circuit, already one of the safest in the world, was strengthened on recommendation of the Daimler-Benz works. The company producers of the Mercedes car, announced it would quit Grand Prix racing at the end of this year.

There were no accidents Sunday and nobody was hurt among a record attendance of 50,000.

Moore Gambles With Future Against Olson

NEW YORK (AP) — Archie Moore is gambling a $1,000,000 future for about $90,000 Wednesday night when he risks a September heavyweight title shot by defending his light heavyweight crown against middleweight champion Bobo Olson at New York's Polo Grounds.

Although Moore is a 9 to 5 favorite in the 15-round match, he has everything to lose and little to gain. If he should lose to a middleweight, nobody could take seriously his challenge to Rocky Marciano. The 38-year-old ring veteran needs an impressive victory, probably by a knockout, to clinch the big one.

"Sure, I'm gambling," Moore said Sunday at his Summit, N.J., camp.

Asked if it wouldn't have been smart to "sit it out" while waiting for his campaign for a Marciano bout to pay off, Archie said "That's one trouble with the boxing game. Too many people are sitting it out.

"You have to keep busy or you get rusty. I was out for nine months before I fought Nino Valdes (May 2 at Las Vegas) and I got way out of shape, over 200 pounds. If I could fight once a month, I'd be better off."

Teen-Age Star Meet Standout

MONTREAL (CP)—Warren McKenzie 15-year-old youngster who specializes in field events, helped himself to four firsts and a second Saturday in a victory splurge of St. Lambert athletes at the Quebec Provincial Track and Field Association championships.

The veteran Ian Hume and Pete Rylander, a juvenile, scored the only triples among the remaining 150-odd entrants to further the St. Lambert cause.

When the day-long meet ended, athletes from the track-and-field-conscious suburban city had collared 20 firsts of the 54 events. Closest were Montreal Track and Field Club with 10 and Montreal Olympic A.C. with nine.

The meet, made up almost entirely of greater Montreal entrants, served as sharpening-up competition in preparation for St. Lambert's big show next Friday evening and Saturday. The men's open and the Canadian girls' midget and juvenile titles and the eastern Canada women's championships will be at stake in the meet sponsored by the Canadian Legion of St. Lambert.

Durocher Benches 'Say-Hey' Willie Not Hitting Nor Helping The Giants

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Willie Mays, the kid who had a lot to say in making the New York Giants the 1954 world champions, was bench material as the feebler 1955 version of the Giants left town Sunday night, stinging from a three game beating by the Milwaukee Braves.

New York manager Leo Durocher, who spoke out a few days ago against his club's championship attitiude, benched Mays for the first time in Mays' baseball career. With Whitey Lockman patrolling centrefield for Mays, the Giants took an 8-7 defeat on Al Dark's eighth-inning error.

The Giants had a two-game hold on third place over the Braves when the three-game series started Friday night but Milwaukee's sweep relegated the world champions to fourth.

Durocher didn't let Mays take part in pre-game batting practice. He was about to take some swings when Durocher called him back to the bench and said, "sit down right here."

Willie sat down without a word.

Later he said, "I don't feel tired but Leo knows more about me than I know about myself. Maybe it'll help. I've never been benched anywhere I've played before."

He admitted he wasn't playing up to standard.

"He isn't helping the club," Durocher said of his centerfielder. "He isn't hitting and he's making wrong throws and running baser badly. Maybe he needs a rest and it certainly won't hurt him."

Mays has made only three hits in his last 26 times at bat.

HUTTON WON'T PLAY

LONDON (Reuters) — Captain Len Hutton will not play for England in any of the four remaining cricket Tests against the touring South Africans this season, it was announced Sunday by the selection committee.

Hutton missed the first Test because of a recurrence of lumbago and now has informed the selection committee that for reasons of health he does not wish to take part in test cricket again this season.

He's helping make aviation history!

Squadron Leader Joseph Riva, 35, is an RCAF Officer whose initiative and application has resulted in another important Canadian contribution to the advance of aviation operations.

A native of Canmore, Alberta, he joined the RCAF in 1941. After serving in the Middle East and the United Kingdom, he returned to Canada in 1945. Over the next five years—on numerous mercy flights and northern exercises—he noted that no simple method existed for 'pinpoint' dropping of paratroopers and para-borne supplies.

With official encouragement, he tackled the problem in 1950, and shortly developed a PARADROP method that produced 'on target' landings every time. But another problem remained— to develop a PARADROP COMPUTER to speed up required calculations. After considerable research this problem was solved and perfected too. In 1953 the computer was ready—and it worked.

The Canadian (Riva) Method has been adopted both by the Royal Canadian Air Force and by the United States Air Force.

As a result of Observer Riva's thinking and perseverance, the pilot of a transport aircraft can now assume full responsibility for the accurate delivery of para-dropped supplies or troops—under any set of conditions. S/L Joseph Riva is helping make aviation history!

Anna Massey, Star of Play, Visited by Uncle

LONDON (CP) — Governor-General Vincent Massey visited the theatre Saturday night and went back stage afterwards to talk with the pretty 17-year-old star of the show.

She is Anna Massey, his niece. "I'm very proud of you," the governor-general said to her.

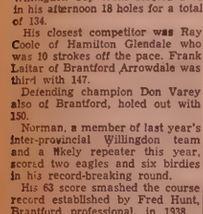
Anna plays the title role in "The Reluctant Debutante," a comedy hit, at the Cambridge theatre. The daughter of Raymond Massey and Adrienne Allen, both in the theatre, she took over the part without having been in a play before. Now she shares the stage nightly with two accomplished performers—Wilfred Hyde-White and Celia Johnson.

Massey said it was the first time he has seen his niece since she was 10. He now is in Britain on a six-week private visit.

Wins Tourney

BRANTFORD (CP)—Moe Norman of Kitchener Rockway fired a nine-under-par 63 here Saturday to chop three strokes off the course record and win the fourth annual Brantford invitation tournament.

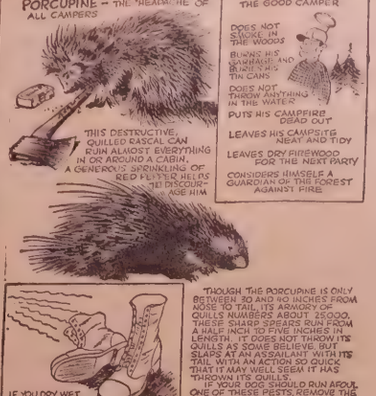
The top contender for Ontario's Willingdon Cup team blasted a 71 in his afternoon 18 holes for a total of 134.



His closest competitor was Ray Cooke of Hamilton Glendale who was 10 strokes off the pace. Frank Lsitar of Brantford Arrowdale was third with 147.

Defending champion Don Varey also of Brantford, holed out with 150.

Norman, a member of last year's inter-provincial Willingdon team and a likely repeater this year, scored two eagles and six birdies in his record-breaking round.



His 63 score smashed the course record established by Fred Hunt, Brantford professional, in 1938.

Norman said it was the best score he has ever posted in tournament competition but added he once shot a nine-under-par 61 in a friendly match.

Muskie Fishing In Rice Lake Being Revived

BIRDSALL'S POINT, Ont. (CP) Ontario's first privately financed rearing pond, which tourist operators hope will bring back the muskie fishing in Rice lake, was opened this weekend.

The pond, on the boundary between Otonabee and Asphodel townships in eastern Ontario, is the product of 2½ years of planning and financing by the Rice Lake Tourists Association.

The first hatch of baby muskies to be taken from the 60,000 fry now inhabiting the pond, will be dumped into the lake by mid-July.

The pond, 180 by 90 feet and bordered by pine seedlings, is fed with water from the lake by way of an electric pump and an aerating tank.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

In defence bidding, considerable confidence is expressed by a jump overcaller. He glows with reliance in the power of his trump suit. He is full of assurance in his number of tricks.

Two basic promises are made with a jump overcall. Although each is distinct in itself, both combine to make up the quality for which the jump overcaller becomes a definite sponsor.

One of its basic promises is a suit that is at least rebiddable. Thus, there is present a suit of no less than five cards, mostly in tops. Or a longer suit with fewer but plenty of tops.

Its other basic promise is an ability to take eight tricks. The tricks outside of trumps may be short suits that can be ruffed. Or outside high cards. Or a combination of both.

A simple way to express it is that he himself can take as many tricks as his bid calls for. He might have a probable trick taker in excess of eight. But he should not have less than eight.

Take unto yourself this west hand:

WEST
♠ A Q J 10 6 4 2
♥ - - -
♦ A 9 5 4 2
♣ 8

If south opens with one club or one diamond or one heart, your west defensive bid is a jump overcall of two spades. Your hand contains a suit that is even better than you promise; a count of eight tricks.

If the south opening bid is one no-trump, it would take a bid of three spades for a jump overcall. This might explode the idea that you can take as many tricks as your bid calls for.

But here is a case in which there is some kind of a chance to take nine tricks. Therefore, even a rule crank would find excuse to use it and be tolerant of a partner who does.

It may not be necessary for you to be so strict about it with the hands you hold. After all, you are entitled to privileges. But you feel better when partner can be relied upon.

"Ma and Pa Kettle At Home"

Pa and Ma Kettle discover their son his written an essay in a national magazine contest describing the beauties of their farm, the prize livestock and the equipment. The magazine editor and aide, as a committee of judges, decide to inspect the farm. This makes it necessary for the Kettles and all 15 youngsters to move back to their delapidated old place and start fixing it up in a big way. It requires fast work. The Kettles borrow livestock, including three goats, from their neighbors. The goings-on lead up to a Christmas eve party with Pa, as Santa Claus, driving up in a wagon drawn by two horses and three goats.

"Forbidden"

A Chicago mobster sends Tony Curtis to Macao to locate Joanne Dru, widow of a gang leader who fled after her husband's murder. Joanne, it develops, had been Tony's sweetheart before her marriage. Curtis gets a job in a gambling joint operated by Lyle Bettger and quickly learns that Joanne is now Bettger's fiancee. However, love blossoms anew between Tony and Joanne, and she tells him the reason why the Chicago gangsters wants her back is because of a document in her safety deposit vault which, if revealed would send him to penitentiary. Tony and Joanne plan now to double-cross the mobster by fleeing to Australia, but through a misunderstanding Joanne thinks Tony is crossing her —and married Bettger instead. However, Bettger is slain and Tony and Joanne head back to the U.S. to face the music, sure that everything will work out for them.

AT THE McCARTHY

DRUMS IN THE NIGHT

Ominous sounds of African drums drifted across the moonlit grounds of a film studio lot recently. In the native village reconstructed for scenes in "Simba" there was a strange stillness. Technicians paused to listen to the unexpected sound. It was not in the script. The Mau Mau raid which they were about to film was to come silently, not with the accompaniment of native drums! Soon the source of the drumming was discovered. It came from a tent across the field where the village had been built.

Quietly everyone went to the tent; enthralled, they discovered the secret. Inside, some of the hundred Africans hired to play Mau Mau warriors in the film, were having a "jam session". Half a dozen of them were excitedly beating native drums while others in the centre of the swaying, singing crowd danced almost to the point of frenzy. With complete abandon, the drummers beat faster and faster, and the crowd sang with a weird wail. As they reached a tremendous crescendo, sound men were recording the strange singing and the fierce drumming for use in the film.

This was genuine African music, primitive and original. It was the music that went before jazz. It was the strangest impromptu "music session" ever staged in a film studio.

Movie-goers will have an opportunity of hearing this weird and sometimes terrifying music when the McCarthy Theatre presents "Simba" on Thursday for three days.

AT THE BELLE — New screen personality, Richard Egan, is co-starred with Susan Hayward and Tyrone Power, in 20th Century-Fox's stirring action-packed romantic African adventure, "Untamed," in CinemaScope and Color, showing today and Tuesday, at the Air-Conditioned Belle Theatre.

AT THE CAPITOL — Richard Conte, one of the stars in Edward Small's presentation for Warner Bros "New York Confidential," also co-starring Broderick Crawford, Marilyn Maxwell, Anne Bancroft and J. Carrol Naish. On the same program more excitement in "Terror Ship," starring William Lundigan. Both attractions are first Belleville showings and open at the Capitol Theatre tonight.

Legion of Decency Blasts Offensive Movie Material

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Is Hollywood injecting needless smut into its handling of such themes as sex and brutality? Or is it that the movies are simply becoming more realistic and grown-up?

In the United States the powerful Roman Catholic Legion of Decency has blasted what it calls movie material "gravely offensive to the moral law." Similar sentiment is sounded in Protestant church councils.

But the movie industry, as reflected by its own production code, maintains that the recent relaxing of restrictions was done with a keen ear to public opinion. Some industry figures hold that the movies are still too timid.

Nevertheless, few will argue with the fact that the movies today are undertaking, and getting away with, scenes and themes they would not have been permitted to handle a few years ago.

A sample is "Mr. Roberts." The movie version loses little of the bawdy humor that made it a best-selling book and stage hit.

MOST BRUTAL

Rivalling sex as a target of movie criticism is a current cycle of movies stressing brutality. Probably the most shockingly brutal movie ever made is the current "Blackboard Jungle."

It has such scenes as the near-rape of a pretty teacher by one of the pupils on school property; a classroom knife fight between a dope-crazed student and the teacher; a poison-pen campaign intended to break up the teacher's marriage, this done by a pupil, too; the brutal beating of two teachers by their pupils and a complete breakdown of classroom discipline.

The picture is cleaning up at the box office. A check of exhibitors discloses that it is pulling much repeat business from teenagers.

Some taste violations, especially in costume, can't be blamed on the producer. A number of female stars wait until just that second or two before the director yells "action." Then, they pull their bodice down to display more than the law allows. Sometimes they get away with it. Sometimes the scenes are chopped out or there are expensive re-takes.

Two top feminine stars are notorious for open-mouthed kissing in intimate love scenes. It's cost both of them many a good closeup shot.

WON'T CO-OPERATE

Of late, there has been a growing movement to get American exhibitors to play certain pictures to adult audiences only. It is the custom in many European countries.

But the theatre managers won't go for it. One California exhibitor tells why.

"Most exhibitors would starve to death if it weren't for the kid and teen-age crowd. They buy the popcorn and candy and they come to the show whether it's an Oscar winner or a stinkeroo."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, June 21, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Fairly good prospects for a profitable day. Both familiar and urgent matters should move along smoothly. Be painstaking in family affairs, vital interests. Tact!

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — You keen minded folks can reap fine results by being "early birds" and putting forth best efforts. Forge ahead in matters concerning money and occupational advancement.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — You have the sense of knowing what's what but do not always use it properly. Today, by following the best leads, you can progress creditably. Moderately good influences for starting new projects.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Move with faith and intelligence and be energetic if you would achieve. There are hidden advantages to find; look for the clues and make the most of opportunity.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — A period for starting new ventures, branching into a field you have long thought about. Many opportunities are available. Stellar aspects indicate outside assistance, cooperation if you are worthy.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Some unexpected cooperation or good advice could help you to make profitable headway. Do not be too skeptical; it could blind your better judgment, slow up progress. A pleasant day!

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — A careful analysis of problems will save time and mistakes and speed success. Put genuineness, fair play into all your efforts; don't be envious of others. Use your best judgment in all situations.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — With a resolute front and using your fine abilities and diplomacy, you can reap excellent gains now. Curb a possible tendency toward moodiness.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — A favorable outlook! Many worthwhile ideas and plans are feasible now. Don't rely on guess work, however, and do not make snap judgments or yield to discouragement. You are resourceful.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Thoroughly understanding the nature of your tasks will help you toward appreciable success. Studying the instincts and habits of others will help you to give — and get — cooperation.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — There is a job to be done and there are obstacles to bridge. Start with good humor and respect for those you must contact or work with. Don't just "do things"; think first, then do better.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Most matters are really up to you. Curb a tendency to delay or give up easily. There is always a way. Today you should find that way quicker. Start early.

You born today, on the Gemini-Cancer cusp, possess many fine qualities and a few traits that could be disturbing to yourself and others if you do not curb them. Your ideals are lofty, your judgment good, so it's really up to you. Try to be satisfied with doing well in one occupation. Do not scatter your energies and talents carelessly. You are usually active, adaptable to turns of affairs. Avoid extremes, acting without proper study. You could be an excellent lawyer, artist, musician. Remain calm, patient.

Expelled Prelate Disclaims Any Knowledge of Revolt

By JAMES M. LONG

ROME (AP)—One of the two Roman Catholic prelates expelled from Argentina disclaimed Friday night any knowledge of Thursday's revolt against the Peron regime. He spoke at a press conference for both churchmen.

Msgr. Manuel Tato, auxiliary bishop of Buenos Aires, arrived here Thursday night by plane with his assistant, Msgr. Ramon Pablo Novoa. Their expulsion from Argentina was followed by a Vatican proclamation excommunicating all who had a hand in it, including President Peron.

Msgr. Tato held his press conference in the Latin American Pontificial College.

"I know nothing of what has happened (in Argentina) these past three days," the soft-spoken prelate said.

SIGNED STATEMENT

He described last Sunday's clashes of pro-church and pro-Peron adherents before Buenos Aires' Metropolitan cathedral and said Argentine police had him sign a statement about it.

"They hurled stones, broke windows, and tried to fight their way into the cathedral," he said. "There were about 300 of the faithful inside. We let the women and children out a side door. The others shut the main doors to keep the crowd out. We were defending the tomb of Gen. (Jose de) San Martin, the Argentine hero. He is buried in the cathedral."

After making his statement at Buenos Aires police headquarters about the disorders, Msgr. Tato said, "they kept us there, just sitting in a room, all night."

Asked if they were treated with violence, the prelate replied:

"Oh, no. We were not harmed nor threatened. There was no violence."

He said they were informed Wednesday morning they had been dismissed by government order. Police escorted them to an airport.

"At the airport one policeman told us we might have a choice between being sent to Chile or Uruguay. But there was no notice. After a while we were led to a plane and ordered aboard. At the last minute another policeman told us the plane was bound for Rome."

Little Benny's Note Book

I was taking a Saturday walk with pop, and I said, Oh boy pop, this is our lucky day.

Meening an organ grinder with a munkey on a chain in a little red coat and a little red hat, and when somebody handed it a penny it stuck it in its pocket and tipped its hat, looking funny as anything, and we stood there watching, and pop let me hand the munkey his loose pennies, and then we watched it some more, and pop kept on wanting to go, but I didn't, and about the 5th time he said, For Peet sake come on, that's enough munkey bizzness.

Aw G, pop, why? I said, and he said, Because we've seen all there is to see, and we've seen it about 40 times. If there was any chance of the munkey changing its act by standing on its head and clapping its back feet, there might be some excuse for waiting, but we're just getting in a rut here. For all we know, there's a clown terning summersalte on a circus horse around the next corner, he said.

Aw heck, pop, how could there be? I said, and pop said, Before we terned the last corner, you might of asked me how there could be a munkey.

Being a pritty good answer, and I said, Well suppose there's nuthing better around the next corner than this munkey, what then?

Then we'll keep on terning corners with hope in our hearts and expectation in our eyes, pop said.

Meening he wouldn't come back to watch the munkey again, and we kept on going, and what was around the next corner but a lady in a car talking mad to a traffic officer all the time he was writing her a tickit for a fine, and pop stood there laffing quiet to himself till it was all over, and he claimed it was funnier than the munkey.

Which it wasn't, but it was better than nuthing.

Four Fliers Not Likely to Face Any Govt. Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — An air force spokesman said Sunday night Capt. Harold Fischer Jr., Korean jet ace from Iowa who was a prisoner of the Chinese Reds, "confessed" to taking part in germ warfare against them.

Fischer and three other American fliers were released by the Chinese Communists three weeks ago. They are now back in the United States.

The air force official said the other three fliers also had "confessed" to crossing the Yalu river during the Korean war while under air force orders. He said there had been no such orders.

The three other fliers are Lt.-Col. Edwin Heller of Wynnewood, Pa., Lieut. Lyle Cameron, Lincoln, Neb., and Lieut. Roland Parks, Omaha, Neb.

The air froce spokesman indicated the four fliers are not likely to face disciplinary action.

Cameron denied Sunday night that he had made "any confession about anything" to his Red Chinese captors.

"And I don't know about any confession anybody else made."

Heller had previously said that when the Chinese tried them on a charge of "intruding into China for harassment and provocative attack" the four had all pleaded guilty.

Canada's First World War Role Still Untold Is Claim

OTTAWA (CP) — The story of some great Canadian battles of the First World War still has not been written in the lifetime of the men who fought them.

And unless the history is written soon by those who lived through such historic battles as Passchendaele in 1917, it may never be done: The reason is that the members of those who fought those campaigns and could write about them is getting smaller.

That is the opinion of Lt.-Col. William Boss, a collaborator of Col. A. Fortescue Duguid, retired Canadian Army historian, in an abortive writing of an official Canadian history of the 1914-18 war.

RAISED IN COMMONS

Col. Boss commented on a suggestion in the Commons Friday by Lt.-Col. Gordon Churchill (PC—Winnipeg South Centre) who described the lack of an official First World War history as a great deficiency.

Col. Churchill, a veteran of two world wars, said during a defence debate the government should ask the army's historical section to write a history of the First World War in one or two volumes.

He said such an official historical summary of the Second World War has been published by the section, now headed by Col. C. P. Stacey.

Defence Minister Campney replied he will consider the suggestion.

Col. Duguid's project of a seven-volume history was stopped by the government in 1947 after two volumes had been published and another was in preparation.

Col. Boss said the government's reason for stopping the work was that there was little public interest in the First World War at that time. By then, the public wanted to read about the Second World War.

He said the official history could be written in fewer than seven volumes, but a historian might find it difficult to put into one volume.

Col. Duguid could not be reached for comment.

HONOR GEN. DOOLITTLE

PARIS (AP) — Gen. James H. Doolittle, famed pilot who led the 1942 American air raid on Tokyo, Friday received the gold medal of the International Aeronautical Federation for his role in promoting aviation.

Pilot Reinstated

OTTAWA (CP)—Restoration of the flying licence of Capt. Norman Ramsay of Montreal, suspended for six months after a TCA Super-Constellation he was piloting crashed last Dec. 17 near Brampton, Ont., was announced Friday by the transport department.

"Capt. Ramsay has been reinstated," a department official said. This decision had been made by the department after the usual review of such cases. The captain had been informed after the suspension was imposed that his case would be reconsidered at the end of the six-month period, which was Friday.

TORNADO HITS UTAH

FAYETTE, Utah (AP)—A tornado, only the sixth reported in Utah's history, swirled down on Fayette Thursday, leaving damage estimated at more than $1,000. No injuries were reported. The tornado was part of a spectacular weather performance in Utah which included a cloudburst during which eprsons lost their lives in a train-auto collision.

False Teeth Often Have a Certain Odor!

Soak your plates in Polident daily to avoid "Denture Breath"

Polident is the specially designed cleanser that keeps false teeth—and breath—clean and fresh always. Follow these simple rules.

1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plates are much softer than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting ridges so they get loose.
2. Never use soap or toothpaste! They can leave film which collects bacteria and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath."
3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only . . . Polident! Polident is the denture cleanser recommended by more dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates that can slip and break. Polident gets where a brush can't reach. Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser, Polident, at your drug counter.

Police In Cyprus Man Barricades After 13 Bombings

Terrorists Set Off Blasts In Synchronized Fashion

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — Police today manned barbed-wire barricades all across the island of Cyprus following the biggest outbreak of anti-British bombings in two months.

Terrorists set off 13 explosions in five Cypriot towns late Monday night in what appeared to be a thoroughly-synchronized attack on British military and police authority. Although only six persons were injured, the attacks left the Mediterranean colony in a high state of tension.

Barbed-wire check stations were set up across roads leading into all towns. Police searched all vehicles for hidden arms or explosives.

Two hand grenades were exploded outside the seaside house of Gen. Sir Charles Keightley, commander-in-chief of Britain's Middle East land forces. The bombs exploded harmlessly outside the bungalow where the officer and his wife live.

The attacks apparently were engineered by EOKA, an underground terrorist organization which is agitating for the union of Cyprus with Greece. The initials stand for "struggle for Cyprus."

Cold Horse Is Happy One, Court Is Told

EDINBURGH (AP)—A cold horse is a happy horse, a court decided Monday.

The Scottish Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals charged that Donald Bowles, director of the Edinburgh zoo, caused unnecessary suffering to five old horses by keeping them out in the snow last January. (The horses, by the way, were waiting to be slaughtered for feeding to the lions).

But the Earl of Rosebery, president of the Royal Zoological Society of Scotland and one of Britain's best known race - horse owners, testified that horses like being out in the snow.

Howe Denies Using Powers To Help Pipe Lines

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Production Minister Howe Monday night described as slander any suggestion he used powers under the Defence Production Act to pledge federal financial assistance to Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd.

He slipped in the interjection several times as Carl Nickle (PC—Calgary South) repeatedly sought confirmation of this action during Commons debate on defence production.

Mr. Nickle said such a pledge was made in the spring of 1954 and that Mr. Howe's cabinet colleagues were unaware of it until the spring of 1955.

Mr. Howe's retort of slander was described as unparliamentary by Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) who asked the Speaker to order the "noisy minister" to withdraw the statement.

Deputy Speaker W. A. Robinson, who said the question was not to the point under discussion at the time, said that if Mr. Nickle demanded an apology Mr. Howe would make whatever amends were necessary.

Mr. Nickle did not ask Mr. Howe to withdraw the statement.

The Calgary member, editor of oil and gas periodicals, still was trying to get the minister to answer his question when the House adjourned for the night.

Says Canadian Troops in Reich Well Behaved

OTTAWA (CP) — A leading German parliamentarian said today Canadian soldiers in Germany are well behaved.

"There is no doubt at all about that," Dr. Hermann Puender, Christian Democrat member of the German Bundestag (lower house), told a press conference.

He was commenting on a report in the Duesseldorf newspaper Der Mittag that Canadian soldiers are terrorizing German civilians in the Paderborn area "as though this were 1945" and the area "lay east of the Elbe (Russian territory)."

Beautiful Model Will Be Hanged For Lover's Death

LONDON (Reuters)—A beautiful London cafe society fashion model today was sentenced to be hanged for shooting to death her racing-driver lover who had spurned her affections.

Mrs. Ruth Ellis, 28-year-old blonde mother of two, licked her lips nervously as she heard the judge order that she "be hanged by the neck until you are dead. . . ."

When the trial began Monday in historic Old Bailey courtroom Mrs. Ellis told the judge and jury: "It is obvious when I shot him I intended to kill."

Mrs. Ellis thus answered the single question put by the crown prosecutor who charged that she murdered her lover, 25-year-old racing driver David Blakely, on Easter Sunday.

Mrs. Ellis denied that the killing was murder. Her lawyer, Melford Stevenson, said she suffered provocation enough to make it manslaughter. The provocation: jealousy.

Mrs. Ellis said she gave Blakely money and clothes and paid the rent on their apartment. But he went with other women.

Dies of Injuries

CHATHAM (CP)—Russ Lowe, 20, of Detroit died in hospital here Monday from injuries suffered Saturday night in an automobile-train crash in which Gordon Morrissey, also of Detroit, was killed.

David French of Dearborn, Mich. still is in critical condition. Clays Yates of Detroit, also was hurt.

Police said the youths' car struck a train at a level crossing three miles west of here. Morrissey's body was found under the car and the others were thrown clear.

CHRYSLER UNION TERMS WALKOUT ILLEGAL STRIKE

500 Key Workers Want Negotiations Speeded Up

WINDSOR (CP)—Work at the giant Chrysler of Canada plant was halted Monday when 500 key workers left their jobs in an attempt to speed negotiations of their grievances.

The workers ignored a union plea to return and threatened to stay off work "until Doomsday if necessary."

Leaders of Local 195, United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL), termed the walkout an illegal strike and said they hoped to meet with company officials today in another effort to settle the dispute.

Company and union officials sat in an emergency four-hour session Monday to try to settle the dispute in time to get the regular night shift operating, but a union spokesman said the meeting accomplished "nothing definite."

SKILLED MEN

Although only the 500 men have walked off their jobs, their position as skilled trades maintenance men means the company cannot keep up production without them.

Because of this, 3,500 workers were sent home from Monday's day shift, and another 2,500 workers who appeared for the night shift were told to return home.

Company officials have not commented on the walkout, other than to say it is a "direct violation of the collective bargaining agreement between the company and the union."

The maintenance men left their jobs Monday to protest what they said was an unnecessary delay in negotiating their demands. They were not covered by the contract reached Feb. 28, only two hours before all the workers were scheduled to go on strike.

SUB AGREEMENT

A sub-agreement in that contract stated the company and union would begin immediate talks to settle the skilled workers' demands. Four meetings have been held since then, but the workers said too much time was being taken by both parties to reach an agreement.

The men are demanding full recognition as skilled trades workers after a three-month probationary period.

A similar work stoppage occurred June 9 when the maintenance men walked out over the same question. At that time, however, normal production was resumed by the next shift when they agreed to a union request to return to work.

Bulganin Will Visit India

MOSCOW (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru announced today he has invited Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin to visit India and Bulganin has accepted.

Nehru said no date has been set for the visit. He made the announcement at a press conference in the Spiridonovka palace after a conference with Bulganin in the Kremlin.

Nehru went from the press conference to a mass rally in Dynamo Stadium where more than 10,000 persons heard the first public address made in Moscow by a non-Communist statesman since the revolution.

Russia Now Crawling With Visitors With Canadian News Group on Way

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union is being visited by the largest number of non-Communist news correspondents since the end of the war, except for such special occasions as the foreign ministers' conferences of 1945 and 1947.

The present total of about 30 will be boosted in a few days to more than 40 with arrival of a group of Canadian newspaper and radio women.

In addition, Moscow and other parts of the U. S. S. R. virtually are crawling with foreign cultural and trade union delegations from both the East and West. Some of them on almost every street corner in downtown Moscow and in almost every hotel. This number will increase as the summer advances and scheduled big international sports events get under way.

The permanent news corps of five United States correspondents, two Britons, two Frenchmen and one Italian has been boosted this last week by the arrival of five additional American reporters on temporary visas. At least three of them came as the result of a promise at Belgrade by the Communist party chief, Nikita S. Khrushchev, to grant entry to Russia.

There also is a big squad of Indian correspondents touring the Soviet Union with Indian Prime Minister Nehru. A group of West German correspondents also is touring the interior.

The Indians and the West Germans have been getting special favors from their hosts. They are able to telephone dispatches without submitting their copy to censorship, and are visiting many farms and factories and meeting some officials. Resident correspondents have been unable to cover similar ground despite numerous requests.

Modified Formula For Federal Relief Help May Be Proposed

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal-provincial authorities were hopeful of agreement on a formula for federal aid in jobless relief today as they entered the second day of a conference on the problem.

Some of the conferees before resuming sessions at 10:40 a.m., EDT, told reporters they expect to see agreement in principle reached at the morning sitting.

"I think we'll get an agreement in the next few hours," said Premier Bennett of British Columbia. "My government is anxious to work closely with the federal government."

Mr. Bennett declined to say if provincial acceptance would be on the basis of proposals outlined at Monday's opening session by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

"However, the spirit of the meeting is excellent," he added.

Federal sources indicated the original plan outlined by the prime minister would be modified this morning to conform more closely with provincial views expressed Monday.

Premier Frost of Ontario said that "we're still negotiating."

"We're hopeful," he added.

Mr. St. Laurent was uncommunicative.

"We'll likely know what happens when we come out," he told reporters.

ity of Premiers Frost and Bennett

Delegates said after Monday's opening meeting of the conference that a tentative plan proposed by Prime Minister St. Laurent was generally unacceptable and that they looked for a revised version today.

If the prime minister qualifies his original proposal, these sources said, federal-provincial agreements on a basis for federal sharing in the cost of relief for jobless could emerge.

Mr. St. Laurent himself, in talking to reporters, was non-committal on what he had suggested to the 10 provinces, but he said it was not on a take-it-or-leave-it basis.

The conference, outgrowth of a federal-provincial meeting here in April at which unemployment help was stressed as urgent, is due to end today.

It could possibly produce firm federal-provincial agreements today, but this is regarded as highly unlikely. Only three premiers have been in attendance—Ontario's Leslie Frost, British Columbia's W. A. C. Bennett and Prince Edward Island's Alex Matheson. And Mr. Matheson left for home Monday night.

Almost certainly, the conferees will have to take any proposals home to their cabinets after today's session, barring the possibility of signing pacts.

Provincial delegations had before them, according to informants, a plan outlined by Prime Minister St. Laurent under which the federal treasury would share in the cost of relief to persons in excess of one-half of one per cent of the population—about 75,000.

The 75,000 would represent the federal government's idea of the number of persons irrevocably unemployed for reasons such as physical ailments.

The federal contributions, according to informants, would be on this scale: 30 per cent of the cost of providing relief for numbers in excess of one-half of one per cent of the population, but not exceeding one per cent; 40 per cent of the cost for the portion between one per cent and 1½ per cent; 50 per cent for those in excess of 1½ per cent.

Delegates said provinces wanted the central government to eliminate the floor of 75,000 and to increase the percentage scale. Some provinces wanted the federal government to assume the total cost of unemployment relief, but they said Mr. St. Laurent refused to do this.

Meanwhile, the federal government Monday issued figures showing mid-May employment at its highest in years.

In its monthly employment survey, the government estimated there were 5,324,000 persons with jobs at May 21, up 201,000 from a month earlier.

CPR Head Denies Canadian Railways Are a Monopoly

MONTREAL (CP) — Regulations governing Canadian railways are based on the assumption that they still are a monopoly, N. R. Crump, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, said today.

"Transportation has become a highly competitive business. No form of transportation any longer possesses a monopoly," he said.

"Where one agency appears to have a monopoly, as for example railways in the transportation of grain in western Canada, it is only because the rates at which the railways move the commodity are unattractive to other forms of transportation."

His remarks were contained in the text of an address released to the press before delivery.

He spoke at the joint annual meeting of the engineering and mechanical divisions, electrical section, of the Association of American Railroads.

It is the first time that the meeting, with 1,000 delegates from Mexico, the United States and Canada, has been held in this country.

"In some cases railways are required to provide service either at unremunerative rates or in territories where the volume of traffic . . . is insufficient to make the service pay," Mr. Crump said.

BASIC PROBLEM

"Basically the problem is one of harmonizing regulation and competition Some degrees of regulation may still be needed to assure regularity and dependability of common carrier services.

"Regulation, however, should be designed to encourage the flow of capital into the different forms of transportation in such a way as to produce the most economic combination of transportation plant and facilities.

"The railways are simply asking for equality of opportunity and equality of responsibility under regulated competition in the transportation industry. . . ."

REVIVE FIREMEN

BOSTON (AP)—Fire swept a six-storey building in the downtown furniture district Monday night and smoke knocked out scores of firefighters, nine of whom were taken to hospital. The smoke from burning rattan and furniture decorating supplies foiled firefighters who lay gasping in the street and in doorways until revived by oxygen.

'False Rumors' In Argentina Said Increasing

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — With President Juan Peron keeping to the background, Army Minister Franklin Lucero continued today to direct the campaign to restore full peace to Argentina.

The baldish, square-jawed supreme commander, holding the leading role in the post-revolutionary period, said in a communique early today that the situation is "steadily normalizing without inconvenience."

(News dispatches from Argentina have been subject to censorship since last Thursday's revolt by navy fliers and marines. Argentine refugees in Montevideo, Uruguay, believe negotiations are under way to set up a three-man junta, including Peron, to rule the country. The other two members would be Lucero and Rear-Admiral Alberto Teisaire, the vice-president.)

In the communique Lucero's protestations, his communique for the second day warned the public against rumors of continuing conflict. Lucero termed these "completely false" but admitted they had "increased considerably."

The communique said 38 planes used by the rebels in bombing government sites have been flown back from Uruguay, where the insurgent pilots fled for refuge.

Lucero and the military reaped a publicity harvest in the Argentine press as Peron's long-time prominence on front pages slipped. None of Buenos Aires' afternoon newspapers published a picture of the president Monday. Peron also was absent from Monday's observance of Argentine Flag Day in Buenos Aires. Army officers held the centre of the stage at the ceremonies.

Bail Renewal Refused

OSHAWA (CP)—Renewal of $5,000 bail was refused Gus Knutson, 51, when he appeared in court here Monday charged with stealing two new cars, one from General Motors Corp.

Provincial and Oshawa police are investigating activities of a gang which they say is responsible for the theft of seven new cars in Oshawa and district.

CROLL CHARGES PC FILIBUSTER IN HOUSE DEBATE

Defence Production Act Again Under Fire

OTTAWA (CP) — A Progressive Conservative campaign of talk, aimed at forcing the government to limit the powers of Defence Production Minister Howe, has continued through its fifth day in the Commons with no sign of abatement.

Opposition Leader Drew spoke for 2½ hours Monday in a wide-ranging attack on a bill to make permanent the broad terms of the Defence Production Act, due to expire July 31, 1956.

David Croll (L—Toronto Spadina) termed Opposition efforts "a filibuster if I ever saw one." None of the six Conservative speakers who followed him denied the statement.

Mr. Croll said Liberal members are prepared to spend "whatever time it takes to do the public business even into the fall."

ADJOURN DEBATE

Debate on the defence production bill was adjourned Monday night, probably for the remainder of the week. Other government bills were scheduled for consideration today.

Mr. Drew stopped speaking in mid-afternoon, having held the floor just over 3½ hours—including more than an hour on June 13 when the bill was last before the House. He left Ottawa by air to keep an evening speaking engagement at Picton, Ont.

He said the bill raises the greatest issue to face Parliament since Confederation—a "threat to our freedom, to the supremacy of Parliament and to the rule of law." Its effects were comparable with the absolute power obtained by the Stuart and Tudor rulers of England and by Oliver Cromwell.

Mr. Drew said Mr. Howe doesn't like Parliament and drafted the bill "with the idea that he would not have to bother too much about Parliament."

"The only principle before the members is whether or not this Parliament is going to submit meekly to the demand of the minister of defence production: 'With me it is all or nothing.'"

He said the bill should rightly be called "An Act to Suspend the Canadian Constitution." It gave power to control any materials, factories or services needed for defence, overrode provincial rights and limited the right to legal action against controllers and investigators operating under Mr. Howe's powers.

Civic Workers At Kitchener Vote to Strike

KITCHENER (CP)—Kitchener's civic workers Monday night voted to strike Wednesday morning to back up their demands for pay increases.

George Downing of Niagara Falls representative of the Kitchener Civic Workers Union, said the men will stand on their original request for a 10-cent increase on the basic $1.20 hourly rate.

The union has been negotiating with the city council for 15 months on 1954 and 1955 contracts.

A conciliation board majority report recommended an eight-cent pay boost and the union last week turned down a four-cent offer by the city.

The union represents workers in the city works department, the municipal golf course, and the sanitation and garbage collection department.

Claims Teachers Are Supervised To Death by People Who Read Books

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—A fact-finding committee of the Chamber of Commerce reported Monday it has found teachers are supervised to death by people who read books on education written by other people lacking experience in actual teaching.

The committee investigated reasons for the shortage of teachers in the district in conjunction with a national investigation by the Canadian chamber.

The committee also found that the teaching profession is not held in very high esteem by the public generally

"Education is becoming over-organized," the report said. "The system is all important; pupils come a poor second and teachers do not count at all. The program is expanding to the point where the school now carries the responsibilities once shared by the home, school and church. With so many distractions, and a heavy academic course to cover, no wonder the teacher is frustrated."

Russia And West Reported Agreed On Summit Talks

Molotov Has no Objections To West's Parley Plans

By MAX HARRELSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Russia and the Western powers were reported to have reached virtual agreement early today on arrangements for the "summit" talks in Geneva next month.

Informed quarters said Foreign Minister Molotov told the Western diplomats at the end of a four-hour meeting that at first sight he saw no reason to object to a series of proposals they had agreed on in New York last week.

He was understood to have told them he would study the proposals more carefully and give his reply in a day or two. The Western foreign ministers apparently were so certain of his acceptance that no further meeting was arranged.

WHAT THEY PROPOSED

Diplomats at the meeting said State Secretary Dulles, Foreign Secretary Macmillan and Foreign Minister Pinay had proposed that:

1. The purpose of the "summit" meeting should be to ease world tension and not to negotiate the settlement of specific problems.

2. The meetings should last from four to six days.

3. President Eisenhower should be the first presiding officer, to be followed by Premier Faure, Prime Minister Eden and Premier Bulganin.

4. The meetings should be held in the Palais des Nations, United Nations headquarters in Geneva, and that the UN should be requested to service the sessions.

5. No council of foreign ministers should be held before the chiefs of government meet.

DINNER TONIGHT

The four foreign ministers will have dinner together tonight with Pinay as host, but no serious discussions are planned.

These developments came as the UN's 10th anniversary meeting got down to its long program of speeches on the world outlook.

Eisenhower's opening address was praised by other delegates as excellent and inspirational.

The American president, speaking Monday afternoon, pledged to uphold the principles of the UN charter at the Geneva conference. He declared this a "season of high hope" for world peace.

"The United States will leave no

Calls Ontario's Teacher-Training Waste of Money

BIGWIN INN, Ont. (CP) —A school research expert says Ontario's teacher-training policy is a waste of public money.

Dr. M. E. Lazerte, former research director for the Canadian School Trustees Association committee on school finances, said Monday that as long as teachers with low qualifications are accepted the country's education investment is not being protected.

Speaking to the annual convention of the Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees' Association he said the teacher-training period is being repeatedly shortened instead of lengthened. "Fly-by-night" individuals who take six or 10-week courses are not interested in making a career of teaching.

Buildings and equipment could only serve their true purpose when used by efficient teachers.

WORTH LESS

"A weak teacher in a $50,000 classroom is worth much less than a capable teacher in a room costing only $5,000 in spite of all the handicaps the latter imposes."

North Dakota Jackrabbit Downs Plane

GRAND FORKS, N. D. (AP) A jackrabbit grounded an airplane near here.

Leo Mondry, farmer - pilot, was buzzing along about three feet off the ground in his crop-dusting plane the other day when he met the jackrabbit.

"The rabbit outmaneuvred me," said Mondry. "He must have jumped eight feet into the air, right in my path."

The plane was forced to land with a damage propeller and spraying mechanism.

Striking Seamen Fail to Tie Up Second 'Queen'

SOUTHAMPTON, England (Reuters) — The crew of the Cunard liner Queen Elizabeth today declined to join a wildcat seamen's strike which has tied up most of Britain's Atlantic passenger fleet during the last three weeks.

The strikers, demanding better working conditions and shorter hours, held two open-air meetings designed to persuade the Elizabeth's crew to join them. But no Elizabeth hands showed up.

Company officials were hopeful tonight that the ship will turn around on time to sail back to New York Thursday.

The strikers, who have no backing from their union, last week held the Elizabeth's sister ship, the Queen Mary, in Southampton and have flaunted a telegram signed "The Boys of the Queen Elizabeth" promising "no mistakes this time. We are with you."

The Queen Elizabeth sailed on her last outward voyage in face of a determined bid by the strikers to win over her crew, but only 35 joined them.

POST PICKETS

Strong pickets were posted at the dock gates this morning to urge the Elizabeth's crew to join the walkout as they came ashore during the day.

Strike leader Ken Barber told a meeting of 500 men Monday night: "We must stand together and get the Lizzie boys in. We have half the (Cunard) fleet tied up and we will get the other half tied up."

The main tug-of-war was expected over the Queen Elizabeth, but the Cunard line also has three other vessels due to sail from Southampton this week—the Carmonia Wednesday, the Franconia Thursday and the Mauretania Saturday.

Meanwhile, at Liverpool, in northwest England, where the trouble first flared up three weeks ago, Cunard and the other major line affected, Canadian Pacific, were confident that they could break the stranglehold of the strike on the port's trans Atlantic traffic.

Cunard Monday recruited 100 crewmen for the 22,000-ton Saxonia, an early casualty of the strike, and hoped she could sail "some time this week."

Canadian Pacific cancelled for the second time the scheduled sailing of the Empress of Australia (19,379 tons) but insisted that her sister liner, Empress of Scotland would leave for Montreal Wednesday She was to have sailed last Friday.

Council Members Pay Tribute To Late Comptroller

Tribute to the memory of the late Harold D. Bateman, former clerk-comptroller for the city of Belleville, was paid Monday evening as city councillors convened for their final regular meeting prior to the summer recess.

At the outset of the meeting Mayor J. Both asked council members to stand in a moment's silence in tribute to Mr. Bateman's memory. Mayor Both said that Mr. Bateman would be sadly missed at city hall.

The chair regularly filled by the city clerk was occupied during the meeting by Mrs. Ann Haggerty who has been named acting city clerk.

Lions Club Holds Final Meeting Until September

On Thursday evening, the Lions Club of Belleville held its final dinner meeting for the year 1954-1955, at the Shrine Club. One of the guests present was Lion Preston Timmins, of the Kingston Lions Club, who, as district representative of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, expressed thanks and sincere appreciation, on behalf of less fortunate blind members, for the three Talking Book machines, donated this spring. Lion Preston spoke briefly of the fine contribution such machines are making to the lives of some of the older people who have not adequately acquired the art of reading Braille. He explained that the library in Toronto is gradually being stocked with a fine selection of records which will enable these persons to have as large a choice of reading material as they would enjoy from the local library.

In the absence of Lion President Stew Dixon, Lion "Gibby" Gibson, president-elect, awarded Lion Bill Berscht, a recent transfer from the Hamilton Club, a past president's certificate of service for the outstanding work he had performed as a charter member of the Frankford Lions Club.

Club members were pleased to congratulate Lion Scotty Reid for his fine work in the recent fishing tournament. Outstanding was the record catch by Lion Don Raymond, of an 11 pound, 15 oz. pickerel. While the time was just outside the limit permissible for the trophy competition, Lion Reid elected to split the trophy award with the fisherman who has probably set a record for such Lake Ontario catches.

One of the highlights of the evening came after the welcome extended to Lion Sigurd Wessman of Deseronto, International Councillor by Lion Gibson. It was pointed out that Lion Wessman, certainly no stranger to many of the members, was the District Governor at the time the local Lions Club received its charter in April, 1953. It was fitting, therefore, that in his roll of International Councillor, Lion Wessman should install the new officers of the club, and outline the duties for which each had been called. Lion George Stratton assisted in the installation, as he pinned on the insignias of office. The new slate of officers for the year 1955-1956 is as follows:

President, Harry Gibson; 1st vice-president, Al Pinder; 2nd vice-president, Don Golden; 3rd vice-president, Lew Horning; secretary, Bill Bray; treasurer, Cec Bonnetta; tail twister, Paul Primeau; lion tamer, John Ross; one year directors, Jay Collins, Scotty Reid; two years directors, Harvey Frid, Don Lamb.

With a closing by the Lions Song, the meeting adjourned with the members anticipating a busy series of summer activities until the next dinner meeting early in September.

Police Blotter

Eight-year-old Sandra Francis, 12 Brown Street, escaped with a shaking up Monday evening when she ran into the side of a passing auto driven by Robt. J. Swain, 38 Holloway street. The girl was taken to a doctor for examination, which showed she had not suffered serious injury.

Marilyn Edgar, 244 George Street, complained of the theft of her purse from her room.

Failure to observe a traffic light at the corner of Front and Bridge Street, spelled delay for the driver of a King Bros. circus truck as he was pulling out of the city following last night's show.

P.C. Davis spotted the big truck going through the red light and checking the driver found he was driving without a permit and that the truck was operating without adequate brakes.

Don Jones, 21, Fatally Injured Near Millbridge

One man was killed and another was seriously injured early today when their lumber truck went in the ditch north of Millbridge and they were pinned in their cab by the weight of shifting lumber.

Don Jones, 21, R.R. 2 Trenton, father of two small children, was fatally injured, while Fred McMurray, 19, also of R.R. 2 Trenton, suffered chest injuries and is in Belleville General Hospital.

The accident occurred some time after five o'clock this morning near Jordan Lake, five miles south of the Gilmour turn on No. 62 highway. The heavy semi-trailer laden with lumber went into the ditch and sank into a bog. Lumber on the truck shifted ahead and pinned the two men in their wrecked cab.

Rescuers were forced to move some of the load of lumber before McMurray could be freed from the twisted cab. The truck did not turn over when it went into the ditch.

Provincial Constable Thomas Lummiss of the Madoc Detachment who investigated the accident was unable to say what caused the truck to go off the highway.

The truck the two men were driving was owned by Hilliard Cooney, R.R. 2 Trenton.

Watertown, N.Y., Rotarians Were Special Guests

Nearly 100 Rotarians from the U.S. and surrounding district exchanged personal greetings last night at the Club Commodore at an inter-city-international fellowship banquet.

Distinguished guests were Rotarians from Watertown, N.Y., who mingled with fellow-clubbers from Cobourg, Stirling, Napanee, and Picton.

The 25 Rotary members from the Watertown club were given an off-beat reception at the city limits. Awaiting their chartered coach was a city police escort which picked up the bus and shepherded it into the city.

Highlight of last night's celebrations a hot turkey banquet, served up amid the typical camaraderie of Rotarian greeting Rotarian. A new angle on club song-spiels was touched off by Mrs. P. Yorke, Watertown, and the only woman present, who gave a 30-minute selection on an electic organ.

Among song leaders were Jack Deacon, Edge Boyce, Stan Goodwin and Bill Hurst of the Belleville club. Guest speaker for the evening was provided by the Watertown club in the person of Rotarian Howard Farrington who spoke extemporaneously for nearly a half hour.

The evening's activities were interspersed with draws, outstanding among them being the drawing for 10 cheeses as door prizes. All the cheese went to out-of-town members.

Revise Agreement Between City And Gas Company

A revised agreement between the city and the Lakeland Natural Gas Company, described by Alderman William Argue as being more favorable to the city than the original agreement, was formally approved by council Monday evening.

The agreement would give the company the right to construct mains and distribute natural gas in Belleville when this becomes available. An estimated expenditure of at least a million dollars in mains and equipment would be made by the company.

The matter of assessment on the firm's equipment and the amount of taxes it might pay to the city came up for discussion. City Assessor L. Thompson said the company would be assessed as a private company and underground mains would be assessed. The exact formula would have to be worked out later.

Council turned down an amendment to the agreement by - law which called for Lakeland Gas to pay a fee of $1,800 annually in addition to what property and business taxes it might pay. The amendment was introduced by Alderman G. Hyde.

Another amendment by Alderman Forrester calling for the by-law to be referred back was also defeated.

SIDEWALK REQUESTED

J. T. Ransom, Moira street property owner, appeared before council requesting a sidewalk on the south side of Moira street, West, between the upper bridge and Coleman street. Council decided that the intended construction of the walk under local improvements would be advertised.

A special committee of Aldermen Enos David, Bram Humphreys and C. D. Tice was named to investigate the possibility of providing downtown off-street parking. Alderman David asked that the committee be set up.

Alderman Moxam said that the municipal board had decreed that it was not the city's responsibility to provide parking for merchants. This was a job for the chamber of commerce, he suggested.

But Alderman David pointed out his request was merely for a committee to be formed which would report to council after investigation. He agreed that the city should not be expected to provide free off-street parking, but claimed it was the city's responsibility to show leadership and co-ordinate the efforts of other bodies.

ASKS WORK IN PARKS

A recommendation from Ald. Forrester calling for the parks board to give consideration to a program of beautification for parks in Churchill Heights and Bayview Heights, was referred to the parks board. Ald. Forrester said that greater co-operation was needed between the Parks Board and Recreation Commission in parks management.

Also on recommendation of Ald. Forrester a special committee of Mayor Both and Ald. Forrester, Safe, McCabe, Humphreys and Smith was named to gather further information regarding the Lake Ontario Regional Planning Association and report to council following the summer recess.

A recommendation by Alderman Tice that certain boulevards in the city be removed as a measure to speed traffic was turned over to the traffic and public works committee. The alderman said that these downtown boulevards were beautiful but they did not help traffic.

FENCE REFUSED

A recommendation from the property committee to allow Mr. Tom Carruthers to construct a fence on city property at the west entrance to the footbridge was turned down. The recommendation would have leased a strip of property on the north side of the footbridge for a period of ten years.

Alderman Safe headed the opposition to the recommendation declaring that he was opposed to leasing any city property.

Previous to voting on the recommendations council turned down an amendment by Alderman Argue which would have granted the lease subject to cancellation on six months notice and binding Mr. Carruthers to leaving the city property in lawn.

Council approved the purchase of a new city street flusher at a cost of $13,764 to be paid for by local improvement levies assessed against property on permanent pavements where the flusher would be used.

Purchase of a new gestetner for use at the city hall was also approved.

George DeVuyst spoke briefly to council expressing the appreciation of local restaurant owners to city council and the board of health for the program cleaning up Belleville restaurants.

Speaking to Veterans at Picton Hon. George Drew Declares Canada Needs Airborne Army

PICTON (Staff) — Opposition leader Hon. George Drew last night urged training of both permanent army and militia units as compact, airborne groups to combat any invasion of Canada.

With the production of present-day aircraft the nation for the first time is "confronted with the possibility of having an attack on Canadian soil," he said.

Mr. Drew was addressing a mass public installation of new members into the Canadian Legion here. Speaking to an audience predominantly of veterans, he called on the Legion to advocate the formation of "a distinctly Canadian force" — one that will meet Canadian defence needs.

"Russia", he said, "is the only present source of attack."

"The crisis where attacks would be made would be at points in the north — extremely vital points."

"I am sure there are Russian plans of the (invasion) units that would be dropped at Kittimat, at Shipsaw, at Labrador . . ." here he mentioned several strategic points in the Canadian north. On the radar defence chains "they would drop forces — ground forces—which would demolish these installations."

To combat such tactics "what we need is compact, hard-hitting units."

These would include the infantry, artillery, engineers and other phases of the regular army make-up "built in compact, hard-hitting units that could be moved by air."

"And we should be training, not only our permanent forces, but our militia forces as airborne units."

"Every one of these should be an airborne unit with the most powerful weapons that could be put into compact form."

"As soon as danger threatens the permanent and militia forces should be ready to move, not in days, not in weeks, but in hours."

MIGHT ENCOURAGE ENLISTMENT

"Such a force also would encourage greater enlistment in the militia," he said. Not only would it have the appeal of tradition but it also would attract volunteers "by a general feeling that the force is a real force, an up-to-date force.

The time has come for a change in military organization.

"The history of war is the history of innovations and new ideas."

He told the assembly not to be afraid to raise their voices as amateurs in the matter. "The regular army must observe an existing set of rules".

"They are not as free as the amateurs to break into new ground."

Collectively, he hoped the Legion "will say that here in Canada that we need a distinctly Canadian force . . . A force ready to meet Canadian demands."

Such a force would be "most useful" to the nation's allies as well as itself because of its mobility to reach other parts of the globe without delay.

"We are moving through troubled times," he said.

But "there are reasons for hope, ominous though the clouds may be."

"The very terror of the Hydrogen bomb . . . has created a balance that may prevent the possibility of another war breaking out on a major scale."

Later he told his audience: "I am more hopeful of the possibility of peace than I have been for a long time."

"The very fact that there is the possibility of the destruction of all humanity may be the thing that may restrain the hands of the Russians."

"The Russians want to live and because they want to live we have that much common ground. And because they want to live the hands of the men in the Kremlin may be restrained."

MUST SHOW STRENGTH

At the outset of his speech Mr. Drew told the veterans if there is one thing owing the dead of two wars it is that the veterans, out of their experience, should tell the people it is too late to prepare for war after it begins. The best way to prevent war is for the free nations to show their preparedness to fight for their freedom—"that is the best way to prevent war is for the free nations to show their strength."

"For that reason I do suggest that the Legion can well make an immense contribution to the future of Canada", he stated.

"I am not talking about a war that will come. I am talking about peace, based upon the readiness of the nations to defend themselves, and that readiness means readiness when the danger comes."

He noted the "immense changes" in the international setup, in particular the case of Germany now allied with the free nations.

"We know only too well that the Germans are tough soldiers. We know only too well that they are good soldiers."

"I for one am glad that we now have in Europe Germans ready to fight on our side if trouble should come."

MADE COMPARISONS

He compared the past emnity between Germany and the Allies to the historic hostility between France and Britain, which eventually reversed into amity.

"Let us hope that the same experience will be repeated with Germany and that out of all the horrors and all the bloodshed we may see long eras of peace which will make Germany comrades in the cause of peace."

Mr. Drew received a standing ovation from the assembly after his introduction by Lance Nethery Q.C., and the Opposition Leader opened his address by commenting on the ceremonies he had witnessed in which 88 new members were initiated into the Picton branch of the Canadian Legion.

"What has happened here in this hall is striking evidence of the place that the Legion occupies throughout Canada today."

He told the new members that the Legion is a league with a great tradition behind it and a great future of service ahead of it.

Mr. Drew was thanked by C. R. Widdifield, Q.C.

Spring Ends, Summer Season Starts Today

Today is the first day of summer and from now on one can expect the weather to warm up.

With spring officially over, and its chilsey and unpredictable weather only an unpleasant memory, householders can gratefully turn off their furnaces, store away their woollen and electric blankets, put their fur coats in storage and leave their scarves in the hall closet.

June 21st is the day when the sun arrives over the tropic of cancer. The tropic of cancer is so-called because on June 21st the sun arrives over it on its farthest journey north. This arrival of the sun at its farthest point north is known as the summer solstice. It also means that north of the equator June 21st is the longest day of the year.

The longest day of the year quite conceivably could be the day before a dental appointment but astronomers, concerned only with cosmic explosions and supernovaes, speak of the longest day of the year as the one on which the sun shines longest.

With the sun receding southward until December 21st one would expect the weather to be cooler but experience says this logic is illogical. From now until sometime after Labor Day, the year's hottest weather will be experienced. Apparently the earth warms up all spring until June 21, and long daylight hours in July and August continue to warm things up even though the sun is headed south and each day gets shorter than the one before.

In other words, the long and short of it is that with summer here we can expect heat.

One tall, cool one, please.

Social Credit Party Retains Federal Seat

VERMILION, Alta., (CP) — James A. Smith, a high school principal who helped master-mind the Social Credit party's campaign in three general elections, retained the federal constituency of Battle River-Camrose for the party in a by-election Monday.

He filled a vacancy caused by the death last November of Robert Fair, Social Credit MP for 19 years. Mr. Smith, 44, was campaign manager for Mr. Fair.

Both Young and Old Enjoy Circus Sponsored by Kinsmen

Take the firepower of two circuses, turn it loose simultaneously and you have the weapon, that sparks the power keg of excitement in any group of spectators.

At least that's what happened in Belleville last night.

Up at the circus grounds on Sidney Street, the King Brothers and Cole Brothers circuses, combined into a single unit, for nearly two hours bombarded about 2,000 spectators with thrills.

Billed in its combined form as the second largest circus in the world, they paraded a slew of acrobats, elephants, aerialists and with all the necessary etceteras of the circus ring.

The lively, colorful presentation kept moving at a fast pace and with three rings to play in, the performers kept the banner production moving at an unflagging pace.

Performers from all parts of the globe, romped, strutted, swayed and flew around and above the rings.

There were many choice plums in this cake baked with a snap, but the entertainer, who almost stole the show from all the hair-raising, hooting and performers, did so in the quietest manner.

She was eight-year-old Sandra Pettus, a little girl who played with mammoth elephants for nearly ten minutes to receive one of the biggest hands of the evening.

One of the top acts was the Riding Dorchesters. Billed as the world's foremost bareback riding marvels from England, the group held its audience spellbound with a sleek exhibition of equilibrium on equines.

Then there was the troop of Liberty Horses, who pranced through their acts under Toni Smaha, Inga Smaha and Capt. John Smith.

Whirlwind acrobatics by "The Sons of Morocco" who with their juggling of bodies and fast-flying somersaults, laid the spectators by the ears.

Frosting off the entire presentation was the displays of the clowns, interspersed through the show. Their antics paid off in shrieks of laughter from the kids and chuckles from the grown-ups.

Closing the show were the spine-tingling exhibition of the Johnny Hartzell Troupe. Aerialists with flash and a neat turn for stopping the crowd's breath, the troupe held the spectators as tightly in the palms of their hands as they did the cross-bar of the trapeze.

Mayor Whitton Parries Question With Another

OTTAWA (CP) — City council Monday night passed up its first opportunity to ask Mayor Charlotte Whitton whether she really will resign July 31, as threatened a month ago. And Miss Whitton didn't volunteer the information.

Alderman William Henry asked her about reports that she had claimed a power group at city hall was trying to usurp powers normally wielded by council and board of control.

Miss Whitton replied with her own question: What evidence was there that she had said such a thing?

There were press reports, said Mr. Henry. Got any copies? inquired the mayor. No, said Mr. Henry. And there that matter dropped.

Nobody asked her whether she would carry out the threat she made May 24 to resign at the end of next month when city finance commissioner A. H. Ritchie goes. She didn't add any enlightenment to the subject.

But speculation from most directions was that the mayor, who is deeply interested in her work and is suspected, furthermore, of enjoying it, will complete her term of office, which runs to December, 1956.

Former Matron Of County Home Guilty Of Theft

WELLAND (CP) — Mrs. Annie Canning, former matron of the Welland county home for the aged, Monday was convicted on two counts of theft of articles from the home.

County judge Harold E. Fuller said he could not believe the statement of Mrs. Canning that goods owned by Welland county and taken from Welland to her new post at the John H. Dearness Home at London, Ont., were removed in error. She had given instructions for the goods to be moved, he said.

George Canning, husband of the former matron, was acquitted of theft charges.

Slum Clearance Being Debated In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—The problem of slum clearance has finally hit the floor of Montreal's city council—25 years late, says Mayor Jean Drapeau.

The 99-man city council today resumes debate on a slum-clearance and low-rental plan which grew from action by 55 public bodies three years ago.

The $24,000,000 "Dozois plan" came before the full council for the first time Monday night, when Mayor Drapeau called for approval in principle, with reservations.

He said the proper time to have attacked the slum problem was 25 years ago but the current debate marked a "new era in Montreal's social and economic life."

Referring to recent tours of councillors through slum districts, he mentioned his early tasks as a social worker, adding:

"I saw children crying because they had nothing to eat. I saw sick children sleeping in bureau drawers."

Massive Blaze Out of Control North of Sault

SUDBURY (CP) — A massive 4,000-acre blaze was still out of control in the trackless timberlands of Ranger lake today. It was the biggest and most troublesome of a score of forest fires across northern Ontario.

For the third straight day every available aircraft was to be pressed into service to bring men and equipment to the outbreak 60 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie.

Farther to the east, the situation was brighter although a string of lightning storms Monday left 17 new fires in their wake from Sudbury to Chapleau. Most were expected to be checked today.

ALMOST DOUBLED

The Ranger lake blaze, spurred on by dry weather and temperatures hitting the 80s, almost doubled its size Monday. Lack of roads in the area hampered the firefighters. Pumps and hose had to be ferried in by plane and dragged through the bush to the fire scene. There are no communities in the path of the flames but the damage to rich timberlands is steadily mounting.

Another major outbreak still burned on the outskirts of Hornepayne 200 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie, but the officials who had earlier drawn up plans for possible evacuation said danger to the village itself appears to have passed.

CATTLE TIP

LONDON (Reuters)—British government food scientists reported Monday that phosphate injections for cattle before slaughter produce more tender meat.

Home Declared Public Place After Conviction

BANCROFT — Convicted of keeping liquor for sale, Ernest Switzer, of R.R. 1, Bancroft, was fined $200 and costs and his premises were declared a public place by Magistrate R. C. Jackson.

OPP Cpl. Archie Grayling told the court that, at 1 a.m. on May 1st, he found a case of beer in a car. The owner of the car admitted purchasing the case from Switzer for $8. At 2 a.m. the same day the police called at Switzer's house and found two cars parked outside. Three found-ins were discovered sitting in the dining room, which was in darkness. Two were intoxicated and one was attempting to push a box of beer under the table with his feet. A search of the house unearthed 73 full and 63 empty beer bottles. During the police visit another car drove up to the place and stopped.

A second charge of permitting drunkenness was dismissed when no evidence was offered by the Crown.

A fine of $75 and costs was imposed on Clarence Grant, of Maynooth, when found guilty by Magistrate R. C. Jackson of driving with ability impaired.

The charge was laid after an accident on Highway 62, south of Maynooth, on May 25, when eight people were injured, three of them seriously.

Crown witness Professor Joslyn Rogers said that a sample of Grant's blood, tested after the accident, showed an alcoholic content of 2.0 parts per 1,000. Other witnesses called by Crown Attorney S. G. Robertson were Dr. H. S. Johnson, OPP Constables Ray Hooker and George Lloyd and Harvey Bierworth, driver of the second vehicle involved. Defending counsel J. D. O'Flynn called witnesses who testified that, in their opinion, Grant was sober.

Found guilty of second and third offences of drunkenness, Stanley Poff of Bancroft, was committed to jail for one month in default of payment of fines of $50 and $75 and costs.

Harvey Ellis, of Bancroft, was fined a total of $20 and costs for failing to notify a change of ownership and driving with inadequate brakes.

Driving with inadequate lights cost Ross Sears, of Peterborough, $5 and costs.

Bowling News

Stirling bowling club will be hosts to the visiting rinks of the district on Wednesday, when they will stage a triples tournament. It is understood the greens are in excellent condition and a large entry is expected, especially from the Belleville club. No doubt three or four rinks will make the journey north for an afternoon of their favorite pastime.

Four doubles rinks went to Kingston on Saturday but none came home with the prizes. Thirty-six pairs from Brockville on the east to Trenton on the west and Campbellford made the journey to the Limestone City and Jimmy Johnston of Brockville had the high three-game score, when the firing was over. Doug McQuorodaie and William Piercey of the Kingston Club was a close second with Archie Atkinson and William Allen of Ottawa, third. A Kingston rink of Hugh Galt and his father, Morley Galt won the fourth three-game high, while George Heisby and Reg. Gage of Kingston captured the two-game high, while Aitred Charles Smart also of Kingston, won the one -game high due to a loss of 21 in one game.

The members of the local club are reminded there is some painting to be done on Wednesday evening. It is a long fence that has to be painted with aluminum paint but many hands will make light work and if all the boys will turn out a couple of nights the job will be completed and when finished will make the property look a lot brighter.

Open night at the greens last night was a decided success. A number of new bowlers were on hand to receive instruction from the more experienced bowlers.

The visitors were introduced to the members present and a most enjoyable evening was spent. The women's section are holding a district tournament this afternoon and evening but open house will continue on Wednesday evening. It is to be hoped more new bowlers will come up to the greens and have a look around.

Street Oiling Contract Sent Back For Further Study

A special meeting of city council will be held—possibly some time next week—to decide what is going to be done with approximately 10 miles of streets, which need oiling and to decide whether or not the city-owned Belleville Memorial Arena will be operated next winter.

Monday night at the last regular meeting of council before the summer recess, councillors balked at awarding the street oiling contract recommended by the public works department, the general feeling being that the price—about 40 per cent over that of last year—was excessive. The lowest of three tenders submitted was that of the McFarland Construction Company at $36,520.

So after a lengthy discussion the matter was referred back to the public works committee for further consideration and a special meeting will be held to deal with the problem.

At the same special meeting council will deal with the Memorial Arena problems.

Alderman C. D. Tice as chairman of the arena commission, said at last night's meeting that the arena problem would have to be thoroughly discussed by council and an unanimous decision reached.

Introducing the matter at the conclusion of last night's meeting, Alderman Tice admitted that there was no sponsor in sight for a senior hockey team in Belleville next winter. "And if there were no senior hockey, the arena could not be operated at a profit," he said.

ONE HOUR DEBATE

Discussion on the street oiling took up close to an hour of council's time before the matter was referred back to the public works department for further consideration.

In introducing the recommendation calling for McFarland's to get the oiling contract, Public Works Department chairman Alderman Ben Safe noted that the price was considerably higher and suggested this was due partially to the stiffer specifications called for by the city.

Also the cost of trap rock chips and of oil was up considerably over last year.

"I feel that we are being overcharged," Alderman Safe said, "but we have no alternative if we want to save our streets."

Mayor J. Both declared that the price quoted was "fantastic" and was the direct result of what he declared to be the sloppiest street oiling job ever done in the city last year. He said the oiling job was a disgrace, the contract having made a laughing stock of the city's engineering staff.

"There is no reason why the city should allow this contractor to have another contract," the Mayor said. "How much would mulch pavement cost?" he asked.

Several councillors asked why the city could not do its own street oiling. Alderman Tice wanted to know if consideration had ever been given by the works committee to a long term plan of pavement laying, while Alderman Art Keegan referred to the splendid street patching job being done by the public works department and asked what the cost of oiling equipment would be.

AGREES WITH IDEA

Alderman Safe agreed that new pavement was needed but pointed out that much of the roadway for which oiling was planned for this year would not warrant pavement for many years. "The city works department was not equipped to do full scale paving jobs," he said.

Prices of all three tenders for street oiling which varied only a few hundred dollars were given by Alderman Safe with the notation that all were based on a trap rock price of $10.50 per ton.

"Ridiculous, outlandish," interrupted the mayor. Mulch pavement would cost less than that."

Alderman William Argue noted the similarity in price of the three tenders received and suggested it looked like collusion on the part of the contractors. "We are under no obligations to accept any of these tenders," he said.

Mayor Both suggested that the city buy its own rock and mil and contract its application.

"Where are the companies to do the work?" asked Alderman Safe. 'They did not tender."

Mayor Both noted that the city at one time did its own street oiling and said it still owned the equipment. To this City Engineer Charles Mott replied the city's chip distributor was old. Mulch pavement would cost $15,000 per mile, he estimated.

"What are you going to use for chips, gold nuggets?" asked the mayor. "What difference does it make how old a machine is as long as it is serviceable?"

Alderman Safe emphasized that something had to be done with the streets schedule for oiling. "It's a question of doing the work now or waiting for two years when it will cost us double."

TOOK SAME ATTITUDE

Alderman Tice took the same attitude. "The question is are we going to let our roads deteriorate and then have to build a complete new road in a couple of years?"

Mayor Both suggested the city would soon pay the cost of a new chip distributor by doing its own street oiling.

"I'm agreeable to anything as long as we get the work done," said Alderman Safe. "I'll get prices on oil and chips and we can discuss the matter again at a special meeting."

Accordingly the matter was referred back to the works department.

Later Alderman Safe noted that tenders had also been called for the construction of roadways in Bayview Heights. Here too, the committee had thought prices were out of line.

The city engineer says we can do this work ourselves at a cost lower than the tenders," he said.
